"Take the question of management. There is no doubt a general impression that the ownership of real estate is a source of annoyance. We have all heard the remark, 'I invest in stocks and bonds and I have no trouble.' The individual does not give real estate a fair chance. He will buy a large block of stock of a corporation, in the majority of cases, totally ignorant of its actual financial condition or the character of its management. His money is handled for him. All the complications of management and financing, of legislative interference and tax problems, affecting real estate, affect these corporations, and many more in addition. If he would invest in real estate and permit some competent agent of his own selection to take complete charge of it—to assume all the burdens, with authority to create reserves for depreciation and future financing, and account monthly, quarterly or semi-annually, and the owner give it no more attention than he does his other investments represented by securities in his box, he would find real estate no more difficult. I took occasion to look over the New York Times stock exchange list one day last week. Out of a total of 390 securities, including common and preferred stock of industrials and railroads, I found 213 quoted as paying no dividends. I am convinced the return from real estate would compare favorably with such a showing. Intelligent moulding of public opinion would prevent much of the useless waste caused by shifting centres.

"We frequently hear uninformed people remark, 'Thirty Fourth Street is too far down town,' or 'The movement is north of 42nd Street,'" the speaker continued. "Such meaningless statements, frequently repeated and left unanswered, gain force, like a snow ball rolling down hill. Too far down town for what? What movement is north of 42nd Street?"

"In the last ten years there has been more hotel accommodation built at or south of 42nd Street than north; more transportation facilities have been created south of 42nd Street than north. Taking Metropolitan New York, as bounded by Governor Miller at the Real Estate Board dinner, from Port Washington to Plainfield, and from Tottenville to White Plains, there is a greater population residing south of 42nd Street than north. The two greatest railroad terminals on Manhattan Island, are either at or below 42nd Street, and all the ferries connecting with railroads in New Jersey and the McAdoo tunnel, are south of 42nd Street. In short, the whole United States and Europe and South America enters New York South of 42nd Street.

"Fifty Seventh Street no doubt will be the street for exclusive shops, and there is room on upper Fifth Avenue and the side streets north of 42nd Street for similar uses, but that has no actual bearing on the permanency of the greatest retail shopping centre of the world, from 34th Street to 42nd Street, East and West of Fifth Avenue.

"The real estate man should make it his duty to gather the facts to prevent the spreading of these erroneous impressions. Look at the devastation of the area from 14th to 23rd Streets, which was in my opinion absolutely unnecessary. It was almost a stampede, based solely on false premises, and started by two unreasonable property owners who tried to hold up Altman's and Macy's followed by the Clafin failure.

"On 14th Street, in 1908, from actual figures taken from the building at 5th Avenue and 14th Street, stores renting in 1908, for $10,000, during the depression on that street caused by this wholesale moving north, dropped to $4,500, but today are back again to $10,000, rented to the same class of tenants. Lofts in the same building in 1908, renting for $6,000, dropped to $4,500, and today bring $8,000. In many cases the same tenant has occupied the space throughout these 3 periods. Buildings 25 feet wide, principally store value on 14th Street, between 5th and 6th Avenue, rented in 1911-1912 for $7,500 net, and are now taken up at $20,000 net. Hearn's on 14th Street stand out as a shining example of calmness and vision. They were not stampeded; they remained where they were; did not have to take a loss by scrapping their buildings, and they have been rewarded for their patience and good merchandising efforts by not only actually increasing their business 80% in volume, but also being able to sell a better grade of merchandise at better prices. Wanamaker's likewise have gone right on in the same location where A. T. Stewart did business a half a century ago, during which time McCreery's have moved from 10th Street to 23rd Street and then to 34th Street. Figures and facts as these, and other data of similar nature should be compiled and used intelligently to insure the stability of real estate.

"The same applies to the amusement centre. How many people realize that between 34th and 42nd Streets there are twelve theatres, not including the opera house, all doing business. Are they not just as accessible to the crowds using the Times Square station of 42nd Street as a theatre north of 42nd Street, and are they not nearer the Pennsylvania station? Do you believe there are many merchants or theatrical producers in the city who know how much of their trade comes to their door by automobile, or how much by other forms of transportation, and how much comes from the north

Coal Merchants Get Consumers' Plan for Lowering Prices

Program of New Association Aiming at Better Freight Rates and Clean Fuel
Explained to Them by President Charles G. Edwards of Realty Board

PLANS of the Anthracite Coal Consumers' Association to reduce the price of fuel in this territory were discussed at the meeting of the New York State Coal Merchants' Association at the Hotel Pennsylvania last Thursday, March 2. The consumers' viewpoint was explained by Charles G. Edwards, President of the Real Estate Board of New York and a member of the Advisory Committee of the Anthracite Coal Consumers' Association. Mr. Edwards had been invited to address the coal merchants on the subject of "Preparation of Coal," but he declared that as he was not a coal man he could not go into the technical matter. He continued:

"Consumers generally feel that the price of coal is too high, the quality is very poor, and the sizes are decidedly mixed. I do not attempt to say at what stage of the production and distribution of coal there enters the excessive quantity of refuse matter and the degradation of sizes that the consumer discovers when the coal is delivered to him in his cellar, although I have been reliably informed that a piece of equipment that used to play a prominent part in the activities of the retail distributor is coming to be regarded, even by the coal man, as an article more likely to be found in a furniture store than in a coal yard—I refer to the screen. As you gentlemen are those with whom we come directly in contact, of course we look to you to assist in remedying the conditions of which the consumers complain. There are five phases of the subject demanding attention:

"First, a reduction in the freight rate. This is an effort in which it seems to me every retail coal dealer could and should promptly and heartily join for two reasons, the first to bring about a reduction in the price of the commodity to the consumer and, second, to effect an economy in his own operation, in this way: My information is that the average time over which you carry the account of the consumer, from the date of the payment of the freight bill until your bill is paid, is about sixty days. Interest on the money for that time amounts to one per cent. A reduction in the freight rate of so little as one dollar a ton would mean a saving to the retail coal dealer, in interest charges alone, of $10,000 on every million tons handled. Surely this is worth considering, from your viewpoint.

"The second step in the program of the Association is directed to eliminating the excessive quantity of refuse matter in all sizes of anthracite. I am informed that the theoretical standard for presence of slate and bone runs about as follows:

	Slate	Bone
Egg	2½%	2½%
Stove	3 %	4 %
Nut	5 %	5 %
Pea	8 %

"There is apparently no standard fixed for the quantity of bone to be expected in the pea size or of either slate or bone in any of the smaller sizes. The seasonal freight rate, providing for a lower rate in summer than in winter and thus lending an additional incentive to summer storage, must have your approval and support.

"The proposal of the Association to instruct consumers in burning a scientific mixture of bituminous and anthracite coal has as its object reducing the cost of fuel, without in any way affecting your return, as I am informed that the profits you make on bituminous are equal to, if not greater than, on anthracite. I am satisfied that the enlightened coal man of today desires to see the consumer burn fuel in as an economical manner as possible. To accomplish this is the fifth and last step in the present program of the Association.

"We recognize the fact that the conditions existing are partly, if not largely, the outgrowth of neglect on the part of the consumer to demand a clean and reasonably pure product for his money and that the money paid shall be a reasonable price. Surely no retail coal man can find fault with that proposition. That is what we are contending for and is all that we are contending for. Likewise it is what we are going to get."

or the south of 42nd Street? Do you think many realize that while the total population of Greater New York increased in the ten years, 1910-1920, 853,165, the population of Manhattan actually decreased 47,439, while Brooklyn increased 384,005.

"The real estate operators should study conditions throughout the city. They should be in the vanguard, urging public improvement such as transit facilities, port development, zoning regulations, building and tenement house reforms. They should be the students of and authorities on all phases of the economic life of the community.

"The operators should encourage methods and legislation to protect the uninformed purchaser. Rebates to a tenant not expressed in his lease; placing a deposit on a contract of purchase and dropping it; issuing statements of income and expenses not strictly accurate; misstatements and sharp dealing by brokers should all be vigorously discouraged. Misleading advertisements should be discouraged through the press. Auction books should be more complete and give more detailed information as to physical condition and public improvements affecting the property and the auctioneer and the seller should be held responsible for the accuracy of the information given. Mortgages sold to the public in serial bond or certificate form should be properly supervised or else abuses will accumulate and will surely lead to radical control as is now the case of the railroads.

"In short, the operators are the recognized experts, and as a group they should be the men of vision and integrity who will guard against evil conditions, which unchecked may gain strength until they reach such proportions that they may 'kill the goose that lays the golden eggs.'"

Appellate Division Upholds Murray Hill Restriction

SUPREME COURT JUSTICE GEORGE V. MULLAN'S decision prohibiting the estate of William Waldorf Astor from building a business block on the West Side of Madison Avenue between Thirty-fifth and Thirty-sixth Streets, in the restricted Murray Hill residential district, was affirmed unanimously by the Appellate Division, First Department last week.

Justice Mullan's decision held that the Board of Appeals of the City of New York had exceeded its jurisdiction in granting permission to the late Baron Astor in May, 1918, to put up a business block, and in changing the designation of the property from residential to business.

An appeal from the decision was taken to the Appellate Division by Henry W. Taft, of Cadwalader, Wickersham & Taft, for the Farmers Loan and Trust Company, executors of the Astor Estate. John G. Milburn, of Carter, Ledyard & Millburn, for the property owners, including J. P. Morgan, contended that the action of the Board of Appeals was beyond its statutory powers.

"The proposed action of the Board of Appeals," he said, "would have resulted in a substantial change in the boundaries of a district, a matter exclusively within the jurisdiction of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment and beyond the powers of the Board of Appeals."

Counsel for the Astor estate have referred to their client the question of applying to the Appellate Division for the right to appeal to the Court of Appeals.

Annual Volume for 1921 of Record and Guide Quarterly Now Ready for Delivery

THE Annual Number of the RECORD & GUIDE QUARTERLY contains in this, the final issue of the year, all the data contained in the preceding three plus those of the fourth period, making in one compact volume, a complete transcription of all Conveyances, Miscellaneous Conveyances, such as Release of Mortgages and Dowers, Contracts, Agreements, Consents, Assignments of Rents, Power of Attorneys, Designation, Resignation and Appointment of New Trustees and Executors, etc., Mortgages, Extension of Mortgages, Participation and Subordination, Agreements of Mortgages, Assignments of Mortgages, Satisfied Mortgages, Leases, including consents, assignments, cancellations and surrender of leases; Real Estate Appraisals, Auction Sales, Wills, New Buildings and Alterations with cross references for the entire year, Borough of Manhattan.

These records are arranged geographically, chronologically and alphabetically, so that the subscriber may, at a moment's notice, find the desired information. In order to make these records more complete the attorney's name is inserted in all Mortgages and a geographical cross reference to the Real Estate Appraisals is given. This permits the user in searching for the appraised value of a given parcel, and not having the name of the deceased, to obtain the information instantly.

Years of experience have demonstrated that by using the RECORD & GUIDE QUARTERLY time and annoyance are saved. It is equally valuable to the broker who maintains an elaborate system of keeping records, or the man who must condense his plant.

Review of Real Estate Market for the Current Week

Riverside Drive, Washington Heights and the Fifth Avenue Section Were the High Spots of a Generally Good Market

DISTINGUISHING the Manhattan real estate market, this week, was the sale of the Foster mansion, on a large plot at the north corner of Riverside Drive and 102nd street. It will soon give way to two large apartment houses, as the property was bought by builders. Thus passes one more of the few remaining large plots on the lower part of the Drive undeveloped on a modern scale. The mansion was a landmark and its passing emphasizes the fact that the taxes on a large private residence, with grounds, on the Drive, nowadays, makes such a home there almost prohibitive. So many old mansions, throughout the city, are steadily passing from view that it is probable that another decade will witness very few if any remaining on Manhattan Island. The mansion of Mrs. Whitelaw Reid, on Madison avenue and the one of Mrs. Andrew Carnegie, on Carnegie Hill, are now the most conspicuous private residences in this city.

Washington Heights was prominent in the general dealing of the week. An entire block front, there, was held for a garage site; a large corner plot in the former James Gordon Bennett tract, on Bennett avenue, changed hands, for improvement; and some elevator apartment houses in the section were bought. This lofty part of town has a steady popularity with apartment dwellers.

There were several good sales in the Fifth avenue neighborhood, one a 7-story loft building and others of lesser size.

Also, in the same section, several dwellings remodeled for business changed hands. A fine old dwelling, at 9 East 36th street, that had been in the ownership of one family for two generations, passed into the hands of an adjoining owner, to be superseded by a business building.

Medium sized apartment houses of all kinds were in fairly good demand throughout the city. Dwellings in Harlem and in the upper West Side formed an important factor in the trading. Downtown, a few small office and loft buildings were sold. There was one sale on lower Washington street, in the Syrian quarter, that would seem to give indication of a reviving activity there. The boom in that part of the city subsided more than a year ago. The latest sale was to Syrians. They are proving to be active participants in a market that was first stirred by Americans. There are many retail and wholesale merchants among the Syrians in that part of town. Greenwich Village, too, was a contributor of some good sales.

A sale that smacked of early boom days in the Bronx was that of a tract of 4 1/2 acres on Westchester avenue. It was the old Munn mansion and grounds, a relic of the suburban or rural era of the northerly borough. It sounds odd to hear of an acreage deal in the Bronx, now, whereas a decade ago many old country estates were sold that are now covered with apartment houses. It all illustrates the fact that it does not take New York City long to grow in any of its parts.

PRIVATE REALTY SALES.

THE total number of sales reported, but not recorded in Manhattan this week, was 68 as against 76 last week and 64 a year ago.

The number of sales south of 59th st was 32, as compared with 18 last week and 18 a year ago.

The number of sales north of 59th st was 35, as compared with 58 last week and 46 a year ago.

From the Bronx 36 sales at private contract were reported, as against 44 last week and 31 a year ago.

Statistical tables, including the number of recorded instruments, will be found on page 274.

Object to Proposed License Law

At a special meeting of the Brooklyn Real Estate Board, held on February 28, the members of the Board voted against the bill now in the Assembly, introduced by Mr. McWhinney as No. 1059, Introductory No. 1013, which purports to license real estate brokers and salesmen, as not meeting their ideas of a proper license bill.

It is clearly indicated that the Board is not opposed to the principle of a license bill, but a careful consideration of this bill brought out so many objectionable features that a majority of the members voted against supporting the same.

Riverside Drive Landmark Passes

One of the largest remaining unimproved plots on Riverside dr was sold this week when Harris and Albert Sokolski, builders, bought from Mrs. Bertha M. Foster the plot, 100.11x200, holding a 3-sty stone detached mansion and garage, at the north corner of the Drive and 102d st.

The buyers will raze the mansion and build on the entire plot two apartment houses, one of 14 stories, on a plot 100x145 and fronting on the Drive; and one of 9 stories, on a plot 55x100, fronting on 102d st. There will be a spacious restaurant in the larger structure and the floors of both houses will be divided into 3, 4 and 5 room suites.

Big Deal in Fifth Ave. Section

A syndicate of investors, including Cornelius Hearn, Frederick W. Hearn, Edwin Weisl and Cornelius Hearn, Jr., purchased the 16-sty Springs Building, 29-33 West 38th st, from J. C. & M. G. Mayer. Byrne & Bowman were the brokers. The property consists of stores and showrooms and occupies a plot 64x98.9. It was held at $1,200,000. Weisl & Co., who are interested in the purchase, are downtown bankers.

In addition to cash above the mortgage the Messrs. Mayer took in part payment two loft buildings, one at 11 East 22d st, near Broadway, an 8-sty fireproof structure on lot 26x98.9, renting for about $22,000 per annum, and the other at 32 West 22d st, a 6-sty loft building, 32.74x98.9, renting for $17,000 per annum. The total considerations in the deal amount to about $1,500,000.

J. C. & M. G. Mayer purchased the Springs Building two years ago from Max N. Natanson, who had bought it through Byrne & Bowman from Mr. Springs, the original owner. It is considered one of the best constructed buildings in the vicinity, having been built by day's work and having permanent light on either side. The sales are recorded.

Good Sale Near Fifth Avenue

James B. Speyers & Co., Inc., sold for an investor for the Excelsior Estates Co., Samuel H. Stone, president, the new 7-sty mercantile building 4 East 53d st, 25x100.5. Negotiations are now under way to lease the premises. The property was held at $300,000.

Woolworth Co. Buys on Eighth Avenue

The F. W. Woolworth Co. purchased from Edward Schnaper, as executor, 587 Eighth av, a 4-sty building with stores, 24.8x100. The recorded consideration was $70,000. They occupy No. 585, adjoining.

An Old Dwelling Sold

Mrs. S. A. Robbins sold through Frederick Fox & Co. 9 East 36th st, adjoining the northwest corner of Fifth av, a 4-sty and basement brick dwelling, on a plot 31x98.9. For more than 55 years it was the home of the Robbins family. The parcel was held at $175,000.

Astors Sell West Side Block

Estate of William Waldorf Astor sold to Henry Claman 700-718 Eighth av, the entire easterly block front from 44th to 45th st, comprising eight 3-sty stone and brick flats with stores and one 4-sty brick flat with stores, all on a plot 201x100.

James S. McQuillen, Herman Arns Co. and D. Kempner & Son were the brokers.

Stewart Heirs Sell Ancient Holdings

Ruland & Benjamin sold for the estate of Helen Le Roy Stewart to Salin F. Zaloom and Michael D. Kaydoah 43-45 Washington st, adjoining the northeast corner of Morris st, two old 6-sty brick tenement houses with stores, on a plot 50x79.2. The parcels had been owned by the Stewart family more than 125 years. It is the first sale of the holdings in all that time.

Operator Takes Quick Profit

The 5-sty home of the Actors' Equity Association at 115 West 45th st, which figured in a change of ownership 3 weeks ago, has again passed to a new owner. The sale was made by the Winter Realities, Inc., Benjamin Winter, president, which held it at $75,000, to an investor. The building stands on a lot 20x100.5

near Sixth av, and is under lease to the Actors' Equity Association at a net annual rental of about $6,000. Hollins C. Renton was the broker.

Mr. Winters acquired the property in part payment for the 12-sty apartment house at the southwest corner of West End av and 98th st in a deal with Thomas J. McLaughlin and the Joseph Gordon Realty Co.

Overlooking Harlem Lane Park

Slawson & Hobbs sold for Otto Sinauer to the Pleasant Avenue Garage Corporation, Louis Kiosk, president, the vacant block front on the west side of Macombs pl, between 153d and 154th sts, a plot 228.14x195x199.10x85. The purchaser will either close a sale on pending negotiations with the Western Auto Co. for a service station or will build at 1-sty public garage on the entire plot. It is opposite Harlem Lane Park.

Sells Corner in Bennett Tract

George Steinman, Inc., sold for the Greater New York Vaudeville Theatres Corporation, B. S. Moss, president, the northeast corner of 181st st and Bennett av, adjoining the Coliseum Theatre Building, a vacant plot consisting of 4 1/2 lots. The property was held at $80,000. The purchaser, a well known Heights builder, will immediately erect a 6-sty elevator apartment house.

Land Assembled for Hospital

Through the gift of a large sum of money by an unnamed donor, the Union Hospital of the Bronx is preparing to erect a larger home on the block front on 188th st, between Valentine and Tiebout avs, which property it completed control of last October through the State of New York. The site fronts 235 feet on 188th st and 113.6 feet on each avenue. The proposed building, plans for which are now being prepared, is to be laid out in four wings. One section will be erected at once and the others as soon as funds are obtainable.

Albert J. Schwarzwiler, a Bronx builder, is chairman of the building committee, and will be assisted by former Building Superintendent Robert J. Moorehead. The hospital was started in 1909. Its officers are Joseph Postwick, president; Nathan B. Van Etten, M. D., vice-president; Gustave Starke, M. D., treasurer; and Walter M. Jackson, recording secretary.

Pasadena Apartments Sold

The 1851 Broadway Realty Corporation capitalized at $70,000 and having for directors D. Marks, E. Weinberger and M. Tobias, has been formed to take over the Pasadena apartments at the southwest corner of Broadway and 61st st. The property consists of a 12-sty structure with stores, fronting 57.3 feet on Broadway and 81.6 feet on 61st st. A lease of the premises for 18 years and 2 months by the Pasadena Apartments Co. to the 10 West 61st Street Corporation was recorded last April.

Sells Heights Business Corner

McDonald & Byrnes sold for Simson and J. Wolf, executors, representing the old firm of Heilner & Wolf, the northwest corner of 181st st and Audubon av, a 1-sty building containing 13 stores, on a plot fronting 100 feet on each thoroughfare, and held at $175,000. The new owner is Donald Robertson, who has been identified with the construction of several big apartments on the heights, and owns the structure at the opposite northwest corner. He has no definite plans for the property. The stores were erected by Heilner & Wolf several years ago.

Sale of Co-operative Apartment

Douglas L. Elliman & Co. sold the stock and proprietary lease of an apartment in 863 Park av, northeast corner of 77th st, for C. S. Petrasch to Dr. Ralph Waldo Lobenstine.

An Old Downtown Parcel Sold

Estate of Caroline B. Brown sold through the Charles F. Noyes Co. to Ennis & Sinnott, operators, 222 Pearl st, a 5-sty brick mercantile building, on a lot 21.1x79.1x20.7, opposite the intersection of Platt st.

The building was built by the Brown family in 1835 and was in its ownership until this sale. It was a cash transaction.

Bronx Garage Quickly Resold

Fred Oppenheimer resold through H. White the new 1-sty brick garage covering a plot at the junction of Boone av and West Farms rd, Bronx. The building fronts 154 feet on the avenue and 101 feet on the road, with a rear width of 137 feet.

Buys Abutting Bronx Parcels

Cahn & Cahn bought from Adalena Bachmann 2046 Third av, a 3-sty frame business building with double store, on lot 25x86, through to and including 637 Bergen av, a 4-sty and basement brick double flat, on a lot 25x100.

The Third av part of this property is in the business center and practically the last of the available property to be had in that section, all of the surrounding properties having already been acquired for merchants. Goldner & Blackner were the brokers.

A Bronx Landmark Passes

George Price, as broker, sold to Benjamin Packer, for improvement, the property known as the Munn estate, on the south side of Westchester av, from Glover st to Parker st, comprising 41-3 acres, with the old family home occupied by the Munn family since Revolutionary times.

Sells Queens Acreage

L'Ecluse, Washburn & Co. sold for Clarence Rapelye to a client of Douglas L. Elliman & Co. 11 acres located just north of Jackson Heights, in Elmhurst, Queens. The purchaser will develop the property immediately.

Famous Tenor Sells Estate

Douglas L. Elliman & Co. sold for John McCormack, the well-known tenor, the estate known as "Lillydale Farm," at Noroton, Conn., consisting of 163 acres of farm and wood land, to the Highland Farm Co., of Darien, Conn., who in turn have leased the property to the Ox Ridge Hunt Club, for a long term of years. This club will lay out two polo fields, riding rings and several bridle paths. The present stables will be extensively remodeled and enlarged. The property was held at $100,000. David Challinor represented Douglas L. Elliman & Co. in the transaction.

Columbia Mortgage Co.'s New Home

The Columbia Mortgage Company, formerly at 8 West Fortieth st, has taken possession this week of the white marble building at 4 East 43d st, midway between Fifth and Madison avs. This building, 25x68 feet, 7 stories high, faces north on 43d st, with a wide court running down the west side, which gives ample daylight on all the floors and it is expected that the floor space will be sufficient for the company for some time to come. Under the personal direction of Clarence F. Waldman, vice-president and general manager, the company has become active in the real estate, loan and mortgage business and outgrew its old offices some time ago. The officers of the Columbia Mortgage Co. are Russell B. Smith, president; Clarence F. Waldman, vice-president and general manager; W. R. Edrington, vice-president; Grafton W. Minot, secretary and treasurer, and Harold C. Marsh, assistant secretary and assistant treasurer.

MORTGAGE LOANS

Leon S. Altmayer negotiated a first mortgage of $17,000 on the 5-sty apartment house with 2 stores at 418 East 72d st.

Charles B. Van Valen, Inc., negotiated recently $2,000,000 in mortgage loans. The largest were: $1,300,000 on the Commonwealth Hotel property, Broadway and 7th av, 55th to 56th st; $130,000 on the 5-sty building 140 West 34th st; $350,000 on the 12-sty building 343-345 Madison av; and $195,000 on 40 West 57th st.

Among the loans which the Franklin Savings Bank has recently made are the following: 410 West 44th st, $8,000; 431 West 40th st, $8,500; 2112 Honeywell av, $17,000; 529 West 158th st, $49,000; and the southwest corner of St. Nicholas av and 163d st, $185,000.

Charles Heymann negotiated mortgage loans aggregating $26,800 on a hotel and bathing houses on the Boardwalk and Beach 94th st, at Hollands, Rockaway Beach.

For the erection of a 5-sty apartment house the J. & W. Construction Co. has obtained from the City Mortgage Co. a building loan of $100,000 on the plot, 81.3x100, on the west side of Crotona Park North, 140 feet south of 175th st.

New York Title & Mortgage Co. loaned to the Gotham Building Co., composed of Wolf Frank, Morris Frank and Joseph M. Newman, two building loans aggregating $310,000, for the erection of two 5-sty and basement modern apartment houses, on a plot on the east side of University av, 275 feet north of 190th st, and on the same side of the same avenue, 400 feet north of 190th st, respectively.

Loans $6,000,000 on Bond and Mortgage

The Metropolitan Life Insurance Company on Wednesday authorized loans of about six million dollars on bond and mortgage. Of this about two and three-quarter million dollars were for housing. Loans amounting to $1,780,000 were made on one hundred dwellings and sixty-eight apartments in New York City to provide for six hundred and eight families.

Among these loans sixty-eight were in Astoria, Queens County. They were for three-story, six-family houses to accommodate 408 families, the loans amounting to $952,000.

In the Mapleton section of Brooklyn there were authorized thirty-five loans of $7,500 each and two of $8,000, amounting to $278,500. They are to assist in financing semi-detached, two-family brick dwellings, twenty by sixty-three feet, each containing six and seven rooms and built on lots 25 by 100 feet. They included also ten loans at $7,250 each in the Borough Park Section of Brooklyn, or semi-detached, two-family houses similar to those in the Mapleton section, and in the Bronx there were twenty-four loans of $8,000 for the erection of semi-detached, two-family houses in the Castle Hill section.

Housing loans outside of Greater New York numbered one hundred and sixty-two dwellings and fourteen apartment houses to accommodate 369 families. A total of $680,000 was loaned on business buildings in Ohio, Alabama, Virginia, Tennessee, and Georgia, and over two and a half million dollars were loaned on farms in the South and West, over one million dollars of which was in Iowa, the balance in Missouri, Illinois, Georgia and Nebraska.

Announcement was made Wednesday that William S. Norton, for the past eleven years associated with the Real Estate Division of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, had been appointed Deputy Comptroller of the company.

JOSEPH C. SHIELDS has been made assistant secretary of the New York Title and Mortgage Co. For a number of years Mr. Shields was in the sales department of the company's main office, at 135 Broadway.

THE RESIDENCE of Samuel G. Bayne, President of the Seaboard National Bank, at Riverside dr and 108th st, is to be replaced with a 14-story apartment house by Harris H. Uris, who bought the property recently.

GEORGE H. DENISON, who for many years was connected with the Cruikshank Co., is now in charge of the real estate department of the office of John H. Scheier, architect and investor.

The Hotel Alcazar, a 12-story structure, on plot 59x98.9, at 43 to 47 West 32d st, with the exception of the ground floor, has been leased by Prissament Bros. to Herman Goldie for 3 years and 2 months at a yearly rental of $37,000.

Broadway Corner Building Leased

Schulte Cigar Stores Co. sub-leased through Tankows, Smith & Co. to Max. L. Balene and Jacob Ruderman, operators, the 5-story office and store building, 24.10x105.9, at 319 Broadway, northwest corner of Thomas st. The new lessees will make extensive alterations.

Astor Leases Fine Dwelling

Douglas L. Elliman & Co. leased 5 East 65th st, a 5-story American basement dwelling, on a lot 25x100.5, for Vincent Astor to J. H. Schmeltzel, who has resided for the last 50 years at 18 West 56th st. The 65th st house is directly to the rear of the Astor mansion at the corner of Fifth av, and has had but one previous tenant, Mrs. William Everard Strong, who took possession upon its completion by the late John Jacob Astor. Mrs. Strong recently leased a large apartment in the new 12-story apartment house, 910 Fifth av, north corner of 72d st, through the same brokers.

Lease Third Avenue Corner Stores

Henry Hof leased for Emil C. Gerdes to William Steuer the store and basement in the northwest corner of Third av and 36th st; and to Nathan Halperin the store in the northwest corner of Third av and 37th st.

Leases Harlem Block Front

Goodwin & Goodwin, Inc., leased for Morris Schinasi 876 to 890 Columbus av and 102 to 108 West 104th st, being the 2-story block front taxpayer between 103d and 104th sts, for a term of years, at an aggregate rental of $445,000. The same brokers sold this property to Mr. Schinasi in 1907.

Lack of Words Impairs Lease

The owner of the property adjacent to the Standard Oil building leased 12 Broadway, New York, to the Standard Oil Co., for 99 years and at a quarterly rent of $62,500, but the lease failed to state whether the rent was payable at the beginning or end of the quarter.

The owner alleged that the words "in advance" were in the original agreement, but that the Standard Oil Co. struck them out without his knowledge and he signed the lease which did not contain these words. He insisted that the court reform the lease because payment at the end of the quarter instead of in advance meant a loss of $3,750 a year in interest, or $371,250; in the 99 years at 6 per cent. interest compounded semi-annually, the loss would be $1,856,250.

The owner won in the lower court, but the appellate division reversed the judgment by vote of three to two, and in an opinion by Justice Greenbaum said: "In construing the lease before us it is important to recognize the rule that the presumption is that rent is not payable until after it has been earned, and that in the absence of an express agreement to the contrary, rent is payable at the end of the term and not in advance."

ADAMS & CO. leased for Hays, Levi & Co. a floor containing 12,000 square feet in 121-131 West 19th st to Robbins & Prokesch; also for Cromwell Holding Co. a floor in 12 West 36th st to Joseph A. Meer; and for Lane Bryant a floor in 21-23 West 38th st to Siegel, Youngwitz Co.

ANCHOR CORRUGATED CONSTRUCTION CO. leased through Henry Shapiro & Co. from the owners a suite of 8 offices in the Calvert Building, northeast corner of Broadway and 41st st, for a long term of years.

CROSS & BROWN CO. leased for the Railroad Co-operative Building and Loan Association to the Lexington Radio & Electric Co., Inc., the store and basement at 39 Lexington av.

CROSS & BROWN CO., in conjunction with Schmidt & Donohue, leased for a client to the Mitchell Motor Co. the large store in the Ehret building, 236 West 59th st, near Broadway.

REAL ESTATE NOTES.

WILLIAM H. WHITING CO. leased, for clients, the 5-sty building 74 to 78 Cliff st, north-east corner of Ferry st, to J. H. Rossbach & Bros; also building 402 West Broadway south-west corner of Spring st, to Cordiano Bros; fourth loft in 47 Ferry st to Samson Rosenblatt, third loft in 71 Gold st to Sunshine Printing Co.; store in 17 and 19 North Moore st to Gallagher & Asher; store in 9 Ann st to Jack Price; second loft in 16 Spruce st to Whiting Leather and Belting Co.; and first loft in 13 Dutch st to John J. Gough.

WILLIAM A. WHITE & SONS leased, for the American Trading Co., to Marwick, Mitchell Co., accountants, for a term of years, at an aggregate rental of approximately $74,000, the 20th floor of 27 William st. The tenant has occupied its present quarters for 18 years, and it was with the idea of locating nearer the center of the financial district that it made the change.

WILLIAM A. WHITE & SONS leased for the Garland Realty Co. lofts in 39 West 4th st to the Asco Cap Co. and Samuel Brown; for Charles F. Moelich to the Electric Supply Co. the 2d loft in 363 Canal st; and to John O. Powers Co. part of the 4th floor in 50 East 42d st.

THE APPELLATE DIVISION of the Supreme Court has dismissed the complaint against Jules S. Bache, banker, filed by Hubert T. Parson as committee of the property of the widow of Frank W. Woolworth seeking to compel the banker to carry out a contract for the purchase of the Woolworth residence at 990 Fifth av, corner of 80th st. Mr. Bache contracted to buy it for $460,000, but owing to encroachments impairing the marketability of the title declined to proceed and sued for recovery of $21,410, the amount paid on the contract on account of the purchase price.

THE NEW APARTMENT HOUSE in course of construction by J. E. R. Carpenter, on Fifth av, of which Pease & Elliman were recently appointed renting agents, is at the southeast corner of 73d st, and not 72d st, as was reported. The same owner, however, built the large apartment house at the southeast corner of Fifth av and 72d st.

BUILDING SECTION

Labor Agrees to Reform Pernicious Union Practices

Four Important Provisions, Eliminating Long-Standing Abuses in the Building Industry, Incorporated in Document Entered as Federal Court Decree

LOCAL building and allied interests are expressing satisfaction over the outcome of the conference held in Washington last week which resulted in an agreement between the Federal officers of justice and the International executive officers of three of the most important building trades, providing for the elimination of several outstanding trade abuses that for many years have been severe handicaps to building progress.

This conference was held on February 24th, at the office of the Attorney General, between representatives of the Department of Justice, including the Attorney General, Col. Guy D. Goff, Col. William Hayward, United States Attorney for the Southern District of New York; and Messrs. Podell and L'Esperance and Miss Susan Brandies, Special Counsel to the United States Attorney; and Thomas R. Preece, Vice-president; William Dobson, Secretary; Walter V. Price, Special Deputy; and Messrs. Keeling and Hugg, of Indianapolis, as counsel, representing the International Organization of Bricklayers, Masons and Plasterers, which embraces all of the local unions throughout the country, with a membership of more than 100,000 men.

This conference was the culmination of an investigation conducted by Col. Hayward and his staff of Special Assistants, covering a period of several months' work in conjunction with the Department of Justice in the investigation of building trades and the housing shortage, which has resulted in the recent indictment and conviction of large numbers of manufacturers and dealers in building materials, many of whom have paid large fines and some of whom are now serving sentences in jail.

As a result of this conference the executive heads of the union have signed and executed a consent to the entry of a court decree in the United States District Court for the Southern District of New York affecting the entire national organization and all its local unions. The decree directs that it be published by the labor organization and read to all of the local unions at their next regular meeting and be incorporated as part of the constitution of the International Union and appended thereto in the next constitution to be adopted.

Summing up the work accomplished at the conference a statement issued by the Attorney General's office declares:

"It may fairly be said that this decree incorporates a set of principles which make for independence on the part of the employer in the purchase of his materials whenever and wherever he may desire. It frees the employer from the shackles that have been thrown around him by these numerous illegal restrictions as to the quantity of work to be done in a given time irrespective of whether his materials are or are not union made. On the other hand, it recognizes all the lawful aims or objects of labor unionism. It gives the individual members of the labor union an opportunity to put forth the best that is in them in the particular work that they may be doing and to give full swing to the full development of their individual capacities and ambitions. It makes for individual growth by encouraging every man to not only do his best but by doing his best to do better than has ever been done before. It frees labor unionism from the burdens and restrictions that have been imposed upon it by some trade associations and employers' organizations. Finally, and the most important, it gives the public a chance.

"Employers and employees must recognize, as does this decree, that the public is a very necessary part of any arrangements they may choose to make amongst themselves, and that the public will not tolerate a state of affairs which permits of exorbitant bonuses to the employees in consideration of special privileges to the employers, all at the expense of the public. In a sentence, this decree constitutes a new bill of rights for the home builder, the rent payer, the manufacturer, and the business man who has to build.

"It is only fair to add that the reports received by the Department of Justice from all of the large cities in the investigation of the Bricklayers, Masons and Plasterers International Union have convinced the Department that the executive heads in charge of this organization have honorably and unselfishly striven to conscientiously administer the affairs of the organization for the best interests of the members of that organization. If they have made agreements which are the subject of complaint they have at least done so in the honest belief that they were serving the best interests of their membership. The Department would not have hesitated for a moment to proceed by indictment as it has done in a number of other cases in New York and Chicago and other large cities but did not feel justified to pursue that course with labor leaders who have shown every desire to co-operate with the Government in checking the abuses complained of and who have indulged in these agreements and practices not for the purpose of any personal gain but with the aims of their organization at heart. We are not dealing here with leaders of the Brindell type. On the contrary, Mr. Dobson, Mr. Preece and Mr. Price have accorded every co-operation that could be desired to the Government in eliminating all that was illegal and purifying their organization and in serving its best interests within the law.

"In the consummation of this splendid piece of constructive work the Attorney General expressed his highest appreciation to those connected, on behalf of the Government, with weeks of preparation and investigation in order that steps might be taken to prevent the practices by the degree enjoined. Too much credit cannot be given, especially to Col. Hayward and his associates in the District Attorney's office in New York, for the great part they played in the accomplishment of this work. Other proceedings are in contemplation which will add to the benefits the public will receive."

The consent decree signed in Washington last Friday became operative on Tuesday of this week when it was signed by Federal Judge Learned Hand. During the proceeding incidental to the affixing of Judge Hand's signature the spokesmen for three of the New York City locals, after an unsuccessful attempt to obtain a stay of operation, requested the court to eliminate their respective organizations from the provisions of the decree, pending further investigation of the document. This request was granted, Judge Hand giving the locals a week in which to decide whether they desire to "come in or stay out."

It was made clear by Col. Hayward and his assistants that the refusal of the three locals to become parties to the decree for the time being does not in any way exempt them from the operation of its provisions. It was further brought out that the International officials who signed the decree possessed full powers under the union by-laws to do so, binding all locals to the observance of it.

With the exception of the three locals given an additional

Federal Court Decree Called "Housing Bill of Rights"

The decree entered in the United States District Court for the Southern District of New York lays down and adopts four basic principles, as follows:

FIRST—There is to be no limit to the productive capacity of the individual workman within the working day or any other given time.

SECOND—There is to be no limit upon the right of the employers to purchase his materials wherever and whenever and from whomever he may choose, whether those materials be union made or otherwise.

THIRD—There is to be no favoritism shown by organized labor towards employers or trade associations or contractors' associations and no discriminations are to be indulged in against the independent employer who may not be a member of such an association.

FOURTH—The labor organization is not to be used or permit itself to be used by material men or contractors or sub-contractors as an instrument for the collection of debts or enforcement of the payment of alleged claims.

An explanatory statement issued by the Department of Justice in Washington declares:

"The first of these principles is directed against a vicious practice which is more or less an outgrowth of the cost-plus system which prevailed during the war period. Various local unions of this and other labor organizations have from time to time tacitly and often openly limited their men in the quantity of the work to be performed by them within a given time. Some locals have enforced the rule that a bricklayer must lay only so many bricks an hour or a mason set only a certain quantity of stone a day, and so on down the line. It is gratifying to note that the executive heads of this national labor organization have for many years condemned this practice. It is a heritage of the war-period when unscrupulous contractors operating under the cost-plus system were perfectly content to have fifty men on a job where half or one-quarter of the number could do the work. Labor has for years contended that it is not a commodity and not to be regarded as a commodity. That principle has now been incorporated in our basic law and is recognized and expressed in the first sentence of the Clayton Act.

"In line with that principle a laborer is a human being and human beings are capable of different and individual productive capacities in time, quantity and quality of work. The ambitious workman must be given a full and ample opportunity. He must not be reduced to the level of his most inferior co-worker. This decree in spirit is in hearty sympathy with all the laudable aims and ambition and with the progress which has been made by labor unions. It is directed against the abuses that have inevitably grown up. Nothing in the decree prohibits the regulation of the hours or conditions of labor. It does, however, unqualifiedly forbid any concerted effort at curtailment of production by any such limitations upon the productive capacity of the individual. In a word, it eliminates the penalizing of ability and the discouragement of efficiency.

"The second is directed against the various discriminations which have been indulged in by labor organizations engaged in the building trades whereby they sought to restrict a builder from purchasing and importing the finished materials from the sources of their production. By way of example, for many years a rule has prevailed that stone would not be set by members of this union if an employer or builder brought stone finished and dressed at the quarry and imported it to the place where it was to be used in construction work. In other words, in case of construction work in all of the larger cities of the land the labor union required that the stone be imported in the rough and dressed and finished locally by union labor.

"In addition to that various other restrictions have been imposed by labor organizations not only upon materials that were non-union made but likewise even though such materials were union made, which restrictions sought to dictate to the builder the source and the locality from which he shall purchase his materials. The effect upon the community of any such restrictions can be readily imagined.

They constitute undoubtedly one of the most potent factors for the high cost of building, the consequent shortage of housing and the enormous increases in rent that have obtained during and since the war period. Since the decision in the Duplex case and other similar cases any such restrictions are clearly illegal. They constitute a stumbling block in the path of interstate trade and commerce.

"The third is directed against a series of nation-wide abuses which have assumed various forms and aspects in the relations between organized labor and trade associations. Innumerable instances have been found in the various building trades where in consideration of some bonus or other inducement offered to the labor organization the latter would in turn agree to grant a preference or to furnish some cooperation to the trade association member as against his independent competitor.

"Take the case that arose recently in the New York District by way of example. An individual had several millions of dollars available for the erection of four hundred modest homes which he was then planning right in the vicinity of New York. He was not a member of the Tile Contractors' Association. Under the agreement, however, that then prevailed between the contractors' association and a local of this labor organization the materials had to be purchased from the same contractor who supplied the labor. This builder found himself in a position, therefore, that he could not secure the necessary labor if he made any attempt to purchase his tile other than as directed under the terms of this agreement. If he attempted to buy his tile directly from the original manufacturer at a reduced price of probably 60 to 100 per cent., the penalty would be that the local labor organization would refuse to set any such tile. As a result the four hundred homes were never built. Labor itself suffered the real loss, not only by not being employed but by not having the model homes which it was the intention of the capitalist to build. These general practices of preferences and special agreements made for the benefit of contractors' associations have grown into a veritable national system in the building trades. The inevitable effect was not only to eliminate all competition in the field involved but of necessity to increase the number of unemployed and strictly to create an unlimited monopoly in the hands of these trade associations. An independent dealer in any one of these building trades found it an impossible task to develop his business because these associations had first and oftentimes exclusive call upon the local unions.

"It is manifest that such a state of affairs is likewise one of the most potent factors in the exorbitant prices that have prevailed in building and related materials, all of which have tended to create and continue the acute shortage of housing in every large city in the land.

"The fourth strikes at what has likewise become a general practice for contractors and builders to use labor unions as an instrument for the collections of their debts. Instances have been reported to the Department from both Chicago and New York and no doubt the practice prevails in the other large cities where the labor union refused to work on the completion of a job where they had been compensated fully and had every assurance of future compensation only because some previous owner of the same building had defaulted in a payment to same material man. Oftentimes it was shown that the exaction and demands of the material man were unfounded.

"In one case in New York a collection system was used which resulted in extorting payment of the same claim two and three times over again. The contractor by virtue of this collusion with the labor unions was in the all-powerful position of exacting his full demand whether in justice he was entitled to it or not by the mere threat that the dealer could not secure the labor to complete or finish his job if he did not pay. At the same time the decree recognizes that the labor union should not be required to continue the completion of a building where its own men have not been paid. Many members of the union were the unwilling victims of such a collection system and they will welcome freedom from any such control."

week in which to subscribe to the provisions of the decree all of the New York locals affected have signed and the decree will be incorporated in their by-laws.

Architects, contractors and sub-contractors are unanimous in their opinions that the consummation of this agreement will be extremely beneficial to the building industry as a whole. Although at present only three trades are intimately affected by its provisions, there seems to be no doubt that other trades will be influenced to adopt reforms along similar lines.

In the discussions which occurred among builders this week, having for their subjects the reforms provided by the Washington agreement, frequent references were made to the evidence of pernicious and corrupt practices on the part of building trade unions brought out by Samuel Untermyer in the hearings before the Lockwood Committee and this committee and its special counsel were accorded a large share of the credit for the beneficent results obtained by the Federal officials.

Although a large percentage of those affiliated with the building industry have not always been in accord with either the plans or the methods of the Lockwood Committee during the course of its hearings, practically all agree that in bringing out the evidence of corrupt trade practices which subsequently were taken up by Federal agents of justice, this committee and its counsel have accomplished a reform that for many years has been one of the worst phases of building trade union domination.

Substantial Increase Noted in Local Housing Projects

Residential Construction Outstanding Feature of Forthcoming Building Season
Demonstrated by F. W. Dodge Company Tabulations

SIGNS of the approaching spring building revival are seen in the increased number of new building and engineering operations that have been reported as being planned during the past projects recently announced leads to the prediction that operations week or ten days. The improvement in the number of contemplated will be started earlier than usual this year and also that the peak of activity will come during the late spring or first month of summer. The only drawback will be a shortage of materials and current reports show the local markets to be in better position than they were only a few weeks ago.

Figures tabulated by F. W. Dodge Company show that during the eighth week of 1922, architects and engineers reported work on plans for 432 new structural projects, representing a total outlay of $26,818,000. This construction is all scheduled for locations in New York State and New Jersey, north of Trenton. Contracts awarded during the same period numbered 220 and represented an approximate total cost of $15,634,400.

The list of 432 projects for which plans were started during the week of February 19 to 24 inclusive was comprised of the following groups: 61 business operations such as stores, offices, lofts, commercial garages, etc., $1,847,000; 4 educational projects, $2,000,000; 3 hospitals and institutions, $77,400; 19 factory and industrial buildings, $2,106,000; 2 public buildings, $33,000; 13 public works and public utilities, $817,000; 2 religious and memorial buildings, $260,000; 318 residential projects including apartments, flats and tenements and one-and two-family dwellings, $20,815,600 and 10 social and recreational projects, $662,000.

Among the 220 projects for which contracts were awarded during the eighth week of this year were 38 business and commercial operations of various types, $5,952,000; 4 educational buildings, $678,400; 2 hospitals and institutions, $103,800; 10 factory and industrial buildings, $1,711,300; 3 public works and public utilities, $62,600; 4 religious and memorial structures, $378,000; 153 residential projects including multi-family dwellings and one-and two-family houses, $5,972,300, and 6 social and recreational operations, $776,000.

Barrett, vice-president; George W. Galinger, treasurer; J. LaRocque Anderson, secretary, and William F. Staab and Joseph L. Fibel, directors. The company's telephone number has been changed to Vanderbilt 0903-4-5-6-7, owing to the necessity of increasing and rearranging its present office.

Increased Payments Invalid

The New York State Court of Appeals has declared unconstitutional the law passed by the 1920 Legislature permitting the State to pay contractors more than $3,000,000 in excess of stipulated contracts. The law was enacted after the contractors had represented to the Legislative leaders that the war had increased the cost of labor and materials beyond their anticipations at the time they made the contracts. Large sums already have been paid out to contractors on the barge canal on a like plea.

Forty Years of Electrical Service

While friends of Thomas A. Edison are still congratulating him on the occasion of his 75th anniversary, his associates in the electrical industry are planning additional honors for later in the year, for 1922 is not only the 75th anniversary of Mr. Edison's birth, but it is the fortieth anniversary of the completion by him of the beginning of New York's present electrical system.

On September 4, 1882, New York's first central station and underground system of distribution were completed and placed in operation according to plans conceived and executed by Mr. Edison. By many, this is considered Mr. Edison's greatest contribution to mankind and the principles that were laid down in the construction of that station formed the basis of similar stations all over the world. Indeed, there has been but little deviation from them in all the years that have passed.

The original generating station occupied a reconstructed brick warehouse at 255 and 257 Pearl street and supplied a distribution system serving only a square mile of territory. There were fewer than sixty customers when the current was turned on in the afternoon of September 4, 1882. Current was used only for lighting, and there were but 1,200 lamps in the customer's premises. Today the Edison system in New York supplies 296,560 customers and is used for lighting nine million lamps, for operating 688,000 horsepower in motors and for heating purposes to the extent of 12,800 kilowatts.

On the occasion of the thirty-fifth anniversary of the beginning of service, The American Scenic and Historic Preservation Society and The New York Edison Company caused to be placed on the site of the original station a bronze tablet setting forth the facts connected with this important event in electrical history.

The details of this year's observance have not yet been decided, but it is expected to arrange a commemorative celebration to take place on Sept. 4 next.

TRADE AND TECHNICAL SOCIETY EVENTS.

Building Managers' and Owners' Association of New York will hold its regular monthly dinner meeting at the Advertising Club, 47 East 25th street, Tuesday evening, March 14. The speaker of the evening will be Charles Brady, Superintendent, Manhattan Bureau of Buildings.

Federated Engineering Societies has appointed a new committee on registration of engineers. The personnel of the committee is as follows: A. S. Dwight, chairman, New York City; Gardiner S. Williams, Ann Arbor, and Philip N. Moore, St. Louis.

There will also be included a meeting of the administrative council and the so-called alumni dinner on Tuesday with the regular convention sessions on Wednesday and Thursday. The annual banquet of the association will be held Wednesday evening.

New York Building Superintendents Association.—Regular meeting, second and fourth Wednesday of each month.

Associated General Contractors of America has retained Rudolph P. Miller, former Superintendent of Buildings, to make an investigation of the causes of the collapse of the Kinckerbocker Theatre.

CURRENT BUILDING OPERATIONS

PROSPECTS of greater harmony between employers and workmen in three of the most important of the building trades, brought about by the agreement entered into at Washington last week, has been the principal topic of discussion among builders and allied interest during the past week. Architects, contractors and material manufacturers and dealers all feel confident that this agreement will be of tremendous benefit to the industry as a whole and will lead to similar codes of reform in other trades.

Locally the building situation is shaping up to the satisfaction of all concerned. There is a large amount of new construction scheduled for a start during the early spring months and architects and engineers are unusually busy on plans for projects that will mature within a relatively short time. Contractors are receiving more invitations to bid than they are able to handle, and many of the jobs are very substantial propositions.

A week ago considerable doubt was expressed over the decided shortage of common brick, but the mild weather and rains of the past week have broken up the ice in the Hudson, and there is every likelihood that sufficient common brick will arrive during the next day or so to supply all immediate requirements. Other materials are available in sufficient quantities for every demand and prices are steady and no important changes have been announced.

Common Brick—Although the New York wholesale market for Hudson River common brick is entirely cleaned out at present, the last three barges having been bought in by Brooklyn dealers early this week, no anxiety about the future supply is felt, as the warm weather of the past week, assisted by the rains and fog, have opened navigation as far north as Haverstraw, and in all likelihood several barges will arrive before the end of this week. Tuesday morning a string of empty barges were towed up-river and this tow will return at once with several barges that have been loaded for some time in anticipation of the first thaw. There is every reason to expect that the New York district will be adequately supplied with common brick from up-river plants before the end of this week. As a matter of fact, there has been no real shortage in this commodity, as considerable brick has been coming into New York from both the South River and Raritan districts in New Jersey. Last week, through an error, the Record and Guide published the quotation of $20 a thousand, New York, on Raritan brick. The current and correct quotation on this brick is $16.50 to $17 a thousand, and at no time this winter has the price of Raritan brick been more than $17 a thousand in New York.

Summary—Transactions in the North River market for common brick for the week ending Thursday, March 2, 1922. Condition of market: Demand light; prices firm and unchanged. Quotations: Hudson Rivers, $17 a thousand to dealers in cargo lot alongside dock. Number of cargoes arrived, none; sales, 3. Distribution: Brooklyn, 3.

Structural Steel—Although no large tonnage orders have been booked during the past week, the local steel industry has been fairly busy and all signs point to a steady increase in the volume of commitments. Recent orders for fabricated material to be used in building operations have ranged in the neighborhood of 1,000 tons each and were mostly for apartment house projects. Several important office building projects are on the boards and will likely be released for bids within the next week or so. There is a feeling throughout the building industry that conditions are steadily improving and that during the next month or six weeks a decided change for better will have occurred. Steel prices are steady with quotations on mill shipments of fabricated material unchanged.

Builders' Hardware—The market for builders' hardware is quite active considering the period of the year and all signs point to a steady increase in demand as the spring approaches and construction improves. During the past week or so sales have dropped off to some extent, but the decline in sales is due entirely to the inclement weather that practically stopped building for a time. Jobbers are getting their stocks in order in anticipation of an unusually heavy demand during the spring and summer months. Prices are steady and no important changes have been reported.

Electrical Supplies—Business in the local market for electrical material and supplies is fairly satisfactory, with demand steady and prices practically unchanged. There are excellent prospects that the demand will shortly increase as a vast amount of new construction is now planned for a start just as soon as weather conditions permit. Speculative building interests promise to be the most prolific source of business during the coming season if the rate plans are being prepared for multi-family houses and small dwellings is any criterion. Jobbers' stocks are fairly complete and adequate supplies of material will be available for all requirements.

Linseed Oil—The market for this commodity is very dull at present and no great improvement in conditions is anticipated until the general trade situation has undergone a change. Demand is light and confined almost entirely to small-lot orders. Buyers are making purchases only for immediate requirements and are apparently hesitating about ordering for stock until they have some assurance that prices are settled. At present linseed oil prices are firm and without change.

Cast Iron Pipe—Business is holding up in a satisfactory manner and for the most part manufacturers are well pleased with the prospects for the coming season. Although there is but little new municipal business on the books at present private buying has been active and there is considerable new business in sight. Producers are far more busy now than they were a year ago and with prospects for an early revival of building operations there is every reason for optimism. Prices are steady, with New York quotations as follows: $47.30 per net ton for 6 in. and larger; $52.30 for 4 in. and 5 in., and $62.30 for 3 in.

Window Glass—Demand for both plate and window glass has slowed down to some extent during the past few weeks, but prospects are excellent for a decided improvement in business as soon as the spring building program gets underway. According to plans now in progress there will be a tremendous volume of multi-family house construction next season and speculative builders declare their operations will only be limited by a shortage of materials and labor. Dealers in window glass are optimistic regarding the future and are arranging their stocks in preparation for unusually heavy glass requirements. Prices are firm and unchanged.

Nails—The market for both cut and wire nails is slow at present owing to the recent falling off in active construction. There is considerable early spring construction in sight, however, and the demand should improve within the next few weeks. Prices are steady and no changes have been reported from the mills.

A Trust Fund That Cannot Shrink

NO. 6

Do you want to set aside money to educate a son or a daughter or to care for your wife and children after you are gone?

You do not wish the money speculated with, but kept from shrinking. This Company will accept the money for such a purpose and will guarantee that the account will be unimpaired when it is needed.

We can do this safely, because we will invest it in the Guaranteed Mortgages of the Bond & Mortgage Guarantee Company, and this means there will be no failure in principal or interest.

EDITORIAL

Lockwood Week at Albany

This has been a right-lively sort of week in Albany, and the scenes at the State Capital were still shifting from hour to hour as this edition of the RECORD AND GUIDE went to press. The majesty of the Governor has been temporarily obscured and the dignity and authority of the Legislature temporarily brushed aside to give the Lockwood Committee a sort of field tournament all its own.

The opening event of Lockwood Week at Albany was the presentation on Monday evening (after it had been printed in all the newspapers) of what was described as the "Intermediate Report" of the Joint Legislative Committee on Housing. At the same time the news flashed over the wires that Mr. Samuel Untermyer, Chief Counsel to the committee, was hastening up from Florida to take his place in the week's picture. There followed reports that the Lockwood Committee had not, as had been stated, emasculated the report and bills prepared by Mr. Untermyer in Florida. Mr. Untermyer hastened from New York to Albany on Tuesday, his progress toward the State Capital being boomed with statements as to what course the powers at Albany would be demanded to pursue in the matter of the Lockwood bills. After the committee's Chief Counsel had arrived at Albany reports leaked out that unless the Legislature and the Governor gave the committee the laws they demanded Mr. Untermyer might resign as Chief Counsel, and Senator Lockwood and some of his associates might refuse to do any more investigating. Then came the hearings before legislative committees on the twenty-three bills offered by Senator Lockwood to make a home spring up for every family now without one, and to get matters so arranged that no married man need, because of circumstances, live under the same roof with his mother-in-law.

Senator Lockwood and Mr. Untermyer made it plain to all at Albany that they had not been investigating the housing shortage all this time for nothing. They intimated quite clearly that they knew the existing situation and what should be done to remedy it. What made this such a right-lively week at Albany was that some members of the Legislature, and even Governor Miller himself, presumed to be so bold as to question the efficacy or the desirability of some of the remedies upon which Senator Lockwood and Chief Counsel Untermyer were insisting.

It must be admitted, even by the Lockwood Committee and those associated with it, that the Legislature and the Governor are entitled to have something to say about what laws shall be enacted in this state, either affecting the housing shortage or bearing on any other matter in which the people of the state have a vital interest. The Lockwood Committee is an important body, and it has accomplished some very good things, but under the provisions of the State Constitution the Senate and Assembly, and not the Lockwood Committee, is clothed with authority to make laws and is made responsible for such laws as are sent to the Governor. So also under the Constitution the Governor alone has the power to approve or reject such laws.

Under the circumstances, it is but natural and proper that the Legislature and the Governor should insist on holding their own views as to the best methods of dealing with the housing shortage. In fact, it should be borne in mind by Senator Lockwood and his associates that even if the Governor should resign and all of the Legislature resign, excepting members of the Housing Committee, the Lockwoodites still would be without authority to force their laws on the people of the state without first getting the Constitution amended so as to clothe them with complete and final power in the premises. And everybody who knows anything about the State Constitution knows that it requires at least two years to get that important instrument amended. Many competent observers believe that whatever remains of the housing shortage will have disappeared within two years, especially if the compulsory use of Lockwood remedies is checked in time.

Big Year for National Construction

With reports of increased commitments for building coming from practically every section in the country there remains but little doubt that the current year will stand out prominently in construction annals as a period of real progress and prosperity. At present there are very marked indications that 1922 will break all existing records for the number of new building operations, both projected and started, as well as for the total value of this work.

Statistics for February, as tabulated by the F. W. Dodge Company, show that commitments for building and engineering construction in the twenty-seven Northeastern States totalled $177,365,000. The February total is seven per cent. greater than that of the preceding month and represents an increase of approximately seventy-three per cent. when compared with the total for the corresponding period of 1921.

The building totals for both January and February are a most significant indication of the approach of a building revival that is destined to become epochal in the history of the industry. The combined totals for the first two months of this year are about sixty per cent. greater than the total for the same months of last year. This in itself shows conclusively that the predictions of a national building boom in 1922 are in all likelihood to be fulfilled, and when it is realized that the total of the newly-projected building and engineering construction amounted to more than $800,000,000 during January and February, 1922, or more than double the value of the work actually placed under contract in the same period, the last doubt as to the availability of profitable business for contractors, sub-contractors and material manufacturers and dealers must be dispelled.

Construction totals for the local territory, which includes all of New York State and New Jersey, north of Trenton, make a showing even more favorable by comparison with preceding years than do those for the entire territory covered by the F. W. Dodge Company service. Commitments for Greater New York show a marked improvement in the outlook for building activity during the coming season.

Local building interests are well satisfied as to the amount of new work scheduled, and their only remaining doubt as to the opportunities of the coming season is whether or not the supply of labor and materials will be adequate to the actual requirements.

The supply of labor and materials is the most serious problem now confronting the local building industry. Already there exists a shortage of materials, notably common brick, and just as soon as weather conditions permit a start on the vast amount of scheduled construction there will be a call for both men and materials that will strain the facilities of the industry to the utmost.

Board of Aldermen Fix Uniform Tax Rate of $2.74 per $100

A UNIFORM tax rate of $2.74 per $100 for all five boroughs of the city was adopted by the Board of Aldermen at its meeting on March 3. The amount added for local improvements in each borough brings the rate up to $2.75 in Manhattan and the Bronx; $2.76 in Brooklyn; $2.78 in Richmond and $2.79 in Queens. These figures are all lower than the corresponding ones for last year, but much higher than for any previous year. Below are given the rates since 1916, which includes the last three years of Mayor Mitchell's administration:

Manhattan	2.04	2.02	2.36	2.32	2.48	2.77	2.75
Bronx	2.09	2.08	2.40	2.37	2.44	2.84	2.75
Brooklyn	2.08	2.07	2.40	2.36	2.43	2.80	2.76
Queens	2.06	2.12	2.41	2.37	2.41	2.85	2.79
Richmond	2.13	2.12	2.46	2.41	2.52	2.83	2.78

The tentative real estate valuations on which the assessments are based given out last October 1, were $9,947,323,092. The apparent increase in these valuations since then is due to the inclusion in the present figures of the special State franchise taxes amounting to $426,500,910. Deducting this item from the total the final real estate assessments show a drop from the tentative figures of $123,832,167. The loss on personal property assessments from the tentative figures is $456,872,905.

The Department of Taxes and Assessments contends that there has been no such loss—$123,832,167—on the real estate assessments, as the figures in the comptroller's office show. Members of the Tax Department pointed out that this apparent loss includes property exempt from taxes under the tax ordinance, which could not be wholly determined at the time the tentative figures were made up, and other items.

The Board of Aldermen adopted Comptroller Craig's certification that the 1922 budget was $350,601,570.07. For necessary city expenses more than $261,500,000 is required, while more than $9,988,000 is needed for county purposes, the balance being allotted to the payment of the State tax and for redemption of bonds. The total assessed valuation of personal and real estate for 1922, on which the tax rate is computed according to the report of the Department of Taxes and Assessments, amounts to $10,460,599,880, divided as follows:

	Real Estate	Personal Estate
Manhattan	$6,058,643,144	$145,473,800
The Bronx	864,008,890	17,175,650
Brooklyn	2,447,036,937	38,908,850
Queens	748,609,486	7,758,000
Richmond	131,693,378	1,201,745
Total	$10,249,991,835	$210,608,045

The real estate assessment valuation included the special franchise tax, amounting to $426,500,910.

The assessed valuation of real estate in the five boroughs since 1916 is as follows:

	ASSESSED VALUATION OF REAL ESTATE—1916-1922
	1916	1917	1918	1919	1920	1921	1922
Manhattan	$5,129,830,629	$5,088,344,403	$5,094,605,238	$5,115,811,621	$5,186,771,887	$5,878,847,633	$6,058,643,144
Bronx	698,896,196	714,226,994	726,129,198	731,808,972	753,308,264	852,447,403	864,008,890
Brooklyn	1,752,360,970	1,790,901,437	1,826,813,885	1,865,123,952	1,937,811,205	2,395,486,473	2,447,036,937

Total	$8,207,822,361	$8,254,549,000	$8,339,642,851	$8,428,322,753	$8,626,121,707	$9,972,985,104	$10,249,991,835

Queensboro Chamber of Commerce Elects Officers

WILLIAM H. JOHNS, President of the George Batten Co., Inc., has been renominated for President of the Queensboro Chamber of Commerce for the ensuing year. The eleventh annual meeting for the election of officers and directors will be held Friday, April 14. Both Ray Palmer, President of the New York & Queens Electric Light & Power Co. and Edward Roche of Far Rockaway have been renominated as Vice-Presidents. P. A. Rowley, Vice-President of the Bank of Manhattan Company, has been renominated for Treasurer.

The following members of the Chamber have been nominated for a three-year term on the Board of Directors:—

Edward A. MacDougall, President, Queensboro Corporation, Jackson Heights; W. M. Nones, President, Norma Company of America, Long Island City; Charles G. Meyer, Cord Meyer Development Company, Forest Hills; John H. Penchoen, Manager, Title Guarantee & Trust Co., Long Island City; Jarvis H. Hicks, Secretary, Long Island City Savings Bank, Long Island City; Clinton T. Roe, attorney, Whitestone. Both Jarvis S. Hicks and Clinton T. Roe are new members of the Board of Directors, all the others having been renominated.

Frank F. Adel, attorney, of Ridgewood, has been elected a member of the Board of Directors to fill the vacancy created by the death of John Adikes, of Jamaica.

Proper Method of Mixing Concrete

COL. H. C. BOYDEN, at a recent meeting of the Building Managers and Owners Association, discussed the question of the proper mixing of concrete. He said:

"Concrete must never be put in dry nor as soup but as a workable plastic mixture, one single pint of water per sack of cement more than enough mixes the concrete and you might just as well have taken out 2 or 3 lbs. of cement and thrown it away. Concrete must be clean, for one-thousandth part of organic impurities in terms of the weight of the sand will reduce the strength of your concrete over 25 per cent.

"Remember that the hardening, or setting, so-called, of concrete is not a dry-out process, but it is a chemical action which takes place between the cement and the mixing water. It requires exactly the right amount of water, no more nor no less, but that right amount having been put in, it must be kept there until the chemical action has taken place. Consequently, if you will cover your floors, driveways, sidewalks, roads and pavements or any concrete with water, damp sand, wet earth, and keep them wet for 21 days after laying, you will more than double the compressive strength and more than double the ability to withstand depreciation. So remember finally, use less water in the mixing and more water in the curing than is commonly being used today."

Senate Committee Gives Hearings on Lockwood Bills

Five Measures Extending Provisions of Emergency Rent Laws Will Be Passed by Legislature, But Fate of Other Proposals Is in Doubt

(Special to the RECORD AND GUIDE)

Albany, March 9.

ALTHOUGH the final days of the session have been reached, the legislative leaders arranged for extended hearings yesterday and today on the various bills which constitute the Lockwood Committee's program to solve the housing situation. Samuel Untermyer, Chief Counsel to the Committee, came to Albany on Tuesday and has been the main advocate of the committee's bills in the subsequent developments. A good deal of opposition to some of the Lockwood Committee's measures has developed at these hearings.

Prior to the arrival of Mr. Untermyer in Albany, the Cities Committee of the Senate had reported favorably five of the Lockwood measures bearing directly on the housing situation. These five measures, all of which undoubtedly will be passed by the Legislature and signed by Governor Miller, are:

1—Extending the provisions of the Emergency Rent Laws to February 15, 1924;

2—Extending the Tax Exemption Law to dwellings the construction of which begins before April 1, 1923;

3—Protecting home buyers against foreclosure proceedings up to February 15, 1924;

4—Fixing the assessed valuation of apartments and dwelling houses as the basis for determining reasonable rent;

5—Clearing up ambiguous provisions of the Emergency Rent Laws.

Mr. Untermyer made a strong defense of and a vigorous plea for the legislative program framed by the committee, at a hearing before the Senate Cities Committee opening yesterday. Before the hearing he was closeted with Governor Miller for several hours and it is reported he overcame executive opposition to several of the more important bills, including the measure which would authorize the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company to invest $100,000,000 in real estate enterprises and the proposals to compel insurance companies to invest 40 per cent. of their assets in real estate.

The hearing at which the legislative proposals of the Lockwood Committee were discussed was called late Tuesday in an effort to ascertain just what sentiment existed with respect to the findings and recommendations of the Lockwood Committee. It will continue today until all the bills have been discussed.

Advancing the merits of the bill providing for a State Trade Commission, Mr. Untermyer declared at yesterday's hearing that both the state and federal courts have broken down in their efforts to curb the operations of illegal combinations "which infest both this state and country."

"I regard this bill as the most important part of our program," he declared. "It will operate to suppress illegal combinations which openly challenge the law, combinations which cannot be curbed by the regular machinery of justice."

No opposition was expressed to the State Trade Commission proposal, a development which elicited some surprise, for before the hearing this measure was regarded as one of the most controversial recommendations made by the Lockwood Committee. The time allotted to the discussion of the measure was given over entirely to Mr. Untermyer.

The bill to compel insurance companies to invest 40 per cent. of their assets in real estate was openly opposed by State Superintendent of Insurance Francis R. Stoddard, former Superintendent of Insurance William H. Hotchkiss, James H. Doyle, representing the National Board of Fire Underwriters, Stewart Browne, President of the United Real Estate Owners' Association and others.

Speaking in favor of this bill, Mr. Untermyer declared: "Our companies in this State have been decreasing their real estate investment, yielding to the lures of Wall Street. We are not advocating this bill on a basis of the housing scarcity. We are placing it on the firmer and more permanent basis that realty investments are 25 per cent. better for the policy holders and the losses fewer than those resulting from present investments.

"We are trying to get the fire insurance companies to invest in the same sort of securities that life insurance companies and savings banks have found so safe and satisfactory."

Superintendent Stoddard declared the measure would open the way for other mandatory legislation with respect to the disposition and administration of the finances of insurance companies, and, that while in the present emergency such a measure might operate to relieve the situation, a dangerous precedent would be established by its enactment.

Henry W. Killeen, of Buffalo, who said he appeared "merely as an attorney" opposed the bill requiring the courts to impose a minimum jail sentence of three months for violation of the Donnelly Anti-Trust Law. He characterized the proposal as "a mere gesture of disappointment." "It is a criticism of the courts for not having done what some people think ought to have been done, and you might better leave this discretion with the courts," he added.

Mr. Untermyer resented this suggestion on behalf of the committee. "It is a fact," he declared, "that the courts have enforced the anti-trust laws with reluctance, and if the option of a fine continues the law will continue to be a dead letter."

Alexander C. McNulty and Edward P. Doyle, representing the New York Real Estate Board, attended the hearing. They will advise with the committee throughout the discussions of the bills.

The fate of the Lockwood bills, aside from the five already reported, is problematical. Neither Senator Lockwood nor Senator Lusk, Majority Leader of the Senate, was willing this week to venture a prediction as to the ultimate success or failure of the other bills which represent part of the committee's program to solve the housing situation. Nor would Speaker Machold offer anything that would indicate the chances the housing legislative program had of passing the Assembly. Governor Miller would not disclose his attitude with respect to the Lockwood bills this week. He was reluctant to discuss any of the bills, another factor contributing to the uncertainty of the situation.

When the report of the Lockwood Committee was presented to the Legislature, a week after the bills framed by the committee had been introduced, it was received with the same measure of interest as would attend the introduction of an amendment of the town or village law. It provoked no more discussion than an up-state bit of legislation would. The indifference of the Legislature following the submission of this report is largely responsible for the feeling of uncertainty about the passage of the bills still pending before committees.

Reliable and Proper Methods for Appraising Real Estate

Wm. L. De Bost, in Address at West Side Y. M. C. A., Describes Various Phases of This Profession and Lays Stress on Its Ethical Features

IN spite of the storm on Tuesday evening there was a large attendance of the Real Estate Class of the West Side Branch of the Y. M. C. A. to hear William L. De Bost, Vice-President of the Cruikshank Company, lecture on "The Appraising of Real Estate." The speaker, who was introduced by Bryan L. Kennelly, has made some of the most notable appraisals in the city during recent years. In opening, Mr. De Bost said:

"While you may feel that you are not absorbing as much as you should from the addresses of this lecture course, I am sure that during your whole real estate career (should you make this your profession) items which you have remembered from listening to the men who have spoken here will always prove to be a considerable asset.

"The appraising of real estate is one of the most important branches of the real estate business, for on it depends much of the activity of the other branches of the business. A large percentage of the sales, nearly all of the mortgages and many of the leases which are made depend first on an intelligent valuation of the real estate involved. It can, therefore, readily be seen of what great importance it is to be not only well trained in the profession of appraising, but to be most honest, skilled and up-to-date in this branch of the work, as an appraiser who is depended upon by his clients can do more harm than good if he is not expert and conscientious in his work.

"It would seem at first glance that anyone engaged in the real estate business, with a fair amount of experience and knowledge, could probably appraise real estate, but I do not believe that this is the case. Unless one is clearly fitted for this particular work he would do well to adopt some other branch of the business, as appraising requires an especial aptitude and training.

"While I will not say that a man cannot become a good appraiser by constant hard study, I do believe that the best appraiser is one who has had extensive training in all the departments of a large real estate office, and I do not believe that a man who has had simply the ordinary training sufficient to negotiate a lease or a sale is any more fitted to make appraisals than a graduate from college is fitted to adopt immediately after graduation some particular specialty in the practice of law or medicine. It takes a lawyer or doctor years in general practice before he can become a specialist and I believe it is so with appraising.

"An appraiser who can do his clients full justice starts out with a great deal in his favor. He must have absorbed selling or market values and rental values, he must study constantly locations, cost of operation and construction and all other elements pertaining to the management, rental, sale and mortgaging of real estate, and to have tucked this knowledge carefully away in his memory so that it can be referred to at any time on short notice; and, what is still more important, he must keep on absorbing, as conditions in no other city in the world change as rapidly as they do in this great city of ours.

"A fine, systematic, up-to-date record plant which is constantly attended to, and the different map books which are correct to the minute, for immediate reference, are essential to the appraiser. He must keep more or less familiar with the many laws which affect valuations and be constantly in touch, as far as it is possible for him to do so, with cost of building, cost of operation, sales and rentals, for, after all, these are vital elements in considering the fair valuation of real estate."

Continuing, Mr. De Bost said:—

"Possibly it would be instructive and interesting to you if I should tell you the routine in the making of an appraisal, from the time it is ordered until it is sent out completed.

"First, of course, the order is received—sometimes by mail with the simple request to make the valuation without any further instructions and to send it as quickly as possible, together with a bill. But, more often, an interested party calls personally with all sorts of data and reasons why a certain figure should be arrived at. The appraiser must listen very patiently to all these arguments, but, in most cases, unless he wishes to do his client or the owner an injustice, he must forget just as quickly and so start out absolutely fresh. As an illustration, I am reminded of a man who called on me one day to order an appraisal for the renewal of a mortgage, which I found out later was held by one of my clients. He gave me all the information about the property and other particulars and his views of its value and future possibilities, and asked me what my charge for the appraisal would be. I told him $15. He said this would be entirely satisfactory and he would like me to get the appraisal out as quickly as possible and send it to him. In about an hour my telephone rang and this same man wished to speak to me. He said that since leaving my office he had been thinking over the question of my fee for appraising his property and he thought it was entirely too low; that what he wanted was a real, full appraisal and that he would be glad to honor any bill that I might send him, no matter how large it was, provided I should make the appraisal to fit the case. This is the sort of influence which I have referred to. However, I am glad to say that in all my experience I have had very few such cases.

"There is a rather unusual condition about appraising and that is, that, in a great many instances, the party who is paying for the appraisal and who orders it is not your client, but he is obtaining it because your client has asked him to do so. You can see, therefore, how particular you must be to send out your own opinion of value and not be influenced by original information which may be furnished you.

"A correct diagram must first be made, showing the size and location of the plot, size and kind of building, square feet in the plot, cubic feet in the building and zoning regulations under the zoning law, and with this a memorandum giving all office data in the immediate district, such as sales, leases, mortgages, elevated and subway stations and all other information which may in any way have a present or future effect on the property in question.

"Then comes really the most important part of the work, that is, the physical inspection of the property, for it is just as wrong for an appraisal to be sent out without a careful inspection not only of the district, but of the building from roof to cellar, as it would be for a doctor to prescribe for a very sick patient over the telephone. If you have been furnished with a list of the rentals, these must be carefully checked up to see that they are correct and fair. If, as in many cases, no list of rentals can be given you, and you cannot obtain the information on the premises, you must estimate the fair gross rental value of the property. This cannot be done in a haphazard way, but must be done with absolute knowledge of renting conditions in that district. This is also true of operating expenses of the building, for, after all, never forget that the income which the property produces, if adequately improved, is undoubtedly the most important element in arriving at its fair and reasonable value.

"In considering adjoining property sales, which, of course, must be done, remember that it is not always safe to take the published record, giving the considerations, or as figured by the revenue stamps. Although sales are a very important element in the valuation of real estate, yet they are not always the best indication of value. I can show you sales at prices either far above or below real values, and were these taken as full indication of fair value of adjacent property they would make an appraisal absurd.

"Now, after having done all this, then comes your consideration of the fair value of the property—in other words, your diagnosis of the case. This must be done where you can be quiet and undisturbed so that you can fully concentrate on the work before you. And, after you have given consideration to all these elements of value and have finally arrived at your conclusion, you must be absolutely convinced in your opinion and not be swayed by any influence which may be brought to bear to change this opinion, unless some distinct error in your calculations can be shown or unless some other elements of value can be presented to you which were not before you when you were giving consideration to the case. In other words, be perfectly honest and do not be moved from the straight and narrow path, always remembering when an appraisal has once been signed by you and sent out to do its mission in the world, if you are an appraiser of any note and reputation, this appraisal, to a certain extent, becomes a real part of that property."

"If you have an extensive appraising business," Mr. De Bost also explained, "you will find that very often after making an appraisal you will receive a re-order, but because you have appraised the property at a recent date do not take a chance of re-issuing your appraisal at a later date, without a new inspection, as it might so happen that a fire or some other unforeseen damage to the building had occurred over night.

"I was spoken to some years ago by a gentlemen who had a new scheme which he was most enthusiastic over. He thought that he could commercialize appraising so that all anyone would have to do would be to subscribe to an issue to be published at regular intervals, which would give unit values on each block. In other words, similar to the unit value map which is published by the Tax Department. He was going to sell this service at a large price to trust companies, savings banks and others, and he asked me if I would be willing to undertake the fixing of these units in a certain large section of the city. I told him that I would be very glad to do so, but, of course, there were some conditions about it. He said that he would meet any ordinary conditions, and I told him he would

Lockwood Committee Submits "Intermediate Report"

Legislature Gets Exhaustive Review of Its Activities During Past Three Years, Along with Twenty-three bills Urged for Immediate Passage

(Special to RECORD AND GUIDE)

Albany, March 9.

SENATOR CHARLES C. LOCKWOOD, Chairman of the Joint Legislative Committee on Housing, submitted an Intermediate Report to the Legislature last Monday, summarizing its activities up to the present time and making a large number of recommendations for legislation. After reciting the circumstances leading up to the appointment of the committee, on April 18, 1919, the report declares that "the housing famine continues to be a peril to the life, health, safety and morals of the community" and sums up the situation as follows:

"In the City of New York alone there is now a shortage of approximately 80,000 low-priced homes to house 400,000 human beings as compared with the normal conditions of pre-war times. This has, of course, meant abnormally high rents, whilst high rents have in turn involved doubling up and indecent, insanitary overcrowding."

The problem, the report declares, will not solve itself by the operation of economic laws "because the type of housing most needed cannot be produced as a paying investment for rentals that the average wage-earners can afford to pay at the present costs of construction and materials, nor at the prevailing prices of labor except in large units on a non-speculative plan."

After stating that there "are many evidences of unconscionable profiteering by landlords" the report declares "it would be most unjust to indict the entire landlord class or any substantial part thereof as responsible for the present situation."

In support of its contention that the "housing crisis" still exists, the report says:—

The population in Greater New York as of July 1st, 1921, is estimated at 5,734,613 and there were then only 982,771 apartments available or an increase of only 923 apartments to meet an increase of 342,696 in population. As against an increase of 157,249 apartments in 9 years before the war, we have an increase of 923 apartments for the last 3 1-2 years. There have, of course, been more than 923 apartments constructed during that period but the demolitions due to fire, old age and conversion to business purposes had brought the net increase of available dwelling space in 3 1-2 years to less than 1,000.

From 1910 to 1917 inclusive there were net actual gains in available dwelling space of 16,570 apartments per year.

As against this it appears from the following table of the net increases and decreases of construction in apartments for the years 1918 to July, 1921, inclusive, that there have been actual losses from 1920 to the present time:

Year		Number of Apartments
1918.....	a gain of	5,451
1919.....	a gain of	1,297
1920.....	a loss of	1,616
Jan. 1, 1921.....	a loss of	219
July 1, 1921.....	a loss of	209

The sum total of these figures shows that construction fell behind 69,797 apartments from 1917 to July 1st, 1921.

From 1910 to 1917 an average of 24,922 new apartments were built each year. From 1918 to July 1st, 1921, the following construction in dwellings took place.

Year	Number of Apartments
1918.....	5,706
1919.....	1,624
1920.....	4,882
July 1, 1921.....	1,183

This shows an average of 3,642 new apartments constructed in the post-war period, so that the gross construction fell behind 73,832 apartments. The gross construction in 3 1/2 years fell behind 4,034 more than the net construction which, as above stated, fell behind 69,797. All these calculations are based on official figures showing a shortage of nearly 70,000 houses on July 1st, 1921.

While building decreased the price of materials increased, the report points out, although the prices of all other commodities fell:—

"In April, 1920, building materials reached a maximum of 341 while general commodities, notwithstanding the extent to which they, too, have been exploited in every direction, were at their highest point at 272. In December, 1920, building materials fell to 266 while general commodities fell to 189. In February, 1921, while general commodities were at 177 building materials were still at 222."

Taking up the urgent necessity for the enactment of rent laws the report says that on January 1, 1922, there were 68,000 cases pending in the municipal courts and suggests a number of reforms in the conduct of this class of litigation, one of the chief recommendations being that in "reasonable rent" cases the law be amended to provide that the assessed value shall be presumed to be the value of the investment. An interesting fact disclosed by the report gives the number of summary proceedings instituted in the courts in 1920 and 1921, as follows:

Manhattan	52,119	83,311
Bronx	20,728	9,069
Brooklyn	40,067	25,832
Queens	4,811	6,743
Richmond	515	901
Total	118,240	125,850

Nearly one hundred pages of the report are taken up with a resume of the testimony taken by the committee relative to Brindellism, the operations of Hettrick, "unfair practices and requirements of labor unions"; the investigation into combinations of manufacturers to fix prices and restrict competition; the relationship between the Building Trades Employers' Association and the Building Trades Council and open price and other associations in restraint of trade. After giving the number of indictments and convictions resulting from its investigations the committee reports that

"It finds the legal machinery for the enforcement of the conspiracy laws against illegal combinations to be inadequate in both the State and Federal courts, but in making this statement no reflection is intended upon the public officials having in charge the execution of these laws."

"We have had upon the statute books of the State of New York the statute against conspiracies in restraint of trade, being section 580 of the Penal Code, and the so-called Donnelly Anti-Trust Act, chapter 25, section 340, of the Laws of 1909. Notwithstanding the fact that the City of New York has been for upward of twenty years the headquarters for most of the illegal combinations in the building industry and in fact of international combinations from which the people of this country have been and are suffering, no successful effort has been made to suppress or punish these conspiracies. These laws have been generally regarded as a 'dead letter.'"

"One of the reasons that has for years been most persistently urged against the enforcement of the Federal Anti-Trust Laws as criminal statutes was the supposed unwillingness of juries to convict in such cases. The experiences of the committee have demonstrated no basis for this assertion."

"The judges, both in the state and Federal courts, have almost consistently treated this class of offenders with tender consideration. In one case in the state court in which the manufacturers of brick and dealers in building materials were proven guilty of the most overt acts, constituting willful frauds upon the public, the court allowed all the defendants to escape with fines."

Taking up the subject of financing building the report goes extensively into the investments of life and fire insurance companies and savings banks. The conclusions reached by the committee follow:—

The ratio of income earned on mortgage loans by all classes of both insurance companies and banking institutions has been greater by approximately one per cent, and more constant almost invariably than has been the rate of income earned on bonds and stocks.

Notwithstanding the greater earning power, stability and safety of mortgage loans as investments, the insurance companies and the banking institutions, with the exception of the savings banks, have invested, generally, the greater portion of their resources in bonds and stocks. There has been a general tendency on the part of both the life insurance companies and the banking institutions, in the years from 1915 to 1919 to decrease the proportion of their resources invested in mortgage loans and to correspondingly increase their investments in bonds and stocks.

The increase in the ratio of investments of insurance companies in United States bonds during the period of the war, when these investments were necessary, were apparently made largely at the expense of their investments in mortgage loans, but in exceptional instances there was simultaneously a decrease in the investments in other bonds and stocks.

The insurance companies of other states of all classes, have invested, on the average, a far greater portion of their available resources in mortgage loans than have the companies of New York State.

The life insurance companies of New York State have invested proportionately more in mortgage loans in other states, in relation to the insurance that they have outstanding in those states than the insurance companies of other states have invested in mortgage loans in New York State in relation to the insurance that the latter have outstanding in the State of New York.

Some insurance companies have invested in mortgage loans a smaller proportion of their resources than the average shown by all of the companies combined; the investments of some of the fire and marine and the casualty companies in particular, being considerably less than the average.

Several life insurance companies have invested a greater ratio of their available resources in stocks than the average shown by the life insurance companies as a group.

The exceptionally low rate of income earned by some of the fire and marine insurance companies on their investments in bonds and stocks, is partly due to extraordinary losses, particularly in the year 1919, that were incurred in the disposition through sale or otherwise of railroad, public utility and other securities of an apparently unstable or doubtful investment value.

The fire, marine and casualty insurance companies, particularly the latter have invested as a rule a mere fraction of their resources in mortgage loans as compared with the life insurance companies and savings banks.

The ratio of the total resources of the savings banks invested in mortgage loans has on the whole been most satisfactory and fairly constant; it increased slightly during the nine years from 1906 to 1914; but, since then, the tendency has been to decrease the ratio of these investments, the decrease being more than offset, however, by the increased ratio of investments in United States securities which has not been at the expense of mortgage loans as with some of the life insurance companies.

The committee finds:—

The construction of buildings continues to be further discouraged by the difficulties encountered by prospective builders in securing loans or other financial assistance. Life insurance companies, savings banks, and other lenders of money have imposed unusual conditions.

Although these transactions cannot be said to be in contravention of the letter of the law, they were without ethical justification. These transactions were accomplished by three different methods:

1. By the exaction of large bonuses for making the loan.
2. By compelling the borrower to accept as part of the loan real property generally unmarketable at high values or United States Government Bonds at par when they were selling far below par and could have been duplicated by the lender at the then market price.
3. By requiring the borrower to transfer his property to a corporation in order to avoid the Usury Law since corporations are not permitted to plead usury.

The report goes exhaustively into the question of insurance and the bearing it has on the cost of building. Lack of competition and the fixing of rates is charged. The following table is given in the report to show the premiums and losses in the territory covered by the New York Insurance Exchange in a period of years:—

Year	Net Premiums Collected	Losses-Incurred
1912.....	$24,806,166	$12,019,486	Less than 50 per cent.
1913.....	23,754,992	7,763,716	Less than 32 per cent.
1914.....	23,082,032	10,347,243	Less than 45 per cent.
1915.....	21,668,301	7,668,702	About 34 per cent.
1916.....	24,382,681	9,153,258	About 40 per cent.
1917.....	27,907,086	14,000,000	About 50 per cent.
1918.....	35,569,363	12,639,962	About 34 per cent.
1919.....	37,798,314	13,698,109	About 37 per cent.
1920.....	47,727,874	22,183,916	About 46 per cent.

The attitude of the stock companies towards the mutual companies is described and it is claimed the former discriminate against the latter. It is also declared that private companies writing workmen's compensation insurance have employed various methods to prevent the successful functioning of the State Fund created to provide cheap insurance of this character.

The committee sums up its unfinished work as follows:—

Objectionable provisions contained in the various constitutions, by-laws, rules and regulations that are known to exist among labor unions in cities of the state, and agreements between the unions and associations connected with the building industries in cities not yet investigated. Unless these objectionable provisions and practices are abrogated they should be inquired into and corrected.

The comprehensive reforms in the labor unions that the committee has been promised would be inaugurated should be closely followed and the officials of the unions should be required to make proof of the manner and extent to which the promised reforms have been made.

Other employers' associations have not yet been examined. There are believed to be combinations existing among the constituent members of such associations.

The investigation into the New York Building Trades Employers' Association and its constituent associations should be continued until all the activities of the parent association and its constituent members have been made known and their illegal activities suppressed.

Of the illegal combinations in the building industries operating in Greater New York, some of them local associations and others extending throughout the state and nation, many of them against whom violations of the state or national anti-trust laws have been established have not yet been presented for prosecution. In their presentation, your committee can render material aid.

The committee suspended the examination of witnesses upon the promise of officials of these associations of competitors to in good faith disband their price-fixing organizations and resume competition. The committee should recall the officials of these associations for the purpose of determining to what extent they have been dissolved.

Local combinations in the building industries in other cities of the state are still to be inquired into.

The examination into the investments of the life, fire, casualty, fidelity and surety companies is not fully complete. The committee has examined officers of only two life insurance companies.

The manner in which owners of tenement and apartment properties have evaded the Emergency Rent Laws and the frauds practiced by them upon tenants is still to be established by sworn testimony. The committee has thus far been able to call only a few of the many men engaged in these practices to the witness stand. There are others whose operations should be exposed for the better protection of tenants and as a basis for further legislation.

The committee submitted the following recommendations for legislation:—

1. A bill extending the Emergency Rent Laws until Feb. 15th, 1924.
2. A bill extending the tax exemption law so as to extend the time to commence construction in order to secure exemption from taxation until April 1st, 1923. It is not contemplated, however, that the period of exemption shall be extended.
3. A bill providing that for the purpose of determining reasonableness of rent the assessed valuation of premises be presumptive evidence of the actual value.
4. A bill providing for the return of jury fees that have been paid by tenants whose cases are not separately tried.
5. A bill providing for the dismissal of an action with costs in favor of the defendant in cases brought in the wrong district.
6. A bill providing that the defendant shall be entitled to costs in an action if the plaintiff does not succeed in recovering more than the amount previously paid by the defendant.
7. A bill clarifying the present provision of the law as to the payment of three monthly instalments of rent.
8. A bill clarifying the present law in relation to the deposit of rent in court and the payment of the same to the landlord.
9. A bill requiring the landlord to give thirty days' notice of an increase of rent.
10. A bill providing that after foreclosure of a mortgage tenants may not be dispossessed except in cases where summary proceedings are maintainable.
11. A bill providing for the creation of either a new court district or the appointment of additional justices in the seventh district of Manhattan.
12. A bill amending the State Anti-Trust Law known as the Donnelly Act.
13. A bill having for its purposes the creation of a State Trade Board and of prohibiting corporations or Joint Stock Associations from becoming members of or connected with any Trade Association, Society, Club, Library, Institute or other form of organization of competitors under whatever name or pretext or from becoming parties to any trade agreement with competitors, without having first received the previous approval of such Trade Board.
14. A bill requiring insurance companies (without, however, compelling them to dispose of their present securities) to invest at least 40 per cent. of their future investable funds in mortgage loans on improved unencumbered real property to an amount not to exceed 66 2-3 per cent. of the appraised value of such property until the total amount of such mortgage loans shall from year to year equal 30 per cent. of the total assets of such companies.

(Senator Lockwood and Assemblyman Caulfield dissent.)

15. A bill amending section one hundred of the insurance law, so as to strike out the provision giving to the superintendent of insurance the right to extend beyond nineteen hundred and twenty-six the period within which such companies are required to dispose of their stock investments.
16. A bill amending Section 141 of the insurance law so as to provide for state supervision over all rates and rate-making bureaus and organizations, and limiting the activities of these bureaus and subjecting them and their practices to state control.
17. A bill granting to all mutual insurance companies that provide safeguards to policy holders equal to those provided by the stock companies, the same right to transact all kinds of insurance as are now possessed by stock companies organized under the laws of this state and of foreign states and countries.
18. A bill permitting mutual employers liability corporations to divide their directors into groups whose terms may expire in different years, in the same manner in which stock corporations are now so permitted.
19. A bill prohibiting the conversion of mutual companies into stock insurance companies.
20. A bill requiring all insurance (except life companies) companies to sell and dispose within five years from the passage of this act of all their investments in common or preferred stocks of corporations and of all securities held by them other than securities in which savings banks and life insurance companies are now permitted by law to invest.
21. A bill requiring the savings banks in the State of New York to invest and keep invested from and out of all future investable funds not less than 40 per cent. of their deposits in mortgage loans on improved unencumbered real property.
22. A bill permitting the people to appeal to the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court and to the Court of Appeals at any time within six months after the making of an order, ruling or decision by any courts dismissing an indictment, other than at the trial and on the merits.
23. A bill amending the charter of the City of New York so that the city may at its election avail itself of contracts of sub-contractors where the principal contractor fails to complete his contract.

The committee recommends a joint resolution to be passed by the Legislature memorializing Congress to amend the Federal Anti-Trust Laws so as to take from the courts the discretion of imposing fines upon individuals convicted of violation of those laws and to compel the imposition of prison sentences, as has been recommended with respect to the amendment of the state laws and to enlarge the powers of the Federal Trade Commission so that it shall be vested with the same powers with respect to interstate corporations and associations as are proposed for the State Trade Board with respect to state associations.

ONE of the most important activities of Building Managers and Owners Association is the regular monthly meeting and yet it is habitually neglected by some of the members and seldom attended by others.

The dinner meeting of March 14th, 1922, will be of interest to all Building Managers. Charles Brady, Superintendent of Buildings, Borough of Manhattan, will be the speaker of the evening and after the regular business Frank G. Bryer, head of the Research Department of the New Jersey Zinc Company, will deliver a lecture on the subject of "A Painter's Judgment and the Building Manager's Specifications."

Declares Lockwood Report "Unfair and Misleading"

Chairman Norman, of Board of Governors, Says Committee Has Failed to Show Building Trades Employers' Association Guilty of Any Illegal or Unmoral Act

DISCUSSING the report submitted to the Legislature on Monday by the Lockwood Committee, and referring to the statement that the committee would shortly resume the investigation into the affairs of the Building Trades Employers' Association, C. G. Norman, Chairman of the Board of Governors, said:

"The Lockwood Committee has had the books of the Building Trades Employers' Association in its possession for eighteen months. It has failed to show that the association has been guilty of an unlawful act or even an unmoral or an unsocial act, or that it has at any time made or approved of an illegal or improper agreement with any labor organization.

"The Committee inadvertently pays us one compliment. It stated that it has been unable to discover a single instance in which a member of the association has paid graft. It, however, failed to state that those who paid graft (not members of the association) also paid more than the agreed rates of wages, received special consideration from the business agents, were supplied with an adequate force of men and rushed their work through to completion while the jobs of the members of the Building Trades Employers' Association were insufficiently manned. The report is manifestly unfair and misleading.

"The figures given by it as a basis for its conclusions are worthless as statistics and mean nothing. They consist of a jumble of guesses written for the obvious purpose of justifying a foolish statement. They are evidently based upon opinions of the Tenement House Department and contain no references to the thousands of one and two-family houses erected in the Boroughs of Richmond, Queens, Brooklyn and the Bronx during the past three years.

"In New York City, all boroughs, in the year 1919 contracts were awarded for 14,131 residential buildings, in 1920 for 7,087 residential buildings and in 1921 for 11,763 residential buildings. The survey conducted by the Building Trades Employers' Association showed that there was completed in the year 1921, after the enactment of the Tax Exemption Law, accommodations for 9,889 families and that there was under construction on December 31, 1921, to be completed in 1922, accommodations for 26,760 families.

"If Senator Lockwood will devote one hour to an examination of the unfurnished apartment, advertising columns, of the New York papers and three hours to a personal investigation of the conditions in Brooklyn he will be convinced of his folly. The report of the Long Island Railroad Company shows that in the county represented by Assemblyman McWhinney there was erected in 1921, without the benefit of the exemption, 3,248 dwellings."

have to pay me a salary which would be as much per year as I ever hoped to make in the ordinary course of my business and that he would have to engage me for life and that it would probably take me nearly all my life before I could make my original report as every single lot in the City of New York would have to be appraised separately and that no definite unit value could prevail.

"You will often be pressed to issue an appraisal in a great hurry and will be obliged to do so in many cases, but I urge you never to be hurried to such an extent that you send out an appraisal until you are fully convinced that it is right, for you must never overlook the fact that after an appraisal is once signed and sent out it becomes history and it is practically impossible to withdraw it, and that on the strength of this appraisal money may be loaned by trustees representing widows and infants, or by trust companies or savings banks, not only for their own investment but for estates. So I say no matter how much you are pressed, unless you are fully convinced that you are right, at all costs, even at the hazard of losing your client, hold up the appraisal until you are ready to issue it.

"As to structural value of buildings, due to war conditions and the necessary high cost of materials and labor, this side of appraising has become most difficult. No matter what a building may have cost, unless it is an adequate improvement and well planned, it does not add its cost value to the land. The inducement for erecting buildings during the past few years, at the prevailing high costs, has been largely that owners could obtain high rentals for the space offered and in this way write off during a certain number of years the difference between abnormal and normal costs. After all, a building is only worth what it will make the land produce and I find in my appraising work that in very few instances can I give a land valuation and a cost valuation, add the two together and say that that is the fair and reasonable value of the property. You will recall that in taxing real estate, the Tax Department values the land and the land and building together. That is: they value the land and add to the land what in their estimation the building adds to it. This is just as true in appraising as in assessing."

Discussing the future prospects of those who take up appraising as a profession, Mr. De Bost said:

"There must be no question about appraising. If there is to be, then you should not be an appraiser, and if you do become a good appraiser there is a big and interesting field for your activities and much use for you in the community, for much of the future soundness of the city depends upon your work.

"Besides appraising for ordinary mortgages, sales or leases, as you become older in the business you will probably be called on to act in an advisory capacity, that is, giving advice to clients who are purchasing or selling real estate; advice to those who are mortgaging or borrowing; and, also, you will be called on to act as an arbitrator or umpire in leasehold or other negotiations. You must not forget that your past work will be reflected in this important branch.

"You will also be called on to make valuations of property subject to long leases, valuations subject to easements and valuations subject to restrictions. Also, you will be asked to testify as an expert in various proceedings such as infancy proceedings and condemnation cases.

"Let me remind you that fixing the fair and reasonable value of real estate does not necessarily mean that the property could always be marketed quickly at the appraised value, for while every commodity in the world has a fair and reasonable value, it is not always readily salable at such value, and you can see at a glance that it would retard development and building and do a great injustice to the owner, lender and the community if mortgages were only made on the immediate salable or liquidation value of real estate. However, an appraisal must necessarily be at a figure which in ordinary times, with a reasonable period in which to negotiate a sale, a willing buyer could be found."

In conclusion, Mr. De Bost said: "The subject of appraising is such a big one that I know I have only been able to touch, in the time allowed me, on the high spots. Before closing I would like to add one further word. While I know that no one is infallible—for if any of us should never make mistakes we would go to heaven too quickly—should any or all of you gentlemen ever become appraisers of real estate, I am sure that the very best advice I can give you is to be most honest with yourself, do not be swayed by any pressure or influence brought to bear, do not be afraid of losing a customer because you will not make a valuation to suit him, and be most careful that the other branches of the business in which you may be engaged do not so affect your opinion of values that you cannot give an honest opinion."

Column tests for the purpose of determining the effect of density, and defects such as knots, checks, crossgrain, etc., on the strength of structural columns of Southern pine and Douglas fir have just been started at the Forest Products Laboratory, Madison, Wis., under the direction of J. H. Newlin of the laboratory and D. F. Holtman of the National Lumber Manufacturers' Association. The experiments will cover a period of four years, and the data will be used as a basis for recommending safe working stresses for structural columns.

New Jackson Heights Apartments Will Cost $5,000,000

J. G. White-Queensboro Corporation Operation, Planned By Andrew J. Thomas, Provides Many Original Features in Design and Equipment

CONTRACTORS have commenced work on a new type of multi-family house in the Jackson Heights section of Long Island City, where new garden apartments are now being erected at a total cost of more than $5,000,000. Of this amount of active construction now in progress approximately $2,000,000 represents the cost of a block of attractive garden type of apartments being erected on the block bounded by Hayes and Fillmore Avenues, Twenty-third and Twenty-fourth Streets, by the Queensboro Corporation and the J. G. White Engineering Corporation, the latter firm a new entry into the housing field. Just recently also, Dwight P. Robinson & Co., Inc., began the construction of a block of elevator apartments, comprising twenty-six buildings providing for the accommodation of 284 families, on the block bounded by Polk and Roosevelt Avenues, Twenty-second and Twenty-third Streets.

The new J. G. White-Queensboro Corporation elevator apart-

"The officers of the Queensboro Corporation feel that a most important sign of progress in the plan of this new group is the locating of the bedrooms on the rear overlooking the garden. Hitherto the custom has been to place the bedrooms on the street and people have come to accept it without considering the reason which led to the choice of the street front for bedrooms. The reason was that in older types of plan the only other locations possible were a very narrow side yard pocketed at one end, or else, a narrow rear court, at best not more than 24 feet wide, between buildings.

"Sunshine hardly ever got down to the majority of these rear rooms and they had almost no circulation of air in summer. Now the public is beginning to realize that the street bedrooms are a great disadvantage because of noise. New York City streets are becoming noisier each year, especially since the advent of the auto truck, and particularly disturbing ments are being erected from plans and specifications by Andrew J. Thomas. The style of the new apartments is reminiscent of the architecture of Henry IV of France. The best of materials will be used to produce an exterior of striking interest, in which the effect will be gained by artistry in design rather than by over-elaboration or by unnecessary decoration.

PLOT PLAN OF NEW GARDEN APARTMENTS AT JACKSON HEIGHTS

Andrew J. Thomas, Architect.

The brickwork will yield an unusually beautiful wall surface. This result will be obtained by means of a blend of selected brick, carefully laid with joints proportioned to the brick, thus affording a reddish surface of rich and interesting texture.

The roof slopes are slate, enlivened by hues of green and blue in a harmonious tapestry effect. The bold skyline, broken here and there by gables and towers each crowned with copper finials, weather vanes, or lanterns, and medieval in spirit, will be one of the features of the group.

The entrances have an enframement of limestone, surmounted by balconies of wrought iron, of hand-hammered surface and texture. The doors themselves are oak, hand adzed, stained as if weathered by time, and decorated with hand-finished, wrought iron hardware.

It goes without saying that the garden is the essence of the garden apartment idea, the culmination of the whole block.

E. A. MacDougall, President of the Queensboro Corporation, in describing this operation, said:

in the early morning. In fact, this condition is a positive detriment to health.

"The difficulty has been solved in this new group by giving the bedrooms a splendid location in the rear where most of them have two exposures and a splendid view over a great garden 550 feet long and approximately 80 feet wide at its narrowest point. This is 30 feet wider than the average city street between building lines. By this arrangement the sleeping rooms are cool in summer and free from noise and dust.

"Another feature is the division of the group into isolated buildings with a clear space of 19 feet six inches between, running from street to rear garden. These open spaces occur about every 80 feet on the street front, thus creating together with the garden, a splendid system of cross ventilation through the whole block. This scheme vastly improves the architectural appearance of the group by doing away with the long monotonous institution-like effect of the usual solidly built up city block.

"The effect instead is of isolated buildings, each with a distinct individuality of its own, yielding charm and privacy. Here again is a feature in which the designer has given the apartment the advantage of an individual home and which would also, if generally adopted, wonderfully improve the attractiveness of New York City streets."

Review of Real Estate Market for the Current Week

An Abundance of Large Sales and Buying by Tenants and Investors Gave Strength to a Market That Was Widespread

THIS was a week of varied and important real estate sales and leases. Previous weeks of this year have shown larger single transactions and a larger total number of sales; but, none have shown a larger total number of important sales. The western section of West 34th Street contributed the premier sale of the week when title to the Manhattan Opera House passed to the New York Consistory, Scottish Rite Masons, who will use it as a temple after a few structural changes. Covering a plot 125x197.6, running through to West 35th Street, 175 feet west of Eighth Avenue, this notable structure built by the late Oscar Hammerstein has, since his death, been a subject of litigation between his widow and daughters. Mortgaged for sums making a large total, the building will, ere long, be relieved of all mortgage and other indebtedness by the new owners. The actual sellers of this West Side landmark were Mr. Hammerstein's daughters, who came into possession of the property last June.

Other sales that gave zest to the market were the sale by the R. T. Wilson estate of a large Broadway loft building; some large elevator apartment houses on Washington Heights as well as some vacant plots there, for improvement; the south corner of Union Square East and 16th Street to the ground floor tenant, The Corn Exchange Bank; a West End Avenue corner dwelling, for private school purposes; numerous fine dwellings on both sides of Central Park; a vacant Lexington Avenue corner for improvement with a large apartment house; the Roxborough apartment house, at Broadway and 92d Street, at about $1,500,000; and numerous medium sized mercantile buildings downtown.

It was the most distinctive week in a long time so far as the sale of business properties to tenants and to other investors is concerned. One investor, alone, bought three Pearl Street buildings, while other good parcels on the lower East Side of the city changed hands as well, for occupancy by the buyers. An investor bought a parcel in lower Dey Street. In fact, dealing generally, downtown, kept pace pretty well with dealing north of 59th Street, this week, which is somewhat unusual. There appears to be a keen market appetite across the lower part of town. Some sales were for cash. A fine upper Park Avenue dwelling also found a new owner, while a club purchased a fine residence, east of Fifth Avenue, for club house use.

In Brooklyn Remsen Street, a part of the borough's financial and insurance center, is witnessing an activity in selling that it has not had for a long time. All kinds of property in the borough is in strong demand. In the Bronx the sale of good sized apartment houses formed the bulk of the dealing.

Large leases throughout Manhattan, for long terms, was a pronounced feature of the market. The diversity of character of the properties leased would seem to presage much more dealing of the kind.

PRIVATE REALTY SALES.

THE total number of sales reported, but not recorded in Manhattan this week, was 65 as against 68 last week and 88 a year ago.

The number of sales south of 59th st was 28, as compared with 32 last week and 21 a year ago.

The number of sales north of 59th st was 37 as compared with 35 last week and 67 a year ago.

From the Bronx 26 sales at private contract were reported, as against 36 last week and 24 a year ago.

Statistical tables, including the number of recorded instruments, will be found on page 308.

Death of Albert V. Smith

Albert V. Smith, popularly known to the real estate fraternity as "Bert" Smith, and in charge of the real estate salesroom on Vesey street since 1900, died on Tuesday at his residence, 621A McDonough st, Brooklyn, after an illness of several months. He was born in Jamaica, Queens, 56 years ago, and is survived by a widow, Elizabeth C. Smith, and a daughter, Eugenie V. Smith.

Mr. Smith had always been identified with the real estate business, being connected at various times with The Sun, the New York American as a writer, and the advertising firm of W. W. Sharpe & Co. Funeral services were held at his home on Friday and interment took place today at Greenwood.

Masons Buy Manhattan Opera House

The Manhattan Opera House on the north side of West 34th st, 175 feet west of Eighth av, which was built in 1906 by the late Oscar Hammerstein, has become the property of the New York Consistory, Scottish Rite Masons, which will use the structure as a temple. The price paid was said to be in excess of $600,000. Title to the property was transferred in the offices of the Title Guarantee and Trust Co. on Tuesday.

Few if any changes will be made in the opera house in the immediate future by the new owners. The consistory, which has been renting quarters in the Grand Lodge Masonic Temple, at Sixth av and 23d st, will take possession at once. The auditorium is adapted in its present condition for Scottish Rite ceremonial usage.

Walter W. Griffith, commander in chief of the Scottish Rite, stated that a new marble front will be installed later and that the New York consistory, which has 35,000 members in the State and 9,500 members in the city, will not be obliged to issue bonds to pay for the structural changes. Mr. Griffith also said that the house will not be rented for outside purposes unless it may be for the presentation of symphony concerts or educational lectures.

Last June the opera house was sold to Mrs. Charles Pope and Mrs. Rose Tostevin, daughters of Mr. Hammerstein by his first wife, to satisfy a lien which they had obtained on the property against Mrs. Emma Swift Hammerstein, the impresario's second wife. The daughters paid $145,000 for the property.

When the property was sold the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. held a mortgage for $250,000. Fortune Gallo and Samuel Jacobs held one for $150,000 and the Mutual State Bank held another for $50,000. After title was closed on Tuesday the consistory had satisfied all the mortgages except those held by the Metropolitan Life and the Mutual Bank. The Title Guarantee and Trust Co. insured the consistory against these mortgages as well as against about 5,000 separate mechanics' liens which have been filed on the property since it was built.

Moses Altman and Stoddard & Mark, attorneys, represented the consistory. Jerome A. Strauss, trustee for the owners of the equity, represented the Hammerstein daughters.

Operator Buys Church Property

The Collegiate Reformed Church has obtained from Supreme Court Justice Nathan Bijur permission to sell the property at the northeast corner of Seventh av and 54th st, occupied by the building of the old Grace Reformed Church, to the Fitz Roy Realty Corporation for $300,000.

A cash payment of $15,000 will be made upon the signing of the contract and $285,000 upon passage of title.

The site has a frontage of 100 feet on 54th st and 75 feet on Seventh av. It will be improved with new buildings.

Wilson Estate Sells on Broadway

Tankos, Smith & Co., in conjunction with Pease & Elliman and the Charles F. Noyes Co., sold for the estate of Richard T. Wilson to the Schulte Cigar Stores Co. 384-386 Broadway, adjoining the northeast corner of White st, a 6-story brick loft and store building, on a plot 40.9x175.11, running through to Cortlandt alley. The buyer has been renting it for use as its executive offices.

Chateau Thierry In Deal

Harry Goodstein purchased and immediately resold the Chateau Thierry apartments at the south corner of Riverside dr and 85th st, held at $300,000. The seller of the property, which is a 6-story structure occupying a plot 27.5x96.4x irregular, was Joseph S. Ward, the coal merchant, who bought the parcel last year from Gustave Sandblow, to whom he sold the house 3 years before. After taking the property over from Mr. Ward, Mr. Goodstein disposed of it to Stewart Forsyth of Ferguson, Forsyth & Co., old-time builders.

In part payment for the Chateau Thierry, Mr. Goodstein turned over to Mr. Ward the 2-story building known as the Hargood at the southwest corner of Amsterdam av and 125th st, extending through to Moylan pl, formerly West 126th st. This property was purchased by Mr. Goodstein 2 years ago and was extensively altered. It formerly housed the Seventh District Municipal Court and the Mechanics and Metals National Bank now occupies the corner store. It occupies a plot 173.8 feet on 125th st and 193.9 feet on Moylan pl, with a rear line of 39.5 feet. Byrne & Bowman were the brokers. The entire deal is said to have involved $500,000.

Operators Buy Turin Apartments

Nassoit & Lanning sold for the 331 Central Park West Corporation, representing Joseph W. Doolittle and associates, to Isidor Zimmer and Samuel Reznick the north corner of Central Park West and 94th st, a 12-story elevator apartment house, known as the Turin, on a plot 125x197. It was held at $1,300,000.

The Turin was erected 12 years ago by the Sturtevant Realty Co. on a site acquired from Louis M. and Thomas W. Jones, who later took over the apartment house. It figured in subsequent sales. The house was financed by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. It contains 72 apartments of from 6 to 9 rooms each.

Sells Grand Central Zone Corner

William A. White & Sons sold for Hoggson Bros. to Max Natanson the southwest corner of Lexington av and 40th st, a vacant plot, 39.6x85. The buyer, a well known operator and investor, will improve the site with an 11-story fireproof apartment house, to contain small suites. The first floor will contain physicians' offices. The site is two blocks from Grand Central Terminal. It was held at $150,000.

Another similar improvement in this district is the 14-story apartment house, now nearing completion, at the northeast corner of 38th st and Park av.

Resale of Big Broadway Corner

Nassoit & Lanning resold for Isidor Zimmer and Samuel Reznick to J. A. Mollenhauer the northwest corner of Broadway and 92d st, a 12-story brick and stone apartment house with 7 stores, known as the Roxborough, on a plot 107.4x125. It was held at $1,500,000.

Ben Nevis Apartments Sold

Robertson & Gamie, builders, sold through Nehring Bros. 370-380 Wadsworth av, opposite the northeast corner of 192d st, a 6-story elevator apartment house, known as the Ben Nevis, on a plot 113.2x98x130. It is on the bend of the avenue. It has 42 apartments and was held at $275,000. It commands an unobstructed view of the Pallsades and Dyckman Valley.

Big Deal in Harlem Flats

Meister Builders, Inc., bought from the Hurtra Realty Corporation 201-203 West 117th st, 144-148 St. Nicholas av and 1940-1946 Seventh av, comprising the 117th st block front between the two avenues, two 7-sty elevator apartment houses with stores, and known as the Hamptons, on a plot fronting 99.9 feet on the street, 118.5 feet on St. Nicholas av and 100.11 feet on Seventh av, with a rear width of 161.8½ feet. The structures contain a total of 42 apartments and 10 stores. They were held at $500,000. M. Aronson and B. Harris were the brokers.

Theatre Buys Leasehold

From Mary A. Cassidy the Selwyn Realty Corporation has acquired the fee to the land which it has held under lease at the 42d st entrance to the Selwyn Theatre. The site just acquired is assessed by the city at $230,000. The structure which occupies the site is a continuation of the main theatre, a 3-sty building, at 240 to 248 West 43d st, on a plot 96.8x100.

In a deal closed about 5 years ago the Selwyns secured through purchase and lease the plot on 43d st as well as the holdings at 215 to 231 West 42d st. On the combined site they built the Selwyn, Apollo and Times Square theatres, which were completed last fall. The 42d st side of the plot adjoins the Lyric and Republic theatres.

A loan of $500,000 has also been obtained by the Selwyn interests from the New York Title and Mortgage Co. on the Selwyn Theatre. The loan runs for 5 years and bears interest at the rate of 6 per cent.

Estate Sells West Broadway Corner

William A. White & Sons sold for the estate of Margaret J. P. Graves to Joseph L. Cohen, of the Standard Supply Co., 158 to 166 West Broadway, southwest corner of Worth st, two 5-sty brick tenement houses and one 4-sty brick tenement house, all with stores, on a plot 80x51. A modern building will be erected on the plot by the new owner.

J. G. Blaine Club Buys Home

The James G. Blaine Republican Club purchased the 4-sty building, 23.10x73.8, at 236 East Broadway, which it has occupied for more than 20 years. The property was owned by the Broad Division Realities Co., H. J. Underhill, president. Charles R. Faruolo was the broker.

Fine House Sold for Occupancy

Mrs. Gladys B. Thayer sold to George Moffett her new 5-sty American basement residence, 22x100.5, at 132 East 71st st, which was recently built for her from plans by Frederick Sterner. The buyer is a well known New Yorker, who will occupy the property. The house has an electric elevator, several enclosed sleeping porches and there is a formal garden in the rear. It was held at $135,000. Douglas L. Elliman & Co. were the brokers. This is the third house sold in this block between Park and Lexington avs. The others were 130 and 128.

Fine Park Avenue House Bought

Douglas L. Elliman & Co. sold for Mrs. Linley R. Williams, of Paris, France, her former residence here, at 882-884 Park av, a 5-sty American basement dwelling, on a plot 29.2x75, between 78th and 79th sts.

This house, which is a combination of two small houses made by the former owner, Mrs. Edith Wharton, the novelist, was held at $90,000. It has been purchased for occupancy by Charles E. Curtis, a New York banker.

Bank Buys Union Square Corner

The Corn Exchange Bank purchased the 6-sty building at the south corner of Union Square East and 16th st, from Edward C. Parish. The property, which occupies a plot 26x125, is partially occupied by the bank. Geo. R. Read & Co. were the brokers. The bank had previously leased the property for its Union Square branch.

Former Ambassador Sells House

Joseph E. Willard, formerly Ambassador to Spain, sold through Ruland & Benjamin and Harris, Vought & Co. 151 East 74th st, adjoining the northeast corner of Lexington av, a 4-sty and basement stone dwelling, on a lot 18.6x102.2. The buyer will remodel the structure.

Mr. Willard has bought a home in the new Sutton pl social colony on the upper East Side.

School Buys West End Avenue Corner

F. Arthur Clawson, headmaster and owner of the Columbia Preparatory School, purchased the 5-sty dwelling, on a lot 23x80, at the southwest corner of West End av and 89th st, formerly occupied by the Hamilton Institute for Boys, from Mrs. C. F. Smith. Bryan L. Kennelly was to have sold the property at auction on March 1. It will be remodeled for the new owner, and in addition the school will continue to use its present building at the northwest corner of West End av and 88th st as a girls' dormitory.

Sell Big Heights Apartments

The Rocklyffe and Highmount apartments at the southeast corner of Broadway and 141st st have been purchased by Charles Galewski from the Charles Development Corporation, which valued them at $425,000. They are 6 and 7 stories in height, with elevators, and the plot measures 10 feet on Broadway and 120 feet on 141st st. The properties yield an annual rental of $60,000. The brokers in the deal were Edward Crosby & Co. and Joseph Reiss.

Buy Tiemann Hall Apartments

Morris Suslow sold for a client to John Kapzman 61-69 Tiemann pl, a 6-sty and basement brick and stone elevator apartment house, known as Tiemann Hall, on a plot 100x152.8x irregular, adjoining the northeast corner of Riverside dr. The property was formerly known as 619-625 West 127th st. It was held at $400,000. The building is named for Daniel F. Tiemann, an early mayor of New York, who had his country seat on the site.

Closing of a Notable Sale

Deeds were recorded in the County Register's office on March 7 which put the finishing touches on a transaction through which the Fox Film Realty Corporation assumes full ownership of the block front on the east side of Tenth av, between 55th and 56th sts, on which stands the building housing the executive offices and the studios of the Fox Film Corporation. The transfer also includes the building itself, which the realty company has leased to the film corporation at an annual rental of $200,000, and several adjoining parcels on the side streets.

The sellers of the property are the Balmore Realty Co. There are mortgages aggregating $274,500 on the properties conveyed, which include the northeast corner of 55th st, the southeast corner of 56th st, and 436 to 442 West 56th st.

At the same time there was also recorded a 25-year loan on the property by the American Bond and Mortgage Co., which will issue bonds against the lien. The Fox Film Realty Corporation was represented in the deal by Alexander F. Kempner and Saul G. Rogers. Robert Beck represented the American Bond and Mortgage Co.

Sales of Dyckman Corners

David Stewart sold for Minturn Post Collins the plot, 50x100, at the southwest corner of Sherman av and Academy st to the L. & B. Construction Co., which will erect apartment houses with stores. The plot was held at $25,000.

The newly formed Halpern & Rappaport Realty Co., with M. Halpern and A. Rappaport as directors, purchased the vacant plot, 50x100, at the northwest corner of Broadway and 192d st for improvement with two 2-family houses. The new company is represented by Emanuel I. Silverstein, attorney.

Sale in the Battery Zone

Joseph P. Day, in conjunction with William A. White & Sons, sold for a client to Charles I. Taylor 10-12 Stone st through to 27-29 Bridge st, the group being two 5-sty brick buildings on Stone st, on a plot 43.3x46 and two 5-sty brick buildings on Bridge st, on a plot 36.8x58.2x irregular, between Whitehall and Broad sts.

The property was held at about $225,000 and the purchase price was approximately this figure. One-half block to the west is the subway station at Whitehall and Bridge sts. The buildings on this plot were erected in 1847.

REAL ESTATE NOTES.

ADAMS & CO. have moved to the second floor in 170 Fifth av, where they will have greater facilities for their growing business and a larger renting force. The firm specializes in the management and rental of business property in the district between Canal and 42d sts.

GEORGE H. CORTH, formerly with Frederick Fox & Co., Inc., has embarked in the real estate business on his own account, with offices in the Canadian Pacific building, 342 Madison av. Mr. Corth will specialize in the management of property and also place fire insurance. He has had 8 years of practical managerial experience in New York.

CROSS & BROWN CO. leased for the Railroad Co-operative Building and Loan Association to the Lexington Radio & Electric Co., Inc., the store and basement at 439 Lexington av, and not 39 Lexington av, as was reported.

DOUGLAS L. ELLIMAN & CO., INC., announce that Waldo Smith and Charles D. Holt are now associated with them in their commercial properties department. Mr. Smith was formerly in the office of Slawson & Hobbs and Mr. Holt with Huberth & Huberth.

SAGAMORE LAND CO., representing William Woodward, is the buyer of the 6-sty apartment house and the adjoining dwelling at the southeast corner of Madison av and 79th st, sold recently.

Brown in a West Side Deal

Frederick Brown, operator, who is on his way to California, where he will spend a six weeks' vacation, has closed an important deal by wire from New Orleans and El Paso involving the resale of the 12-sty loft building 151 to 155 West 25th st, on a plot 59.4x98.9, between Sixth and Seventh avs, which returns a rental of $54,000 a year. The buyer is an investing client of George A. Chivvis.

In part payment Mr. Brown takes the 2½-sty dwelling 2214 University av, near 181st st, on a plot 45x115, extending through to Aqueduct av, and held free and clear; also the 5-sty brick apartment house 708 West End av, on lot 20x100, near 92d st. Mr. Brown bought the loft recently from Wiesen & Goldstein. He has resold both of these parcels.

Adelphi Theatre in New Hands

J. Adolph Mollenhauer, sugar merchant, sold the Adelphi Theatre and adjoining taxpayer at the Southwest corner of Broadway and 89th st to the 2409 Broadway Corporation, organized recently by Morrison & Schiff, attorneys, with a capital of $75,000. The property fronts 100.3 feet on Broadway and 132 feet on 89th st. The theatre is under lease for a long term of years. Mr. Mollenhauer bought the properties 4 years ago as an investment from Klein & Jackson in an exchange which involved a total of $1,000,000.

The 89th st and Broadway property was originally leased from the Cruikshank family for 21 years by Klein & Jackson, with an option of purchase, which was exercised, and they resold the premises to the Oceanic Investing Co., taking back a lease on the ground on a net rental term. They then improved the plot with the theatre and business building, subleasing the business building to one tenant at a net rental, and the theatre to Springer & Hamburger also on a net lease. In November, 1916, Klein & Jackson purchased the fee of the premises from the Oceanic Investing Co. in an exchange for 4 East 43d st. The sale by Mr. Mollenhauer has been recorded.

Saxonia Apartments Sold

J. S. Maxwell sold for James Madden to Christian L. A. Gerken the 6-sty elevator apartment house with 7 stores, known as the Saxonia, at 601 West 136th st, northwest corner of Broadway, on a plot 100x99.11. The property has a total rent roll of $50,000 a year and was held at $325,000. It had not been sold since it was built in 1908.

Apartments for Car Barn Site

Justice Mayer of the United States District Court has signed an order confirming the recent auction sale by Joseph P. Day of the Madison av car barn property of the New York Railways Co. to M. Turner Brockway for $925,000.

J. Fluegelman, owner of the Hotel Hamilton, who is understood to be interested in the company for which Mr. Brockway bid, is having plans prepared by Schwartz & Gross for a 15-sty apartment house to cover the entire site, 204x220, comprising the entire westerly block front on Madison av from 85th to 86th st.

Sells Old Family Holding

Edward N. Crosby & Co., with Jacob & Emil Leitner, Inc., sold for Mrs. Alfred Duane Pell and others 53 East Broadway, a 4-sty and basement brick business building, 25x95, to a client, who will make extensive alterations. This is a part of the Hendrick Rutgers farm and has been in the Rutgers-Crosby families for more than 200 years.

Big Bronx Corner Sold

Ardsmore Estates sold 1048-1056 Sheridan av, northeast corner of 165th st, three 5-sty and basement brick apartment houses, on a plot 129x100. They were held at $320,000.

Operators Resell Brooklyn Apartments

Meister Builders, Inc., resold to a client of Day & Day the four 5-sty apartment houses, accommodating 40 families, at 34 Plaza st, 703-707 Vanderbilt av, and 25 Sterling pl, Brooklyn, facing Prospect Park Plaza. In payment the company took the vacant plot, 83.7x89.5x irregular, at the junction of University av and 167th st, Bronx.

Natanson Goes Uptown

Max N. Natanson, whose offices were long at 170 Broadway, has removed to the large suite he recently leased in the Guaranty Trust building, 522 Fifth av, southwest corner of 44th st.

College Buys on Staten Island

The old Vanderbilt property on Grymes Hill, St. George, S. I., has been sold by the trustees of Oberlin College to the Wagner College, which came to Staten Island a few years ago from Rochester, N. Y.

The Vanderbilt homestead, which was destroyed by fire a number of years ago, was one of the old landmarks and was the home of "Capt. Jake Vanderbilt," the brother of Commodore Vanderbilt, and one of the leading and at the same time picturesque characters on Staten Island.

The home overlooked the famous Clove Valley, which during the middle and latter part of the 19th century was one of the social centers on Staten Island. Across the Clove and plainly visible from the Vanderbilt house, through a lane which had been cut in the intervening forest, was Clove Hill, the home of Mrs. La Bau, a sister of Commodore and Capt. Vanderbilt, whose daughter was first Mrs. De Blois and afterward became the wife of Dr. Jose Aymar.

Shipyard Changes Hands

A deed filed at Riverhead, L. I., shows that the New York Harbor Dry Dock Corporation has sold the shipyard in Port Jefferson to the Port Jefferson Shipyard Corporation for $168,000. It was this yard that was taken over by the Government during the war, where hundreds of thousands of dollars were spent, where two or three steel cargo vessels were built, and which was later sold by the Shipping Board to the New York Harbor Dry Dock Corporation, which has since, however, made but little use of it.

For a century this shipyard was owned by the Bayles family, the last survivor of which, James E. Bayles, sold the property to the Shipping Board.

During the Bayles regime the yard was famous for its output of merchantmen and fine yachts as well as for its repair work.

MORTGAGE LOANS

Charles Galewski obtained from the Emigrant Industrial Savings Bank a first mortgage loan of $165,000 at 6 per cent for a term of 5 years on the 6-sty elevator apartment house 570 West 156th st.

Columbia Mortgage Co. loaned to the Goodwin Terrace Realty Corporation $235,000 on first mortgage on the 5-sty apartment house in course of construction at the northwest corner of 230th st and Goodwin Terrace, West Bronx.

Ernest T. Bower placed the following loans: $40,000 on the southeast corner of Melrose av and 156th st, for the E. D. Farrell estate; $8,000 on 12 West 128th st, for Mrs. Margaret Gibbons; and $20,000 on 20 Clinton st, for the S. & S. Realty Co.

A mortgage loan of $2,500,000 has been made on the Liggett building, northeast corner of 42d st and Madison av. It was underwritten

Better Light, Better Homes

Artificial light, in one form or another, has been a necessity of mankind's from the beginning of time. The flaming fagot of primitive man gave illumination. So did the candle, oil lamp and countless other means of lighting that followed. But none of these provided more than a visibility during darkness.

With the advent of the incandescent lamp and the utilization of electricity's flexibility, illumination became more than a bare necessity. Its proper application made houses, homes.

The development of scientifically correct lighting fixtures and artistic portable lamps has opened an unlimited field for decorative and comfort possibilities in home lighting. Harmful glares and deep shadows have been eliminated. Coziness and soft restfulness have taken their place. Correct distribution and proper diffusion of light are the influences that have brought about this difference.

Redecorate your home with light. A look around each room tonight may suggest inexpensive corrections in your lighting equipment that will not only produce beauty, artistry and refinement of environment, but will provide a sense of solid comfort and complete personal satisfaction as well.

Our representatives or those of any lighting fixture or electrical dealer's store will be glad to render advice and assistance in any home lighting improvements you may wish to make.

Chanler at an aggregate rental of approximately $350,000. The lessee, the Mollian Realty Corporation, will reimprove the property with a modern tenement house with stores.

Ninth Avenue Corners Leased

Dwight, Archibald & Perry, Inc., leased for a term of 15 years for the Thomas Lynch estate the northwest corner of 24th st and Ninth av, a 6-sty apartment house, 50x98.9, at a net rental. The lessee will hold the property for investment.

A 55-year lease, calling for an annual net rental of from $6,000 to $10,500, has been made by Jane F. Stokes and others to John N. Levas of the coalyard property at 432 and 434 Ninth av, northeast corner of 34th st, a plot 49.4½x 58.6.

Historic Corner Under Lease

The six 3-sty brick flats with stores, at 114 to 124 Third av, southwest corner of 14th st, on a plot 106.8½x75, part of the old farm of Petrus G. Stuyvesant, first Governor of New York under Dutch rule, and held by his descendants more than 200 years, have been leased to the D. A. Schulte Co. for a long term of years at an aggregate rental of about $800,000. The lease was made by the Stuyvesant estate. William Cruikshank's Sons were the brokers. Possession will be given May 1. The lease calls for an annual net rental of from $25,000 to $35,000. The lease embraces the entire block front excepting 3 parcels.

Park Theatre Sub-Leased

The Park Theatre on Columbus Circle has been subleased for a long term by Minsky Bros., operators of the National Winter Garden on the lower East Side. John Cort, who leased the property recently from the Flack estate, is the lessee. The aggregate rental will amount to about $1,185,800. Minsky Bros. will use the well known old house for presenting their burlesque productions. The lessees will rename the house the Park Music Hall when they get possession in September.

The deal is significant because it marks the first appearance in recent years of East Side burlesque producers along Broadway. The new lessees have been notably successful in their operation of the National Winter Garden with this type of amusement.

Big Exchange House Will Move

The Trinity Buildings Corporation leased, approximately, 5,000 square feet of office space on the 14th floor of the Trinity building, 111 Broadway, to the Louchheim-Minton Co., members of the New York Stock Exchange, for a term of years, at an aggregate rental of $120,000, from May 1.

New York Building Congress to Develop Apprentices

Committee on Apprenticeship, Representing Employers, Labor and Related Interests, Organized With Power to Analyze Needs and Foster Early Constructive Action

AMONG the various constructive measures being undertaken by the New York Building Congress for the up-building of the construction industry there is nothing of greater importance or that will be of more lasting benefit to the industry than its effort to stimulate interest in the revival of the apprentice system in the trades affiliated with the industry.

A special committee was appointed to investigate into the need for additional apprentices in the building trades and upon its report the Congress inaugurated a movement having for its object a revival of the apprenticeship system, along with the teaching of American ideals of citizenship. Building trades employers and representatives of organized labor have materially encouraged this movement, feeling that in this manner the industry can be served to the best advantage, and in the Committee on Apprenticeship the Congress has appointed those representing all phases of the construction industry who are best equipped for this exacting service.

The Committee on Apprenticeship was established by the New York Building Congress at a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Congress held January 10, 1922, in response to the demand on the part of the building industry, not to create unnecessary numbers of journeymen mechanics, but rather to develop men better trained in their craft and in citizenship than present day trade conditions provide or permit.

The membership of the Committee on Apprenticeship is composed of Alexander M. Bing, real estate; Burt L. Fenner, architect; Clarence Stein, architect; Prof. S. O. Miller, structural engineer, Columbia University; Charles A. Fuller, consulting engineer; W. G. Luce, contractor; Wm. H. McKiever, heating engineer; Allan Coggeshall, electrical contractor; S. J. Murphy, plumbing contractor; Ronald Taylor, cement flooring contractor; M. F. Westergren, sheet metal contractor; Thomas B. Clark, Roswell D. Tompkins, John Halkett and Richard Pattison, representing the Building Trades' Council; Michael Calloran, Plasters' Union; E. L. Barnard, lumber dealer; and Dr. J. L. Elliott, Hudson Guild; Peter Brady, Education Committee, New York State Federation of Labor; Morris E. Siegal, director, New York Continuation Schools; John Munholland, chairman, New York City Advisory Board of Vocational Education; Fred Moran, executive secretary, New York City Advisory Board on Vocational Education; and W. P. Tienken, editorial staff of the Record and Guide, representing the related interests.

The personnel of this committee is designed to be associate in its interests and control, composed as it is of persons representing Investment, Design, Construction, Labor, Material Supply, and Related Interests.

The committee was established, as expressed by Stephen F. Voorhees, president of the New York Building Congress, for the purpose of fostering the development of apprenticeship in the building trades, not by dictation, but by acting in an advisory capacity with similar committees from the various interests represented in the Congress.

The committee is designed to bring together the knowledge, experience and judgment of employers, labor and related interests, for the advancement of mechanical skill in the building industry; to provide an opportunity for young men to learn the trades involved therein; and to so build up the opportunities offered by the building trades that they will attract young men in America who are not ordinarily interested.

The committee proposes to co-operate with all other committees, organizations and movements of trade, labor or educational interest, by bringing their activities together and overcoming the indifference or inertia that has existed and which has done so much to handicap if not to frustrate the best interests of training in the building trades.

The administration is vested actively in an Executive Committee of the General Committee on Apprenticeship, subject to the control and policies adopted by the General Committee.

The Executive Apprenticeship Committee is composed of equal associate direction representing employers, labor and related interests. The personnel of this committee is as follows: Burt L. Fenner, chairman; Clarence S. Stein, secretary; Ronald Taylor, Roswell D. Tompkins, Dr. John L. Elliott, M. F. Westergren and John Halkett.

The service of this committee is rendered through the apprenticeship headquarters office which is in charge of a specialist on apprenticeship, Frank L. Glynn, who is employed by the Congress as Educational Advisor. The temporary headquarters of this committee are located in the offices of Alexander M. Bing, 587 Fifth avenue, and office hours will be maintained from nine to ten o'clock in the morning and four to five o'clock in the afternoon, or otherwise by appointment.

The committee will provide all information to other similar committees or organizations that may be of value to facilitate the general development of apprenticeship in the building trades, and the members of the committee will meet with such other committees or organizations, as requested for the purpose of fostering or stimulating the development of apprenticeship.

Organization and Operation

Whereas, There already exists in all divisions of the Building Trades Joint Trade Boards, consisting of employer and labor representatives, for the regulation of policies and settlement of adjustments in relation to trade agreements, and

Whereas, The apprenticeship problem is so closely interwoven with the activities of the Joint Trade Board, it is Recommended: That the establishment, operation and control and regulation of standards and educational work for the apprenticeship in any trade be determined by the Joint Board of that craft unless the Joint Board establishes a special Apprenticeship Committee for that purpose, and it is further

Recommended: That the educational work be under the immediate direction of the Joint Trade Boards or Special Apprenticeships Committees, but in either case educational experts should act with such board or committee.

Suggested Work for Joint Boards or Apprenticeship Committees

In order to foster the fullest development, it is recommended that each Joint Trade Board or Apprenticeship Committee adopt rules to cover the following:

1. Enrollment of apprentices with the Joint Trade Board or Special Apprenticeship Committee.
2. Identification of apprentices in the trade or at work.
3. Probationary period.
4. Maximum and minimum age for apprenticeship.
5. Term of apprenticeship.
6. Division of apprenticeship into periods for advancement.
7. Periodic examination of apprentices.
8. Granting of advanced credit to apprentices for previous experience in the trade.
9. Transfer system for interchange of employment.
10. Apprentice wage by periods:
 - At work.
 - In school.
11. Overtime limits.

February Commitments Predict Great Building Revival

Totals for Twenty-Seven Northeastern States, Tabulated by F. W. Dodge Company, Indicate 1922 Will Be Historic Period in Construction Industry

FEBRUARY construction activity was 73% greater in volume than it was in the corresponding month of last year, according to the F. W. Dodge Company. The total amount of contracts awarded last month in the 27 Northeastern States of the country amounted to $177,365,000, an increase of 7% over January, and the second largest February total in the Dodge Company's record.

A significant feature of the February construction record is the increase in business buildings over January. The increase in square feet of space contracted for was 30%, and the increase in total cost was 65%. February business buildings amounted to $39,180,000, or 22% of the month's total, an unusually high percentage for this class, which was exceeded only by residential building, amounting to $75,703,000, amounting to $21,193,000, or 12% of the total.

The accumulated volume of construction since the first of the year has been 60% greater than in the first two months of last year. Contemplated new work reported in the first two months has amounted to over eight hundred million dollars, more than double the amount of work placed under contract in the same period.

Contracts awarded in the New England States during February amounted to $15,623,000. This was more than double the amount of February of last year, and only 2% under January of this year. It is the second largest February total on record for this district. Among the items included in the February, 1922, total were the following: $7,115,000, or 45%, for business buildings; $4,463,000, or 29%, for residential buildings; $1,599,000, or 10%, for educational buildings; $1,041,000, or 4%, for industrial buildings.

The volume of contemplated new work reported continues large, the amount in February having been $43,747,000, or nearly three times the amount of work actually started.

February building contracts in New York State and Northern

New Jersey amounted to $59,328,000, the largest recorded February total for the district. This figure shows an increase of 9% over that for the previous month and is two and a half times the figure for February, 1921.

The February, 1922, total included $38,374,000, or 65%, for residential buildings; $10,117,000, or 17%, for business buildings; and $2,851,000, or 5%, for industrial buildings. Contemplated new work reported during the month amounted to $82,133,000.

Total building contracts awarded in New York City (five boroughs) during the month of February amounted to $37,718,500. This was an increase of 13% over the January figure and was nearly two and a half times the figure for February of last year. Residential building, which showed a slight increase in February over the previous month, amounted to $27,747,300, or 73% of the total construction. Business buildings in February amounted to $7,751,000, an increase of 75% over the amount for January.

February building contracts in the Middle Atlantic States (Eastern Pennsylvania, Southern New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, District of Columbia, and the Carolinas) amounted to $27,387,000, an increase of 13% over January and of 67% over the corresponding month of last year.

Included in the February total were: $12,527,000, or 46%, for residential buildings; $3,987,000, or 15%, for business buildings; $3,590,000, or 13%, for public work and utilities; and $3,268,000, or 12%, for hospitals and institutions.

Contemplated new work reported during the month amounted to $62,043,000, more than double the amount of contracts awarded.

Contracts awarded during February in Western Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Ohio, Kentucky and Tennessee amounted to $24,881,000. Although this is 4% under the January figure, it is 28% ahead of the figure for February, 1921. This February total for this district was exceeded only once before.

12. Hours per week:

At work.
In school.

13. Determination of time for school attendance.

14. Enforcement of school attendance:

By employers.
By unions.

15. Apprentice fees.

16. Determine upon classification of apprenticeship for the trades within the jurisdiction of the Joint Trade Board or Apprenticeship Committee.

17. Statement of trade processes to be taught apprentices in each such classification:

At work.
In school.

Note: The apprentice must have the opportunity provided for him to obtain all-around experience while he is at work.

18. Approve courses of study to be taught apprentices in school instruction, including technical studies related to the trade in which they are employed and training for citizenship.

19. Supervision of apprentice:

At work.
In school.

20. Periodic reports on apprentices to Joint Trade Board:

From work.
From school.

21. Regulation of adjustments:

For employer.
For apprentice.

22. Minimum ratio of apprentices to journeymen.

23. Approval of employer, indicating that his work is sufficiently varied and equipment sufficiently complete to give the apprentice the required diversity of trade experience to cover the trade classification. His ability to provide continuous employment to the apprentices during his apprenticeship period subject to conditions not under control.

24. Special regulations as may be necessary.

25. Agreement by apprentice to abide by rules established.

26. Granting of diploma upon termination of apprenticeship.

27. The definite provision of classes in school for the instruction of apprentices.

Development and Management

Whereas, There should be a directing force for the development and management of the apprenticeship in all trades as organized and operated through many Joint Boards or Apprenticeship Committees, and

Whereas, The Building Trades Employers' Association and the Building Trades Unions are conversant with the mutual problems and needs of the building trades, be it

Resolved: That we recommend the establishment of a permanent General Joint Apprenticeship Committee of Development and Management, composed of equal representation from the Building Trades Employers' Association and other employers' associations in the building trades and the Building Trades Unions, inclusive of the Building Trades Council, the Plasterers' Union and the Bricklayers' Union, and further, be it

Recommended: That this General Joint Committee have authority and necessary funds, financed equally and jointly by the employers and unions, for the employment of full time assistants who shall manage and develop the apprenticeship program.

Continuous Employment of Apprentices

Whereas, There are seasonal unemployment conditions to be met in the development of apprenticeship for the building industry, and

Whereas, The entire success of the apprenticeship in the building trades is based on the continuous employment and guidance of the apprentice, and

Whereas, The seasonal unemployment periods of the trade may result in attracting the apprentice to the opportunities of other fields of employment and so divert him from his chosen trade pursuit, be it

Recommended: That the fundamental duty and responsibility of providing continuous employment for regularly enrolled apprentices shall rest with the General or the Joint Trade Boards, or Apprenticeship Committees.

In the matter of Related Technical Schooling and Training in Citizenship, the report declares that inasmuch as the public schools are designed and equipped to give the necessary part-time instructions to apprentices it should be the purpose of the Joint Trade Board or Apprenticeship Committee in each trade or craft to endeavor to enter into partnership with the public continuation school system in these undertakings, and wherever possible to have the work done in co-operation with the public continuation schools, but where such co-operation cannot be obtained, the trades or crafts should use other existing facilities or open their own schools in connection with educators of their own choice.

Housing Construction Dominates Local Building Program

Figures Tabulated By F. W. Dodge Company Shows Steady Gain in Projected Residential Work on Schedule for Coming Season

IN anticipation of the extension of the tax exemption laws for another year speculative builders are making active preparations for an unusually heavy program of residential construction during the coming summer season. Already there has been a large amount of this work started and architects are working steadily on plans for projects that will mature just as soon as it is definitely known what action the Legislature will take. The building statistics for the ninth week of this year indicate strongly the manner in which speculative building will dominate the situation during the coming months as the current reports of contracts awarded and proposed construction all show this type of building to be far in excess of the combined totals of all other kinds in the local territory.

Figures tabulated by the F. W. Dodge Company, for the territory including all of New York State and New Jersey, north of Trenton, show that during the week of February 25 to March 3, inclusive, plans were reported for 675 projects at an estimated total cost of $29,904,100. During the same week 360 contracts were announced as awarded and their total value was approximately $19,920,400.

Included in the list of newly proposed operations in this territory were 77 business buildings such as stores, offices, lofts, commercial garages, etc., $2,456,500; 7 educational buildings, $405,000; 3 hospitals and institutions, $208,000; 16 factory and industrial operations, $436,000; 1 public building, $500,000; 32 public works and public utilities, $6,843,100; 8 religious and memorial structures, $593,500; 525 residential operations including apartments, flats and tenements and one and two-family dwellings, $18,159,000 and 6 social and recreational projects, $303,000.

Among the 360 operations for which contracts were reported during the ninth week of 1922 there were 51 business and commercial buildings, $2,627,500; 8 educational projects, $1,200,000; 3 hospitals and institutions, $605,000; 11 factory and industrial operations, $233,000; 2 public buildings, $300,000; 10 public works and public utilities, $910,000; 5 religious and memorial structures, $552,000; 264 residential projects of various types, $12,695,100 and 6 social and recreational projects, $797,000.

PERSONAL AND TRADE NOTES.

W. E. Code, Hunterspoint Lumber & Supply Co., Long Island City, is spending the month in the South on a combined business and vacation trip.

Homestead Lumber and Manufacturing Co., retail dealers in lumber and trim, Utica avenue, near Kings Highway Brooklyn, announces that the business has lately been reorganized and will continue at the same address.

Prudential Iron Works, now located at 633 Concord avenue, the Bronx, will shortly commence the construction of a new plant, 75x100 feet, in the north side of 140th street, adjoining the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. tracks.

J. S. Durben, architect, announces the removal of his offices from 80 Maiden lane, Manhattan, to 214 Ross street, Brooklyn. He desires samples, catalogues and price lists of building materials and specialties.

F. O. Hoyt, formerly a member of the sales staff of the New York office of the Standard Underground Cable Company, has been appointed manager of the Philadelphia sales department, having charge of the Eastern Pennsylvania, Southern New Jersey and Delaware territories.

Leonard Kebler, president of the Ward Leonard Electric Company, Mt. Vernon, N. Y., recently sailed for a combined business and pleasure trip to Europe. He will visit the Riviera, Italy, Egypt, France, Switzerland and the British Isles, and expects to be gone about three months.

Albert Oliver & Son, Inc., announce that they are now located in their new offices at 711-717 East 140th street, where they will continue the distribution of the American Steel & Wire Company's triangle mesh concrete reinforcement and other wire specialties for fireproof building construction.

N. Hutkoff & Co., Inc., one of the oldest glass concerns in the city, announce that they have added a glazing department to their business, heretofore specializing in high grade mirrors. The officials of this firm assure the trade that the service rendered in the new department will be equal to that which characterized their business for the past sixty years.

Henry D. Sears, 80 Boylston street, Boston, general sales agent of the Weber Electric Company, Schenectady, N. Y., manufacturer of electric wiring devices, announces the openings of a sales office at 342 Madison avenue, New York City, to cover the Metropolitan district. The new office will be under the management of Henry E. Nickerson, who for the past eleven years has been New England representative of the company.

Yale & Towne Manufacturing Company, Stamford, Conn., contemplates the establishment of a branch manufacturing plant in the neighborhood of Potsdam, Germany, in the near future.

Society of Mechanics and Tradesmen.

E. L. Hoffman, general secretary of the General Society of Mechanics and Tradesmen, has just made public the one hundred and thirty-sixth annual report of this organization. The society, which conducts the Mechanics' Institute, 16-24 West Forty-fourth street, reports an enrollment in 1921-22 of 1,577 students who are receiving free instruction in architectural and mechanical drafting, freehand drawing, mathematics, industrial electricity and physics. The report shows a steady gain in interest in the work of this society on the part of the student body and is an evidence of splendid support and co-operation by those responsible for its being.

Elevator Manufacturer Expands Facilities

The American Machine & Foundry Company has acquired a substantial interest in the Gurney Elevator Company, and it is understood that hereafter Gurney Elevators will be manufactured in the plant of the American Machine & Foundry Company, in Brooklyn, in addition to the Gurney Elevator Company's plant at Honesdale, Pennsylvania.

This arrangement was brought about to provide increased manufacturing facilities for the rapidly growing business of the Gurney Elevator Company, partly due to their entrance into the field of high-speed gearless elevators.

With these added facilities the Gurney Elevator Company will have the largest elevator manufacturing plant in the world.

Frederick Brown to Build Taxpayer.

Maximilian Zipkes, architect, has been commissioned to prepare plans for a one-story taxpayer to contain ten stores, on the triangular plot bounded by Lafayette, Pearl and Elm streets. This plot is in close proximity to the Court House site and the projected Federal Buildings. It is the intention of the owner to further improve this plot in the near future by the erection of an eighteen or twenty-story office building. The construction of the taxpayer is to proceed immediately and will cost approximately $45,000.

TRADE AND TECHNICAL SOCIETY EVENTS.

Building Managers' and Owners' Association of New York will hold its regular monthly dinner meeting at the Advertising Club, 47 East 25th street, Tuesday evening, March 14. The speaker of the evening will be Charles Brady, Superintendent, Manhattan Bureau of Buildings.

New York State Association of Master Plumbers will hold its annual convention at the Onondaga Hotel, Syracuse, March 21 and 22 inclusive.

American Society of Mechanical Engineers will hold its annual spring meeting at Atlanta, Ga., May 8 to 11 inclusive.

American Society for Testing Materials will hold its twenty-fifth annual meeting at the Chalfonte-Haddon Hall Hotel, Atlantic City, June 26 to July 1, inclusive.

American Lumber Congress is scheduled to hold its fourth annual meeting in Chicago, April 6 and 7, inclusive. Interesting programs are being prepared for all sessions of this convention.

American Iron, Steel and Heavy Hardware Association will hold its annual convention in Washington, D. C., May 23 to 25 inclusive. Headquarters will be located at the Hotel Washington. Secretary, A. H. Chamberlain, 1328 Broadway.

National Metal Trades Association will hold its annual convention at the Hotel Astor, April 17 to 20 inclusive. The program for this meeting provides for the executive committee meeting, a meeting of the local branch secretaries and a dinner of the local branch secretaries will be held on Monday. There will also be included a meeting of the administrative council and the so-called alumni dinner on Tuesday with the regular convention sessions on Wednesday and Thursday. The annual banquet of the association will be held Wednesday evening.

New York Building Superintendents' Association will hold a smoker in the east ballroom of the Hotel Commodore Saturday evening, April 8. M. F. Godfrey is chairman of the committee in charge of the program for this event, and he promises a most interesting program. Members are urged to keep this date in mind or they will miss a gathering worth attending.

National Conference of Construction Industries will be held in the Drake Hotel, Chicago, April 3 to 5, inclusive. Further details, with program for all sessions, will be published later.

CURRENT BUILDING OPERATIONS

LOCAL building interests are practically marking time pending action of the Legislature on the bills presented by the Lockwood Committee. These bills, enacted into law, will materially affect the building industry in a variety of ways and until it is definitely known what to expect the building fraternity will continue to hold off.

Speculative builders, with complete confidence that exemption from taxation will be continued for at least another year, are making preparations for a gigantic program of apartment house construction. All boroughs of the city will be affected by this movement and already there is heard complaints of a shortage of men and materials essential to this work. Many predictions are being made that the coming season's work will be seriously curtailed by a scarcity of materials, along with steadily advancing prices, and a continuation of extortionate wages to labor. If this occurs, construction costs, for residential work particularly, will remain at their prevailing high levels and rentals will not come down for another year at least.

At present the local building material markets are turning away business because of the scarcity of common brick, but advices from manufacturers indicate that within the next week or ten days there will be adequate brick on hand to supply all immediate demands. Material prices are generally firm and no changes of importance are pending.

Common Brick—Demand for common brick is far in excess of the supply at present and considerable construction is being held up in this city owing to the scarcity of this commodity. The yards of the dealers are entirely cleaned out and there is no brick available in the wholesale market. Manufacturers, however, report that the river is again open to navigation as far north as Newburgh and that within the next few days a sufficient quantity of common brick will arrive to fill all immediate requirements. Six barge loads arrived during the week from up-river and they were immediately snapped up by dealers who were committed to contracts for deliveries. It is understood that at least fifteen barges are now in transit and their early arrival will materially ease the brick situation. Prices are quite firm and although there have been some rumors of lower prices it will not be safe to count upon obtaining brick under the $17 a thousand level for some time, at least not until the demands of the moment are completely satisfied and there is a surplus on hand in the wholesale market.

Summary—Transactions in the North River brick market for the week ending Thursday, March 9, 1922. Condition of market: Demand strong; prices very firm. Quotations: Hudson Rivers, $17 a thousand to dealers in cargo lots alongside dock. Number of cargoes arrived, 6; sales, 6. Distribution: Manhattan, 3; Brooklyn, 3; Astoria, 1.

Builders' Hardware—Demand is active and all reports indicate a steady improvement in the volume of business during the coming months. Manufacturers are preparing for an unusually busy season, and practically all plants are working on full time. Jobbers' stocks are complete and retailers are buying better than they have recently in anticipation of the early spring rush for building materials and supplies. Prices are steady and without change.

Electrical Supplies—A moderate increase in the demand for wiring supplies, particularly for the suburban districts, continued during the past week. The majority of the local jobbers are optimistic and feel that the improvement noted in the trade during the past few weeks is but the forerunner of greatly increased buying interest. The fact that many of the recent orders are for larger quantities than usual is taken as an excellent sign of the trend of trade. Several changes in prices of standard materials have been reported during the past week or ten days. Quotations on rubber-covered wire and flexible armored conductor are somewhat easier but without a definite change announced. Two manufacturers have lowered their prices on flush receptacles and plug cut-outs, and an additional five per cent. discount is being allowed on gang boxes. For the most part jobbers' stocks are complete and ready for the spring building revival.

Structural Steel—The local market for structural steel continues fairly active, and although fewer contracts have been placed during the past week or so they have individually called for larger tonnages. Several important operations have recently been figured and contracts for these are pending, and according to reports from architects and engineers report that a large number of new projects will be released for bids within a short time. As a whole the outlook for the steel industry is excellent as far as local building is concerned, and the next four or five weeks should witness a marked improvement in the rate of activity. Prices are generally unchanged with fabricated material holding around $60 to $65 per ton, erected.

Reinforcing Bars—Demand is slightly more active than it has been as a consequence of the award of general contracts for several important industrial projects. The industry is encouraged over the outlook for the coming months as there is considerable new work in prospect that will involve the use of a large total concrete bar tonnage. Prices are firm and without change.

Lumber—At the present time there is a dearth of activity in both wholesale and retail departments of the lumber market, but local dealers are confident that within a very short time conditions will materially improve. The feeling is general among the selling interests that there will be an excellent run of business during the coming spring, as there is a large amount of new construction being planned for an early start. Reports from retail yards catering to alteration work and manufacturers indicate a steadily improving demand. Although lumber prices are fairly steady at the present time there are strong indications that the spring demand will influence slightly higher levels because of the conditions at the production centers.

Cast Iron Pipe—The market for this commodity continues to improve and manufacturers are particularly well pleased with the prospects for the coming season. There has been an increase in municipal business offered during the past few weeks and private buyers are more numerous and their orders larger. Although prices are unchanged at present there is a decided tendency toward stiffening, and the trade is likely to receive an announcement of higher prices in the near future. Current quotations on cast iron pipe are as follows: 6 in. and heavier, $47.30 per net ton, New York; 4 in. and 5 in., $52.30, and 3 in., $63.30, with Class A and gas pipe $4 per ton extra.

Linseed Oil—The demand remains light and local jobbers are of the opinion that no change in the trade situation will come about for some weeks yet. Business will not improve to any extent until after the spring alteration and repair work is well under way.

Fate of the Lockwood Bills

The many bills proposed by the Lockwood Housing Committee held the center of the Albany stage right up to the final hours of the Legislative Session of 1922. As a consequence, discussion of many other measures, some of which were of much more importance than the Lockwood bills, was limited. Such a hullabaloo about the Lockwood bills was raised by Chief Counsel Untermeyer and Senator Lockwood himself that people interested in home rule, the traction situation, the state water power problem and other important matters had little more opportunity to be heard than an outsider trying to interrupt a discussion between fishmongers' wives. In fact, the closing hours of the Legislature might aptly be described as a monkey-and-parrot time, with most of the onlookers wondering what the row was all about.

It is an old trick at Albany to raise a cry about an "insidious lobby" whenever the advocates of certain legislation find that their pet measures are in danger of being defeated. This trick is so ancient that there was a good deal of surprise when it was worked so hard in behalf of the twenty-three bills presented by the Lockwood Committee. In the old days at Albany all that was necessary to defeat certain measures or to force the passage of certain measures was to shout from the heights of Capitol Hill that an "insidious lobby" favored the bill or that an "insidious lobby" opposed that bill. But the old gag has become threadbare with time and the legislators this year seemed to be less awed than formerly by it.

If noise and statements and charges could "put across" a specific program then all of the twenty-three pet measures of the Lockwood Committee would have gone through the Legislature with a whoop. But, fortunately, legislators do occasionally stop long enough to get a reliable angle on the demands of the noise-makers. This was illustrated in the Legislature's deliberation on the Lockwood bills. Instead of being driven pell-mell into passage of all of these measures in the closing hours of the session, some of the legislators had the courage to act independently and to pass on the twenty-three Lockwood bills according to their own judgment. For pursuing this course some of them were roundly abused by advocates of the Lockwood bills, but they are entitled to credit for maintaining the position that the Legislature itself, rather than a legislative committee, continues to be the law-making body of the state.

There would not have been so much noise and confusion at Albany during the last two weeks of the session if advocates of the Lockwood program had kept in mind that not all of the concentrated wisdom of the ages had been bestowed on any one group of men. The Lockwoodites seemed to take the position that the measures reported by the committee were the only simon-pure palliatives for present-day troubles in a wide field, and that was a pretty broad assumption for any group to defend. It is always possible for investigators or bill drafters, or even for experts themselves, to be mistaken or to get a wrong slant on the best way to handle a given situation. Members of the Legislature, therefore, were well within their rights in deciding to exercise their own judgment as to each of the Lockwood proposals. Even Senator Lockwood himself exercised this privilege when he asked to be excused from voting on one of the committee's bill which failed of passage in the Senate on Tuesday.

In considering the many measures proposed by the Lockwood Committee it should be borne in mind that the Legislature, in several instances by a unanimous vote, adopted those features of the Lockwood program in which the public has shown the greatest interest. It may be, therefore, that the Lockwoodites obtained in the closing hours of the session all that they had expected in the first place, and that the extra noise was thrown in on a chance that they might get a little more.

Future of the Building Trades' Council

The action of John Donlin, President of the Building Trades Department of the American Federation of Labor, in revoking the charter of the New York Building Trades' Council, is likely to have little or no immediate effect upon the local labor situation. The Council will continue to function as a corporate body despite the refusal of the American Federation of Labor to recognize it further, and, while it remains in existence, the employers in those trades represented in its membership will continue to deal individually and collectively with the local group regardless of its standing with the so-called parent organization.

Revocation of the Council's charter did not come as a surprise to many of the employers in the building industry. For some time past the Council has been arbitrary in its manner and arrogant in its dealings with the Federation. Employers generally agree that in taking summary action by rescinding this charter the Federation assumed the only possible course if its authority was not to be flouted. Builders however, feel certain that the only immediate effect of the loss of the Council's charter will be of a purely psychological order and that conditions otherwise will remain unchanged.

The Building Trades' Council stands out as the dominating factor in organized building trade labor circles and, although it has repeatedly disregarded the authority of the Federation, the latter organization has been powerless to enforce its orders.

Local employers, in those trades affiliated with the New York Building Trades' Council, must continue to recognize this organization in all of their dealings with their workmen. They will continue these dealings as long as the Council exists as the dominating factor in local organized building labor. As the employers, both organized and unorganized, have nothing to gain or lose as a result of the action of the Federation, they are not taking definite sides at the present time. They feel certain, however, that the revocation of the Council's charter will bring its members to a realization of the fact that in future the local organization must stand entirely alone, without the support of the Federation in any important matters that may arise. This will undoubtedly influence a change of attitude on the part of local building labor in the problems now confronting them and will within a short time be responsible for a reorganization of their business methods and a greater willingness to co-operate with the employers for the general advancement of the construction industry.

Measure Giving Home Rule for Cities Agreed On

(Special to the RECORD AND GUIDE)

Albany, March 16.

SENATOR TOLBERT'S constitutional amendment, giving to cities jurisdiction over all local affairs, the largest measure of home rule ever granted by the State, will this year and at the next session be passed by the legislature and go to a referendum.

This action has been decided upon by committees representing the Republican majorities in the Senate and Assembly. It means that New York and the other municipalities are practically certain of home rule not later than 1924. The amendment will pass this session, probably the 1923 session and go to a vote in the autumn of 1923.

As amended the Tolbert resolution meets the approval of the Citizens Union, the City Club, the Mayors' conference and contains substantially the recommendations of the New York officials. It gives to cities practically all the authority now exercised by the Legislature in dealing with local affairs, making the municipality a coordinate branch with the Legislature.

The amendment cuts out from the home rule provisions all county officers, jurisdiction over which will remain in the Legislature. The administration of affairs of the five counties in New York would remain practically unchanged.

The important and fundamental principle underlying this home rule amendment is that all legislative acts dealing with cities shall be by general laws treating all alike. The Legislature surrenders its authority over fixing local salaries, consolidating departments and hundreds of other purely local questions now controlled by Albany.

One provision in the Tolbert amendment is that in order that the Legislature may pass a local bill relating to one city there must be an emergency message from the Governor and the bill must receive a two-thirds vote in both houses of the Legislature.

The power is passed on to the municipalities to enact all laws dealing with their own affairs which are not in conflict with the Constitution or the general laws of the State. The provisions dealing with special legislation concerning classes of cities is also stricken out. Administration of educational affairs remains as it is, education being considered purely a State function.

Gov. Miller's suggestion that the Legislature create a special commission to study home rule will not be considered by the Legislature. Senator Tolbert has introduced a bill carrying out the Governor's recommendation, but the Republican conference this afternoon decided not to pass this measure.

Want Shuttle Service in Queens Immediately

THE Queensboro Chamber of Commerce, through its Transit Committee, of which Robert W. Higbie is chairman, is considering the proposal that the New York Municipal Railway operate shuttle trains from the Bridge Plaza Station, Long Island City, over the elevated extensions to Astoria and Corona. Edward A. MacDougall, who is chairman of a sub-committee of the Transit Committee to bring about dual operation on these two extensions, is carefully studying all plans that may secure the immediate inauguration of temporary through service.

From information which Mr. MacDougall has received from the Transit Commission, the inauguration of such shuttle service is predicated entirely upon the construction of approximately 1,500 feet of additional elevated track down Jackson avenue toward the Court House. This would permit the B. R. T. trains, which now come from Manhattan, not only to switch back, but leave the existing tracks open for shuttle train operation. The construction of this spur, it is understood, would require an expenditure of at least $300,000 and would take from one and a half to two years to complete.

The Queensboro Chamber of Commerce has asked the engineers of the Transit Commission to advise whether some plan can be worked out to give immediate shuttle service, because business interests, and residents of Queens do not care to wait two years for what should only be temporary service.

Walter I. Willis, secretary of the Queensboro Chamber of Commerce, said: "The Queensboro Chamber of Commerce believes that there is no more important public improvement affecting every section of Queens Borough than the through operation of the Broadway-59th Street subway trains of the New York Municipal Railway, which now terminate at the Bridge Plaza station, to the terminus of the Astoria extension at Ditmars avenue and over the Corona extension, through the Woodside Transfer station of the Long Island Railroad, to Alburdis avenue, Corona, and later to Main street, Flushing. It was largely through the efforts of the Queensboro Chamber of Commerce that the Dual Subway contracts, signed in March, 1913, included provision for trackage rights for the B. R. T. on these two extensions.

"The only real permanent solution, and the solution to which the Borough of Queens is entitled in return for the taxes it pays upon the $750,000,000 realty valuations, is the through operation of the trains from Manhattan over these extensions.

"The present congestion of passenger traffic at the Manhattan terminus of the Queensboro Subway is intolerable. Its continuance is preventing the manufacturers of Queens from securing many employes who live in other boroughs who must pass through that point. It is also retarding the residential development of Queens. The congestion can be reduced in two ways: First, by the construction and operation of the extension of the Queensboro Subway to Times Square, which will permit at least one-half of the passengers to remain on the trains; and, second, by the dual operation of the Astoria and Corona extensions, which will enable the residents and employes of Queens to avoid entirely that congested point."

Monthly Dinner Meetings of Building Managers Growing in Popularity

NEARLY one hundred members of the New York Building Managers' and Owners' Association were present at the regular monthly dinner meeting, which was held at the Advertising Club, Tuesday evening, March 15. E. Everett Thorpe, president, occupied the chair and the guests of the evening were Dean Vincent, of Portland, Ore., vice-president of the National Association of Building Managers, and Charles Brady, Superintendent of Buildings for Manhattan.

After the conclusion of the dinner the chairman introduced Mr. Vincent, who spoke briefly of the 1921 Convention at Portland and of National Association affairs in general. He was followed by Superintendent Brady, who offered the fullest co-operation of his department on all matters in which building managers are interested.

The routine business of the evening included the reading of several interesting reports, all of which showed the association to be in a flourishing condition, with its committees working harmoniously for the benefit of all, and demonstrated that the constructive program for the year, announced at the annual meeting, will be carried out.

Governor Signs Appropriation Bill Totalling $102,857,610

With Other Expenditures Shows Reduction of $15,055,790 in Two Years—Lockwood Measures Up in Closing Hours of Legislative Session

(Special to the RECORD AND GUIDE)

Albany, March 16.

THE annual appropriation bill for the fiscal year 1922-1923, carrying items totaling $102,857,610.64, was signed by Governor Miller this week. Bills of financial character previously signed by the Governor carrying items aggregating $19,167,587 bring the total state appropriations to date up to $122,025,198, which Governor Miller says is the lowest point to which it is possible to reduce the regular expenditures for state government, not taking "unusual demands" into account.

The Governor's analysis of the amounts appropriated for the next year was as follows:

Education, including agricultural schools and colleges....	$43,342,575.21
Penal and charitable institutions and State hospitals, including construction	22,157,293.41
Highways	18,224,070.00
Debt service	12,181,885.49
Canal maintenance, terminals, new shops and equipment..	3,672,296.50
Indemnities for tubercular cattle, slaughtered.....	1,336,427.61
State police	1,079,172.00
National Guard and Naval Militia	880,002.07
Other fixed charges and contributions, including those to be refunded	6,674,064.21

$109,547,796.50
This leaves $12,477,401.75 for miscellaneous items and for all expenses of the judicial, legislative and administrative branches of the State Government.

In characterizing the total of appropriations, $122,025,198, as the lowest point possible, Governor Miller said he did not mean that further economies could not be effected. He pointed out that the exercise of vigilance in state administration would bring into usage business methods which would make further economies possible.

The most notable increase in appropriations was embraced in the education items and amounted to $2,417,365.

"It has been possible to meet the increase in educational requirements and to provide for all unusual demands and still to make a reduction in total expenditures, only because the extravagance of former years afforded still further opportunity to extend the economy program inaugurated last year," Governor Miller said. He added that although the elimination of nearly $70,000,000 in budgetary requests last year had caused forebodings of the ability of the state to operate and function efficiently nothing had developed to indicate neglect, but that rather there were numerous evidences of the accomplishment of more state work at less cost.

"The institutions all report surpluses," the Governor remarked. "There are, however, a number of meritorious demands of unusual and temporary character, such as the requirements of the New York-New Jersey vehicular tunnel contracts. If provision is made for them it will be possible to effect a reduction in the state tax of only one mill instead of one mill and a half as was hoped. In any case, it will be necessary to levy a direct tax of only a half a mill for teachers' requirements in addition to the tax for debt service. That will result in a total reduction in direct taxes of $15,055,790, as compared with 1920 and will give to real estate, which is already overburdened by local taxation, the benefit of the economies effected in the state administration."

The Governor signed the appropriation bill without cutting a single item from it. His ability and opportunity to do this he attributed to the "splendid co-operation" of the legislative committees with the state budget committee which passes upon all requests in the first instance.

The direct state tax bill was introduced by Senator Hewitt on Monday. It provides a direct levy of 1.2915 mills on each dollar of assessed real estate in the state.

The Senate Cities Committee early in the week reported out the following bills emanating from the Joint Legislative Committee on Housing:

Authorizing mutual insurance companies to do a casualty insurance.

Providing for the adoption by New York City of all sub-contracts in cases where the principal contractor abandons work.

Amending the Criminal Code by providing that in every case in which an indictment is dismissed the decision of the court shall be in writing, stating in detail the grounds upon which the action is based.

Compelling domestic insurance companies other than life to invest at least 40 per cent. of all investable funds, hereafter invested, in mortgage loans on unencumbered improved real property until at least 30 per cent. of all their invested funds shall be so invested.

Providing for supervision of rate-making associations by the State Superintendent of Insurance.

Authorizing domestic life insurance companies to loan on security of improved unencumbered real property in any state, worth 40 per cent. more than the amount loaned thereon.

Prohibiting domestic insurance companies from investing or loaning upon shares of stock of any corporation, other than a municipal corporation, and from investing in bonds, except Government bonds, which are not secured by adequate collateral and where more than one-third of the total value of such securities shall consist of shares of stock.

Requiring savings banks to invest at least 60 per cent. of all investable funds, hereafter invested, in bonds and mortgages of unencumbered real property until at least 40 per cent. of the whole amount of deposits and guaranty funds are so invested.

There was a unanimous vote in committee favoring the eight bills.

Among the bills passed by the Senate are the following:

Providing that where rent is paid for three months in three monthly installments, at the time each installment is due, no question of unreasonableness can be raised.

The measure applying to dwellings erected within the next year, up to April 1, 1923, the benefit of previous legislation exempting real estate from taxation until 1931.

The bill creating a Trade Commission.

The bill known as the $100,000,000 Metropolitan Life Housing Relief Bill, giving life insurance companies permission to invest not to exceed ten per cent. of their admitted assets in land and improvements thereon so that the average net rental value of apartments in the building, as estimated at the commencement of construction, shall be $9 or less per month per room.

Striking from the law the power granted the Superintendent of Insurance to extend beyond 1926 the time during which life insurance companies may dispose of their stocks.

Mr. MacNulty Shows Relation of Charter Revision to Realty

Counsel to Real Estate Board in Y. M. C. A. Lecture Course Explains Why Radical Changes Are Necessary for Protection of Taxpayers

THE subject of discussion before the Real Estate Class of the West Side Y. M. C. A. on Tuesday evening was one of great interest to every property owner and tenant, especially at this time: "The Revision of the Greater New York Charter As It Affects Real Estate."

Alexander C. MacNulty, counsel to the Real Estate Board of New York, formerly an Assistant Corporation Counsel, was the speaker.

Introducing Mr. MacNulty to the class, Harry A. Kahler, president of the New York Title & Mortgage Co., who presided, prefaced his introduction with timely remarks on the duty of every property owner to take a lively interest in all matters pertaining to taxation and the relation of the Charter to them, declaring that aroused interest means better and more economical government.

Mr. MacNulty was followed closely by his hearers, some of whom asked questions when he finished. Beginning with a comparison of early charters and the present charter of the city, Mr. MacNulty said:

"New York, or New Amsterdam, as it was then known, has been a chartered city since 1657, when the Dutch Government delegated to the Schout, Burgomasters and Schepens of the Town, the powers and duties of local administration. The first charter granted the city by the British Government was conferred by the Colonial Governor, Richard Nicolls, on June 12, 1665. It delegated the broadest measure of home rule to the municipality in a document comprising less than 400 words. The Nicolls' charter was succeeded by that granted by the Colonial Governor, Thomas Dongan, on April 20, 1686, which more comprehensively specified the powers conferred upon the city and, for the first time, prescribed the structure of its government; all of which was set forth in a document that covers but a dozen printed pages. The charter granted the city by Governor Cornbury, on April 19, 1708, was also a very brief instrument that re-affirmed all prior grants and conferred additional ferry and water front powers and privileges. The Dongan charter, as amended by the Cornbury grant, was superseded on January 15, 1739, by a charter promulgated by Governor Montgomerie, which was the last of the Colonial grants, the act of the Governor, Council and Assembly of the Colony of New York, enacted, October 14, 1732, being merely confirmatory of rights and privileges previously granted. The Montgomerie charter was a revision and enlargement of the Dongan grant, yet it comprised but 40 sections, covering but 36 printed pages.

"Contrasted with the brief but amply sufficient Colonial grants, the existing cumbersome Greater New York charter is a mystery to the layman and a vexation to lawyers and jurists, containing as it does 1620 illogically arranged sections, occupying hundreds of pages of type. But even this formidable volume does not include all of the laws relating especially to the city. There are hundreds of special acts of local application which are not included in the existing charter. A majority of these detached special laws are out of date, but many of them contain harmful or helpful provisions that are in full effect.

"Under these circumstances, any intelligent effort at charter revision must start by assembling all statutory provisions affecting the city, within and without the existing charter. From this mass of material the vital must be separated from the obsolete. After discarding laws or parts of laws that are of no consequence, those that remain must be again divided. Provisions which confer corporate or governmental powers or prescribe the framework of the municipal structure, and the powers of and limitations upon its numbers should be reserved for consideration as charter material, while the remainder might well be relegated to appropriate articles of the Code of Ordinances and thus be made subject to repeal or amendment by the Board of Aldermen.

"Naturally, the question arises: What has charter revision to do with the welfare of real estate? The necessity for revision does not arise simply because the charter should be made briefer or more understandable. If this were all that is desirable, the task would be a mere matter of re-codification. The charter revision that is needed, however, involves the making of many radical changes not only in the form of our municipal government, but also in the policy of the state in respect of legislation affecting the city and, particularly, its finances."

"The necessity for a complete overhauling of our system of local administration is demonstrated by the fact that our annual tax budget, as well as the City debt, is increasing by leaps and bounds, which means that the abnormal expense of the City Government is adding materially to the high cost of living of every citizen. In the year 1915, the tax bill for the support of the various departments and offices of New York City, including the boroughs and counties comprised therein, was $211,115,016.82. On the basis that the average family consists of five persons, the 1,050,000 families in the City of New York in 1915 contributed on an average of $201.06, or approximately $16.75 per month, to the expense of our local government for that year. For the year 1921, the cost of maintaining the local administrations, city borough and county, was $323,530,216.50, which divided among the 1,152,000 resident families gives $280.84, or $23.32 per month, as the average family contribution to last year's local tax bill.

"The extent to which taxation for local purposes figures in the living expenses of a particular family depends largely, of course, upon what the family pays for its living quarters, but the ratio remains the same, whether the family owns its own home or resides in a rented flat. There is included in every tenant's rent his proportional share of the tax bill against the building in which he lives. And this is not all. He contributes in the price of every thing he buys to the rent, and, therefore, to the land tax paid upon the building containing each store he patronizes; for the overhead of every shop, which includes its rent, must be borne proportionately by every sale it makes. In view of the fact that this burden upon the average family has increased from $201.06 to $280.84 a year, since 1915 it behooves us to ascertain the causes of this effect, if we would prevent a further increase of the load, even if we may not materially lighten it.

"Excluding items of debt service the taxes imposed for the expenses of administering the government of the City and the boroughs and counties were $72,920,784 greater in 1921 than in 1915. Assuming that one-third of this increase was caused by unpreventable advances in the cost of coal, food and equipment, etc., for local departments, offices and institutions, the balance, $51,380,000, was expended for increases in the city's personal service account, covering the expense of newly created positions and salary raises.

"The local appropriating bodies are responsible for a part of this increase in the personal service account, but the additions to salaries granted by them are thoroughly defensible, being, as a rule, utterly incommensurate with the advance in the cost of every item of living expense. On the other hand, the bulk of the additional cost of the local personal service account was foisted upon the shoulders of local taxpayers by special acts of the Legislature, without the consent and over the protest of the City Administration."

Legislative interference with the purely local affairs of New York City, the speaker continued, has given impetus to the demand for a constitutional amendment that will provide real home rule for the cities of the state by forbidding the Legislature to enact special laws creating new positions, increasing salaries or otherwise saddling additional burdens upon the taxpayers of a particular city. Without such a constitutional provision no attempt at charter revision, however capably performed, can accomplish much in the way of reducing local taxation. The report of the Ivins Charter Commission, dated November 30, 1907, stated: "Under the existing charter, the distribution of functions and location of powers are incoherent, illogical and impracticable, which results in conflicts of jurisdiction and extravagance."

"These conditions still continue," said Mr. MacNulty, "and the most serious of them is the inclusion of officers having great administrative responsibilities in the membership of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, which is virtually the board of directors of the local municipal corporation. The Mayor, the Comptroller and the Borough presidents all have to give attention to a myriad of important and administrative matters, which should have their prompt and often their personal consideration. The proper performance of their administrative functions makes such demands upon them that none of these officers has the time thoroughly to investigate, consider and determine the merits or demerits of the scores of propositions involving appropriations, bond issues, public improvements and other important subjects presented to and acted upon by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment at every meeting.

"The borough presidents were not included in the member-

Million Dollar Apartment First of Its Type in the Bronx

Nine-Story Elevator Project on Kingsbridge Road Being Erected by Samuel Minskoff From Plans by Margon & Glaser, Associated Architects

FOUNDATION work is under way for a nine-story elevator apartment at the northwest corner of Kingsbridge Road and Grand Boulevard and Concourse, the Bronx, which, when completed, will represent an outlay of more than $1,000,000. The structure will occupy a plot with frontages of 156 feet in Kingsbridge Road and 145 feet on the Concourse, and is being erected by Samuel Minskoff, president of the S. and L. Building Corporation, from plans and specifications prepared by Irving Margon and Charles Glaser, associated architects.

This apartment is said to be the first project of its type to be constructed in Bronx County and in its design and equipment will be incorporated all of the features of the most modern fireproof multi-family dwelling. The building will provide living accommodations for a total of one hundred and seventeen families, thirteen apartments on each floor, and the separate units will consist of two rooms and bath, with kitchenettes, to six rooms and two baths. The structure will contain more than four hundred rooms. Additional rooms for servants are being provided for in the large pent house on the roof. The various apartments are so arranged that each living unit will occupy an entire wing of the structure and the maximum of natural light and ventilation are assured, as all rooms are outside facing either the streets or upon courts of unusually large dimensions.

The façades of this apartment have been designed in the style of the Italian Renaissance and will be constructed of face brick with trimmings of terra cotta and Indiana limestone. The large entrance hall on the ground floor will be decorated and furnished in the Renaissance style and two reception rooms adjacent to the main hall will be decorated and furnished in the style of the Adam period.

The building will be equipped with high-speed electric elevators of the A. B. See type and there will be intercommunicating house telephones in addition to the usual individual telephones in each apartment which will be served through the switchboard in the main entrance hall. The floors of all kitchens will be tiled and the walls tiled to a height of six feet. The bathrooms will be tiled throughout and will be equipped with modern standing needle showers and receptors.

The rooms have been planned with unusually large dimensions and their arrangement in relation to each other will assure the maximum of privacy. Closet room is ample for all requirements with the principal ones equipped with automatic lights. All the rooms, with the exception of the kitchens, will be laid with hardwood parquet and the trim throughout will be of hardwood, with the main rooms panelled and decorated to suit the tastes of the various tenants.

This apartment will be supplied with filtered water and for the convenience of the tenants owner will install a vacuum cleaning plant and a steam laundry, complete with all modern apparatus. The heating will be thermostatically controlled.

Making all companies other than life and especially fire insurance companies part with all their stocks.

Requiring all savings banks to invest 60 per cent. of their future investible funds until 40 per cent. of their funds have been invested in first real estate mortgages.

Enabling New York City, through amending its charter, to take over the subcontracts where the principal contractor has defaulted.

Giving mutual insurance companies the right to enter the casualty field if they provide safeguards. It enables the mutuals to enter the rating bureau from which they are barred.

The first of the housing measures to receive attention in the Assembly, which waited upon the efforts of the Senate as far as the Lockwood program was concerned, was the proposal to permit insurance companies to invest a percentage of their assets in apartment house construction. The Assembly Rules Committee reported this measure favorably almost simultaneously with its passage by the Senate.

After the Galgano bill relating to the dismissal of a complaint in an action to foreclose a mortgage, an innocent measure on its face, but in reality a statute which would prevent foreclosure of a mortgage, had passed the Legislature in the turmoil that accompanied the consideration of the so-called housing bills, representatives of the New York City Real Estate Board succeeded in having the measure recalled from Governor Miller and amended. The amendments at this time effectually disposed of the bill for this session. To Edward P. Doyle, representing the Real Estate Board, credit is given for the prompt disposition of this bungling legislation. The Galgano bill had been rushed through the Legislature in the final days without consideration.

Before the Assembly had passed upon the bill permitting life insurance companies to invest up to 10 per cent. of their resources in apartments renting for not more than nine dollars per room a month, more than 200 builders had asked Governor Miller to give a hearing on this proposal. The Governor indicated that he would hear what these builders had to say before he signed this or any of the other bills representing the findings of the Lockwood committee.

Four Important Housing Projects Scheduled for Astoria

Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. Loans Total of $2,750,000 for Operations in Norwood and Arleigh Sections on Property Sold by Rickert-Brown Realty Co.

PLANS are being matured for several large residential building operations to be erected in the Norwood and Arleigh sections of Long Island City, at a total cost in excess of $5,000,000. These projects will be located on land sold by the Rickert-Brown Realty Company to four prominent builders who plan an immediate start in order to have their structures completed and ready for occupancy early next autumn. The proposed operations involve the erection of multi-family dwellings and one and two-family houses and a number of stores will also be included in the development. The land purchased by these builders represents a total cost of $1,060,000 and the new owners have obtained from the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company loans aggregating $2,750,000 to carry on the construction.

The most important of the operations scheduled calls for the construction of sixty-eight apartment houses, each accommodating six families, or a total of 408 living units. They will be erected by Bernard M. Maltz, who has bought 1,700 feet frontage on Sixth and Seventh avenues, between Broadway and Jamaica avenue. These houses will be three stories in height, with suites of four rooms and bath and will rent from $12.50 to $15 per room per month. The builder is reported as already having sold seventeen of these buildings from the plans to local buyers. Each building will occupy a full lot, 25x100 feet and will have fronts of tapestry brick with limestone trimmings.

Mr. Maltz also purchased a 300-foot frontage on Broadway, between Fifth and Seventh avenues, on which he will erect fifteen three-story buildings, with stores on the ground floor and apartments above.

Simon Bernstein bought a 660-foot frontage on Sixth avenue, between Grand and Jamaica avenues, which he intends immediately improving with twenty-six two-story dwellings, each accommodating two families. These houses will contain twelve rooms and two baths and are designed to sell for $20,000 each.

Samuel Bernstein and Philip Kaye have purchased a plot with a frontage of 540 feet on Eighth avenue, between Grand and Jamaica avenues, on which they will erect twenty-two two-family dwellings, each on a lot 25x100 feet. These houses are similar in plan and design to those scheduled for Sixth avenue.

All of the houses in the Norwood Gardens district will be erected from plans prepared by Walter Hopkins, of Warren & Wetmore, and will harmonize in style with those already constructed on Seventh avenue from designs by the same architect.

David W. Keen bought 200 lots on Potter avenue and adjoining streets in Arleigh, on which he plans to immediately start the construction of 200 one-family dwellings, each two stories in height. These houses will be of brick and will contain six rooms and bath and will cost a total of $1,200,000. These dwellings are in the vicinity of 145, erected a short time ago by the Rickert-Brown Realty Company.

ship of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment until 1902. At that time the city had a net funded debt of $308,775,343.55. In 1921 the net funded debt of the municipality had increased to $1,034,544,694.07. During the last six years alone the amount included in the annual tax levy for interest and other items of debt service, excluding the redemption of special revenue bonds has increased over $23,000,000. No one can doubt the millions upon millions of these colossal increases in the city's bonded debt and debt service charges have been needlessly expended. The fact remains that the bonded indebtedness of the city has increased from $88.20 to $179.90 per capita since the borough heads have had a hand in the authorization of bond issues for public improvements as well as in the expenditure of the proceeds thereof.

"It is true that during this period the city has issued corporate stock for over $230,000,000 on account of the subways, but it is also a fact that under the dual subway contract, to which the Board of Estimate and Apportionment of the Gaynor administration was a party, the city has never derived a penny of revenue from the stupendous investment. On the contrary, this year's tax bill, to which every one contributes, includes over $10,000,000 that is exacted to pay the interest upon the city's bonded indebtedness on the subway account. If charter revision would do no more than to re-organize the chief appropriating body of the city upon lines that would insure careful and competent consideration of all propositions involving the cash or credit of the municipality, it would obviously mean much to all who pay taxes directly or in their rent.

"The bulk of local taxation," the speaker said, "falls first upon the owners of real estate, by whom it is shifted, in a large measure, to their tenant. This leads up to a minor subject for charter revision, but one in which all taxpayers, immediate or ultimate, are directly concerned, namely: the over assessment of real estate by the Tax Department for the purposes of taxation. Under the existing charter, it is very properly prescribed that all taxable property shall be assessed at its true value. The charter also provides that any property owner who deems himself aggrieved by the assessed valuation placed upon his property may make application to the Tax Board for a review of the assessment. The intent of the statute is, of course, that such applications shall be fairly considered and impartially determined, but this rarely happens. Ordinarily, the application is denied and the applicant is relegated to his remedy by a certiorari proceeding in the Supreme Court, for a review of the determination of the Tax Board. The drawback to an application for the judicial review of a tax assessment is the expense or "costs" incidental thereto, which usually aggregate a considerable sum and must be borne by the applicant unless the court reduces the assessment by at least 50 per cent. of the amount of the over-assessment alleged. Thus penalized, applications for the judicial review of assessments are kept at a minimum; a majority of property owners submitting to the often arbitrary denials by the Tax Board of their applications for relief, rather than taking the chance of being heavily mulcted for costs in the event of failure in a certiorari proceeding.

"The provisions of the existing charter, therefore, practically leave an aggrieved taxpayer at the mercy of the Tax Board, the members of which are removable at will by the Mayor. In case they do not carry out his policy respecting the assessment of property for the purposes of taxation. This condition not only leaves the door wide open to the general inflation of assessed values, for the purpose, for instance, of defeating the salutary debt limit provision of the State Constitution, but it also opens the way to favoritism as well as to political reprisals and the gratification of personal grudges. The mere statement of the possibilities of the tremendous powers that may be exerted by an unscrupulous Mayor, through a pliant Tax Board, demonstrates the imperative necessity of an absolute divorce of the Tax Department from the control of the Mayor or any other local officer who participates in the making of appropriations chargeable to the tax levy.

"Whether or not the Charter Revision Committee will see its way to accomplish this much needed reformation of the local system for the assessment of taxables, it is hoped that the Commission may be able to devise a way to insure either a uniformly fair and competent assessment, for the purposes of taxation, or an equitable and fearless revision of such valuations as are palpably arbitrary or erroneous.

"Bear in mind that an incompetent and improvident administration of the municipality causes high taxes which, in turn, contribute to raise rents and increase the cost of every other expense of living.

"The financial turn-over of the City of New York, coming and going, is over $1,000,000,000 a year. It involves transactions too vast and too complicated to be entrusted to the control of men who have never had financial training or business experience. But when have men so qualified controlled the Board of Estimate and Apportionment?

"The high cost of living is opening our eyes to one of its chief contributing factors, the high cost of government. This is a matter for your thoughtful consideration. Think it over in its relation to the rent you pay for business space and for living quarters, and to the rents owners charge and obtain as a result."

Review of Real Estate Market for the Current Week

Lease of a Site Over Grand Central Tracks Showed the High Water Mark of Dealing, While Apartment House Sales Abounded

THIS was a week wherein large transactions were numerous and others were well diversified in character and widely distributed. The great transaction of the week was the leasing of land equal to a block front, by the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad Company, over its tracks and on a line with the south side of 47th street, from Madison avenue to a point on a line with Vanderbilt avenue, for 63 years, at an aggregate rental of $10,000,000. The parcel will be used as the site for a 12-story office building, the bulk of which has already been leased on the plans. The class of tenants shows a remarkable movement of lines allied with the wholesale drygoods trade. As large as this lease is, it does not, proportionately, match one made recently of a Madison avenue corner nearby, nor the new lease of the Bristol building and allied parcels, at the northwest corner of Fifth avenue and 42d street. But it is on property that is not so closely identified with the uptown strategic center. It is, however, a large marker among the leases made this year. A store lease that attracted attention was that of a store on the south side of 42d street, just east of Madison avenue.

In a market that abounded with the sales of apartment houses the largest transactions of the kind was that of 160 East 79th street, a few doors from the southeast corner of Lexington avenue, while a Lexington avenue corner involves a $1,000,000 transaction. It is a 14-story and basement elevator structure and was held at $850,000. Numerous elevator apartment houses in Harlem and on Washington Heights were also notable factors in the dealing. Walk-up apartment houses throughout the city, generally were in good demand as well.

A vacant square block in East Harlem passed into the hands of the Hearst film interests; tenants of a large warehouse on a 125th street corner bought the property; a large garage in Harlem was sold; there were some good sales south of 59th street, and good dwellings throughout town changed hands, many of them for occupancy.

The Bronx loomed well in the trading, walk-up apartment houses of all kinds and one- and two-family houses all selling well. The northern reaches of this borough are more active than usual. Brooklyn and Queens are more than ordinarily active just now and the dealing is well distributed.

PRIVATE REALTY SALES.

THE total number of sales reported but not recorded in Manhattan this week, was 83 as against 65 last week and 111 a year ago.

The number of sales south of 59th st was 22 as compared with 28 last week and 42 a year ago.

The number of sales north of 59th st was 61 as compared with 37 last week and 69 a year ago.

From the Bronx 41 sales at private contract were reported, as against 26 last week and 25 a year ago.

Statistical tables, including the number of recorded instruments, will be found on page 338.

U. S. Mortgage Re-elects Directors

At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the United States Mortgage & Trust Co., held March 9, the following directors were re-elected: Burns D. Caldwell, Julius Kruttschmitt, Robert Olyphant, Charles B. Seger, James Timpson, Arthur Turnbull, Elisha Walker and William H. Williams.

Famous Residence Sold

Pease & Elliman sold to William Fahnestock for the estate of Mrs. Edward Dean Adams 453 Madison av, with an L vacant plot, 45x53.8 to 26-28 East 51st st. The Madison av front is a 4-sty and basement stone front dwelling, on a lot 29.9x126.10x35.9.

It is one of two similar dwellings set in a deep front court, which were built by the late Henry Villard and they occupy the middle of the block from 50th to 51st st, opposite the rear of St. Patrick's Cathedral. Mr. Fahnestock owns the adjoining similar house, 453 Madison av.

Hearst Buys Harlem Block

Joseph P. Day and Martin Huberth sold for the estate of Mary A. P. Draper the vacant block front on the west side of First av, from 126th to 127th st, 140x200x irregular, to the International Film Corporation, in which William Randolph Hearst is interested. Mr. Hearst now controls the entire block from 126th to 127th st and from First to Second av, including the old Sulzer Harlem River Park, and the land will be improved with a large moving picture studio. The Draper property has been in the Draper and Palmer families for the past 100 years.

Investor Buys Broadway Lofts

J. Leland Wells, of Amityville, L. I., bought through the Charles F. Noyes Co. from Frank J. Heaney 597 Broadway through to 170 Mercer st, a 5-sty stone loft building, on a plot 25x200. There is a sub-basement in the rear. The parcel was held at $150,000 and is rented at $17,000 a year. Mr. Wells was long the head of the steam engineering firm of Wells & Newton, of this city, but is now retired.

Good Sale on Canal Street

Sol Stern sold for John Herman Heidgerd 272 Canal st, southwest corner of Cortlandt alley, 125 feet east of Broadway, a 4-sty brick loft building, 25.5x71.4. The seller, one of the city's oldest woolen merchants, started in business on this site half a century ago and subsequently erected the present building by day's work, the foundation walls being 2 feet thick. Maurice B. Langer is the buyer. The sale is recorded.

Tenants Buy a Harlem Warehouse

Slawson & Hobbs sold the northeast corner of Park av and 125th st, a 12-sty office and storage building, being 100 feet on the avenue by 90 feet on the street, for the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., to Lee Bros., Inc., present tenants, who operate several storage warehouses and furniture stores. Their lease does not expire until 1924, but the upward turn of realty values in 125th st caused the purchase to secure permanency.

Sells 30 Year Old Holding

Abraham Saffir sold for the Adolphus Ottenberg Estate to the Alert Operators, Inc., the three 5-sty brick apartment houses 508 to 512 Manhattan av, northwest corner of 121st st, on a plot 100.11x95. This is the first sale of the property in 30 years. The immediate corner contains stores.

Hoffman Court Bought

A syndicate purchased from Well & Mayer the Hoffman Court, 100.11x120, a 7-sty elevator apartment house with stores, at the southwest corner of Madison av and 99th st. Simon Sindeland was the broker. The house is arranged in suites of 3 to 5 rooms. The property was held at $325,000.

Tenant Buys a Harlem Garage

F. P. Jeroloman, tenant, bought from William Douglas Kilpatrick the 4-sty and basement brick garage 310-312 West 144th st, on a plot 50x99.11. Mr. Kilpatrick holds the property under a recently made contract. The building was built for Simpson & Crawford in 1902. James S. Maxwell and Dwight Archibald & Perry, Inc., were the brokers. It adjoins the southeast corner of Bradhurst av.

Old Families Sell West Side Parcels

The two 5-sty and basement brick apartment houses with stores at 333-335 West 43d st, on a plot 50x100.5, have been sold by D. Kempner & Son for Joseph B. F. Livingston and Walden Pell, Jr., and Emily de Sera, of Florence, Italy, to a client. The property was held at $80,000 and rents for about $10,000. The property had not changed hands since the early 80s, when the late Walden Pell bought it through David Kempner, grandfather of the broker now making the resale.

Chateau Thierry Again Sold

The Chateau Thierry apartments, at the south corner of Riverside dr and 85th st, have figured in a third sale within 2 weeks. In the newest deal the house, a 7-sty elevator structure, 27.6 x96.4x irregular, was resold by Byrne & Bowman for Stewart Forshay to Daniel H. Jackson, operator. The property was held at $300,000 and was sold for all cash above the mortgages. Mr. Forshay bought the house a few days ago through the same brokers from Harry Goodstein, who had just secured it in a deal with Joseph

S. Ward, and in which the 2-sty building at the southwest corner of Amsterdam av and 125th st figured.

Buyers Bretton Court

Joseph M. Nimhauser, with H. Reinheimer, sold for Max Natanson the 8-sty and basement elevator apartment house, known as Bretton Court, at 306-310 West 100th st, adjoining the southwest corner of West End av, on a plot 75 x100.11, to the Malex Realty Corporation. The property was held at $375,000. The house is about 14 years old, and was erected by Joseph Polstein.

Le Roy Apartments Change Hands

Biltmore Realty Corporation, in conjunction with the Harris Exchange, sold for the Old Colony Bond & Mortgage Corporation the northwest corner of St. Nicholas av and 118th st, a 7-sty and basement elevator apartment house with stores, on a plot 118.5x125.5x100.11x63.5x.

Sells a West Side Loft Building

Berley & Co. sold for the Recony Corporation (Norman S. Riesenfeld and Joseph F. A. O'Donnell) 112 West 38th st, a 5-sty stone mercantile building, on a lot 20x98.9, between Broadway and Sixth av. The buyer will remodel the structure when the present leases have expired.

Buyers Lexington Ave. House to Remodel

James Kyle & Sons sold for the 539 Corporation the 4-sty and basement stone dwelling 811 Lexington av, on a lot 18x70. The new owner will make extensive alterations, putting in a street level store, a parlor floor store and 4 apartments of 2 rooms and bath each on the two upper floors.

Assembles Upper West Side Site

Nolavia Construction Co. bought through William H. Peckham from the Lucania Realty Co., Anthony Campagna, president, 302 West 89th st, and from the estate of Zachary Pierce 304-306 West 89th st, all 4-sty and basement brick dwellings, on a plot 60x100.8x and adjoining the southwest corner of West End av. A. D'Antona is president of the purchasing company.

On the site the buyer will erect a large elevator apartment house.

Tenants Buy a Harlem Corner

Schwarz & Forker, cleaners and dyers, located at 406 West 125th st (Manhattan st) southwest corner of Morningside av, for many years, have purchased that property from Alida B. Emmett, represented by Morris & McVeigh, attorneys. The site is improved with 1, 2 and 3-sty buildings with stores, and fronts 112.7 feet on 125th st and 38.4 feet on Morningside av.

Buy on La Salle St. Near Broadway

The newly formed 523 West 125th Street Corporation, having for directors Jacob Herman, William Sadofsky and Janet Bernhart, purchased the 1-sty brick garage, 7x112.6x irregular, at 75 La Salle st, formerly 523 West 125th st, between Amsterdam av and Broadway. The new company is represented by Weschler & Kohn, attorneys.

Site Sold for Co-operative Apartments

As a site for a 13-sty co-operative apartment house, the Joint-Ownership Construction Co., Inc., Frederick Culver, President, has entered into a contract to purchase from Andrew Lazare the northeast corner of Lexington av and 72d st, on a plot 45x102. The total cost involved is about $1,000,000. About half of the suites will consist of 12 rooms—a large drawing room, 20x30, large dining rooms and baths, servants' dining and sitting room, kitchen and pantry. Other suites will contain eight rooms and three baths. Plans for the proposed structure are being completed by James Gamble Rogers, consulting architect to Yale University. Among those who have already purchased are Cecil Shallock, President of the North British and Mercantile Insurance Co.; Miss Elizabeth M. Lynch of the Colony Club, and James Gamble Rogers. The building, 136 East 67th st, erected by the same company from plans of Walker & Gillette, is now nearing completion, all but two of the 37 apartments in the building having been already sold. Byrne & Bowman negotiated the sale.

Another Astor Fee Passes

Land held by the Astor family for upwards of 300 years ceased on Wednesday as a fee holding by reason of its sale for a price around $300,000. This further depletion of this big landed estate involves the plot 105x100 with four apartment and store buildings at the southwest corner of Eighth av and 45th st. It was sold by the Farmers Loan & Trust Co., as trustee for the estate of William Waldorf Astor, to the Scott Investing Co. This concern is composed of Leo Kamioner, Max Scott and Emanuel van Dernoort, who under different corporate title have recently purchased other Astor properties at the northwest corner of Eighth av and 46th st, opposite the corner just acquired, and at the northwest corner of Eighth av and 39th st. These holdings will be held for investment, according to Mr. Van Dernoort, counsel for the company. The last transfer of the corner just sold was made in October 31, 1828, when title descended to John Jacob Astor from his father. In February last the estate sold the Eighth av block opposite to Henry Claman for a price around $590,000, and sales by the Astor estate and other interests have been so numerous in this part of Eighth av as to attract the interest of speculators, who have been busy in their endeavors to get properties before prices rise under the influence of the increasing demand.

Sale on West Broadway

White-Goodman sold for James A. Turley 135 West Broadway, a 3-sty brick building, on a lot 16.11x50.3, adjoining the northeast corner of Duane st. The buyer will occupy.

Choice Residence Sold

William B. May & Co., as brokers, sold 15 East 84th st, plot 50x200, containing a modern dwelling on the 84th st plot and a 3-sty garage on the 85th st plot. This property has been sold by the Estate of Charles F. Hoffman. E. L. Doheny, Jr., of the Mexican Petroleum Corporation, is the purchaser. The property has been held for sale at $300,000.

Some Leases of Interest

EDWARD DEAN ADAMS, who sold his home at 455 Madison av to William Fabrikant, has leased a large apartment in the building now being erected by J. E. R. Carpenter, architect and builder, at 920 Fifth av, south corner of 73d st. Pease & Elliman were the brokers.

BILTMORE REALTY CORPORATION leased for the National Binding & Machine Co. the 8th floor at 260 West st to the Hair Net Importing Co.; also leased to the Hirsh Barsky and Louis J. Wildman Co. the 3d floor at 511-513 West 42d st for the M. M. Hayward Co.; also leased for the Regan Safety Devices Co., Inc. the 5th floor at 140 West 42d st to Benjamin Crager. All are for a term of years.

BILTMORE REALTY CORPORATION leased for the Guaranty Trust Co. to Freudenberg & Mattock a suite of large offices in 522 Fifth av, for a term of years; for the Guaranty Trust Co. at 522 Fifth av offices 610 to 616 to Toplis & Harding, at an aggregate rental of $50,000, in conjunction with W. S. Sussman the 12th floor in 79 Fifth av, known as the Knickerbocker Building, for Winona Holding Corporation to the John's Service, Inc. Floor area is 12,500 square feet. Aggregate rental at end of existing contract is approximately $60,000.

THE 1901 BROADWAY CORPORATION leased to Jacob Granat the building, 28.1x130.2x irregular, at 1991 Broadway, for a term of 21 years at an annual net rental of from $16,000 to $18,000.

TANKOOS, SMITH & CO., in conjunction with Cruikshank Co., leased, for a long term of years, for the Army Realty Corporation the 5-sty and basement warehouse buildings 218-220 Pearl st to the Pearl Street Warehouse Corporation, Inc., at an aggregate rental of about $75,000. The tenant will make extensive alterations and will occupy the same on or about May 1 for the storage of imported tobacco.

Buy Co-operative Suites

Culver & Co. sold for the Joint Ownership Construction Co. an 8-room apartment with three baths in 136 East 67th st to Yale Kneeland.

Douglas L. Elliman & Co. sold for the 76th Street and Park Avenue Co. a large duplex apartment, containing 12 rooms and 4 baths, in 830 Park av, southwest corner of 76th st, to Mrs. Carter Herndon.

Resell Parcel Taken in Trade

Byrne & Bowman resold for J. C. & M. G. Mayer to an investor 11 East 22d st, an 8-sty fireproof building, on a lot 26.2x98.9, held at $125,000, and renting for about $22,000 annually. This is one of the properties recently taken in part payment by the Messrs. Mayer from Cornelius Hearn for the structure at 29-33 West 38th st.

Big Apartment Site Sold

Leon S. Altmayer sold for the Equitable Trust Co. to the Phelps Stokes Fund the plot of vacant lots known as 54 to 60 East 97th st, which has a frontage of 100 feet by a depth of 100.11 located on the south side of East 97th st, about 100 feet east of Madison av. This property is excavated and will be immediately improved by the Phelps Stokes Fund with a model tenement. Property is free and clear of mortgage and was sold for all cash. Plans for this improvement have been filed in the Building Department.

Resell West Side Lofts

Byrne & Bowman resold for J. C. & M. G. Mayer to an investor, 32 West 22d st, a 6-sty store and business building, on plot 32.7x98.9, held at $110,000 and renting for $16,500 annually. Recently the same brokers sold for the Messrs. Mayer the business building at 11 East 22d st. The two properties were taken in part payment by the Messrs. Mayer for the 16-sty loft building, 29-33 West 38th st in a recently reported deal.

Sells Wiltshire Apartments

The Starzer Realty Corporation sold through Slawson & Hobbs the Wiltshire, a 6-sty elevator apartment house at 604-610 West 141st st, on a plot 135x99.11. It houses 54 families, and is laid out in suites of 3 to 6 rooms.

Buy Large Apartment House

Byrne & Bowman sold for a client to Milton M. Dryfoos, 160 East 79th st, a 4-sty and basement elevator apartment house, on a plot 100x102.2, a few doors from the southeast corner of Lexington av. It was held at $850,000.

Sells Dyckman Tract Plot

J. Leland Wells sold through the Charles F. Noyes Co. to Malcolm R. Lawrence the vacant plot, 100x100, at 26-32 Cooper st, 100 feet south of 204th st, in the Dyckman tract. It was held at $30,000.

Club House in New Hands

Supreme Court Justice Irving Lehman has granted the Columbia University Club trustees permission to sell the old clubhouse and site, at the northwest corner of 20th st and Irving pl, for $147,500 to Louise Day Putnam Lee.

The purchaser is to pay $5,000 in cash upon the date of passing title and take the premises subject to a first mortgage of $100,000 and a second for $30,000, held by the trustees of Columbia University. She will give back a purchase money mortgage for $12,500.

While it is admitted that the amount of cash to be paid upon passing title is very small, the purchaser, who will transform the old clubhouse into an apartment building, will bind herself to pay $5,500 annually, $2,750 every six months, out of which sums, after interest has been paid on the mortgages, payments are to be made reducing the principal sums.

Estate Sells Yorkville Holdings

Estate of Berent C. Gerken sold through O'Reilly & Dahn, to Joseph Mines, 506 East 75th st, a 1-sty brick market building, on a lot 25x102.2; and the same estate sold through the same brokers to the 501-505 East 75th Street Corporation a 2-sty brick bakery building, on a plot 75x102.2, at 501-505 East 75th st. The sales are recorded.

Sells Richmond Shore Front

The Shaw estate between Bement and Davis avs, West New Brighton, Staten Island, has been sold to Herbert R. Gans of the Gans steamship Co. Mrs. George William Curtis of Livingston is one of the heirs. The sellers have owned the property for generations. The brokers were W. S. E. Hall and C. E. Simonson & Co.

Masons Buy Carrere House

The Carrere homestead on Staten Island, formerly occupied by John M. Carrere, of the firm of Carrere & Hastings, architects of this city, has been purchased by the Staten Island Masonic Club, which has a membership of 400. The property is situated at St. Marks and Fort places, New Brighton, and will be remodeled at a cost of $75,000. The officers of the Masonic Club are H. M. Sell Queens Industrial Site

M. & L. Hess sold for the Printer's Realty Corporation to the Ronzoni Macaroni Co. of Long Island City, a plot at Jackson av and Hulst st, Long Island City. It contains 32,000 square feet, with a railroad spur and fronts 365 feet on Jackson av and 429 feet on the railroad. It is opposite the Pierce Arrow automobile plant.

The new owners will improve the easterly part of the plot, or about 16,000 square feet, with a 6-sty factory building for their own use.

Negotiations are pending for the resale of the westerly portion to a manufacturer, who will also improve the plot with a building for their use and occupancy. William A. Krabe represented the purchasers.

Builder Buys Queens Plot

M. Morgenthau, Jr., Co., sold to H. J. Faint, of Corona, ten lots in Country Club District Sub-division, just south of Central av on 172d st, Jamaica, which is one block east of Merrick rd. Mr. Faint is having plans prepared by H. T. Jeffrey, Jr., architect, for the improvement of this property with five 7-room cottages, the construction of which he will start immediately.

Flushing Corner Sold for Improvement

Halleran Agency, in conjunction with Peter Harper, sold for the estate of Isaac Peck to Drury & Goette, of Newtown, the southwest corner of Broadway and Lawrence st, Flushing, Queens. The Pecks had owned the parcel for a century.

The new owners will erect on the plot a 2-sty brick garage and showroom for automobiles.

Builders Buy at Coney Island

Another cottage and bungalow project for Coney Island will be carried on by a syndicate which announces the purchase of about 25 lots in the block bounded by West 21st and 22d sts and the ocean from the William Fox Associates, Inc. The buyers announce that they will erect a taxpayer with stores and offices on the board-walk frontage and improve the inside lots with cottages and bungalows. The syndicate is composed of Dr. David Friedman, Harry Smolensky and William J. Billharz. The plot was held at $450,000 and the proposed improvements will call for a total outlay of about $1,000,000. Samuel Sperling was the broker.

A Brooklyn P. O. Branch Sold

B. F. Knowles Co., with L. Zasully, sold the Williamsburg Post Office property on Broadway, overlooking the Williamsburg Bridge Plaza, a 2-sty stone building, 48x130, for Thos. P. Peters and others, heirs of the late Bernard Peters, founder and long editor of the Brooklyn Daily Times.

A New Brooklyn Theatre Sold

The new theatre and store building occupying the entire block front on the west side of Saratoga av, between Dean and Pacific sts, Brooklyn, has been sold by the Maine Building Corporation to the newly organized Telman Amusement Co., represented by Marks & Marks, attorneys.

This property, which has a Saratoga av frontage of 214 feet and runs back 100 feet in each street, has been held at $300,000. It is known as the Capital Theatre.

Sells Nassau County Estate

Sidney E. Brewster, of Ladd & Nichols, sold for Parker D. Handy his estate at Glen Cove, L. I., known as Greendak. Paul Bonyng, a New York lawyer, has purchased the property for a client.

The estate consists of approximately 10 acres, situated in the North Country Colony, Glen Cove. The house is Dutch Colonial and there are also outbuildings, stables, garages, gardener's and chauffeur's cottages. The property is along the waterfront.

Mr. Handy held the property at $150,000, and the transaction was cash.

Shelter Island Estate Sold

Bulkley & Horton Co. sold for the Cassidy estate at Shelter Island Heights, N. Y., a summer estate situated on Main st, between the Fogaticut Hotel and the Chequit Inn, running through to Grand av, to a client for occupancy.

RECENT LEASES.

Taking Time by the Forelock

To make sure of possession of a choice business location, Joseph Hilton, clothier, has leased, from May 1, 1922, the 6-sty building at the southwest corner of Broadway and 37th st, for a term of 42 years.

The premises are now under lease to the Regal Shoe Co. at a net rental of $25,000 per year, but the new contract calls for a net payment of $36,000 per year, or an aggregate consideration of about $1,650,000. In addition the new lessee binds himself to spend $50,000 during the first year of his term in modernizing the structure.

The Regal Shoe Co. lease on the premises has 6 years to run from May 1 and under ordinary conditions this would have discouraged the making of a new contract at increased rates, especially at a time when rental values are uncertain. The pressure of the demand for space in the vicinity is reported to be so great, however, that Mr. Hilton was willing not only to bet against the rental values in the building 6 years hence, but also to pay the owner $7,200 per year during the intervening 6 years. These payments will be checked off against his aggregate rental.

The new lease shows an advance in rental values in the neighborhood of almost 50 per cent. in the last 5 years. Mrs. Mary B. Averill is the owner of the property. J. B. English was the broker.

Notable Terminal Zone Lease

At an aggregate rental of more than $10,000,000, including taxes, the N. Y. Central & Hudson River Railroad Co., through the New York State Realty & Terminal Co., leased, through William A. White & Sons, for a term of 21 years, with two renewals, to a new corporation, known as 385 Madison Avenue, Inc., the southerly frontage of the block in East 47th st, extending from Madison av to a point on a line with Vanderbilt av. The lessees will erect on the site a 12½-sty building, the estimated cost of which according to Cross & Cross, architects, will be $1,800,000. It will be over the New York Central tracks.

The site on which the new building is to be erected has a frontage of 100.5 ft. on Madison av at the southeast corner of 47th st, of 215.8 feet on the south side of 47th st, and 100.5 feet on Vanderbilt av, at the southwest corner of 47th st. The total ground area is 21,656 square feet, all of which will be occupied by the new building.

The 385 Madison Avenue, Inc., is owned by Webb & Knapp, which firm is composed of Eliot Cross, Robert C. Knapp and W. Seward Webb, Jr.

The building contract has been awarded to the Todd, Robertson, Todd Engineering Corporation, which erected the Cunard building, on lower Broadway. The new building will be ready for occupancy February 1, 1923, and an interesting construction detail is the fact that more than 5,000 tons of steel are to be used. The building will be restricted against all forms of manufacturing. Its use and occupation will be limited to wholesale showrooms and executive offices exclusively.

The building, which will contain approximately 4,000,000 cubic feet of space, will be about 175 feet in height. The entire Madison av front will be in limestone, while the facade on all sides will harmonize with the surrounding buildings.

Much of the building has already been leased, on the plans, through William A. White & Sons. More than 150,000 square feet embracing the 2d to 8th floors inclusive have been leased to Aitken, Son & Co., now at 417 Fifth av; to Gage Bros. & Co., of Fifth av and 37th st, and to the Judkins & McCormack Co. of 11 West 19th st. These three firms are among the most prominent wholesale dress goods and millinery concerns in America.

The Bigelow-Hartford Carpet Co., whose main factories are at Thompsonville, Conn., has leased the 9th and 10th floors, for a term of 10 years, through Harris, Vought & Co., and Herbert McLean Purdy.

These four leases, which dispose of 9 floors of the building, have been made to highly representative concerns that will utilize the premises as showrooms and executive offices only, their factories being located elsewhere.

The determining factor in the consummation of each of these leases was the proximity of the building to all the principal hotels, the Fifth av department store district, and the new uptown business center. The new building will contain open floors only, each of which will have an unusually large amount of useable area owing to the arrangement of the elevators, corridors, etc., and the presence of only 27 columns on each floor, set 20 to 24 feet apart. Each typical floor has 36 windows. The ground floor has a ceiling height of more than 20 feet, the 2d floor of about 14 feet, and all floors above about 12½ feet each. The uppermost half story will contain 10,000 feet net of rentable area and will occupy a portion of the roof.

There will be 4 freight elevators and 6 passenger elevators, 3 of which will be Express elevators to the 9th floor. The main entrance to the building, 24 feet wide and 21 feet in height, will be on Madison av, while the service entrance will be on Vanderbilt av.

The street floor, and the floor immediately above, will be divided into stores, beneath which, there will be a large basement and sub-basement. A hot water heating system will be installed, and heat and electricity will be supplied by the railroad company. Stoddard & Mark, as attorneys, represented Webb & Knapp throughout the transaction.

Theatre Leasehold Conveyed

Records in the County Register's office show that the land under the Henry Miller Theatre, at 124 to 130 West 42d st, and the abutting parcel at 129 West 42d st, have undergone a change of title. The estate of Elizabeth Milbank Anderson has conveyed the property for a stated consideration of $380,000 to the City Real Estate Co., which acts for clients of the Title Guarantee and Trust Co. in cases where the buyer wishes to conceal his identity.

No clue as to the real buyer has been given although it is definitely established that the theatre building was not included in the deal.

The Henry Miller Theatre was opened in 1917, having been erected on land leased by Mr. Miller from Mrs. Anderson, who had purchased it the year before. Mrs. Anderson died about a year ago leaving an estate of more than $7,000,000, much of which she willed to charity. The plot included in the transfer measures 85.9 feet on 43d st with a depth of 100.5. It measures 20x98.9 at the 42d st end of the property. It is assessed by the city at $570,000.

Good Store Lease in Terminal Zone

Cushman & Wakefield leased for a client to Charles Berg and Herbert J. Millard the store, 24x72, in the street floor of 50 East 42d st. It will be used for the sale of fine hats for men and women. The business is known as Millard's, Limited. The store adjoins the southeast corner of Madison av. The lease is for a long term of years. H. C. Kopp & Co. were associate brokers. The store had been held at $30,000 a year.

Cotton Exchange Moves

Sturgis & Lyon leased for G. Amsinck & Co. the entire ground floor of 90 Wall st to the New York Cotton Exchange, to be used as their trading floor until their new building is completed at 60 Beaver st; also the entire 2d floor to I. W. & P. Armstrong; also one-half the basement to the Western Union Telegraph Co. and space in the basement to the Postal Telegraph Co. and leases to R. H. Hooper & Co., L. B. Lowenstein, Marshall Geer, William Judson & Co., L. DeGummoens & Sons.

Most of these tenants were formerly located in the present Cotton Exchange Building, which is to be demolished on May 1 and a new 24-story building will be erected on the site to be used by cotton interests.

Leases Vacant Harlem Plot

Shaw, Rockwell & Sanford leased for the Bernheimer estate the plot of vacant land, 100x185, at the southeast corner of Fifth av and 139th st, adjoining 138th Street Bridge, to William J. McCarthy, for a lumber yard.

A Long West Side Lease

The 6-story building, 244 West 27th st, has been leased by Myra V. T. Kerr to Frederick H. Brantigan for a term of 30 years at a yearly rental of from $4,500 to $5,000.

Some Store Leases

D. Kempner & Son, Inc., leased for clients store in 2051 Eighth av to the Arrow Economy Stores, Inc.; also the northwest corner of 130th st and Eighth av, for a term of 10 years, to the Arrow Economy Stores, Inc.; for Brill Bros. store in 2168 Eighth av, to L. Oppenheimer, butcher; and with Samuel Krobsky, Inc., store in a building in course of construction on the southwest corner of 91st st and Amsterdam av to the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Co.

Steel Firms on Union Square

Stephen H. Tyng, Jr., & Co., Inc., leased large offices in the Metropolitan building, 31 Union Sq., to the Truscon Steel Co. for a long term of years. The Truscon Steel Co. is nationally known in building and construction circles and is locating their New York executive offices in this building. Other similar concerns who have located in this building are Fredburn Construction Co., Sommerfield & Steckler, architects, and Perry & Webster, Inc. Offices have also been leased to M. B. Shantz, Inc., A. Erdrich, Deck & Fisher Studios, Liberty Lining Co., F. W. Kurtz & Co., and M. H. & D. N. Mintz.

Long Lease of Bronx Corner

Tankoos, Smith & Co., in conjunction with Albert D. Phelps, leased for the Schulte Cigar Stores Co. to the Lofton Realty Corporation, Edward Hurley, president, for a term of 21 years, at a rental aggregating $200,000, the entire property at the junction and southwest corner of Jerome and Burnside avs, with a frontage of 125 feet on Burnside av and 76 feet on Jerome av. The lessee will make extensive alterations and improvements, and upon completion of same the Schulte Cigar Stores Co. will occupy as a branch store the corner portion of the property.

Glass Firms in 23rd Street

Cross & Brown Co. have completed the renting of all the available space in the former Sheppard-Knapp Building, 39-41 West 23d st and 20 West 24th st. Every floor in the building will be occupied by wholesale firms in the china, glassware and pottery trades. The entire building was leased a short time ago to Maddock & Miller, Inc., and Herman C. Kupper, who will occupy the lower part of the building and have sub-leased the upper floors to the following tenants: J. J. Hines, Inc., fine glassware; Johnson Bros., George B. Jones, agent, crockery; Alfred G. Moment, china and glassware; the Sebring Pottery Co., of Sebring, O., pottery. The building is to be extensively remodeled and will add greatly to the strength of 23d st as a china, glassware and fancy goods center. Other prominent firms now located on the same block on 23d st are Morimura Bros., Strobel-Wilkin Co., Pairpoint Corp., Guerin & Co., S. Herbert Cut Glass Co., Edward Boote, Herbert & Newirth Co., Dieckerhoff-Rafflor & Co., and A. L. Clark & Co.

Old Downtown Lessee Moves

W. J. Russell & Samuel Goldsticker leased for the Griscom estate of Philadelphia, the 6-story building, 50x124, at 228 and 230 West st, at an aggregate rental of $150,000, to Coles & Co., dealers in basket and wooden ware, who have been located in Warren st for 30 years.

Leases a New East Side Theatre

The newly organized New Law Theatre Corporation, having for directors E. and C. Mayer and L. Schneider, leased for a term of 10 years the 2-story theatre building, 49.6x70, at 23-27 Second av. M. D. Bohrer, attorney, represents the new company.

BUILDING SECTION

Employers and Unions Act to Avert Building Strike

Both Factions Agree to Admit Representatives of Public Group to Conferences on Wage Scale Revisions, With Voice But No Vote

SEVERAL developments in the building labor situation have occurred during the past week which have materially brightened the local construction outlook for the forthcoming spring and summer season. These developments have to a considerable degree cleared up the atmosphere of doubt which for several months past has curtailed production and been responsible for an apathetic attitude on the part of both employers and workmen. Because of the events of the past week the way seemingly is now open to a speedy settlement of these differences between employers and workmen in the building industry, and with future harmony assured nothing can impede the long-predicted building boom that is now almost a fact.

Wednesday afternoon, after a meeting of the Board of Governors of the Building Trades Employers' Association, it was announced that the employers had withdrawn their ultimatum to put certain wage reductions into effect on March 17, because of the attitude of the Building Trades Council, in agreeing to accept the proposal of open conferences on the matter of wage scale revisions. Undoubtedly the action of these organizations has averted a serious strike, which would have thrown thousands of men out of employment and crippled the building industry.

In accepting the plans for open meetings to discuss a revision of the wage schedules the council stipulated that in addition to the Public Group Committee of which Walter Stabler is chairman, a sub-committee of the Lockwood housing investigating committee be included. This will permit the ideas of both sides for open meetings to be expressed. The employers, last December, rejected the plan of Samuel Untermeyer for arbitration, proposing instead the calling in as interested observers of representatives of twenty civic associations.

In announcing the extension yesterday, C. G. Norman, chairman of the Board of Governors of the employers' association, said:

"At our meeting to-day, we voted to extend the wage scale until the next meeting of the board, subject to the call of the chair. As the next meeting will be on the third Wednesday in April, the present scale will continue until then, unless a special meeting is called in the meantime.

Mr. Stabler, as chairman of the Public Group Committee, representing architects, financiers, merchants and manufacturers, all of whom have a lively interest in fostering harmony in the building industry because of their direct and indirect connection with it, some time ago expressed the desire of his committee to attend the joint conferences of the employers and the workmen at which the matter of wage scale adjustments was to be considered. The employers immediately signified their intention of permitting the representatives of the public to be present at these conferences, but at first the representatives of the unions refused to hear of any such thing.

The situation practically was deadlocked for several weeks, during which the members of the Public Group Committee were active in an attempt to have the labor leaders reconsider their decision regarding the policy of admitting representatives of the building public to the proposed joint conferences. On Tuesday the Building Trades' Council held a five-hour meeting, at which this matter was again brought up, and at which the labor organizations receded from their position as to the admission of the public group representatives. Within a few days the dates for these conferences will probably be announced and the building public invited to participate, at least in an advisory capacity, in closing the rupture over wage scale revisions.

Last week the Building Trade Employers' Association served notice upon the Building Trades' Council that a new scale was to be made, effective March 17, under which the wages of unskilled and semi-skilled workmen will be reduced. The wages of the skilled workers are to remain at their prevailing levels for the present, or at least until a readjustment can be affected by arbitration.

This notice of the intention of the employers to put into effect a new scale of wages came after a long period of negotiations to obtain a new agreement to replace that which expired by limitation on December 31, 1921. In order to prevent any trouble pending the fixing of the new scale, the old scale was first extended until February 1 and then to March 1, and more recently to March 16.

C. G. Norman, speaking for the employers, declared that the extension to March 16 was positively the last to be made unless the committee representing the general building public, which they had asked to sit in at the conferences, with a voice but no votes in the making of a new scale, requests a further delay.

The recent action of John Donlin, president of the Building Trades Department of the American Federation of Labor, in revoking the charter of the New York Building Trades' Council, is thought by many local employers to have exerted considerable influence upon the representatives of the unions in changing their attitude in regard to admitting the Public Group Committee to attend the forthcoming conferences on wage scale revisions. Although the effect is purely psychological, as the employers are bound to deal with the local union without respect to their standing with the Federation, the fact that the Council will not be further supported by its parent body undoubtedly has had quite some weight in shaping up its decision as to future policies.

On the other hand, the revocation of the Council's charter and the proposal of the Federation to set up a new body will not make any material difference in the program on wage scale revision because the employers' organization intends to deal with the various unions and make them see that a drop in wage rates will greatly stimulate construction and that until they are lowered it is idle to anticipate any great volume of new building in this city.

The exhaustive survey of the local building situation recently made by the Building Trades Employers' Association is expected to figure largely in the conferences pending between the employers and the union representatives. The results of this survey, as tabulated by Samuel Donnelly, executive secretary of the Employers' Association, show the relation of present building wage scales to living costs and prove that the present levels are entirely out of the general economic scale.

Another phase of this survey shows that the new residential construction completed since the enactment of the Tax Exemption Ordinance, and the work under way on December 31, 1921, provided living accommodations for a total of 36,649 families, thus materially easing the local housing shortage and causing rentals, which are claimed as one of the prime reasons for the necessity of extortionate wages to building mechanics, to recede considerably.

Increased Building Awards Herald Spring's Approach

General Improvement in Construction Outlook Shown by Weekly Totals Tabulated from F. W. Dodge Company's Statistics

THE rapidly approaching Spring has brought about a very decided change in the local building situation. During the past week or ten days there has been a most significant increase in the amount of new construction placed under contract and the volume of newly reported building in prospect is far in excess of the most optimistic predictions of only a short time ago.

Residential building, both prospective and actually under contract, is by far the most important in volume and cost and there is every reason to anticipate that this character of construction will dominate the building situation throughout the coming season. The architects who specialize in planning speculative building operations are being rushed to by owners who desire to get their operations underway at the earliest possible moment.

Figures tabulated by the F. W. Dodge Company, for the territory including all of New York State and New Jersey, north of Trenton, show that during the tenth week of this year there were first reports on 777 new building and engineering projects in this district that will involve a total outlay of approximately $37,158,900. During the same period there were 342 contract awards announced that will require a total expenditure of $20,397,600.

Although the weekly totals show a consistent gain in practically all branches of construction, residential building continues to prevail as the really important factor and while the ratio of residential building to the total of all other types will undoubtedly be lower than it was last season, the volume of this kind of construction will in all likelihood be greater than it was one year ago.

The list of 77 building and engineering operations reported during the week of March 4 to 10 inclusive was made up of the following groups: Seventy-seven business structures, such as stores, offices, lofts, commercial garages, etc., $4,583,400; 12 educational projects, $2,106,300; 3 hospitals and institutions, $65,000; 30 industrial structures, $1,755,500; 2 military and naval operations, $40,000; 3 public buildings, $113,000; 37 public works and public utilities, $6,431,000; 8 religious and memorial structures, $415,000; 586 residential operations, including apartments, flats and tenements and one and two-family dwellings, $20,797,700 and 19 social and recreational projects, $852,000.

Among the 342 operations for which contracts were awarded during the tenth week of this year were 46 business buildings of various types, $7,524,400; 5 educational projects, $322,000; 5 hospitals and institutions, $210,000; 10 factory and industrial buildings, $632,000; 2 public buildings, $55,000; 9 public works and public utilities, $570,700; 1 religious edifice, $10,000; 258 residential structures, including multi-family dwellings and one and two-family houses, $10,899,500 and 6 social and recreational projects, $174,000.

PERSONAL AND TRADE NOTES.

Pierce, Butler & Pierce Manufacturing Corporation, boilers and radiators, has recently opened a large showroom and office on the tenth floor of the Liggett Building, 42d street and Madison avenue.

George B. Post & Sons, architects, 101 Park avenue, have announced the opening of an office in Kansas City, Mo., with A. H. Gentry in charge.

Hobart Upjohn, architect, has moved his office to Room 5952 Grand Central Terminal.

Eric Kebbon, architect, formerly associated with W. Welles Bosworth, announces the establishment of an office for the general practice of his profession at 522 Fifth avenue.

Marcus Contracting Co., Inc., 305 Broadway, has obtained a contract from the Magoba Construction Co. for excavation work in 28th street, between Sixth and Seventh avenues.

Anchor Corrugating Construction Company, manufacturer of standardized buildings, has moved its executive offices and showrooms from 140 Washington street to 115 West 41st street, corner of Broadway. This company maintains its factory at 1433 38th street, Brooklyn.

Herbert Hoover, Secretary of Commerce, has announced that he is for the mobilization of the finance of home building in order to place the industry on a basis that will prevent in the future a recurrence of the housing conditions which the country has been experiencing for the past several years.

Peter F. Augenbraun, recently appointed manager of the new Yale & Towne Manufacturing Company plant in Germany, recently left New York to take up his new duties. He was tendered a farewell dinner at the home plant in Stamford, Conn., and was presented with a handsome suit case and a brief case. Mr. Augenbraun has been with the Yale & Towne Manufacturing Company for thirty years.

William J. Dilthey, architect, recently moved his office from 1 Union Square to 120 Liberty street.

National Construction Conference

Plans are practically matured for the national construction conference to be held in Chicago, April 3 to 5 inclusive, under the auspices of the National Federation of Construction Industries. During the week of the conference numerous associations interested in construction are to hold meetings in Chicago. The lumber industry has arranged for the fourth American Lumber Congress on April 6 and 7 and various national lumber associations will also hold individual meetings during the week. The National Lime Association will hold a district meeting and other bodies are making arrangements for similar gatherings.

New York Electrical Show for 1922

The management of the New York Electrical Show has announced that the 1922 exposition is to be held from October 7 to 14 at the Grand Central Palace, Lexington avenue and Forty-sixth street. The show will open on Saturday morning and continue for a week, closing on the following Saturday evening. It will be open every day except Sunday.

Last year's show was held at the Seventy-first Regiment Armory, but owing to the limited space the number of exhibits had to be greatly curtailed. This year, with three floors available at the Grand Central Palace, there will be ample opportunity to present one of the most comprehensive expositions in the history of electrical and industrial displays. The exhibits will include every phase of electrical application for the home and industry.

Cement Price Declines in 1921

The price of Portland Cement decreased in 1921, compared with the 1920 price. The average factory price per barrel was $1.87 in 1921 and $2.02 in 1920, according to the United States Geological Survey. In Illinois and Indiana, excepting the northeastern part of the latter state, the average price was $1.68, while in Washington, Montana and Oregon an average of $2.51 maintained. $1.73 was the average factory price per barrel in western Pennsylvania and Ohio; in New York, $1.90; in eastern Pennsylvania and New Jersey, $1.72, and in Albany, Tennessee and Georgia, $1.94. These prices do not include the cost of the containers.

TRADE AND TECHNICAL SOCIETY EVENTS.

New York State Association of Master Plumbers will hold its annual convention at the Onondaga Hotel, Syracuse, March 21 and 22 inclusive.

American Society of Mechanical Engineers will hold its annual spring meeting at Atlanta, Ga., May 8 to 11 inclusive.

American Society for Testing Materials will hold its twenty-fifth annual meeting at the Chalfonte-Haddon Hall Hotel, Atlantic City, June 26 to July 1, inclusive.

American Lumber Congress is scheduled to hold its fourth annual meeting in Chicago, April 6 and 7, inclusive. Interesting programs are being prepared for all sessions of this convention.

American Iron, Steel and Heavy Hardware Association will hold its annual convention in Washington, D. C., May 23 to 25 inclusive. Headquarters will be located at the Hotel Washington. Secretary, A. H. Chamberlain, 1328 Broadway.

National Metal Trades Association will hold its annual convention at the Hotel Astor, April 17 to 20 inclusive. The program for this meeting provides for the executive committee meeting, a meeting of the local branch secretaries and a dinner of the local branch secretaries will be held on Monday. There will also be included a meeting of the administrative council and the so-called alumni dinner on Tuesday with the regular convention sessions on Wednesday and Thursday. The annual banquet of the association will be held Wednesday evening.

New York Building Superintendents' Association will hold a smoker in the east ballroom of the Hotel Commodore Saturday evening, April 8. M. F. Godfrey is chairman of the committee in charge of the program for this event, and he promises a most interesting program. Members are urged to keep this date in mind or they will miss a notable event.

National Conference of Construction Industries will be held in the Drake Hotel, Chicago, April 3 to 5, inclusive. Further details, with program for all sessions, will be published later.

CURRENT BUILDING OPERATIONS

LOCAL building interests are fairly optimistic over the possibility of an early settlement of the differences between employers and building trade workmen and are of the opinion that just as soon as some definite announcement is made of a new wage scale agreement there will be a tremendous increase in active construction in this city and vicinity.

There is a vast amount of proposed work that is being held in abeyance pending a settlement of the matter of wage scales for the balance of the year. Plans for the major portion of this work are completed and in many instances the operations have been submitted to contractors for estimates, but in numerous cases owners are holding off in making actual commitments until wage rates are finally determined for the remainder of the current year.

The fair and warmer weather of the past week has considerably increased activity in the local markets for building materials. Brick is in excellent demand and there is now an ample supply for all active jobs. Prices are easier than they have been, but manufacturers feel that they will strengthen as the demand grows more urgent. Movement of cement and lime is fair and prospects are generally considered better than they were a few weeks ago. Lime manufacturers have announced a reduction of 20c per barrel on standard 300 lb. barrels.

Common Brick—The New York wholesale market for Hudson River common brick has had a relatively active week when the business of the past few days is compared with that of the past month or six weeks. Arrivals from up-river plants have been adequate to relieve the stringency and as the river is now practically free of ice as far north as Kingston, no further anxiety is felt as to the supply of this important commodity. Prices have eased off to some extent during the week and current quotations for Hudson River commons range from $16 to $16.50 a thousand.

Summary—Transactions in the North River common brick market for the week ending Thursday, March 16, 1922. Condition of market: Demand improved; prices, slightly lower. Quotations: Hudson Rivers, $16 to $16.50 a thousand to dealers in cargo lots alongside dock. Number of cargoes arrived, 24; sales, 24. Distribution: Manhattan, 6; Brooklyn, 17; New Jersey, 1.

Builders' Hardware—The demand for builders' hardware is exceptionally good and both manufacturers and dealers are anticipating a season of unusual business in this line. There are strong prospects of a steady increase in the demand as the construction program matures and in view of the outlook manufacturers are operating their plants practically on full time. Dealers are placing larger orders than they have been so as to have their stocks in shape when the peak of the demand occurs. Prices are steady and no important changes are expected for the time being.

Structural Steel—Although there is considerable new business pending the commitments of the past week were lighter than usual but contractors are of the opinion that within the next week or so a decided change for the better is bound to occur. Several important jobs are now in the hands of contractors for estimates and the announcement of awards for this work will materially brighten the outlook. Prices for fabricated material erected in commercial structures still range between $60 and $65 per ton despite the advance on shapes reported by one of the most prominent mills.

MATERIALS AND SUPPLIES

retailers in electrical goods are fairly satisfied with trade conditions as they exist at present but they are looking forward to a decided increase in business during the next two or three months. Manufacturers are preparing for a specially busy summer building season with a consequent improvement in the demand for wiring materials and specialties. At the present time neither dealers nor contractors are buying except for immediate requirements but there is every indication that the growing amount of active construction will shortly necessitate the purchase of supplies in much larger orders. Prices are easy and in several instances discounts have been increased.

Window Glass—Business has fallen off to a considerable extent during the past week or ten days and jobbers look for a lull for several weeks or until the apartment house projects that were started late last autumn reach the final stages of completion. There is no doubt that the demand for window glass during the coming summer and autumn months will tax the facilities of local dealers. There is a tremendous amount of speculative building now ready for a start and practically all of this work is scheduled for completion before October 1, 1922. Several of the prominent jobbers in plate and window glass are exhibiting some uncertainty as to price tendencies. The outlook, however, is that the price situation will remain practically unchanged for the next month or two at least. After that prices are likely to be largely dominated by the ratio of the supply to the demand.

Cast Iron Pipe—The market for this commodity is exceptionally strong and the majority of manufacturers are materially increasing their output. Many plants are working at nearly full capacity and there is a marked likelihood that increasing business will shortly necessitate all operating on full time. Recently there has been considerable improvement in the volume of municipal business placed before this industry and private buying continues fairly active. There is quite some new business in sight that should be released within the next few weeks. Prices are strong and unchanged. New York quotations are as follows: 6 in. and larger, $47.30 per net ton, f. o. b. New York; 5 in. and 4 in., $52.30 and 3 in., $62.30; with $4 extra per ton for Class A and B pipe.

Nails—No change worth speaking of has occurred in the local nail market during the past week. Buying is light and practically only for current needs. Although prospects are good dealers are not certain that any real improvement will come until the 1922 building program gets started and suburban construction gets under way. Prices are as follows: $3.25 base per keg, for wire nails and $4 to $4.25 base per keg for cut nails.

Linseed Oil—The market for this material is quite dull and no improvement is anticipated for at least a month to six weeks. Buying is in relatively small lots and only for immediate requirements. No one in the industry feels that prevailing conditions are to last for any time, however, as there are strong signs of an awakening that will materially change the market situation. Prices are steady and practically unchanged.

Lime—Manufacturers of lime have recently announced a reduction on finishing lime in the standard 300-lb. barrels. The price has been $4.70 per barrel, but is now reduced to $4.50. Dealers announce they will immediately revise their quotations. There has been a good demand for this commodity and all signs point to a steady increase as the outlook for building is excellent.

People may ask how we dare to guarantee that a trust fund placed in our hands will be worth par at the expiration of the trust and that there will be no shrinkage.

We do this because we have had thirty years' experience with the mortgages guaranteed by the Bond & Mortgage Guarantee Company and we are satisfied that we risk little or nothing in adding our guarantee to theirs.

We have $18,000,000 and they have $12,000,000 in capital and surplus so that there is $30,000,000 pledged to make the promise good.

EDITORIAL

Entering Its Fifty-fifth Year

The RECORD AND GUIDE completed with its last issue fifty-four years of continuous publication, and now enters upon its fifty-fifth year, still reflecting, it is hoped, the desire of its management that it improve in quality and usefulness with the passing of the years.

A great many publications established since 1868 have fallen by the wayside and have been forgotten, but The RECORD AND GUIDE has survived and grown strong because it always has been, and still is, one of those publications for which a definite need exists. Then, too, The RECORD AND GUIDE has pursued the only policy which makes for longevity, namely, sincere devotion to the particular clientele in whose interests it is published. Always striving in both editorial and news features to give the fullest news value, it yet presents this information in a conservative manner, without distortion, thus making its columns a trustworthy guide to its readers.

As a result of this policy, The RECORD AND GUIDE starts its fifty-fifth year with a larger and more representative circle of readers than ever, and with an advertising patronage which includes a great majority of the recognized leaders in its field. Its steady increase in circulation undoubtedly is due largely to the constant effort which is being made to improve the publication, in appearance, in quality, in timeliness of contents and in every direction which gives to a publication character and stability.

Employers Conciliatory; Labor Arbitrary

If New York City's ambitious program of construction for 1922 is halted or even hindered because of labor troubles, the resultant damage and loss to the industry must be directly charged to the arbitrary and unreasonable attitude of building labor. Employers in the building trades, with the co-operation of the public group representing interests closely affiliated with construction, have done everything within their power to focus the labor affairs of the industry to a point where all will be in a position to meet on neutral ground for discussion of disputed points.

Certainly the organized employers have not lagged in their efforts to readjust these differences upon a basis satisfactory to all involved. The Association officials have been untiring in their attempts to have the workmen realize that an active and prosperous building season can only be had by a revision of scales that will bring wages into closer relation with all other construction costs.

During all of the negotiations which have taken place since last autumn, when the subject of a new wage scale agreement for 1922 was first brought up for consideration, the employers have sought the co-operation of labor, realizing that unless this was obtained nothing definite could be accomplished. Labor interests, however, have been arbitrary and unreasonable in their attitude toward the overtures of the employers. Every plan submitted which would lead up to the discussion and formulation of a new agreement was rejected, or at least subjected to such radical revisions as to make it entirely a one-sided proposition in favor of labor interests. The employers, during the past six months, have made every possible concession to the labor group consistent with good business judgment. They have presented plan after plan for a speedy ending of the impasse, only to see them either totally rejected or so changed as to make them unavailing.

Building employers have gone far more than half way to meet the labor interests in order to obtain an early solution of the wage scale problems which are adversely affecting the progress of the industry. They have, however, every right to reject any plan permitting notably partisan interests to participate in the proposed joint conferences on wage revisions and working conditions, and they are also perfectly justified in their refusal to enter into negotiations with the Building Trades' Council as an organization instead of with the union officials as direct representatives of the respective unions. The charter of the Building Trades' Council has been revoked by the Building Trades' Department of the American Federation of Labor because of its arrogant and arbitrary attitude towards the national organization. The Council, therefore, has no further standing with the parent body and cannot look to it for support. Furthermore, several of the important trade unions which will be affected by any wage scale revisions, notably the bricklayers and the plasterers, have never affiliated with the Council and hence these trades must be treated as separate cases.

In the opinion of the employers, conferences on wage scale revisions will be far more likely to result in better understanding and a more harmonious agreement if the pending negotiations are carried on between their representatives and the delegates from all trade unions identified with the industry, and with no participation from outside interests other than that of the public group, which is an impartial body, without a vote, and which is only concerned with bringing the local building industry back to a high plane of service to the general community.

Properly Rebuked by the Governor

If one were to judge from the amount of noise made by the Chief Counsel of the Lockwood Committee and some of its members, the recommendations of that committee received rough treatment in the closing hours of the legislative session at Albany. Such conclusions, however, are entirely unwarranted. The fact of the matter is that the Legislature adopted all of the Lockwood Committee's recommendations which were strictly within the province of the committee. The principal bills which failed of passage should have been designated as insurance bills, instead of housing bills—measures which might properly have come from a legislative committee appointed to investigate the fire and life insurance companies, a responsibility which the Legislature at no time gave to the Lockwood Committee.

Because the legislative leaders exercised their own judgment in determining which of the Lockwood bills should be enacted at this time and which required further consideration, they have been made the objects of a verbal bombardment from Chief Counsel Untermeyer. Some of Mr. Untermeyer's heaviest words have been thundered at Governor Miller himself, and for days after the Legislature adjourned the Hudson Valley reverberated with the noise of the Untermeyerian attacks. The net result, however, has been no change in the situation, except the development of a first-class row in the camp of the Lockwoodites.

The RECORD AND GUIDE last week expressed the thought that the Lockwoodites, in making so much noise at Albany during the closing hours of the legislative session, might be hoping to get a little more of their program adopted by the lawmakers than they really had expected in the first place. But subsequent developments show that Chief Counsel Untermeyer, at least, is not satisfied. This first was shown by his impudent demand on Governor Miller to have the Legislature held in session until other of the Lockwood bills were passed, which prompted the Governor to administer a stinging rebuke. "It would be gross usurpation for me to attempt to exert the executive power and influence to hold the Legislature in session," the Governor advised Mr. Untermeyer, "and I shall not thus attempt to coerce a co-ordinate branch of the government."

This flat refusal by the Governor proved not to have put an end to the matter. On the contrary, soon after the Legislature had adjourned sine die Mr. Untermeyer made another amazing demand upon the Governor, this time asking him to reconvene the Legislature in Special Session to further consider the Lockwood bills which had failed of passage. The Governor promptly replied that he did not consider the occasion justified such an unusual course.

Stated in another way, these incidents mean that Governor Miller very properly and very pointedly notified Mr. Untermeyer that he would not relinquish his authority or transfer his responsibility as Governor of the State to the chief counsel of a legislative committee or to anyone else. The Governor's attitude was such as any self-respecting, courageous executive could be expected to take.

Not only has Mr. Untermeyer found fault with Governor Miller, but he has made unwarranted attacks on Speaker Machold and other legislative leaders, besides accusing Chairman Lockwood of being "fooled" about his own bills, and Vice-Chairman McWhinney of ditching the committee's program in the Assembly. His attitude reminds one of the Quaker who said to his wife: "Everyone in the world is queer but Thee and Me, and sometimes Thee is a little queer."

Now that the din is subsiding, it is seen that the Legislature has extended the Emergency Rent Laws and the Tax Exemption Law for another year, has passed various amendments clearing up doubtful provisions of the Rent Laws, has passed the measure permitting life insurance companies to invest ten per cent. of their assets in housing projects, and has extended for another year the life of the Lockwood Committee itself. Something can be said in support of each phase of the Legislature's action in these respects, even though the public must now reconcile itself to the strain of another year of tiresome scolding from the committee's Chief Counsel.

Speaker Machold Declares Mr. Untermeyer's Charges Malicious

REPLYING to Samuel Untermeyer's charge that he had "insisted on putting to death without permitting them to be brought to a vote" certain bills advocated by the Lockwood Committee, E. H. Machold, Speaker of the Assembly, last Monday replied that when it was decided to bring about an early adjournment of the Legislature he had notified the Lockwood Committee on February 1 that the tentative day of adjournment was March 17. After repeatedly requesting that proposed legislation be introduced as early as possible Mr. Machold said:

"I repeatedly called the attention of the chairman of the committee to the fact that the report of the committee and the legislation were not forthcoming and was always informed that Mr. Untermeyer had full charge of the preparation of the report and the legislation, and that he was still working on them at his winter home in Florida. Consequently these bills, eighteen in number, were not introduced in the Legislature until March 1, and as was well known the standing committees went out of existence on March 7, almost as soon as the bills could be printed and placed on the files of the members.

"Many of these bills dealt with highly technical questions which could not be understood without very careful study, and for this reason the Assembly was inclined to be careful, believing that under such circumstances it was better to delay action than to enact measures of far reaching effect which they did not understand.

"I cannot condemn too strongly the unwarranted and malicious statements of Mr. Untermeyer about the activities of a lobby at Albany against the trade commission bill and one for supervision of insurance rates by the State Superintendent of Insurance. His charge that this latter bill was emasculated at the behest of a lobby in the last hour of the session is an absolute untruth.

"The changes were made only after a conference with Gov. Miller and Senator Lockwood, and all agreed to the changes, which only made the law conform to the established practice of the reasonableness of fire insurance premiums which is followed in the entire nation, and here let me say that Mr. Untermeyer well knows that no changes were made in any of the Lockwood bills without consultation and agreement with the chairman of the committee, Senator Lockwood, who in most instances proposed the changes himself and in every instance agreed to whatever changes were made.

"The defeat of Mr. Untermeyer's proposal for the establishment of a trade commission was entirely due to the fact that the members did not have an opportunity to study and understand its provisions. This was a new and very important piece of legislation and the Assembly was asked in the last hours of the session to act on this proposal in amended form, which action, in my opinion, they very properly refused.

"The maliciousness of Mr. Untermeyer's statement is most apparent in his charges about Assemblyman McWhinney. The printed report of this committee, prepared by Mr. Untermeyer, contains a notation signed by Mr. McWhinney in which he disents from this proposal, and here let me ask how long has it been since men in our country have not had the right to have different views on public questions without being charged with base or malicious motives?

"Mr. Untermeyer seems to think that any one who appears at Albany to present his views on legislation is a crook, and it is past my understanding how he can mislead the public to even think that the Legislature should act on his suggestions and refuse to hear those of different ideas and opinions. If he knows of any crooked work in regard to these proposals he owes a duty to the public to prove his assertions.

"I know of no more dangerous man in our public life today than the one who attempts to coerce action by public officials by means of statements that there are secret influences at work to prevent such actions. Personally, I refuse to yield to any such unwarranted falsehoods about the action of the Assembly."

U.S. Supreme Court Again Upholds Emergency Rent Laws

Constitutional Right of Legislature to Resort to Use of Police Powers in Regulating Rentals Sustained in New Decision on Which Court Divided 6 to 3

[Special to the RECORD AND GUIDE]

Washington, March 22.

THE United States Supreme Court for the second time upheld the constitutionality of the New York State emergency rent laws in a decision handed down last Monday by Justice Clarke, in which the court stood six to three, Justices McKenna, Van Devanter and McReynolds dissenting. This decision follows closely the former one, when on April 18, 1921, in an opinion handed down by Justice Holmes the court divided 5 to 4, Chief Justice White and Justices McKenna, Van Devanter and McReynolds dissenting. Since that decision Chief Justice Taft has taken the place of the late Chief Justice White, with the result that the court now stands 6 to 3 instead of 5 to 4 in taking the view that the New York Legislature did not exceed its constitutional authority in the enactment of the emergency legislation and the resort to police powers.

The decision a year ago was rendered in the case of the Marcus Brown Holding Company, Inc., appellant, vs. Marcus Feldman, Benjamin Schwartz, et al, in an appeal from the New York Federal District Court. Later, on May 31 last, Louis Marshall and Lewis M. Isaacs, counsel for the Edgar A. Levy Leasing Company, the Brixton Operating Company, and the No. 810 West End Avenue, Inc., submitted a joint memorandum to the United States Supreme Court, opposing motions of various tenants for dismissal of pending rent cases involving the New York rent laws and asking that such cases go to trial on their merits. The counsel contended that these cases contained considerations not determined by the court in the decision rendered. These cases involved the constitutionality of Chapter 944 of the Laws of 1920, enacted Sept. 27, 1920; of Chapter 942 and Chapter 947 of the Laws of 1920. The validity of these statutes was sustained by the New York Court of Appeals on March 8, 1921 (230 N. Y., 429). Thereafter writs of error were sued out and were allowed by Mr. Justice Brandeis on March 28, 1921. Motions to advance these causes were granted and hearing set for October 10, 1921. The defendants-in-error contended that the decision in the Marcus Brown Holding Company, Inc., vs. Feldman was determinative of the questions sought to be raised in the cases in which writs of error were allowed by Justice Brandeis and briefs were submitted by counsel denying the soundness of this contention. The court allowed the cases to remain on the calendar and new arguments attacking the constitutionality of the New York Emergency Rent Laws were made on Jan. 25, 1922, by Louis Marshall and for the defense by W. D. Guthrie and Julius Henry Cohen. It was in these cases that the court for the second time upheld the constitutional right of the State to the use of its police powers in the regulation of rentals. The cases just decided were the Edgar A. Levy Leasing Company, Inc., vs. Jerome Siegel, et al, and the 810 West End Avenue, Inc., Company vs. Henry R. Stern, plaintiffs in error under a writ from the New York Supreme Court.

In the Levy-Siegel case it was set forth that an apartment was rented to Mr. Siegel for 1918-1920 at $1,450 a year, and that he signed another lease in June, 1920, providing that his new contract should be for $2,160. He refused under the new law to pay the instalment due Oct. 1, 1920, at the new price, holding that the second lease was signed under coercion through threats of eviction and that the new rental was unjust, unreasonable and oppressive. He offered to pay his old monthly rental on condition that he be allowed to remain in the apartment. The State court upheld Siegel's contention.

In the other case it was asserted that Stern was a tenant holding over after the expiration of his lease and that he refused to surrender possession, maintaining that such was his right under the housing laws. The State Court upheld this contention also.

Commenting on the New York housing laws, Justice Clarke said:

"By these acts a number of changes were made in the substantive law and a number of amendments to remedial statutes of the State for the purpose of securing to tenants in possession of houses or apartments occupied for dwelling purposes in described cities the legal right to continue in possession until Nov. 1, 1922, by the payment, or securing the payment of a reasonable rental to be determined by the courts, and for the purpose also of encouraging the building of dwellings by providing under specified conditions for their exemption from local taxation."

"In terms the acts involved are 'emergency' statutes and, designed as they were by the Legislature to promote the health, morality, comfort and peace of the people of the State, they are obviously a resort to the police power to promote the public welfare," declared Justice Clarke. "They are a consistent interrelated group of acts essential to accomplish their professed purpose."

"The warrant for this legislative resort to the police power was the conviction on the part of the State Legislature that there existed in the larger cities of the State a social emergency, caused by an insufficient supply of dwelling houses and apartments, so grave that it constituted a serious menace to the health, morality and comfort and even to the peace of a large part of the people in the State. That such an emergency, if it really existed, would sustain a resort to the police power for the purpose of dealing with it cannot be doubted, for, unless relieved, the public welfare would suffer in respects which constitute the primary and undisputed, as well as the most usual, basis and justification for the exercise of that power."

"In the enactment of these laws the Legislature of New York did not depend solely on the knowledge which its members had of the existence of the crisis. In January, 1919, almost two years before the laws complained of were enacted, the Governor of the State appointed a reconstruction commission, and about the same time the Legislature appointed a committee known as the Joint Legislative Committee on Housing, to investigate and report upon housing conditions in the cities of the State, and a few months later the Mayor of New York appointed a similar committee."

"The membership of these committees comprised many men and women representative of the best intelligence, character and public service in the State and of the nation. Their investigations were elaborate and thorough, and in their reports placed before the Legislature all agree:

"That there was a very great shortage in dwelling house accommodations in the cities of the State to which the acts apply; that this condition was causing widespread distress; that extortion in oppressive forms was flagrant in rent profiteering; that, for the purpose of increasing rents, legal process was being abused and eviction was being resorted to as never before, and that unreasonable and extortionate increases of rent had frequently resulted in two or more families being obliged to occupy an apartment adequate only for one family, with a consequent overcrowding, which was resulting in insanitary conditions, disease, immorality, discomfort and widespread social discontent."

"If this Court were disposed, as it is not, to ignore the notorious fact that a grave social problem has arisen from the insufficient supply of dwellings in all large cities of this and other countries, resulting from the cessation of building activities incident to the war, nevertheless, these reports and the very great respect which courts must give to the legislative declaration that an emergency existed would be amply sufficient to sustain an appropriate resort to the police power for the purpose of dealing with it in the public interest."

"The argument heard in these cases and further examination of the subject confirms us in the assumption made in the Marcus Brown Company case that the emergency declared existed when the acts were passed."

"It is strenuously argued that the relation of landlord and tenant is a private one and is not so affected by a public inter-

Real Estate Broker Needs Nerve, Optimism and Enthusiasm

Lawrence B. Elliman Relates His Own Experiences on the Road to Success to Stimulate Members of Y. M. C. A. Realty Class

DISCUSSING the selling of apartment houses and residences before the Real Estate Class of the West Side Branch of the Y. M. C. A., on Tuesday evening, Lawrence B. Elliman, one of the most widely known brokers in that field of real estate activity, told some interesting experiences and observations based on twenty-five years as a broker primarily in the Fifth, Madison and Park avenue neighborhoods. Mr. Elliman was introduced by J. Irving Walsh, treasurer of the Real Estate Board of New York, in the absence of William B. Cardozo, vice-president of the Farmers' Loan & Trust Company, who was ill.

Beginning in a reminiscent vein, Mr. Elliman said: "It will be twenty-five years next month since I started in business for myself, when the firm of Pease & Elliman was formed. It has been, most of the time, a very busy quarter of a century. There is no royal road to real estate success in this town of ours. It is all up to the man to make or unmake a good business here. I have seen men come and go, some most interesting and some most uninteresting. It has been my humble portion to witness many phases of this city's market for realty and the varied phases of it demonstrate the great changes, usually for the better, that happen to real estate here.

"Without desiring to boost number one, perhaps some of my early experiences as a broker may interest you gentlemen, most of whom, I take it, are just beginning your march along the highway of real estate success. Perhaps I may be an inspiration to you. I would rather be that than a discouragement. The late S. Osgood Pell, a mighty fine gentleman, who met an untimely end in a railroad accident at Long Beach a few years ago, was my early mentor and guide in the business which I have made my life work. He was a man of whose personality one felt the force whether in business or otherwise. In those days the name of his firm was Pell & Graves. He always used to say to me: 'Lawrence, if you are going to knock an apple off the tree, be sure and aim high and hit a good one.' Well, gentlemen, I have always aimed high and I must confess that I have obtained some pretty good apples.

"When I entered the real estate business," Mr. Elliman continued, "I was a young fellow who had not reached maturity. My family thought that it was awful, terrible, for me to cast my lot that way. What they thought a real estate man was akin to I do not know, but you can imagine. My first work in life was as a clerk in the bacteriological department of the tubercular division of the Board of Health of this city. There I was under the direction and supervision of the famous physician, Dr. Hermann Biggs. He taught me business system so thoroughly that it has been invaluable to me through life. And here I desire to allude to a phase of my work that had a bearing on my later work in the real estate field. Dr. Biggs maintained a card index system in the tubercular division that kept him in touch with the address of every tubercular case in the city. It was my duty to record new cases and tabulate them, with all particulars, in the office. I became an expert student of microbes and of men as well. One study went with the other.

"When we embarked in the real estate business Mr. Pease and myself took over the business of the firm of Riker & Sons. It was an old and conservative firm. They had no easy method of referring to names of owners of real estate, of given properties or given neighborhoods. They had no quick method of finding out all the particulars of any parcel. We were younger than our business forbears and perhaps we had some ideas that they did not have. At any rate, I thought that it would be a valuable reference system if I installed in our office a card index method of finding the full particulars of properties in this city. So I applied the Board of Health system to real estate and instead of keeping track of tubercular cases we kept track of live real estate cases. It proved invaluable from the start and enabled us to get quick action.

"The size and value of apartment houses, especially in the best neighborhoods," said Mr. Elliman, "have changed markedly during the last twenty years. It has been said that apartment houses degenerate in twenty years and that others spring up, with time and structural improvements, that surpass them. Neighborhoods change. No one can surely tell what will happen. Living conditions change within a generation or less. There is now under way a larger and stronger appeal for living in the country.

"There are few if any individual builders of large apartment houses now. Corporations are usually formed for the purpose or co-operative syndicates. In the better neighborhoods the group or co-operative plan is supplanting even the building corporation. Some call it roof ownership. Some question the advisability of it. I want to state that if the financing is on sound principles there is no danger whatever from co-operative apartment house owning or construction. When properly carried out it is a cheap way to live. Twenty years ago it was a big apartment house that cost $500,000 and was covered by a five-year mortgage. Now, apartment houses range in cost from $1,000,000 to $3,000,000 and more and with mortgages of much longer terms and sizes. The government figures an annual depreciation of two per cent. on apartment houses. It should be a larger sum in the light of constantly changing conditions in this city and the cost of upkeep.

"This year and next will witness great apartment house construction in this city. Already eleven large buildings are under way in the premier Park avenue section alone. More are planned for and many are under way in other parts of the municipality. There is one statement that I here desire to emphasize. Speculative builders, corporate and individual, have got to be educated up to new plot prices. There are a scarcity of good plots unless there be many in the outer reaches of town. Let me say that an increase of $50,000 on the cost of a plot is not much on a property improvement to cost $1,000,000 and more. Nowadays, the builder has to be helped to finance his operation. Obtaining the loan from the lending institution on the best terms possible and fixing all the phases of it is part of the day's work. It has become so that in the finer neighborhoods the rich seller of a property to a builder often helps in the financing.

"The exchanging and trading of property is gradually coming again into favor. This is a branch of the business that requires great caution and technical knowledge and ability to satisfy each party to the deal that he is well within the line of safety. Much tact must be exercised in the bringing of the two minds together for final action.

"It is an essential part of a real estate broker's business to make up people's minds for them. It is a solemn fact that many persons do not know their own minds. Perhaps I don't know mine on some subject extraneous from real estate. Make it your business never to let a buyer talk you down. Hold him up on your argument as you would hold a drowning man to a life line. Acquaint yourself thoroughly with and believe in your proposition. During the first six months I was in business I did not make a nickel. Nevertheless, I made up my mind I would stick and offset the loss. I am glad I stuck. I learned a whole lot during that six months. Among other things I learned why I did not make a nickel. Don't lose your nerve nor your optimism. Above all keep your enthusiasm up to strong tension. I wish to say that a real estate man may possess practically all of the combined qualities that bring success; but, if he lacks enthusiasm, the quality that carries conviction home to the buyer, then he might as well be an ignoramus or a graven image. Never give up while there is a sign of life. One of our brokers recently sold a million dollar country estate after working six years on the proposition. It was a glorious triumph and a nice piece of business.

"Study your business thoroughly. Know all of its ramifications. Read the RECORD AND GUIDE thoroughly. It will keep you in touch with much that you should know. The men who make big money in the real estate business, as in every other, are those who think constructively along big lines. You must bring to the big fellow the big propositions that show big opportunities. Establish the confidence of the big fellows in your capacity. It takes time, as all things real do. You grow as you go along. Unless a man be keen he will not thrive largely. Encourage a love for your business; just for the love of it. It helps wondrously. I love the game whether I make money or not. I love to match the minds of the fellows playing for the big real estate stakes. It is one of the joys of living, a mental tonic. Sometimes the game is long drawn out, but go on undaunted to success. It is a real man's work and worthy of all his powers to endure and accomplish. Above all things be absolutely honest. No man except a fool is dishonest. Use your brains. The first time you approach a principal be brief and to the point. Be sincere. You have then made the right impression. A broker, however, should never let an owner know more about real estate than he does. So, therefore, keep well informed on neighborhoods and changing conditions.

"I would say to a beginner in the selling of real estate to get into the canvassing department of a first-class real estate concern. There you learn to obtain and keep all the details of particular properties, such as whether a house is American basement or high stoop, the number of rooms and their layout, the heating apparatus, the mortgage and the lease upon it, if any, and everything about its general condition. In this department your mind gets in the habit of grasping essentials. A salesman should always tell a

Will Not Call Special Session for Lockwood Bills

Governor Miller Turns Down Counsel Untermeyer's Demand That Legislature Be Reconvened to Further Consider Measures Which Failed of Passage

(Special to the RECORD AND GUIDE)

Albany, March 23.

SOME measure of the work accomplished by the Legislature in the session which came to an end last Friday may be had by taking into account the fact that 780 bills are now awaiting action, favorable or otherwise, by Governor Miller. The chief executive of the State has announced that public hearings will be held on any of these bills if requests are made.

All prospect of a special session to consider the Lockwood bills that failed of passage was emphatically set at rest by the Governor early this week when he replied to Samuel Untermeyer's appeal for the convening of an extraordinary session.

The chief counsel for the Lockwood Committee had thrown aspersions upon Speaker Machold, Assemblyman McWhinney, even upon Senator Charles C. Lockwood himself in respect to what happened in the final hours of the session to many of the bills fathered by the Lockwood Committee. The Governor has not as yet indicated what action he will take upon the housing bills which ran the gauntlet of both legislative chambers but he took Mr. Untermeyer severely to task for criticising the Legislature for not passing bills which were not introduced until March 2, although the date of adjournment was definitely fixed by concurrent resolution adopted by both houses on February 13, and was tentatively announced much earlier.

In his letter to Mr. Untermeyer the Governor declared:

"You and Senator Lockwood called on me in December and outlined the legislative program which you proposed to recommend. Yet, notwithstanding your great ability and the fact you had been giving intensive study to the subject for a long time, you were unable to prepare the bills for introduction until the Assembly committees had practically ceased to hold hearings, and even then amendments were required which you yourself thought necessary.

"I do not intend to imply any criticism whatever from the delay in introducing the bills until just before adjournment, but on the other hand you should not indulge in unwarranted assaults upon the Legislature for not accepting out of hand measures of far reaching importance, which had taken you so long to prepare.

"You charge others with inserting 'jokers' in the rate regulation bill. Does it not occur to you that in a matter involving a new departure in State policy of such great consequence as the establishment of a State trade commission the Legislature might wish ample time to carefully consider a measure which it had taken you so long to draft, not from any suspicion that you might have 'jokers' in the bill but in order to be sure that your views as to what the bill should provide were in accordance with the views of the Legislature? It is not an uncommon thing for the recommendations of a legislature committee involving a comprehensive program to be laid over for a year for a full consideration, and that course was followed with respect to the recommendations of the Davenport committee on taxation this year.

"If the trade commission bill had been passed there would have been, as you admit, no reason for continuing the Lockwood committee, and whilst as you say the Lockwood committee has not got jurisdiction to inquire into all of the matters that would have been within the jurisdiction of the proposed commission, yet I do not think it is unwise to allow ample time for the consideration of such a measure, and I do not think you are justified in getting excited or making reckless charges because the Assembly wanted more time to consider it, especially in view of the fact that the Lockwood committee itself, which had been considering the subject for a long time, was unable to make a recommendation on the subject and only reported the bill for the consideration of the Legislature.

"I do not hesitate to say that with certain changes suggested by me on the night of adjournment, which Senator Lockwood himself thought it wise to make, the trade commission bill appears to me to be a sound measure, and whilst, generally speaking, I am opposed to the creation of more regulatory bodies, State or Federal, I did reach the conclusion that in view of the disclosures of the Lockwood committee of illegal practices, the proven inadequacy of the ordinary machinery of justice to uncover such practices, and the growth in recent years of associations having the power and the inevitable tendency to fall into unlawful ways, there was sufficient reason to justify the establishment of a commission with power to investigate unlawful acts and to license associations of competitors, so that business men could know what they could lawfully do, such associations could be kept within lawful purposes and unlawful practices could be uncovered, but I am unwilling to coerce the Legislature into taking hasty action upon a measure of such vast importance by calling an extraordinary session. You have been studying this subject for months, and as a result of this study you have produced a bill just before the Legislature adjourned. I think the Legislature is entitled to ample time to study your production.

"Meanwhile the Lockwood committee has been continued in existence.

"I am glad to see you retract the hasty charge which you made against Superintendent Stoddard in your interview published in yesterday's papers. You ought to retract the equally unjustifiable charge against Speaker Machold which you reiterated in your letter to me.

"The two so-called 'jokers,' which you charged to have been inserted in the rate regulation bill at the behest of a wicked lobby, were inserted as the result of a conference between Senator Lockwood, Speaker Machold and myself. Senator Lockwood thought they were unnecessary because they were based on such sound and universally followed practice that the Superintendent of Insurance would observe them in any case. As you well know, when the Legislature delegates authority to an administrative body it must set up some standard. In my opinion, it is the wise policy for the Legislature to incorporate sound and established principles in measures of that kind and not to leave it to the discretion of administrative officers to observe them or not as they might see fit. We have too much government at discretion now, and wherever it is possible, law, not individual will or discretion, should govern.

"The foregoing disposes of two or three purposes which you specified for calling an extraordinary session. The other matters referred to by you do not by themselves justify such an unusual course."

While the Governor's letter might reasonably be expected to dispel signs of friction within the Lockwood Committee and between some members of the committee and its chief counsel echoes of the disturbance created by the diatribes of Mr. Untermeyer are still heard at the Capitol. Assemblyman McWhinney is understood to have demanded an apology from Mr. Untermeyer, Speaker Machold has denied accusations made by the Lockwood Committee's chief counsel and Mr. Untermeyer himself has retracted the charges he made against Superintendent of Insurance Stoddard but reiterated his protestations against the Insurance Lobby and other evil influences which he alleged had helped to kill some of his pet measures, while Senator Lockwood himself is still smarting under the accusation that he was "fooled" into allowing "jokers" to be incorporated at the last moment in the measures that passed. What effect all this will have on the future work of the committee is problematical.

Governor Miller is expected to sign the Gibbs bill licensing real estate brokers which passed in the last days of the Legislature. He vetoed a similar measure last year. The various real estate boards of the State are strongly in favor of the bill and are urging the Governor to approve it. Under this bill, which was introduced by Senator Gibbs, the State tax commission is made the licensing body. In cities of the first class the fees shall be $25 for a real estate broker and $5 for a real estate salesman. In second class cities, brokers, $15; salesmen, $3; in all other places brokers, $10 salesmen, $2.

est as to render it subject to regulations by the exercise of the police power," continued the court.

"It is not necessary to discuss this contention at length, for so early as 1906, when the constitutionality of the Tenement House Act of New York, enacted in 1901, was assailed as an unconstitutional interference with the right of property in land on substantially all of the grounds now urged against the Emergency Housing Laws, this court affirmed a decree of the Court of Appeals of New York, sustaining regulations requiring large expenditures by landlords as a valid exercise of the police power."

"To require uncompensated expenditures very certainly affects the right of property in land as definitely and often as seriously as regulation of the amount of rent that may be charged for it can do. Many decisions of this court were cited as sufficient to justify the summary disposition there made of the question, as one even then so settled by authority as not to be longer open to discussion."

Justice Clarke cited several precedents used in the Block case on this same point. He said that the authorities showed that for a generation the Supreme Court had held "that there is no such inherent difference in property in land from that in tangible and intangible personal property as exempts it from the operation of the police power in appropriate cases, and in both the Marcus Brown and Block cases it was held in terms that the existing circumstances clothe the letting of buildings for dwelling purposes with a public interest sufficient to justify restricting property rights in them to the extent provided for in the laws in those cases objected to."

Would Reduce City Expenditures $58,750,000 Annually

Meyer Committee Suggests Making Docks, Ferries and Subways Self-Supporting and Advocates Other Reforms in Conduct of Municipal Finances

BY making the city's investments in its docks, ferries and subways pay their own way instead of being run at a loss, together with other changes in municipal administration, the Meyer Committee in its report to the Legislature last Monday expressed the belief that $58,750,000 annually could be saved for the taxpayers. The report severely criticises the present methods of conducting the finances of the city, especially the issue of short-term securities to care for its floating debt. "As the debt is never redeemed, but met by the issue of new papers," says the report, "temporary" is a misnomer. It is as 'permanent' as any part of the debt, but not a limitation to incurring further debts." The total debt of the city on December 31, 1921, is given as $1,224,475,347.51, of which $1,110,795,697.51 is funded and $113,679,650 floating debt.

Taking up the question of revenue from the docks, ferries and subways the report declares that the city is getting $17,000,000 less than a fair rental value for its docks, that the city's subways, instead of costing it $7,500,000 in interest as they did last year, should bring a return, and that the city's ferries showed a loss of at least $2,000,000 last year, which should be wiped out.

The proposed economies or increased revenues, making the total of $58,750,000, as outlined by the committee, are as follows:

Docks	$17,000,000
Subways (amortization and interest on bonds).....	7,250,000
Ferries	2,000,000
Actuarial payment of funded debt.....	4,000,000
Retrenchment from 3% to 10% on city's expenses of administration (3%)	5,500,000
Saving by advancing the tax dates.....	5,500,000
Saving by bringing County Government under the jurisdiction of the city	2,500,000
Additional State appropriation for schools.....	15,000,000
Total	$58,750,000

The committee makes the following recommendations:

1. Changing the tax dates from May 1 and Nov. 1 to Jan. 1 and July 1, under a system of gradual change to the prior month, and annex a copy of the proposed bill for that purpose.
2. Restoration of the "Pay-as-you-go" policy, as enacted in 1916.
3. Abolition of the sinking funds at the earliest day practicable and of the Sinking Fund Commission. Care of the funds to be vested in the Comptroller.
4. Repeal of the general fund bond legislation, and the application of all sinking fund receipts to the payment of interest and reduction of the city debt, and specifically of the application of funds received from income-paying property to the debts created for the acquisition of such properties.

5. Placing public utilities on a self-supporting and independent basis, with separate profit and loss accounts.

6. Inauguration of an actuarial system of payments to provide for the existing debt, and the inauguration of a new serial bond system on the same basis to provide for new debt.

7. Amending Section 10, Article 8, of the Constitution in accordance with the recommendations of this report.

8. Simplification of government through such constitutional amendment and enactment of statutes in accordance with the terms of this report.

Three recommendations, previously made, are resubmitted, as follows: Establishment of a finance board to consist of nine members, three to be elected every other year.

A Dock Commission of three members, to be appointed by the Mayor, one from a list submitted by maritime interests; one from nominees of the New York Chamber of Commerce, and a chairman with an eight-year term.

A Board of Education appointed on non-political lines with complete autonomy.

The report declares that the city has run in debt approximately $100,000 a day since Greater New York was incorporated.

"The funded debt has fluctuated around the constitutional debt limit for ten years," the report says. "The tax rate has risen until it has reached, if not passed, the constitutional tax limit. The power of assessment has been resorted to by the city administration, which controls the Department of Taxes and Assessments, until the assessment has reached approximately 94 per cent. of the actual value, a rate much higher than the rest of the State.

"The net debt of the city as of December 31, 1921, was $1,224,475,347.51, of which $1,110,795,697.51 was funded and $113,679,650 floating debt represented by revenue bonds, special revenue bonds and tax notes. The total net debt as of December 31, 1911, was $809,353,129.29, of which $756,711,343.05 was funded and $52,641,786.24 floating debt. The present debt amounts to $217.64 per capital of the population. The budget for 1921 was $345,530,049.77 and for 1911 $173,967,835.16."

Abolition of the three sinking funds, the City of New York, rapid transit and water sinking funds, and of the Sinking Fund Commission, is another recommendation. The report says: "The total amount held by the sinking funds on December 31, 1921, was $605,590,922. Taxes have been increased by taking funds which should be applied to keep down debt service for expenses of administration, this in effect increasing to that extent the 2 per cent. constitutional tax limitation and by adding instead of deducting the amount of such funds to debt service which has no constitutional limitation."

In the West End Avenue-Stern case the Court held that the Marcus Brown case must be followed. In both the cases the tenant insisted on possession after his lease expired.

The assertion of Mr. Siegel, that the second lease which he signed was forced by threats of eviction, was said by Justice Clarke to fall within the terms of Chapter 944 of the Emergency Housing laws which allowed action to be brought on the ground that "such rent is unjust and unreasonable and that the agreement under which the same is sought to be recorded is oppressive."

Mr. Siegel had offered to pay his old rent, and Justice Clarke's opinion pointed out that the Emergency Housing laws provided that "nothing therein contained shall prevent a plaintiff from pleading and proving in such action a fair and reasonable rent for the premises and recovering judgment therefor."

The contention was made before the Court that the validity of Chapter 944 was not directly presented in the Marcus Brown case and that the impairment of contracts clause of the constitution was not considered or decided in that case as it had to be in the Levy and Siegel cases.

"The first answer," said Justice Clarke, "is that the defense sustained in this case by the court below was provided for by Chapter 136 of the Laws of New York in effect when the lease involved was executed. The provision was simply carried into Chapter 944 when that chapter was amended in September, 1920.

"As far as the second point, the Court cited its opinion in the Block vs.

Hirsch case, and said that 'in the present case more emphasis is laid upon the impairment of the obligation of the contract of the lessees to surrender possession and of the new lease which was to have gone into effect upon October 1 of last year. But contracts are made subject to this exercise of the power of the State when otherwise justified as we have held this to be.'"

One of the arguments made in the Siegel case was that the housing law provision allowing suit on the ground of unjust and unreasonable rent was too indefinite a standard to satisfy the due process of law clause of the Constitution.

"While the act is in force there is little to decide except as to whether the rent allowed is reasonable, and upon that question the courts are given the last word," said Justice Clarke's opinion. "The standard of the statute is as definite as the 'just compensation' standard adopted in the Fifth Amendment to the Constitution, and therefore ought to be sufficiently definite to satisfy the Constitution."

In conclusion Justice Clarke said:

"Several other contentions are pressed upon the attention of the Court, chiefly with respect to the modifications of the remedial statutes, but such as were not specifically dealt with in the Marcus Brown Company and Block cases impress us as quite unimportant. Given a constitutional substantive statute, enacted to give effect to a constitutional purpose, the States have a wide discretion as to the remedies which may be deemed necessary to achieve such a result and it is very clear that that discretion has not been exceeded in this instance by the State of New York.

"It results that judgments of the State court must be affirmed."

Review of Real Estate Market for the Current Week

Large Apartment Houses Formed a Prime Factor of Dealing, While the Sale of Business Leaseholds and Loft Buildings Were Features

THERE were enough good sized transactions in the market this week, to give tone and character to it. In its general trend the week was as good as the several weeks that preceded it. Of marked interest was the sale of a large Madison avenue corner site, a few doors from the Carnegie mansion, for reimprovement with a 12-story apartment house of the best class. In fact, elevator apartment house sales gave body to the dealing. Two such buildings, that overlook Central Park, were sold at an aggregate sum of half a million dollars; while other similar buildings in the northern parts of the city also changed hands. Upper Park avenue apartment house sites were conspicuous among the sales of the week.

A sale that attracted some attention was that of the northern corner of Third avenue and 59th street, a part of town whose business and traffic importance is steadily growing. The sale of the fee of a one thousand year leasehold, made 72 years ago, to the tenant of the building was a striking feature of activity downtown. Another interesting fee that passed to the occupant of the building, was that of 1819 Broadway, which is part of the site of the new Gotham National Bank building, the bank being the buyer.

Some fine private dwellings were bought in various parts of the city and several of them were acquired by the tenants. The activity of tenants in the investment field appears to be growing. A Riverside Drive corner dwelling was among the sales, as well as some near Fifth avenue.

There was a healthy demand for small loft and mercantile buildings from 59th street southward. In the light of the fact that the buyers will occupy them it shows that there is abundant investment money among merchants. It all shows a tendency to secure permanency of business location in given districts. There were also numerous leases of entire loft buildings to single tenants, for long terms. The lines of business are varied as are the neighborhoods.

Walk-up apartment houses in both Manhattan and the Bronx were in good demand. Washington Heights and upper Harlem, especially, are contributing much of this kind of dealing, with the prospects of more as Spring approaches.

PRIVATE REALTY SALES.

THE total number of sales reported but not recorded in Manhattan this week, was 77 as against 83 last week and 117 a year ago.

The number of sales south of 59th st was 28 as compared with 22 last week and 47 a year ago.

The number of sales north of 59th st was 49 as compared with 61 last week and 70 a year ago.

From the Bronx 21 sales at private contract were reported, as against 41 last week and 36 a year ago.

Statistical tables, including the number of recorded instruments, will be found on page 372.

Will Reimprove Madison Av. Corner

Pease & Elliman, in conjunction with Harris, Vought & Co. sold for the Daiiada Realty Co. to Dr. Philip Meirowitz, builder, 1240-1242 Madison av and 17-25 East 89th st, forming the northwest corner of the two thoroughfares, five 5-sty brick apartment houses, on a plot, 164x100.8½, the larger measurement being in the street. The buyer will reimprove the site with a 12-sty apartment house. The property adjoins the residence of Lawrence L. Gillespie and it is in the rear of the property owned by the late Andrew Carnegie.

Broadway Parcel Resold

Charles F. Noyes Co. resold for Schulte Realty Co. to Denison Realty Corporation, 384-386 Broadway, a 6-sty basement and sub-cellar building extending through to Cortlandt Alley and covering a plot of about 8,000 square feet. The sale was made subject to a lease to the Schulte organization to May 1, 1938, on a net rental basis. The property is assessed for taxes at $210,000, and the transaction, including the lease, aggregates $497,000.

Another 125th Street Corner Sold

Alexander Henschel sold for the Roanoke Realty Co., Edward Nicholson, president, to the Gruber Lunch Co., Sam Gruber, president, the southeast corner of 125th st and St. Nicholas av, a site 100x90, improved with 5-sty apartment houses with stores. They rent for $50,000 and were held at $400,000. It was an all cash transaction, the seller being represented by Bernard Gluck, attorney, and the buyer by Engel Bros.

This completes the sale of the four corners at this point within a year. G. L. Lawrence sold the southwest corner, a 2-sty taxpayer, for about $350,000; Benenson Bros. sold the northwest corner for $390,000, and the Gantz estate disposed of the northeast corner, a vacant site, for $140,000.

Operator in Numerous Deals

Isidore B. Geller has closed numerous transactions, valued at $750,000. He purchased 151 Vermilyea av, a 5-sty and basement brick apartment house, on a plot, 50x150, and immediately resold it to Mabel Dryer through O'Reilly & Dahn, brokers. It rents for $16,000 and was held at $90,000.

Mr. Geller sold 227 to 233 East 98th st, two 6-sty brick tenement houses with stores, on a plot 75x100.11, to Nathan Lieber through Joseph P. Day and J. Reich. The property rents for $16,000 and was held at $100,000. He also resold 525 West 135th st, a 5-sty brick apartment house, on a plot 40x99.11, to Augusta L. Haaker, a client of Coughlan & Co. The property rents for $13,000 and was held at $75,000.

Recently Mr. Geller purchased 517 and 519 West 135th st, each 40x100, and sold 519 to a client of Zachary M. Delman, and 517 to Jules Cabourg through H. T. Woods. Each house was held at $70,000. He also sold 521 West 135th st, 40x100, to the Perlestein Realty Co. through Mehlich & Co.

Park Ave. Corner in New Hands

Julian T. Saxe sold for Edward S. McLaughlin to Samuel A. Herzog the two 5-sty apartment houses at 933-935 Park av, southeast corner of 81st st, on a site fronting 51 feet on the avenue and 100 feet on the street, and valued at $250,000. The new owner has been prominently identified with the erection of several big apartment structures on the east and west sides. He plans next year to reimprove the property with a 14-sty structure, which it is estimated will cost $600,000.

Cass Ledyard Jr. Sells Home

Lewis Cass Ledyard, Jr., sold the 5-sty American basement dwelling, 20x100.5, at 40 East 74th st, between Park and Madison avs, to a well-known New Yorker, who will occupy. The property was held at $140,000. It has permanent side light west of the extension. The house adjoins the new 40-foot home of George Whitney of the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co. Douglas Gibbons & Co. were the brokers. Mr. Ledyard bought the property in 1916 from Charles MacVeagh, who rebuilt it several years previously.

Gotham Bank Buys Leasehold

Estate of Amos R. Eno sold to the Gotham National Bank 1819 Broadway, containing 2,300 square feet and being part of the site of the bank's new 25-sty building at the northwest corner of Broadway and 59th st. It had been leased from the Eno estate by the buyer and the term would have expired in a few years. The price was $400,000.

Application to sell the property for the above price has been made by the temporary executors, Lucius H. Beers and William P. Eno, to the Surrogate's Court, and the parties to the will are said to have consented to the sale at this figure. The city assesses the parcel for taxation purposes at $245,000.

The End of a 1,000-Year Lease

Joseph F. Cullman sold to L. C. Gillespie & Sons (John F. Gillespie) the fee to the plot located on Maiden la, Front and Fletcher sts; also, the adjoining plot 153 Maiden la, through to Fletcher st, 20x50. This gives Gillespie Bros. a plot 60 feet on Maiden la, with a similar frontage on Fletcher st and 50 feet on Front st, on which they are to construct a 7-sty office building, plans of which have been drawn by Delano & Aldrich, to house their various enterprises.

In 1920 Gillespie Bros. bought the 1,000-year lease on the Front st and Maiden la plot from Robert P. Lister, but in perfecting their building plans found that the plot was too small and negotiations have just been completed for the sale of the fee to the leasehold and the adjoining property which Mr. Cullman bought in 1919. The interesting feature to this lease was that it was made in 1850 and was for a straight period of 1,000 years without renewals or increased rentals. Thus, as Gillespie Bros. take title to this fee and merge the fee and the lease, it will automatically bring to a close the lease which has over 900 years to run. Butler & Baldwin, Inc., were the brokers in the transaction.

Overlooking Central Park

Abraham Saffir sold for A. E. Jawer, of Philadelphia, Pa., to the Stalwart Realty Corporation the Ashford, a 6-sty elevator apartment house at 131 West 110th st, on plot 150x71. This property, which is arranged for 48 families, was held at $325,000. It faces upper Central Park and was erected a few years ago by the Merritt Ferguson Construction Co., who immediately sold it to the present seller.

Sells Riverside Drive Dwelling

Designed by Stanford White, the 4-sty brick and stone American basement dwelling, on a plot 35.8½x75, at 187 Riverside dr, south corner of 91st st, has been sold by the New York Trust Co. through William R. Ware to Florence de G. Shaw. The buyer will occupy the premises.

Tenant Buys 59th Street Parcel

Cammann, Voorhees & Floyd sold for the Raynham Realty Co 43 East 59th st, a 4-sty brick remodeled building used for stores and apartments, on a lot 16.8x100.5, to Mrs. Mary C. Flynn, a tenant in possession, who will continue to occupy the premises.

Good East Side Corner Sold

Manning & Trunk sold for Milton M. Dryfoos to W. J. Daniel, for cash, 991 Third av, northeast corner of 59th st, a 5-sty brick building, on a lot 20.1x80. It adjoins the Queens Theatre. The parcel is assessed at $85,000.

The United Cigar Stores Co. hold the premises under a net lease having several years still to run, and the ground floor is occupied by the United Retail Candy Stores, Inc.

Brewers Sell Second Ave. Corner

Folsom Bros., Inc., sold for the F. & M. Schaeffer Brewing Co. to the Seventy-ninth Street Amusement Corporation 1515-1519 Second av, southwest corner of 79th st, three 2-sty brick flats with stores, on a plot 51x105. On the site the buyer will erect a motion picture theatre.

Buys New Windsor Apartments

Slawson & Hobbs sold for the Orinoco Building Co. to an investor 294-295 Central Park West, a 7-sty and basement elevator apartment house, known as the New Windsor, on a plot 50.4x100.

Tenant Buys Fine Dwelling

Pease & Elliman sold for Mrs. George I. Malcolm to Stanley J. Halle, present lessee and tenant, 52 East 52d st, a 5-sty American basement brick and stone dwelling, on a lot 18x100.5.

av, on a plot 31.5x102, and known as 272 East Fordham rd, adjoining the new Aeolian Building, opposite the Valentine theatre and opposite the large plot leased by the Kress 5 and 10 cent store for a long term of years, which will be improved shortly. This is one of the choicest corners in Fordham. The sale of this corner completes the sale of the entire block by the same broker. It was held at $110,000 and was a cash transaction.

Kendall Estate Sells Tenements

Estate of Isaac C. Kendall sold to Lowenfeld & Prager, operators, the seven 5-sty brick front and rear tenement houses 224 to 230 West 18th st, on a plot 100x144.6x100.4x142.6. The street front tenements have stores in the ground floors.

Sells Co-operative Apartment

Douglas L. Elliman & Co. sold a co-operative apartment, consisting of 9 rooms and 3 baths, known as 10th floor south, in 876 Park av, southwest corner of 78th st, for the Edgar A. Levy Construction Co. to Louis Berizzi.

Davies Buys Bronx Block

The Bronx Heights Development Corporation, John D. Beals, president, sold to J. Clarence Davies the vacant block front on the east side of White Plains av, from 232d to 233d st. It has a frontage of 180 feet on White Plains av, 180 feet on 233d st and 130 feet on 232d st. Mr. Davies will improve the plot with 1-sty brick stores.

Builder Buys Bronx Sites

Charles Edelson sold for the estate of Florence V. Frazee to James J. Lamb the vacant plot, 50x114, on the south side of East 221st st, 100 feet east of Carpenter av; also for Anna M. Winters to Anthony Carella plot on Carpenter av, 208 feet north of 222d st. This is the first sale of the parcels in 40 years. The buyer will improve with dwellings.

A Big Brooklyn Sale

An improvement representing more than $1,000,000 is about to be made in the part of Flatbush close to Prospect Park and Prospect Park station of the Brighton subway. Cruikshank Co. sold for former Congressman Richard Young to the Prospect Park Homes Co., Inc., Harold N. Wittmann, president, represented by William H. Goldey, 70 lots having a frontage of 726 feet on Lefferts st and 674 feet on Sterling st, between Bedford and Flatbush av. About 70 high class 1 and 2-family houses, with garages, will be erected and sold.

This property is a part of the John A. Lefferts farm and has been in the possession of Mr. Young for a number of years.

Buys Long Island City Block Front

Franklin Pettit bought from Frank Kops and others the block front on the north side of Nelson av, from Buckley to Hulst sts, Long Island City, having dimensions 200x100. Negotiations are now on for the resale of this property by Mr. Pettit to a builder, who will improve the same with apartments similar to those now being erected on the Queens boulevard adjoining.

Sell Broadway Corner Leasehold

Meister Builders, Inc., resold to Morris Iazar the ground lease of the 5-sty brick elevator apartment house with stores, at the southwest corner of Broadway and 75th st, a plot 50.5½x95.11¼x48.6x81.2. Also, sold to the same buyer the ground lease of the adjoining properties, 228-234 West 75th st, four 4-sty and basement brick dwellings, a plot 67x102.2. The combined leasehold is for a term of 18 years and 8 months at an aggregate rental of $500,000. Ascher Strauss was the broker.

Congressman Hicks in Deal

Henry A. Rogers, of the Wheatley Hills Real Estate Corporation, sold to Henry Hill Anderson a tract of about 20 acres of land at Roslyn, Nassau County, L. I. Property is south of and adjoining the country estate of John H. Love and is north of and opposite the large country estate of Henry D. Walbridge. The tract was collected from three owners—1¼ acres were purchased from Thomas Mott and the balance was purchased from Congressman Frederick C. Hicks and the Frederick Eastman estate. The purchaser will improve the property with a modern house and garage for all year occupancy. This is the fifth sale made by the same broker in this part of Roslyn.

New Apartment House for Park Avenue

Bing & Bing bought the site, 76.6x82.2, at 1009-1013 Park av, adjoining the southeast corner of 85th st, which it will improve with a 14-sty elevator apartment house. The total outlay will be $1,000,000. To be composed of small suites, the building will be ready for occupancy in the autumn of 1923. The site for the new building was assembled by Electus T. Backus as broker. The adjoining 85th st corner is improved with a modern dwelling and garage, 25.6x82.2. No. 1009 contains a 3-sty building, and was sold by James Murray. The two adjoining parcels at

Nos. 1011 and 1013, old 5-sty flats, were sold by the Combined Real Estate Interests, Inc., which had owned them for several years.

Residence Near Fifth Avenue Sold

Mrs. Lillian S. Thomas purchased the 4-sty and basement brick and stone building at 4 East 67th st, from Fernando Wood, who acquired it about a year ago. The property, which adjoins the residence of Judge Elbert H. Gary, is on a plot 27x90.3. It is nearly opposite the home of George J. Gould at the northeast corner of Fifth av and 67th st. Francis B. Robert was the broker.

Tailer Residence Bought

Douglas Gibbons & Co. sold for Mrs. T. Suffern Tailor to a buyer, for occupancy, 11 East 61st st, a 5-sty brick American basement dwelling, on a lot 25x100.5. It contains a passenger and service elevator. The name of the buyer stands at present as the 11 East 51st Street Corporation. The house, which was designed by the late Stanford White, was built by the Marquis of Queensberry and was purchased from him by John T. Pratt, who eventually built his residence at No. 8, adjoining. The new owner of the Tailor house will have as his neighbors, besides Mr. Pratt, Pembroke Jones, Moses Taylor Pyne, Charles Sabin and Frederick Watruss.

MORTGAGE LOANS

Lawrence, Blake & Jewell placed for the Title Guarantee & Trust Co. a loan of $500,000 to the Fred F. French Co. on the new building, covering a plot 100x70, at the north corner of Fifth av and 95th st.

Ruland & Benjamin negotiated a first mortgage loan of $200,000 on the 10-sty business building 17-19 West 45th st, and a first mortgage loan of $5,000 on a 2-family house at 2034 Morris av, Bronx.

Two loans totaling $1,500,000 have been placed by S. W. Straus & Co. on the new apartment houses to be erected at 300 Riverside dr, northeast corner of 102d st, by Albert and Harris Sokolski from plans by George F. Pelham, architect. The loan on the structure, which will contain 111 apartments, is $1,240,000. The smaller building, 9 stories high, to contain 26 apartments, gets a loan of $260,000. This structure adjoins the large one and will have a frontage of 55 feet on West 102d st and a depth of 100.11 feet. The total valuation of the land and buildings is placed at $2,200,000. Together they will house 137 families in suites of from 4 to 6 rooms.

FOR THE GREATER CONVENIENCE OF OUR CUSTOMERS WE HAVE JUST ORGANIZED A

Water Heating and House Heating Division

AT No. 130 EAST FIFTEENTH STREET

TELEPHONE STUYVESANT 4900

HERE will be experts who will give prompt attention to those who are considering the use of Gas either for Heating Water or the Heating of a House, Apartment, Loft or Large Building.

Architects and Builders, with advantage to themselves and their clients, should ask for the services of one of our highly qualified Experts. His services are gratis.

As to Gas Water Heating: There are Gas Water Heaters for use in the Home, Office or Factory. Then again we install a Gas Water Heating System that will furnish a large building with an instantaneous, uninterrupted, Summer or all-year-round supply of hot water.

Many private houses are using this System, as well as many large buildings. One of the latter requires nearly 40,000 gallons of hot water every week. Another large building requires nearly 6,000 gallons a day, every drop of which is Gas heated.

After the Gas Boiler is installed it requires no attention. The Boiler regulates itself automatically.

Every person interested in a newly constructed building, or one under construction or contemplated, or in a building being or about to be remodeled, should consider the advantages of Gas Water Heating.

Consolidated Gas Company of New York

GEO. B. CORTELYOU, President

Bookseller in $125,000 Lease

Alfred Somborn and Herbert Jacques Morris leased for Mayer L. Half the 4-sty and basement building, on lot 18.9x75, at 804 Sixth av. east side, between 45th and 46th sts., to Chagnon & Co. (Felix Long, proprietor), dealers in French books and periodicals. The lease is for a term of 21 years from May 1, 1922, and the rental aggregates $125,000.

Trinity Leasehold Bought

Ruland & Benjamin, Inc., sold for the Nestle's Food Co. the Trinity Church leasehold at 65-67 North Moore st., a 6-sty and basement brick building, on a plot 45x87.10. After extensive alterations the building will be occupied by J. L. Kraft & Bros. Co., the buyers.

Another Chain Lunch Branch

Tankos, Smith & Co. leased for the United Cigar Stores Co. to the Capitol Lunch System, Samuel L. Bickford, president, for a long term of years, at a rental aggregating approximately $50,000, the large 9th st ground floor store in the building at the northwest corner of Fifth av and 9th st, Brooklyn. The premises will be altered from plans of F. R. Stuckert Co., architects, of Philadelphia, and upon completion of the work the Capitol Lunch will operate a branch establishment.

Fifth Avenue Apartment Leased

Douglas L. Elliman & Co. leased a large special duplex apartment of 14 rooms and 4 baths in the new building being erected at 920 Fifth av, south corner of 73d st, by J. E. R. Carpenter, to Mrs. Walter Gibb, a prominent resident of Brooklyn. Mrs. Gibb has occupied her large residence at 201 Columbia Heights for many years.

Club Leases Dwellings

The New York Alumni of the University of Pennsylvania leased the two 5-sty dwellings, 35-37 East 50th st, which the membership has been using for some time for meetings, dinners, &c. The lease is to be taken in the name of the Pennsylvania Alumni Realty Corporation, formed at Albany by Redding & Greeley, attorneys, and having a capital of $100,000. One identified with the plan has said that it would require but little alteration to convert the houses into a sizeable clubhouse. The buildings now contain 30 bedrooms. No. 35 is the home of Col. William Barclay Parsons, engineer. The two dwellings occupy a site 45x100 between Madison and Park av.

Prominent Lawyers to Move Uptown

The old buildings adjoining the Bar Association, on the site of the Bar Building which is to be erected at 36 West 44th st, through to 43d st, have been completely demolished and the foundation work for the new structure has started. The contractor, Charles L. Fraser, expects to be setting steel within 3 weeks. The structure will be completed and ready for occupancy next October.

Some of the largest and best known law firms and individual attorneys of the city are negotiating for space. Among those with whom leases have been closed are the following: Clarence DeWitt Rogers, Sullivan & Cromwell (branch office), Walter A. Hall, John B. Doyle, Charles P. Latting, Richard D. Eyre and Cadwalader, Wickersham & Taft (branch office).

Long West Side Lease

Frederick Fox & Co., Inc., leased for the estate of James Herrman to Sheppard Knapp Co., Inc., and the Associated Furniture Manufacturers, Inc., the entire 5-sty and basement building, 108-110 West 38th st. The property was formerly occupied by Maxim's restaurant. After extensive alterations the building will be used as a display-room for the sale of furniture, carpets and rugs.

Lease Lexington Av. Corner Store

Ruland & Benjamin, Inc., leased the large double store in the new building at the southeast corner of Lexington av and 90th st for the Rhinelander Realty Co. to the New York Telephone Co. Upon completion of the building the premises will be occupied by the telephone company for a commercial office.

Lease Opposite Flatbush Av. Terminal

Tankos, Smith & Co. leased to the Capitol Lunch System, Samuel L. Bickford, president, for a long term of years, at a rental aggregating approximately $250,000, the entire building owned by McLaughlin & Stern at 596 Atlantic av, facing the Flatbush av terminal of the Long Island Railroad. The lessee, from plans of F. R. Stuckert Co., architects, of Philadelphia, will thoroughly renovate the premises, and upon completion of same the ground floor and basement will be occupied as a branch establishment of the Capitol Lunch, who now own and operate stores throughout New York, Brooklyn, Pennsylvania and New England. Negotiations are pending through Tankos, Smith & Co. to sublease the entire upper portion of the building.

ADAMS & CO. leased for the John H. Taylor estate a floor in 20-26 West 22d st, containing 10,000 square feet, to the Hamilton Garment Co.; for the Harwitt Realty Co. a store in 835 Broadway to Max Harris, cotton goods and linings; and for William Wallach a store in 37-39 East 28th st to William Reiss & Co.

REAL ESTATE NOTES.

M. S. AMES will, on April 2, remove his real estate office from 7 East 42d st to Suite 1105 at 50 East 42d st.

ZETA PSI FRATERNITY is the buyer of the 5-sty dwelling 31 East 39th st, sold by Mrs. Katherine Davenport.

HOLBORN REALTY CO. (Bing & Bing) is the purchaser of the plot on the north side of 109th st, 100 feet west of Broadway, sold recently by Robert E. Dowling.

NEW YORK TITLE & MORTGAGE CO. has declared a regular dividend of two per cent, payable April 1, 1922, to stockholders of record as at March 22, 1922.

H. W. STERNBURGH has opened offices at 50 East 42d st, where he will carry on a general real estate business. He also represents the Julius Wielar syndicate, which will operate in Manhattan.

WHITNEY KERNOCHAN, of William J. Roome & Co., Inc., represented Raoul H. Fleischmann, treasurer of the General Baking Co., who is the purchaser of 151 East 74th st from Joseph E. Willard, former Ambassador to Spain, the sale of which was recently reported. The new owner will remodel and occupy.

CHARLES GALEWSKI, real estate operator, located for 5 years in 51 Chambers st, has leased a large suite of offices in the new S. W. Straus & Co. building at Fifth av and 46th st. The new offices are on the Fifth av side of the building and Mr. Galewski expects to occupy them on April 15.

MISS GRACE HUMISTON, who recently bought the 4 and 5-sty dwellings at 147 to 151 East 21st st, across from Gramercy Park, in which to establish a social club for girls, has sold that property and will lease it back from the new owner, Jessie W. Day, after necessary alterations have been made to the buildings for the occupancy of 72 girls. Deeds have been placed on record in the sale, the transfer being made subject to a mortgage of $72,000. Miss Humiston, who operates another club at 222 Madison av, opposite the J. P. Morgan residence, bought the 21st st property a month ago from the Land Map Realty Corporation.

Public Group Makes Final Effort to Avoid Building Strike

Neutral Committee of Financial and Civic Bodies Suggests Conference on March 28th Between Employers and Union Representatives

AS the result of the announcement made last Monday by the Building Trades Employers' Associations that it would refuse to make a new agreement with the Building Trades' Council, the Public Group Committee, representing financial, civic and business organizations, held a meeting in the Metropolitan Tower on Tuesday afternoon, at which it made a final effort to prevent the halting of local building programs by a strike on April 1.

Among those present at this meeting were Walter Stabler, of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co.; R. H. Shreve and Charles Butler, of the American Institute of Architects; Clarence H. Kelsey of the Title Guarantee & Trust Company; Martin Dodge, Lincoln Cromwell and C. S. Ching of the Merchants' Association; Lewis B. Gawtry of the Bank for Savings; W. R. Burgess of the Federal Reserve Bank and Messrs. Smith of the Bronx Board of Trade, Ledue of the Greenwich Savings Bank, Tighe of the New York Trust Company, Milliken of the Queensborough Chamber of Commerce and Wilson of the Bronx Board of Trade.

After a long discussion of the local labor situation this committee decided to make one further effort to bring the employers and union leaders together in conference for consideration of wage scale revisions prior to April 1. A letter was drafted and sent to Chairman C. C. Lockwood, of the Lockwood Joint Legislative Committee; Patrick Crowley, president of the Building Trades' Council and C. G. Norman, chairman of the Board of Governors of the Building Trades Employers' Association. This letter contained an invitation to each of the organizations to send a committee of three to meet three representatives of the public group at a meeting to be held in the Metropolitan Tower on Tuesday, March 28, at 3 o'clock.

According to the resolution adopted at the meeting last Monday afternoon, none of the groups is to be represented at the forthcoming meeting by counsel. This would eliminate Mr. Untermeyer, who is claimed by the public group to be the real stumbling block in the building trades negotiations.

The letter sent by the Public Group Committee to Senator Lockwood, President Crowley and Chairman Norman, was signed by Walter Stabler, Robert D. Kohn and Robert E. Simon, said:

"As you will recall, a meeting of some twenty civic commercial banking and insurance organizations interested in the building industry was held under the auspices of the Building Trades Employers' Association at the Engineers' Club on Jan. 4, 1922. As an outcome of the meeting a committee of five was appointed to confer with the officers of the Building Trades Council and the Employers' Association for the purpose of establishing some method of negotiation which would permit the representation of the public and thereby safe-guard the primary interest which the public has in this industry.

"After a consideration today of the report of this special committee, the Citizens Conference adopted the following preambles and resolutions:

"Whereas, after more than two months of negotiations conducted by the Committee of the Citizens' Conference in an effort to bring the Building Trades Employers' Association and the Building Trades Council together with representatives of the public in an attempt to have a working agreement reached by the two bodies in the present of the public, and

"Whereas, if some agreement is not reached we are reliably informed that building operations in the city are liable to be discontinued about April 1.

"Now, therefore, be it resolved that as a final effort to bring together the two parties to this difference, we now formally and publicly invite a committee of three each from the Lockwood committee, the Building Trades Council and the Building Trades Employers' Association to meet the undersigned three members of the public group, none of the groups to be represented by counsel at this conference.

"Believing that only good can come from a round table discussion at this time we urge you respectfully to take the necessary steps to see that this invitation is accepted."

In Mr. Norman's statement to the Public Group he recalled that the reason the employers made an agreement in 1919 with the council for all the unions and all the employers was that the unions were out of hand and were violating existing agreements.

"The Lockwood committee is a political body," he said, "which has disqualified itself from acting as a conciliator or arbitrator. Its counsel has for some time been a legal adviser of the unions in the clothing industry, and has unqualifiedly committed himself on the question of wages and of conditions of employment which should prevail in the building industry. He is a prejudiced partisan, who is now acting in an advisory capacity to the Building Trades Council."

Chairman Norman of the Building Trades Employers' Association, stated that the proposal of the Public Group Committee would undoubtedly be acceptable to his organization, notwithstanding the objections raised to treating with the Council as a body.

President Crowley of the Building Trades' Council, however, stated in an interview that he would endeavor if necessary to have Samuel Untermeyer made a delegate of the Marble Cutters' union so that the employers would find it difficult to refuse to meet him.

The stipulation of the Public Group Committee that none of the groups is to be represented by counsel in the forthcoming meeting was the result of a letter received by the committee from the Building Trades Employers' Association, signed by C. G. Norman as Chairman of the Board of Governors, in which that body definitely committed itself as follows:

1.—Refusal to make a new wage and working agreement with the Building Trades Council.

2.—Favoring the exclusion of Mr. Untermeyer and the Lockwood committee from all deliberations bearing on the adjustment of wages and working conditions in the local building industry.

3.—Suggesting, as a plan of procedure in the interest of a new agreement, "that a committee of the public (Stabler) group meet with the representatives of the employers and employees to advise and agree upon a set of principles as a basis for all new trade agreements. When principles upon which trade agreements should be based are agreed upon meetings shall then be held of the agreement committees representing the employers and employees in each trade to formulate a trade agreement and suggest a wage scale for approval by a general conference in which the public shall be represented. Should the employers and employees in any trade fail to come to an agreement, the matters upon which they fail to agree can then be referred to the committee representing the public group, the employers and the employees."

After receiving this communication the Public Group Committee recognized that it had reached an impasse after endeavoring for more than two months to bring employers and labor representatives together in conference. The employers refused to have Samuel Untermeyer or the Lockwood Committee officially at this conference but were disposed to permit sub-committees of the Lockwood Committee to be present as individuals.

Saks & Co. Will Erect $4,250,000 Store on Fifth Avenue

Projected Structure, From Plans by Starret & Van Vleck, Will Become Notable Addition to City's Famous Shopping District

SAKS & CO., retail dry goods merchants, have announced their plans for the construction of a notable addition to the Fifth Avenue shopping district. This firm has commissioned Starrett & Van Vleck to prepare the designs and specifications for a modern fireproof department store building, eleven stories in height, with basement and sub-basement, which will be erected on the east side of Fifth Avenue, from Forty-ninth Street to Fiftieth Street, at a cost of about $4,250,000 for building and equipment.

The plot to be improved was leased by Saks & Co., some time ago from the Kemp Realty Company for a period of 105 years. The lease actually calls for a twenty-one year term with four renewals of similar duration and the lessors bind themselves to pay approximately $35,000,000 in rent for the use of this property during the next century. The site of the projected structure involves frontages of 158 feet on Fifth Avenue and of 200 feet and 208 feet in Forty-ninth and Fiftieth Streets respectively. The avenue frontage takes in the entire block with the exception of the 42-foot plot owned by the Democratic Club and which Saks & Co. have been unable to obtain by either purchase or lease under favorable terms.

The new Saks Building will cover a plot having an area of 400,000 square feet, and in design and construction will be one of the finest structures on the Nation's most famous thoroughfare, in addition to being the first large retail department store to seek a permanent location on the avenue north of Forty-second Street. The plans provide for 500 feet of show windows.

The facades will be constructed of face brick and limestone and will be divided by four main entrances. Two of these will be located on the Fifth Avenue front, on either side of the Democratic Club, and one each on the Forty-ninth and Fiftieth Street sides. Plans for this building call for many improvements making for greater service and convenience to both customers and employees. On the eighth floor there will be rest rooms, silence rooms, a hospital, a restaurant and other features specifically designed for the welfare of the hundreds of workers who will be employed in this store. The setback at the eighth floor, required under the provisions of the Zoning Law, will be utilized as a hanging garden for the employees. Twenty electric elevators will be an important part of the equipment for handling traffic, both passenger and merchandise, within the building, and experts say this service will be sufficient to move 2,000 persons every five minutes.

seller what is a fair price and should be in a position to know what is a fair price.

"There are various ways of getting buyers and tenants. We follow up the expiration of our own leases and those of other brokers as far as we can. Six months before a lease expires we see the tenant and we try either to renew his lease, or make a new and better lease or sell him the property. This is a fruitful source of dealing. Another source is signs on properties. They work night and day and unlike some brokers they never sleep. Newspapers are valuable mediums. They often attract persons who otherwise would never think of buying. They are campaigners for victory.

"It may seem strange to you but we even follow up marriage and death notices in the newspapers. We even follow up proceedings in the divorce courts. Out of the mill of death, marriage and divorce come numerous sales of real property. Real estate is a very personal business so far as private houses are concerned. It is often a business with a social phase. We always see both parties to a marriage. We have gotten so we know family histories pretty well. They have a bearing on the market. We break in our brokers in the canvassing department. There they are sure to learn.

"Never fail to treat either buyer, seller or tenant fairly and squarely," said Mr. Elliman in conclusion. "Every customer has friends and tells others of his treatment. The first year we were in business we did none with our own friends, but we did with friends of our friends, who told our friends how we had treated them. Fair treatment is the most satisfactory to everybody."

Marked Gains Noted in Commitments for Local Building

Residential Construction Dominating All Other Types According to Figures
Tabulated from Statistics Gathered by F. W. Dodge Company

CONSTRUCTION statistics for the past few weeks indicate that the building industry is rapidly forging ahead and that within the next few weeks the 1922 building program will be well under way. There has been a rapid gain in the volume of new work for which plans are reported and the record of contracts actually placed during the past few weeks bears out all predictions that the coming spring will be a season of more than normal activity in the building industry.

According to figures tabulated by the F. W. Dodge Company for the territory including all of New York State and New Jersey, north of Trenton, there was reported a total of 817 building and engineering operations for which plans were in progress in the week of March 10 to 17 inclusive. During the same period contracts placed for new construction projects numbered 402 and represented a total valuation of $24,370,100.

Every one familiar with the construction industry now agrees that no matter how much commercial, industrial and miscellaneous construction is undertaken during the coming season, residential building will continue to dominate in both volume and cost. The program of speculative building in Greater New York is far greater in volume and more diversified in character than it was last year, and builders are of the opinion that it will be responsible for maintaining unusually high levels in material and labor costs during the forthcoming season.

The list of 817 projects for which plans were reported during the eleventh week of this year includes 78 business operations, such as stores, offices, lofts, commercial garages, etc., $3,635,500; 16 educational buildings of one type or another, $1,964,000; 4 hospitals and institutions, $67,300; 11 industrial projects, $404,000; 6 public buildings, $120,000; 21 public works and public utilities, $806,400; 3 religious and memorial structures, $113,000; 673 residential operations, including apartments, flats and tenements and one- and two-family dwellings, $28,868,900, and 5 social and recreational operations, $247,000.

Among the 402 operations for which contracts were reported during the week of March 10 to 17 inclusive were 46 commercial projects of various types, $7,870,500; 7 educational buildings, $492,200; 1 hospital, $132,000; 5 factory and industrial operations, $204,000; 1 public building, $22,000; 17 public works and public utilities, $919,900; 3 religious and memorial structures, $73,000; 319 residential operations, including multi-family dwellings and one- and two-family houses, $14,506,500, and 3 social and recreational projects, $150,000.

PERSONAL AND TRADE NOTES.

W. H. Deacy, architect, formerly practicing at 11 East 47th street, is now located at 681 Fifth avenue.

Samuel Sass, architect, has moved his office from 32 Union Square to 366 Fifth avenue.

J. W. Johnson, assistant general manager, Portland Cement Association, has been transferred from the Chicago headquarters to New York City.

Lathrop Finlayson, architect, announces the removal of his office from 142 Montague street, Brooklyn, to 42 Charlton street, Manhattan.

Col. George L. Watson, consulting engineer, has incorporated his practice with that of the George A. Johnson Co., 159 Nassau street.

Richard Lane, heretofore covering the New York and New Jersey territories for the Thomas Maddock's Sons Co., Trenton, manufacturer of sanitary wares, has been assigned to the New England territory.

Foundation Co., 120 Liberty street, has leased offices in the Canadian Pacific Building, 342 Madison avenue, and will move as soon as the necessary alterations are completed.

Marcus Contracting Co., Inc., 305 Broadway, has the contract for excavating work in connection with the construction of a modern fireproof store and loft building at 242 West 36th street, for Max Aronson, owner.

Sealmastic Paint Co., W. A. Sealey, president, announces the removal of its offices from 2 Rector street to 30 Church street. This company handles a line of linseed oil paints, waterproofing and roofing materials.

Durst Manufacturing Co., 117 Chambers street, dealing in rubber hose, plumbing specialties, etc., is offering to the retail and jobbing trade a co-operative plan which permits the purchase of preferred stock. The plan includes an additional discount on purchases of the company's products as well as interest for the dealer stockholders.

Col. William Barclay Parsons, Engr. O. R. C., has been appointed deputy chief engineer of G. H. Q. Engineer Headquarters of the organized reserves, U. S. Army. During the organization of the reserve forces following the World War, Col.

Parsons commanded the 363rd Engineers, from which duty he has been relieved to take up the broader duties involved in his new assignment.

Report on Theatre Collapse

Collapse of the roof the Knickerbocker Theatre, in Washington, was due to weaknesses in the design of the structural steel supporting the roof and of the Columbia Road wall, according to the report of the committee appointed by the Associated General Contractors of America made public this week. The direct cause was attributed to the unseating of the north end of the main truss, principally through failure of the northernmost top gusset plate of that truss and the bottom chord where it rested on the Columbia Road wall.

The responsibility for these weaknesses is placed upon the architect who accepted a faulty design from the fabricator. The contractor is not held responsible by reason of the quality of his work or by any non-compliance with the design, specifications, and contract, nor for the alternate design, but is held jointly responsible with the building department of the District for failure to apprehend the violations of the building code in detecting that the design did not provide for anchoring trusses to the walls to prevent their slipping from their bearings.

The committee of the Associated General Contractors, representing engineers, contractors, and the public, is composed of Rudolph P. Miller, consulting engineer, formerly Superintendent of the Bureau of Buildings of New York City, James Baird, Vice-president of George A. Fuller Company, Washington, D. C., and Guy Mason, of Mason & Spaulding, Attorneys, Washington, D. C.. W. P. Christie, Research Engineer of the Associated General Contractors, served as secretary and technical assistant to the committee.

Plans for Large Brooklyn Project.

Shampan & Shampan, 50 Court street, Brooklyn, have been retained to prepare the plans and supervise the construction of a large housing development project at the northeast corner of Ocean Parkway and Church avenue. This operation, which will involve an outlay of approximately $600,000, will include two high-class multi-family houses. The plot to be improved measures 194 x 265 feet and includes the entire Church avenue frontage, from Eastern Parkway to East 7th street. Work will be started as soon as the plans are completed.

TRADE AND TECHNICAL SOCIETY EVENTS.

American Society of Mechanical Engineers will hold its annual spring meeting at Atlanta, Ga., May 8 to 11 inclusive.

American Society for Testing Materials will hold its twenty-fifth annual meeting at the Chalfonte-Haddon Hall Hotel, Atlantic City, June 26 to July 1, inclusive.

American Lumber Congress is scheduled to hold its fourth annual meeting in Chicago, April 6 and 7, inclusive. Interesting programs are being prepared for all sessions of this convention.

American Iron, Steel and Heavy Hardware Association will hold its annual convention in Washington, D. C., May 23 to 25 inclusive. Headquarters will be located at the Hotel Washington. Secretary, A. H. Chamberlain, 1328 Broadway.

National Metal Trades Association will hold its annual convention at the Hotel Astor, April 17 to 20 inclusive. The program for this meeting provides for the executive committee meeting, a meeting of the local branch secretaries and a dinner of the local branch secretaries will be held on Monday. There will also be included a meeting of the administrative council and the so-called alumni dinner on Tuesday with the regular convention sessions on Wednesday and Thursday. The annual banquet of the association will be held Wednesday evening.

New York Building Superintendents' Association will hold a smoker in the east ballroom of the Hotel Commodore Saturday evening, April 8. M. F. Godfrey is chairman of the committee in charge of the program for this event, and he promises a most interesting program. Members are urged to keep this date in mind or they will miss a notable event.

Building Officials Conference for 1922 will be held at Indianapolis, April 25 to 28, inclusive. The meetings will be held at the Hotel Lincoln and the committee arranging the program promises extremely interesting sessions. Details of the program will be available later.

Building Managers' and Owners' Association of New York will hold its regular monthly dinner meeting at the Advertising Club, 47 East 25th street, Tuesday evening, April 11. The name of the speaker will be announced later.

CURRENT BUILDING OPERATIONS

THE pending conferences on a new agreement with the building trade unions has been one of the principal topics of discussion among local building interests during the past week. There is little doubt but that a decided change in the construction outlook will occur just as soon as this important matter is settled as there is considerable projected construction being held in abeyance until wage scales are definitely determined for the remainder of the year.

The passage of the tax exemption measure by the Legislature has improved the prospects for residential construction during the coming months and in addition it has stopped the rush to get operations now planned, on their foundations before April 1. Undoubtedly the Board of Estimate and Apportionment will act favorably upon continuing local exemption and with this in mind speculative builders are going slower than they were on many of their important operations.

Common Brick—Business in the New York wholesale market for common brick has been fairly active during the past week. Considerable brick has been brought down the river and there is now sufficient on hand for all immediate requirements. The Hudson is entirely open to navigation now and it is reported that the first tow of brick from Kingston is due to arrive within the next day or so. There is every likelihood that there will be a minimum of twenty cargoes of brick brought into the New York market from now on and this is adequate for current demands. Prices, while not changed since last week appear to be firming up to some extent and there is less brick available at $16 a thousand than there was a week ago.

Summary—Transactions in the North River brick market for the week ending Thursday, March 23, 1922. Condition of market: Demand good; prices firm and unchanged. Quotations: Hudson Rivers, $16 to $16.50 a thousand to dealers in cargo lots alongside dock. Number of cargoes arrived, 23; sales, 32. Distribution: Manhattan, 12; Brooklyn, 8; New Jersey, 1; Astoria, 1; Yonkers, 1.

Lumber—Business in the lumber industry is slowly gaining momentum and both wholesale and retail departments are looking forward to a season of excellent progress. Sales are steadily increasing and production is improving to a considerable degree. There are prospects of a tremendous building movement this coming spring and summer and lumber manufacturers and dealers are making active preparations for handling the business that will come as a result of the large volume of new construction now scheduled. Lumber experts are of the opinion that stocks are not quite up to the normal for this season, but many of the manufacturers have been able to increase production sufficiently to keep it approximately level with orders. There is little being held in reserve, however, for increased demand in the future. During the past few weeks shipments have been somewhat below both orders and production because of the most important of the recent orders are for future delivery.

Lumber prices are very firm and in certain lines there is a decided tightening of values. Builders are generally of the opinion that lumber prices are likely to advance rapidly as soon as the buying movement starts in earnest because of the great volume of new construction in prospect and the admitted relatively low ratio of production.

Structural Steel—Interest in the local market for fabricated structural steel has improved considerably during the past week with quite some new business placed on the books and a notable increase in the number of inquiries. Although the actual tonnage bookings of the past week are not particularly large they represent a start of building activity in this vicinity that will steadily grow in volume throughout the months to come. Prices are practically unchanged and quotations on fabricated material, erected in commercial structures continues to range from $60 to $65 per ton.

Reinforcing Bars—Demand for concrete reinforcing bars is dull at present but as considerable new commercial and industrial construction is now being planned it is more than likely that business will improve shortly as several important operations are soon to be released for estimates. Several large contracts, for which estimates have been taken, are now pending and the award of this work will materially affect the market situation. Prices are strong and the minimum is now 1.40c base Pittsburgh.

Face Brick—The demand is steadily increasing and both manufacturers and dealers are confident that the next few months will see a decided change in the building situation and that they will be rushed to capacity in order to handle the demand for their products. Face brick prices are generally firm and no reductions are expected in the near future.

Window Glass—Dealers in window glass, although not specially busy at present, are looking forward to generally improved conditions during the latter half of the year because of the promise of a vast amount of new construction work. Reports from suburban districts indicate an important house-building movement to start as soon as weather conditions permit and the extension of the tax exemption law will be responsible for a continuation of the multi-family house construction that marked the season of 1921. Window glass prices are steady and no changes of consequence are anticipated at this time.

Nails—The market is erratic and difficult to describe. Buying is active in some districts and extremely light in others. There is a general feeling that conditions will manifestly improve just as soon as the spring building movement commences as there is a vast amount of new construction in prospect; all signs point to an unusually heavy demand for all materials and supplies. At present nail prices are subject to considerable shading with base quotations ranging from $3.15 to $3.25 per keg, for wire nails, and $4 to $4.25 per keg, for cut nails.

Builders' Hardware—Manufacturers and dealers are both well satisfied with the demand at present and the outlook for the coming months. Business has been fairly active throughout the winter and according to the plans now in preparation there should be a much greater volume of business during the coming season than there was last year. Hardware stocks are well assorted and prices are steady.

Cast Iron Pipe—The demand for this commodity continues active and the outlook is extremely favorable. Private buying is gaining in volume and there is quite some municipal business in sight for the next few months. Manufacturers are generally well satisfied with the market for cast iron pipe and the majority of them have their plants running at from seventy to eighty per cent. of capacity. Prices continue stiff and no reductions are likely for the time being. New York quotations are as follows: 6 in. and larger, $47.30 per net ton; 4 in. and 5 in., $52.30; 3 in., $62.30, with Class A and gas pipe $4 extra per ton.

Linseed Oil—Just at present business in this line is extremely dull with buying even less active than it was a few weeks ago. Prices are fairly firm.

EMPIRE Extensible Steel Partitions

are adjustable to any ceiling height. Entire floors can be dismantled and re-erected overnight, at less than 25% of the cost of the ordinary partitions.

Finished in Baked Enamel, Oak, Mahogany, Circassian and American Walnut, etc.

"COST COMPARES FAVORABLY WITH WOOD"

See Our Details in Sweet's Catalogue

In that giant among giants—the Equitable Building—what partition to use was a serious question.

You can imagine that with the stream of tenants moving and changing continually the cost of building new partitions might easily be tremendous.

There was not only the cost of the material destroyed if plaster partitions were used, but the dust annoyance to the tenants had to be thought of.

Every type of partition material was considered and rejected for one reason or another.

Finally Empire Steel Partitions was decided upon because of the "ease and economy" with which it can be moved whenever tenants require alterations.

"The partitions embodying the EMPIRE STEEL construction give us a flexible partition which can be used on nearly every floor, and which can be moved at low cost, without expensive waste or damage.

EDITORIAL

An Overworked "Emergency"

The United States Supreme Court having upheld the constitutionality of the Emergency Rent Laws in two decisions covering every point raised by eminent counsel, no other course seems left to real estate interests but to accept the situation, and make the best of it. Close study of the latest opinion handed down by Mr. Justice Clarke and printed in the last issue of the RECORD AND GUIDE confirms those instrumental in the prosecution of the test suits in believing that the decision is complete and final and that any further attempts to overturn the laws as enacted, on the ground of their unconstitutionality, would be futile.

There remain two questions relative to the housing crisis about which doubt still exists. One of these has to do with what constitutes "reasonable rent," and this question will likely be elucidated when the Court of Appeals passes on the case of Hall vs. Moos, (an appeal from the decision handed down by Justice Samuel Greenbaum in the Appellate Division, First Department), in which the court held that eight per cent. upon the unencumbered fee valuation of the property was just and equitable. This decision, while settling many of the points of contention between landlords and tenants on a fairly satisfactory basis, yet left indecisive the manner in which the valuation of property should be determined. To base present valuation upon the "existing market value of property before the period of abnormality set in," as suggested by Justice Greenbaum, appears neither fair nor equitable. And it is to be hoped that the Court of Appeals, in reviewing Justice Greenbaum's decision, will set up a better standard for the appraisal of values upon which to base the eight per cent. return, which, all things considered, seems reasonable.

The other question relates to the continuance of the "emergency," the prevalence of which assured to the State recourse to the use of the police power in the enactment of the Emergency Rent Laws. It has always been contended by officials of the Real Estate Board of New York that there existed no such "emergency" as that upon which the Rent Laws were predicated; at least that the facts relative to such an "emergency" had been unduly exaggerated and that, in any event, the shortage prevailed only in very low-priced living quarters. It is conceivable that the laws might be attacked on the ground that even if the "emergency" once existed it no longer exists and therefore the continued use of the police powers of the State in the regulation of rentals is unnecessary. There is no present prospect that this will be done, however, as those who have so urgently and untiringly, although unsuccessfully, fought to protect the rights of property-owners are of the opinion that such action may be more effectively taken next fall, after the latest extension of the Emergency Rent Laws goes into effect, by which time the full measure of the large-scale building operations now under way or contemplated may be used in discounting "emergency" statistics.

There remains the advisability of preparing for a campaign to modify the Rent Laws, which many think are in a fair way to become permanent through the same political pressure which caused their enactment notwithstanding the "blue sky" appearance of the "emergency" upon which they were based, and which again has brought about their extension. This pressure may demand their retention in the statutes as the price of votes of tenants anxious to keep the upper hand over the landlords. A bill was prepared for consideration by the Legislature which recently adjourned exempting from the emergency laws all apartment houses eight or more stories in height. No action was taken on this measure, although the reasonableness of such exemption is found in the generally-accepted fact that whatever shortage may exist in moderate-priced tenements does not exist in buildings of the elevator-steel-construction type. This is one of the problems realty men must solve and on which light as to the best path to pursue may come during the building season now under way.

Most everything that cost a dollar before the war now costs a dollar and seventy cents. The abnormally high cost of practically every item of living expense, except rent, has been left to natural agencies or normally-exerted governmental pressure for correction. But high rentals, due to the same causes which brought about high prices in all the other items in the household budget, are declared to be the fruit of an "emergency" and the police power of the state has been invoked to curb "profiteering" landlords. The prices of coal and milk, hats and shoes, eggs and butter, freight rates and passenger fares, and hundreds of other things, all as necessary as housing, sell at one hundred and seventy per cent. of their pre-war price. But nobody calls out raucously that the high prices of these things is due to an "emergency." There is no lobby of milk-drinkers or butter-eaters to press their point of view upon sympathetic legislators whose ears are always attuned to demands of tenants.

It is an imposition to call a condition that exists in housing an "emergency" when the same conditions prevail in practically every other business due to the same causes which affected the housing situation. We are living in a 170 per cent. world as compared with the 100 per cent. world of pre-war days, and it is going to take more than a year or two, perhaps many, many years, to rid the world of the inflation that puts us on the higher plane. What is needed is not so much a return to 100 per cent. living as stability on the 170 per cent. basis, so long as we must continue, by force of circumstances almost beyond the control of man, to function on the inflated platform to which the war elevated us.

Brick Market Reflects Building Revival

It is extremely doubtful if anything of greater significance could have occurred as indicative of the strength of the local building situation at present than the arrival during the week of sixty-five barge loads of common brick from up-river production points and their immediate sale to satisfy construction requirements.

Sixty-five cargoes of common brick mean that approximately 26,000,000 brick were brought into New York in a single week. This in itself shows the potential activity of the construction industry in the Metropolitan territory, but when it is understood that practically all of this material is scheduled to go into immediate consumption a real idea of the volume of active building is obtained.

There never was a period in local construction history when such a large amount of new building was either actually under way or projected for an immediate start. Each day brings reports of new construction projects, commercial and industrial as well as residential, amounting to a total cost of many millions of dollars. The major portion of this work is being put under contract without delay.

The building bureaus in the various boroughs of the city are literally submerged in plans for new operations, and the pressure on the plan clerks, examiners and inspectors has been such that their efficiency is materially impaired. These bureaus are far behind in their work because new plans are being presented faster than they are able to dispose of those on hand and there is now every likelihood that this condition will continue throughout the spring and summer unless the City administration takes steps to increase the forces available for this work.

Contracts for Vehicular Tunnel to New Jersey Awarded

CONTRACTS for driving the vehicular tunnel under the Hudson River and for sinking the shafts on the New Jersey side were awarded on last Tuesday to Booth & Flynn, Ltd., for $19,331,723.50. Work will be started about May 1, it was stated at the office of the New York and New Jersey Tunnel Commission and it is expected the tunnel will be ready for use within thirty-six months as stipulated in the contract.

Clifford M. Holland, chief engineer of the commission, in his report shows that the comparative actual cost of the tunnel is only about 10 per cent. greater than of the tunnels contracted for in 1914 before the high prices which attended the war period. Mr. Holland says:—

In point of volume of business the transactions in the New York wholesale brick market during the past week will stand out as a record. The sale of sixty-five barge loads in a single week establishes a new high point for this industry. Although the very decided increase in the amount of business for the past week is to a considerable extent a reaction caused by the shortage of common brick which existed a few weeks ago, the demand of the past few days cannot be wholly attributed to the unsatisfied requirements of the weeks gone by. During the time when brick was an exceedingly scarce commodity in this market the amount of construction actually held up because of its lack was negligible. Throughout the time of greatest scarcity practically every active operation in this city was kept going, although a reduced rate, and the great increase in the demand for common brick that now is a noteworthy characteristic of the building situation must be attributed to a steady and consistent revival of interest in local construction which will continue to improve during the coming weeks and result finally in establishing a new high building record for the year in the Metropolitan district.

"In detail, the average bid price for the vehicular tunnels for cast-iron lining is about precisely the same as the prices received for constructing the rapid transit tunnels. Cast iron in the case of the vehicular tunnels will be about 27 per cent. of the total cost, as compared with 30 per cent. in the case of the rapid transit tunnels.

"The estimated cost for excavation for the vehicular tunnels is about 44 per cent. of the total cost of the work, as compared with 50 per cent. in the case of the rapid transit tunnels. In this connection it is to be noted that the average unit cost for excavation for the vehicular tunnels is $21.30 per cubic yard in 1922, as compared with $20.40 per cubic yard for excavation for the rapid transit tunnels in 1914, or almost precisely the same."

Tax Exemption Extended One Year by Board of Aldermen

THE first of the housing bills was signed by the Governor this week. This measure extends the period for commencing construction of dwelling houses to obtain exemption from local taxation to April 1, 1923. This bill was scheduled for a hearing with the other housing measures, but because of the necessity of enacting it into law before April 1, the Governor signed it earlier than was expected.

As soon as he had been notified of the signing of the bill by Governor Miller Acting Mayor Murray Hulbert sent an emergency message to the Aldermen, asking them to pass the ordinance introduced by Majority Leader William T. Collins. He pointed out that the present tax exemption ordinance expired at midnight last Friday.

The ordinance extending the exemption period was passed by the Board of Aldermen at a meeting on last Tuesday. Under this ordinance all new construction commenced before April 1, 1923, will be exempt from taxation until Jan. 1, 1932.

Governor Announces Hearing at Albany on Housing Bills April 10

GOVERNOR MILLER has announced that he will give a hearing on the Lockwood housing bills at noon on April 10. The attendance is expected to be very large, and it may be necessary to stage the hearing in the Senate or Assembly chambers.

Representatives of the Real Estate Board of New York and of numerous other organizations are planning to attend the hearing. One of the bills that is expected to call forth a flood of criticism is the one permitting life insurance companies to invest up to ten per cent. of their assets in building apartments renting for not more than nine dollars per room, basing this rental on the estimated cost at the beginning of construction work. As 200 builders have asked Governor Miller for a hearing on this bill it is evident there is widespread interest in its provisions. Some of the other housing bills are also likely to be made the object of attack at this hearing, which promises to be one of the largest and most important ever held at the Capitol.

Standard Construction Contract Seems Assured

THROUGH the united efforts of a conference held in Washington recently, the standardization of construction contracts seems destined to be finally achieved. Engineers, architects and contractors appointed by engineering and other associated construction associations, were represented, and a plan was adopted which would ultimately produce a standard form of contract agreement which could be adapted for use in any part of the country and any phase of the industry.

The survey made by Brigadier-General R. C. Marshall, Jr., Chief of Construction Division of the U. S. Army during the war, showed that there are in common use today over 200 different forms of contracts. A study of these 200 contracts revealed that about two-thirds of all the provisions contained in each were common to all, and could very easily be included in one standard form.

Real Estate Board Holds Its Second Monthly Dinner

Largely Attended by Members, Who Hear Gen. O'Ryan Discuss Transit Problem and Mr. Allen's Plans for Lower Coal Prices in New York City

THE second monthly meeting and dinner of the Real Estate Board of New York took place on Thursday evening of last week, at Delmonico's. The plan to hold a monthly dinner was an innovation that came in with the first of the year. There was no such dinner in February because the annual banquet of the Board was held then, at the Hotel Commodore. At the second monthly dinner the attendance was as good, if not better, than at the first one. Charles G. Edwards, President of the Board, was toastmaster.

A feature of the meeting was a small card folder laid at each plate urging every member to combine in a drive for increased membership of the Board. President Edwards also emphasized the importance of increasing the membership. He said increased membership means increased power for good in behalf of real estate.

Gen. John F. O'Ryan, a member of the new Transit Commission, was the first speaker of the evening, and Charles S. Allen, Secretary of the Anthracite Coal Consumers' Association and formerly long connected with the Interstate Commerce Commission also spoke.

Gen. O'Ryan was greeted warmly by everyone present and at the conclusion of his speech the diners rose spontaneously and applauded him. The General spoke in a straightforward, conversational style, but his calm and earnest manner impressed all of his hearers. He analyzed the transit situation and said he presumed there was nothing of more interest to builders and real estate men than how to get property-owners and tenants from one part of the city to another comfortably, quickly, decently and for a reasonable fare.

"I have no personalities to indulge in pro or con," said Gen. O'Ryan. "Personalities never yet settled a controversy rightly or justly to all concerned. Out of the clamor that has long raged about the question of rapid transit, which affects not only our daily comfort but our social system, must come action along lines that are constructive and that mean permanent benefit. Quarreling means inaction and delay. Reasoning together on this great question, co-operation if you please, is just as necessary as co-operation was between the heads of the allied armies during the World War. Where would the peace be if the Allies had not united under a supreme leadership against the Central Powers? The time for talk ceased long ago, so far as the transit situation is concerned. That is why Governor Miller took the bull by the horns as he did.

"For some time now the Transit Commission has been digging deep into this municipal problem. It does not expect immediate approval of all that it has done from everyone concerned. We have sought earnestly and sincerely to settle upon the fundamentals of the matter and we are going to adhere to the fundamentals in the face of everything.

"There are more than two hundred corporations carrying on the transit business of this combined municipality. There are more than two thousand franchises, none of which harmonizes with the others. From time remote these franchises were the sport and prey of daring speculators and financiers who were looking for the biggest profits regardless of the permanent stability of the companies that held them. A unification of the transit routes of this city along constructive and reasonably-profitable lines is imperative. This we will have at all hazards. I do not say that the city should operate the roads, but if necessary the city will. I believe that better service can be attained by private operation properly controlled. Some of the franchises are fair and some are unfair both to the companies and to the city. As they bore little or no relation to each other, as they stood, they were the source of constant friction to all parties concerned, including the public—in the end the most interested.

"My main purpose here tonight is to impress upon you, representatives of large property interests, the absolute necessity of some common understanding on the subject in discussion, for upon it depends in a large degree the progress and growth of this city along the proper lines and upon it depends its continued material prosperity and its municipal supremacy.

"Fundamentally any transit system is wrong that allows speculative gain from a public necessity such as our transit system is. We have for some time witnessed restricted service for no other reason than that large dividends could be secured. The people must use the various lines heavily and therefore they must have a commensurate and harmonious service. The companies have been taking advantage, under the law, to abridge service. The result has been warfare, intense and prolonged, between the people and the corporations. Another result has been to make the question the sport and prey of petty politics. This is so apparent as to make the statement almost academic.

"The companies now have the lawful right to make all the financial gain possible whether the public is benefited or not. Thereby is created a community of interests that are irreconcilable and always will be. The policy of the companies has long been one of transporting the greatest number of passengers with the least possible number of cars. That is a fact which cannot be honestly gainsaid. In the past palliatives were applied to relieve the irritation. Instead of poultice the Transit Commission has decided to use the knife and get permanent relief from an ailment that cannot otherwise be cured. In other words, we are going to dispose of the fundamental problem. We will remove the opportunity to make unrestricted gain, but we will do it in a way fair to all concerned.

"So far we have made valuations of railroad properties in four different ways. The Commission has not yet formed a final and definite program. We will make haste slowly instead of unjustly. All of these valuations have been submitted to the experts of the companies involved. We just now are in the position of waiting for their opinions about the matter. After all interests have threshed the matter out with the Commission that body will decide fairly. The city will make a fair valuation of all properties and I will say that when that is done the day for anything but nominal dividends from the transit earnings in this city will be over. We will create a new corporation for the exact purpose of insuring thorough and reasonably-profitable service, a quasi-public corporation, which will carry on operation and yet do justice as between owner and passenger. Such a system will do away with both the abuses of either a privately-operated or a municipally-operated system. Unification for the purposes of profit and service is the great objective. There will be one railroad policy instead of two hundred separate ones as now.

"The companies will transfer their rights to a quasi-public corporation, at a price, say, of $50,000,000 entire. And it will give back to the companies a purchase money mortgage at the

Notable Changes in Down-Town Business Section

New Buildings, Including A. B. See Elevator Company's Modern Structure, Improve Character of Vesey, Barclay, Church and Park Place Neighborhood

SOME notable structural improvements in the antiquated section of the city bounded by Fulton Street, Park Place, West Street and Broadway call attention to an area where important business is still carried on primarily in four- and five-story mercantile buildings on single lots. It is a section of the city with an individuality peculiarly its own. Some of the old buildings were originally private residences built when New York was young and changed into business buildings as residences became numerous north of Bleecker Street. Many old families each own a few parcels in the downtown section referred to. Because it has held strong as a business center, operators and new investors have bought frequently there during the last few years.

Lots in some of the streets are not of full 100-foot depth. On other streets they are full depth on one side and of shallow depth on the other. To a degree, this has been a bar to modern construction. Then, too, there are some ancient leaseholds, such as a few held by Trinity Church Corporation on Fulton Street, a few by Columbia University on Park Place, and some others by old owners. Leaseholds are not a great encouragement to modern construction on a large scale unless they involve a strategic trade and traffic center. In some cases, in recent years, old leaseholders in this district have sold the fee to the owners of the structure. Trinity has done some of it.

There are certain vital factors that have determined the commercial strength of this ancient center. The New York and New Jersey tubes are on the fringe of it, a new subway route penetrates it, and the ferry of the Lackawanna Railroad, at the foot of Barclay Street, still carries heavy passenger and vehicular traffic between New York and Hoboken in spite of the fact that the tubes terminate at the Lackawanna Station in Hoboken. Besides there is a station of the Seventh-Avenue subway at Park Place.

Because of its direct connection with the Lackawanna Ferry, Barclay Street is probably the strongest in fee values of any of those within this contracted zone. Vesey Street is a close second in most of its parts, while the Vesey-Street block opposite St. Paul's Churchyard has superior value because of the permanent light afforded thereby. These two thoroughfares, more than the others, are given over to variegated retail trade. Seedsmen, household supplies dealers, haberdashers, hardware merchants, retail grocers and various other lines of business that cater to home-goers in New Jersey and elsewhere find them worth-while business thoroughfares. Scattered here and there among them are a few wholesale merchants in divers lines. Even publishers and dealers in religious books and church supplies find Barclay Street a good stand for their lines. Vesey Street is a popular direct route to Washington Market, where many commuters on various railroads go frequently to buy everything from a pound of butter to a turkey. It is a pedestrian traffic that has money to spend which goes through these streets and consequently trade value maintains good fee values.

Single lots with an old building in that section are worth from $65,000 to $75,000 each on Vesey Street, west of Church Street, while lots on the Vesey-Street block opposite the St. Paul's Churchyard are worth from sixty to one hundred per cent. more. The Astors own some of the parcels on the latter block, with abutting connections on Barclay Street. Lots on Barclay Street, west of Church Street, are worth as much as they are on Vesey Street, and a little more between the same points, while Barclay-Street lots between Church Street and Broadway are of stronger value, but not so strong as they are in Vesey Street between the same thoroughfares. The old buildings on most of the Vesey-Street lots are not figured in the value of the property to any extent. The fee value is the primary thing. In Barclay Street and in Park Place the buildings generally are better than in Vesey Street. Most of them, however, are of the old-fashioned loft types.

Marking the trend of change in things downtown is the old seven-story office building on the southwest corner of Park Place and Church Street. It was built and occupied by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company as its headquarters, before it moved to Madison Avenue and Twenty-third Street. It is now utilized as a store and mercantile office building. One of the most modern mercantile buildings in all the downtown region was recently completed at the northeast corner of Park Place and West Broadway. Known as the Dodge building, it covers the plot containing an easement of the subway which turns under this corner in order to connect with Seventh Avenue. This is an instance where transit improvement caused structural improvement. The New York Telephone Company has about completed the purchase of the square block bounded by Vesey, Barclay, Washington and West Streets, as the site for a large central exchange and office building. This will be an improvement so large as to materially tone up the adjacent blocks and encourage reconstruction nearby. As one good turn deserves another, so does one distinctive improvement bring another, as a rule. A few years ago the Underwood Typewriter Company improved the ancient southeast corner of Vesey and Greenwich Streets with a large mercantile building, which has added fee strength to adjacent holdings.

The latest structural change of note was the reimprovement of the site at 52-54 Vesey Street, between Church and Greenwich Streets, by the A. B. See Electric Elevator Company, with a five-story stone building for its own use. Here is a salient example of what can be done with a medium-sized plot in this district along modern structural lines. It emphasizes, too, the invasion of the neighborhood by a new and important line of business. The A. B. See building is of striking design, the facade being in white stone and having just enough adornment to give it distinctiveness. The building is so constructed as to receive light from three sides. It covers a plot 50.6 1/2 x 101.6, and looms prominently amid a row of ancient buildings. Mr. See bought the site less than two years ago from the estate of William Z. Larned, who had owned it for many years. It formerly held two 5-story loft buildings of the old type. The site brought more than $140,000.

There are no prospects of immediate change in the trade character of the lower parts of these east-and-west streets adjacent to the river. Wholesale produce and poultry merchants have strongholds there and they occupy mostly old buildings. There will not be any marked change in structural character unless a fire sweeps the district, when rebuilding along more substantial lines would necessarily follow. Many of these merchants own the buildings they occupy and others occupy under long leases.

Marked instances of remodeling of old medium-sized buildings are those at the southeast corner of Greenwich and Fulton Streets and the Old Smith & McNeill's Hotel property on the west side of Greenwich Street, between Fulton and Vesey Streets. They have been changed from their original uses into mercantile buildings. West, Greenwich, Washington and Church Streets, within the section mentioned, are not witnessing any marked structural changes. They may though, at any time. The real estate activity that for three years past has characterized those thoroughfares, farther south, in the Syrian quarter, may by some unforeseen factor that develops cause a transition farther north.

The rehabilitation of Washington Market a few years ago by the city had much to do with holding within its immediate radius the produce merchants who have long focussed there. A modern 10-story mercantile building occupies the northwest corner of Greenwich and Fulton Streets.

Mr. Edwards for Closer Co-operation in Realty Circles

President of Real Estate Board in Y. M. C. A. Lecture Course Outlines Necessity for and Benefits of Highly Developed Organization

CHARLES G. EDWARDS, President of the Real Estate Board of New York, was the lecturer Tuesday evening before the Real Estate Class of the West Side Y. M. C. A. His subject, "Why Real Estate Interests Should Be Highly Organized," aroused the keen interest of all present. The speaker was introduced by William R. Willcox. Mr. Edwards said:

"Organization is the order of the day. Its primary purpose is to secure properly co-ordinated action of persons and groups in the same business, profession, industry or trade. In other words, its purpose is to secure co-operation, for the attainment of general or specific benefits, between similar and related forms of human activity. It is probably impossible, in these days of highly specialized activities of one form or another, to point to an important channel of human endeavor in which organization—that is, co-ordinated action through properly articulated machinery—is not fairly well established. One has only to think of a few of these—shipping, banking, merchandising in its various lines; the several professions; the ranks of labor—to realize that organization and the results of organization are absolutely evident."

Mr. Edwards called attention to the fact that while organization and co-operation are carried to the point of perfection in these times, it is a mistake to think this is a product of today, or even of comparatively modern times. He sketched the history of the organization among various skilled trades dating back more than a thousand years before the Christian era, or approximately 3,000 years, and declared there must have been some form of organization because, if we are to rely on the word of a great Egyptologist, there was a strike among the masons who were engaged in building the pyramids and temples during the reign of the Pharaohs. Unions and strikers of those remote Egyptian times were very much like their successors of today, said Mr. Edwards, who quoted the Egyptologist as reporting a news item of that day in the following language: "On the tenth day of the month builders at work on the temple rushed out and sat down behind the chapel exclaiming: 'We are hungry and there are yet eighteen days before the next pay day.'"

"The term 'Real Estate Interests' as you know," continued Mr. Edwards, "embraces a wide variety of relationships and activities related in one way or another to the primary interest—namely, ownership in land. Real estate is essentially land. All of the others are superimposed, so to speak, on this base or foundation."

"Think of all the lines of activity that radiate from this—the ownership of landed property. There is the land itself whether urban, suburban or rural; the buyers or those who comprise the market for land or other real property; the interests who produce the structure, that is the contractor and the numerous sub-contractors; the lenders, including banks, insurance and trust companies, as well as private lenders; the brokers who bring buyer and seller together and secure the loan; the title companies who search the title. There are occasions where the interests of some of these may not be identical. But, in the main, they run along identical or parallel lines. In New York City the value of real estate for the purpose of taxation has reached the enormous total of $10,249,991,855. Such is the enormous value of the commodity handled by the related interests I have mentioned."

"Perhaps it might be well in passing to ask: If these interests are not highly organized why are they not? I would answer that first by saying that they are, to some extent, highly organized, but that they are not sufficiently widely organized; that is to say, organization represents almost all of the interests concerned, but not in sufficient numbers really to represent complete, or even adequate organization. I think that is largely because, unlike banking or merchandising or numerous other industries which represent definite and exactly similar interests, real estate interests represent a very great variety of different, though closely related groups, and far greater effort is needed to secure that cohesion which is much more easily attained in the others. I think also, that in a city as large as New York it is much more difficult to get these groups together than it would be in a smaller community. Outside of the realm of sensationalism you have to make a very loud noise to be heard in the hub-bub of six millions of people, more or less concerned with their own immediate daily affairs."

"Now what are the specific reasons why this vast business—the business of real estate and its related interests—should be well organized?"

"FIRST: There is the subject of taxation. It has been well said that 'the power to tax is the power to destroy.' The line of demarcation between taxing and confiscation seems to be none too clearly defined. Be that as it may, it is within the power of the Federal Government to tax and, as you know, it certainly does tax. Under existing law, and comparative recent origin, it indirectly taxes real estate. The State Government taxes with a free hand. The City Government under state law taxes even more freely, and the great burden of the taxation falls upon real estate. In New York City real estate pays approximately 90 per cent. of the taxes levied and New York City pays approximately 70 to 75 per cent. of the cost of conducting the state government. Not so long ago Governor Miller made the statement that real property is paying 30 per cent. of its gross income in taxes. 'That situation,' said the Governor, 'is discouraging land owning and aggravating the rent and housing problem in our congested centers.'

"It is plain that here is a wide field for organization and co-operation in reducing this great tax burden."

"SECOND: There is the question of legislation at Albany, aside from that which bears directly on the subject of taxation. Year by year, the Legislature shows an increasing tendency to interfere with local matters and to pass legislation imposing one burden or another on this city. It all costs money and most of the resultant burden falls on real estate. There is apparently no limit to the things which the Legislature can do to us—in spite of constitutional inhibitions, and this city is a shining target."

"There are illustrations by the hundreds. A few will suffice. About twenty years ago the Tenement House Law was enacted. Its underlying purpose was excellent. Reform was highly necessary. But there can be no question of the fact that, due in part to the unnecessarily rigid requirements of some of the provisions of the law, owners of multi-family housing have been unnecessarily annoyed and have had to pay, in order to comply with the law, hundreds of dollars in excess of what was actually necessary. The rigidity of its requirements in respect of new housing has helped to make it impossible to build moderate priced tenements in this city."

"The Labor Law illustrates the same point—a law good in principle—but so bound up with unnecessary and expensive detail that owners of mercantile and factory buildings have spent literally millions of dollars in complying with orders, the object of which could have been attained at much less cost."

"Rent Legislation is another illustration. There can be no question that the extremely complex housing situation needed a remedy two or three years ago. But there is grave question in the minds of thoughtful persons whether the good of the whole community could not have been better attained by less radical legislation and by a procedure which would have made some distinction between fair dealing landlords and the unscrupulous ones, the latter mostly newcomers in the field. The latter have perhaps got what they deserved; but prejudice in and out of the local courts has run high and caused much injustice to many landlords, subjected through the law to the ambitions of municipal court justices or to the prejudiced view of tenant juries."

"Then there is the purely local situation—the activities of the Board of Estimate and the Board of Aldermen. The budget of the City of New York for 1922 is $350,601,570.07. This lavish expenditure compares with a budget of $163,128,270, an increase of about 110 per cent., since 1910. The tax rate was 1.75 in 1910. This year it ranges between 2.75 and 2.79. And this in spite of the fact that about three and a quarter billions of dollars has been added to the assessed valuations of the city. Is it not plain that here is a field for concerted action?"

"The Board of Aldermen must not be overlooked. It has a marvelous capacity for thinking up ordinances which, almost overnight, can create unnecessary expense for the taxpayer."

"It would be rather too much to expect that I should discuss the subject before you without drawing to some extent on my own personal experience as to the point of organization which these interests have reached in the City of New York. For this purpose I must speak briefly of real estate boards in general and the Real Estate Board of New York in particular. I think the organization of real estate boards began first in Chicago about 30 years ago. The next board to be organized was that of the Real Estate Board of New York, 26 years ago. Since then this process has increased and today there are perhaps five hundred such boards throughout the country. Most of the older boards were organized as brokers' boards. More recently it has come to be realized that this form of organiza-

Review of Real Estate Market for the Current Week

Large Transactions Dotted a Market That Was Well Sustained by Varied Dealing in All Parts of the City

THERE was a tendency for the market to slacken its activity some, this week, in large transactions, while medium sized sales were fairly numerous. Frederick Brown, whose presence in the market for some weeks has not been conspicuous, stepped forth with a good transaction to his credit. There were some notable transactions in good sized corner properties, principally in the upper reaches of town. In the section of Broadway, just south of Harlem, there was a deal amounting to more than $1,000,000. Numerous sites for large new apartment houses were assembled in Yorkville, Harlem and on Washington Heights. There was a single parcel sold in the Pennsylvania zone. The lower West side contributed the sale of numerous dwellings—some close to Fifth avenue—a 7-story elevator apartment house and some other buildings of varied character. The neighborhood of Washington Square loomed prominent. Downtown, the sale of a Water street corner, south of Brooklyn Bridge, emphasized the fact that the region roundabout is still in the throes of an activity that has prevailed there, more or less, all winter. In

Clinton street there was the transfer of a fee for the first time since early in the eighteenth century, the Joan Gardner estate having held the parcel all that time.

Elevator apartment houses in upper Manhattan and elevator and walk-up apartment houses in the Bronx added briskness to the market. Throughout First, Second and Third avenues, in the Yorkville and Harlem sections, there was some good dealing, notably the northeast corner of Third avenue and 105th street. The Pinckney estate sold a plot and a block fronting on West 125th street. A dwelling remodeled for trade, on Fifth Avenue, north of Mount Morris Park, changed hands. The sale of many fine dwellings added considerably to the total business of the week.

Brooklyn came forward, this week, with many sales of dwellings and two-family houses and a large warehouse property fronting on two streets, near Wallabout Market. Some good commercial leases were effected in Brooklyn, also. In Queens there is a good demand for detached houses and plots for improvement by private investors.

PRIVATE REALTY SALES.

THE total number of sales reported but not recorded in Manhattan this week, was 60 as against 77 last week and 87 a year ago.

The number of sales south of 59th st was 19 as compared with 28 last week and 21 a year ago.

The number of sales north of 59th st was 41 as compared with 49 last week and 66 a year ago.

From the Bronx 23 sales at private contract were reported, as against 21 last week and 26 a year ago.

Statistical tables, including the number of recorded instruments, will be found on page 402.

$2,500 for Death Due to Cold Flat

George H. Jackson, owner of an apartment house at 230 President st, Brooklyn, will have to pay $2,500 damages to James F. D. Cochenour for the death of his son, William, four months' old. A jury before Justice Cropsey in the Supreme Court made this award in a suit in which Cochenour testified the death of his son was due to the lack of heat in the house last January. He testified that an investigation disclosed that there was no coal in the cellar and that the janitor told him the furnace was out of commission and could not be used until after repairs had been made.

This is believed to be the first verdict of its kind in American jurisprudence. It was based on the new rent laws which make it mandatory for a landlord to furnish heat to his tenants.

Walter S. Flint Dead

Walter S. Flint, assistant to the solicitor of the New York Title and Mortgage Company, died suddenly Sunday, of acute indigestion, in his home at Little Falls, N. J. Mr. Flint was born in Potsdam, N. Y., in 1861. He graduated from the law department of the University of Michigan in 1897. He had been with the New York Title and Mortgage Company since 1905.

He lived at Little Falls for 18 years, and at the time of his death was recorder of the township and trustee of the public library. He is survived by a widow and two children.

Funeral services were held at Mr. Flint's late residence on Wednesday evening.

Hoyt Estate to Be Sold at Auction

The late Henry R. Hoyt, a member of the law firm of Daly, Hoyt and Mason, and a director of several large banks and industrial corporations, foresaw the future development of the Bronx and long before the advent of rapid transit made large investments in vacant land located along the line of the prominent highways of old, as well as the streets and avenues laid out on the city maps and that promised to become the prominent and busy thoroughfares of the future.

Mr. Hoyt died in January, 1921, before the start of the present big building movement in the Bronx which has almost completely transformed the old-established village of Eastchester in the vicinity of Eastchester Road and Gun Hill Road. Here the close proximity of the Gun Hill Road station on the New York, Westchester and Boston R. R. has been a big factor in stimulating the development of the section.

The opening up of the Burke and Watson estates to improvement by home builders under a law that provides for a substantial saving up to April, 1932, has been the true cause of the kaleidoscopic changes that have taken place in this section of the East Bronx, and only the beginning of which the late Mr. Hoyt lived to see. Enough, however, to confirm his judgment in having purchased many years before, at a time when the vicinage of Eastchester Road and Gun Hill Road boasted only natural advantages, but was most sparsely settled and remote.

On July 13, 1920, when Joseph P. Day sold the 1,492 lots located directly opposite to the Hoyt Estate property, and owned by the Eastchester Syndicate, the Eastchester district was almost devoid of houses. This condition remained practically unchanged when in September, 1920, Mr. Day sold 633 lots located nearby for the Watson Estate. Today, the Eastchester Syndicate property is the location of more than 200 one and two-family dwellings, apartment houses and business buildings; more than 50 houses have been erected on the one-time Watson Estate tract, and "Ye Olde" Village at Eastchester has developed into one of the most promising and progressive home-building districts in the Bronx.

The Hoyt Estate, consisting of 775 lots fronting in many important thoroughfares, such as Eastchester Road, Gun Hill Road, Allerton av., Arnov av., Adey av., Bartow, Hammersley and other avenues, is the next large estate in Eastchester to go "under the hammer" of the auctioneer.

The sale will be held by Mr. Day, by order of John Sherman Hoyt, executor, and will be absolute. The terms on which the lots are to be sold are unusually liberal. It will be held on Thursday, April 6th, at noon, in the Exchange salesroom, 14 Vesey st.

Operators Buy a Downtown Corner

E. A. Roos sold through the Charles F. Noyes Co. to Norman S. Riesenfeld and Joseph F. A. O'Donnell 281-283 Water st and 15-17 Dover st, northeast corner of the two streets, a 7-story brick loft building, on a plot 28.5x70x34.1x73.3. The property is leased to the American Kitchen Products Co. until May 1, 1923. Negotiations for a resale, for future occupancy, are pending.

In addition to the normal income of the property additional revenue is derived from the advertising advantages of the roof, which is on the level with the Brooklyn Bridge structure and within 25 feet of the bridge level. The seller purchased the property through the Noyes Co. about 15 years ago.

Sale in the Penn Zone

H. M. Weill Co. sold for Edwin Trowbridge and the Farmers Loan & Trust Co. 254 West 31st st, a 4-story brick business building, on a lot 25x98.9. It is opposite the side of the Pennsylvania station.

$1,000,000 Park Ave. Plot Assembled

The Alliance Realty Co. purchased through Leon S. Altmayer from the R. J. Muller Realty Corporation the two 5-story apartment houses with 4 stores at 1103-1105 Park av. between 89th and 90th st. By this sale the entire block front or the east side of Park av. between 89th and 90th sts, consisting of eight 5-story apartment houses from 1101 to 1115 Park av. and the six apartment houses known as 104 to 110 East 90th st and 101 to 105 East 89th st are all brought under the ownership of the Alliance Realty Co. These buildings were all purchased through Mr. Altmayer. The entire plot has a frontage of 202 feet on Park av, 186 feet on East 90th st, and 133 feet on East 89th st and has an area of 32,000 square feet. It is the largest piece of unimproved property on Park av for sale under one ownership.

Buy to Protect Hotel's Light

Earle & Calhoun sold for Dr. John D. McBaron the 3-story and basement dwelling, on a lot 20x80, 872 West End av.

The purchasers of the property are Morton B. Marshall and Sidney L. Root, acting for the Norwood Hotel Co. The purpose of the purchase is to protect the westerly light of the Hotel Alexandria, situated on 103d st, adjoining the southeast corner of West End av. It is the intention of the purchaser to alter the property into small apartments and run it in conjunction with their hotel. The dwelling abuts the side of the hotel.

Apollo Hall Changes Hands

Estate of Joan Gardner sold to I. Kramer 126-128 Clinton st, a 3-story brick building, known as Apollo Hall, on a plot 41.5x100, and adjoining the 13th Precinct Station House. It is the first sale since the original grant of the land to Joan Gardner in the 18th century.

Assembles Apartment Site

Heilner & Wolf sold 172-174 West 86th st, adjoining the southeast corner of Amsterdam av. two 4-story and basement brick dwellings, each on a lot 20x102.2. Henry L. Liebman sold 176 West 86th st, at the aforesaid corner, a 5-story brick apartment house, known as the Scarboro, on a plot 30x102.2. The total plottage is 70x102.2. The buyer of all the parcels is Abraham Ruth, who will reimprove the site with a 12-story apartment house.

Manfried Court Sold

Norman Denzer sold for a client to B. Schmuckler, Inc., the northeast corner of Fort Washington av and 161st st, a 6-story and basement brick elevator apartment house, known as Manfried Court, on a plot 102.2x108.10 1/4 x 99.11 x 130.5.

The building was erected by the Friedman Construction Co. 5 years ago. It has been held at more than $300,000.

Completes a Yorkville Purchase

Schroeder & Koppel, builders, and J. C. & M. G. Mayer, who recently bought 159 to 163 East 72d st, have bought 157, adjoining. The aggregate plot is 110.2x102.2, and it adjoins the northwest corner of Third av. Old 4 and 5-story flats now cover the plot. On the site the new owners will erect a 15-story apartment house. Harris, Vought & Co. were the brokers. Thomas Tuomey was the seller of 157.

Resell the Hamptons

Master Builders, Inc., resold through Ascher Straus to Morris Lazar 201-203 West 117th st, forming the north short block front between Seventh and St. Nicholas avs, two 7-story elevator apartment houses on a plot 99.9x118.5x161.8x100.11. The buildings house 42 families and contain 10 stores, 5 stores fronting on each avenue. The property was held at $50,000.

Brokers Sell Themselves Out of Home

George W. Mercer & Son sold for the estate of Edwin P. Smith 246 to 254 Eighth av, southeast corner of 23d st, five 4-sty brick tenement houses with stores, on a plot 99.3x83, including 266 West 23d st, a 4-sty stone flat with store. Mercer & Son were the brokers who originally sold this plot to the late Edwin P. Smith in 1872, and the present is the first transaction affecting it in the interval, 50 years.

The business of Mercer & Son was established on this site in 1845, when Chelsea Village was a rural district, far out of town, and the present building on 23d st was erected for their occupancy by Edwin P. Smith shortly after his purchase of the plot.

Brown Resells Grand Opera House

Fredrick Brown resold through Maurice Renard and Day & Day to Joseph Gregory the Grand Opera House at the northwest corner of Eighth av and 23d st together with the adjoining Clement C. Moore leasehold parcels, 320-322 West 24th st, 67x98.9.

The Opera House covers a plot fronting 113.6 feet on Eighth av, 115.10 feet on 23d st and a total interior depth of 268.7 feet. Mr. Brown bought the property from the estate of Jay Gould on February 9, last.

The new owner will rehabilitate the entire property. The price paid has not been announced.

Operators Busy on Heights

A syndicate composed of the Ahl Co., A. H. Levy, president, and the Manport Realty Co., Isaac Portman, president, bought the four 5-sty apartment houses 528 to 536 West 147th st, each on a plot 50x100. The seller was the estate of Isaac M. Brinstein, old time building loan operator, who held them since their completion 12 years ago. The houses are arranged for 80 families and return an annual rental of approximately $53,000. They were held at $80,000 each. Horn & Wagner were the brokers.

A Large Harlem Deal

George W. Brettell sold for the Gutman estate to John King and Benjamin Sherman the northwest corner of Third av and 118th st, including 1 to 10 Lincoln pl, -50 feet on Third av and 140 feet deep, with about 15 houses, including the large building on Third av occupied for years by the Michigan Furniture Co.

The same buyers also purchased all the houses on the westerly side of Lincoln pl, including two houses on the northwest corner of Lincoln pl and 118th st, and they now own or control the entire westerly side of Third av between 118th and 119th sts, a plot 200x185.

Pinckney Estate Sells Block

Estate of Mary G. Pinckney sold through H. W. Sternburgh to Irving Judis the entire triangular block bounded by Broadway, 125th st and St. Clair pl. The plot fronts 132.9½ feet on Broadway, 299.9 feet on West 125th st and 268.8 feet on St. Clair pl (formerly West 129th st, west of Broadway). There are some old 1-sty frame buildings on the plot.

Plans are being drawn for a brick 1-sty and basement show and sales room building to accommodate 35 tenants. The brokers are negotiating a lease for a term of 21 years with two prominent automobile distributing agencies.

Adelphi Theatre Resold

The Adelphi Theatre, at the southwest corner of Broadway and 89th st, and the Leslie Court apartments at the southwest corner of Broadway and 137th st, are involved in a deal amounting to $1,200,000, announced by Nassoit & Lanning, brokers. The theatre property includes a 3-sty business building adjoining the two fronting 100.8 feet on Broadway and 132 feet on 89th st. The property was recently purchased by J. Adolph Mollenhauer, identified with large sugar interests, and has now been bought by the Donovan Estates, Inc.

In part payment the corporation gave Leslie Court, a 6-sty structure on a plot fronting 100 feet on Broadway and 125 feet on 137th st. It was valued at $450,000 and returns an annual rental of approximately $80,000.

Buys Dacorn Houses

Dacorn Dwellings, a 6-sty apartment house at the northeast corner of Fort Washington av and 180th st, 100x143, has been sold for the Zee Realty Co. to an investing client of John J. Seeman, Inc., through Byrne & Bowman. The property, which was held at $350,000, returns a rent roll of about $50,000 a year and has 8 suites of from 5 to 7 rooms on a floor. The structure was built 10 years ago by the Dacorn Realty Co., John Davis, president.

Ray Estate Sells Apartments

After an ownership of 18 years the 7-sty Huntington apartment house at 234 to 238 West 21st st, has been sold by the heirs of Frances A. Ray. The structure stands on a plot 59.2x109.6, about midway between Seventh and Eighth avs, and was held at $175,000. It was one of the first big apartment houses built in the Chelsea district.

Sells Hamilton Garage Apartments

Shenk Realty & Construction Co. sold, through Norman Denzer to Irving Burnstein, Inc., the southwest corner of Convent av and 143d st, a 6-sty elevator apartment house, known as Hamilton Grange, on a plot 100x125. It was held at $350,000.

Brooklyn Landmark Sold

The old Brooklyn Athenaeum, at the northeast corner of Atlantic av and Clinton st, has been sold by the Brooklyn Athenaeum and Reading Room, Inc., to Joseph Homsy of that borough. The Chauncey Real Estate Co. was the broker. The present tenants have lease which will not expire for at least two years. The new owner says he has no announcement to make as to the future disposition of the property. The building was erected in 1852 and was for many years the center of Brooklyn culture. During the Civil War many patriotic meetings and debates were held there.

Sells Richmond Shore Front

W. S. E. Hall resold for Herbert R. Gans of the Gans Steamship Co. the waterfront property at West New Brighton, recently purchased by him, to John W. Sullivan of John W. Sullivan & Co., marine engine builders of Manhattan. Through the same brokers Joseph Haggerty of Hart Park has resold a plot on Hart Boulevard to Clifford W. Watkins.

Choice Acreage Sold

Charles Cooper sold to Arthur Ryle a tract of 12½ acres, near the Ripping Rock Club, at Locust Valley, Nassau County, L. I. The property adjoins the estates of Junius S. Morgan, J. Louis Luckenbach and Norman K. Torrgie. It was held at $35,000. Warren Murdock was the broker.

Mrs. Clarence S. Stevens purchased from Miss Katherine Keveney the Keveney homestead in Larchmont, N. Y., through Edward C. Griffin. The property includes a Colonial manor residence, stables and garage and about two acres of ground with large gardens. The property was held at $60,000.

Sells Long Beach Lots

The Lewis H. May Co. resold for Charles L. Apfel a plot of lots on the south side of Park st, fronting on the Railroad Plaza at Long Beach, L. I., to Louis Gordon, who will improve with stores and modern apartments. The property was held at $30,000.

MORTGAGE LOANS

Lawrence Blake & Jewell placed a building and permanent loan of $675,000 for the Bethlehem Engineering Corporation on the southeast corner of Broadway and 51st st, extending to Seventh av, having a frontage on Broadway of 41 feet, on 51st st of 158.11 feet, on Seventh av of 56.2 feet. A 12-sty office building of the highest type is to be erected on the site with stores on the ground floor. Work on the new structure will start just as soon as the old buildings now on the premises are removed.

Charles B. Van Valen, Inc., negotiated for the Vacuum Cleaner Specialty Co., F. R. Muenzer, president, a loan of $117,000 on the 5-sty and basement building 140 West 34th st, on a plot 25x98.9. The building is used for stores, offices and apartments and is leased to one tenant for $17,500 per year net for 21 years. The gross rental is $40,000. The property was acquired by the borrowers in February, 1920.

R. Telfair Smith obtained from the Title Guarantee & Trust Co. a first mortgage loan of $8,500, for a term of years, on the property 329 West 4th st, owned by the Tel Ray Realty Corporation.

Shaw, Rockwell & Sanford placed a mortgage loan of $6,000 at 6 per cent. per annum, on premises 49 West 126th st, for M. Leest.

Gross & Herbener obtained a building loan of $225,000 from the Title Guarantee & Trust Co. on the property, 100.2x100.6, at the southwest corner of Broadway and 172d st.

The Russo Construction Co. obtained from the Title Guarantee & Trust Co. a building loan of $55,000 on the property, 63x108.1, on the east side of Vyse av, 55 feet north of Tremont av, Bronx.

Freguglia & Lotti placed first mortgage of $20,000 for Minnie Meola on property at 112 Christopher st.

Edwards, Dowdney & Richart placed for the 1480 Shakespeare Avenue Corporation a building and permanent loan of $75,000 on premises on the east side of Shakespeare av, 140 feet north 172nd st, with the Lawyers Mortgage Co. They also placed a first mortgage of $43,000 on 903 Whitlock av.

HERE will be experts who will give prompt attention to those who are considering the use of Gas either for Heating Water or the Heating of a House, Apartment, Loft or Large Building.

Architects and Builders, with advantage to themselves and their clients, should ask for the services of one of our highly qualified Experts. His services are gratis.

As to Gas Water Heating: There are Gas Water Heaters for use in the Home, Office or Factory. Then again we install a Gas Water Heating System that will furnish a large building with an instantaneous, uninterrupted, Summer or all-year-round supply of hot water.

Many private houses are using this System, as well as many large buildings. One of the latter requires nearly 40,000 gallons of hot water every week. Another large building requires nearly 6,000 gallons a day, every drop of which is Gas heated.

After the Gas Boiler is installed it requires no attention. The Boiler regulates itself automatically.

Every person interested in a newly constructed building, or one under construction or contemplated, or in a building being or about to be remodeled, should consider the advantages of Gas Water Heating.

Numerous Garages Leased

The Garage Realty Co. leased the garage at the northwest corner of Little West 12th st and Ninth av, 130x125, two floors and 12 stores, for Alexander Geiger to Miller & Solter, for a term of 21 years, at an aggregate net rental of $600,000. Mr. Geiger recently leased this property from Vincent Astor. The same broker leased the new garage at 606 West 131st st, 100x100, two floors, for Marcus & Goldstein to Nathan Semel for a term of 15 years at an aggregate rental of $225,000; also the property at 103 West 108th st, 75x100, for the Ninth Ward Realty Co. to the 36th Street Garage Corporation, which plans the erection of a 3-sty garage on the premises.

ADAMS & CO. leased for the Central Shoe Co. the store in 1605 Broadway to William Hoffman, jewelry and novelties, for a term of years, at an aggregate rental of about $50,000.

LEON S. ALTMAYER leased for S. Charles Welsh to Frederick Trau the store and basement of 2128 Third av, for a long term of years. This store adjoins that of the United Cigar Stores of America, Inc., recently leased for a long term of years by the same broker.

ALBERT B. ASHFORTH, INC., leased the entire 5th floor in the southeast corner of 37th st and Broadway to Louis Cohen, for a term of years, for the Broadway & 37th Street Corporation.

BUTLER & BALDWIN, INC., leased, for a term of years, the store at 807 Third av for Robert Main to the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co.

CAMMANN, VOORHEES & FLOYD leased for the Greenwood estate 457 Sixth av, a 4-sty stone building, for a long term of years, to the 125th Street Holding Co., Louis Kovner, president. The aggregate rental is approximately $100,000. Ames & Co. represented the tenants.

CARSTEIN & LINNEKIN, INC., leased large space on the 3d floor of the McCutcheon Building, 347 Fifth av, to The Berlin & Jones Envelope Co., for a term of years.

CARSTEIN & LINNEKIN, INC., leased, for clients, a loft in 833 Broadway to Hyman Frost; in 268 Fourth av floor to Topken & Co. and David Jacobs; in 465 Broome st store and basement to Louis Schulman & Co. and lofts to Philip Florin; in 353 Lexington av floors to Walter K. Pleuthner; in 442 Fourth av space to the Gerseta Corporation; in 221 Fourth av to Charles M. London; in 229 Fourth av to Better Net Co.; in 840 Broadway floor to Ratner & Gordon, Louis Pierce & Co., Kantor Bros.,

Spear & Co., Ralph M. Teitelbaum and Mattawan Shirt Co., Inc.; in 24 East 21st st space to Namm & Singer; in 267 Fifth av to Eastern Isles Importing Co., Inc.; in 118 East 25th st store to McLane Silk Co.; in 84 Fifth av floor to Bond Trouser Co.; in 126 Fifth av floor to Silver, Burdett & Co. and I. Harris Bros.; in 809 Broadway floor to Harris Goldstein and Bloom & Horner; in 215 Fourth av space to Donald S. Mackay and Herman A. Elsberg and floor to F. A. Foster & Co.; in 456 Fourth av space to American Press Cut Service and J. Abrahams, Inc.

CARSTEIN & LINNEKIN, INC., leased for a client to Norman A. Tyffe the entire 3d floor in 50 Madison av, overlooking Madison Square Park.

J. L. & R. W. DAVIS leased, for a term of years, for the Redsen Associates the store in 629 Eighth av to a jeweler. This property has had an interesting record. Built about 15 years ago for a movie theatre, with a capacity of 299 seats, it was finally forced to discontinue owing to a change in the building laws which permitted the erection of theatres with a capacity of 600 seats, making the old type of house no longer practical. It is now used as a shooting gallery and penny arcade. The new tenant will take possession after the completion of extensive alterations.

DUROSS CO. leased for Richard Fitzpatrick the 5-sty warehouse, 452-454 West 19th st, to the Wilson Paper Stock Corporation, for a term of 10 years. Also, for G. B. Raffetto the second loft in 408-412 West 13th st to Spear and Berlefin, for a term of years.

DOUGLAS L. ELLIMAN & CO. leased for a client to Binney & Smith large space on the 19th floor of the Liggett Building, northeast corner of 42d st and Madison av, for a long term of years, at an aggregate rental of $200,000. Albert B. Ashforth was associate broker.

DOUGLAS L. ELLIMAN & CO. leased 16 East 74th st, a 4-sty and basement building, with an elevator, for Dr. John V. Young to Mrs. H. G. Newhall; also 111 East 39th st, a 4-sty and basement dwelling, on a lot 16.8x98.9, for F. T. Armstrong to Dr. Henry M. Silver, both for a term of years.

J. ARTHUR FISCHER leased for L. Bernstein to Empire Flashlight Co., Inc., commercial photographers, the 2d floor in 865 Sixth av for a term of years; and leased to James Wing the store in 211 West 35th st, for a laundry.

HINES & SMITH leased for a term of 12 years for the Partos Realty Co. a store on the Sixth av side of the Herald Building to Mrs. E. Rosenfield, dealer in coats, suits and dresses, at an aggregate rental of about $75,000.

J. CHR. G. HUFFEL CO., INC., have changed part of their former brewery, at 225-227 East 38th st, to a modern fireproof loft building and have leased the grade floor to William J. McMurray, printer and publisher. Henry Hof was the broker.

ALBERT E. KELLY leased lofts in 850 Washington st to Schmidt-Dauber & Co., for a term of 3 years; also loft to Hudson Pattern Works, and the store and basement in 848 Washington st to Gaetano Calarco for a term of 3 years.

SHELDON C. KNIFFIN leased for a client to Born, Inc., S. H. Born, president, the store in 1553 Broadway, for a term of 10 years.

MCINERNEY-KLINCK REALTY CO. leased for a client to a prominent automobile agency the showrooms in 1407-1409 Bedford av, Brooklyn, for a term of years, at an aggregate rental of $100,000.

GEORGE W. MERCER & SON leased for a client, for a term of years with renewal, plot 118x120, corner Mermaid av and 32d st, Coney Island. Lessee will improve with a 2-sty taxpayer.

Building Tie-Up Predicted Unless Wage Scales Are Revised

Public Group Committee Makes No Progress Toward Settling Dispute Between Employers and Unions Because Council Failed to Attend Meeting

PRACTICALLY no progress was made this week toward settling the wage scale controversy between the employers and the union workers in the building trades. The Public Group Committee, of which Walter Stabler, Comptroller of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, is chairman, held its scheduled meeting in the Metropolitan Tower on Tuesday afternoon, at which representatives of the Building Trades Employers' Association were present. The Building Trades' Council was not represented, nor were there present any officials from those unions which are not affiliated with the Council. The Building Trades' Council, however, held a meeting and decided, after a discussion lasting nearly four hours, to adhere to the previous decision not to participate under the conditions laid down.

When the meeting of the Public Group representatives and the employers convened, Mr. Stabler had in hand a letter from the Building Trades' Council, informing him that the refusal of the Lockwood Committee to join the conference because of aspersions cast upon it by the employers was sufficient to prevent the union officials from participating in the conference. The letter from the Council, however, offered to meet the employers directly, excluding the public, as had been the custom in former years. This letter, after requesting the Public Group Committee to determine whether or not the employers will meet the Council, said there had never been any substantial reason why the unions and the employers should not conduct their own affairs.

"If your committee will but for a moment consider the disclosures made by the Lockwood Committee," the letter continued, "showing the extent to which the skilled and unskilled labor represented by the unions in our council have been exploited by the employers and the exorbitant profits that the public has been made to pay over and above the wage received by the members of the unions, I think you will agree with us that there is a fundamental infirmity in the argument of the association that there shall be wage reductions that do not inure to the benefit either of the builders or contractors or of the public and that go directly into the pockets of the employers to add to the exorbitant profits they have already been taking out of labor."

C. G. Norman, Chairman of the Board of Governors of the Building Trades Employers' Association, stated at the meeting on Tuesday afternoon that the present attitude of the unions toward wage-scale revisions was not constructive and in all likelihood would be responsible for a large percentage of unemployment in the trades within the coming year. He declared that in his opinion the war-time scales of wages could not now be maintained if the building industry is to progress and prosper as it should and he further made it plain that there would be no admission of lawyers to the active negotiations on wage-scale revisions, because the employers know their business and do not require legal advice in this particular matter.

"Unless labor in the building trades accepts an early wage reduction," said Mr. Norman, "and takes steps to make a new agreement with the employers, work on a large number of extensive commercial building projects will be curtailed."

Mr. Norman thereupon asked the Public Group Committee to ratify the statement of principles submitted to it by the employers and also to take up for consideration at the next meeting a wage schedule prepared by the employers. If the Public Group Committee approves of these principles, which are known as "the fourteen points," and also of the new wage schedule, Mr. Norman said the matter would be submitted to the Board of Governors of the Building Trades Employers' Association, after which the wages would be proclaimed as existing in this city.

In the meantime the employers propose to continue paying the present wages until the Board of Governors takes further action at its next meeting. The organized employers are determined that they will not discuss the matter of wage-scale revisions with the Building Trades' Council as a body. The only manner in which the employers and labor representatives can come together for a discussion will be a meeting of the chosen representatives of all unions affiliated with the building industry, irrespective of their connection with the Building Trades' Council. The matter of wage readjustment affects all unions, some of which are not affiliated with the Council, and in order to include these and at the same time get prompt action and settlement, the Employers' Association has taken a determined stand.

Robert D. Kohn, secretary of the Public Group Committee, resented the intimation of the union officials in their communication that the Lockwood Committee more particularly represented the public interest.

"The Council cannot tell us that we do not represent the public interest," said Mr. Kohn, "as twenty-five civic organizations are represented in this committee and we have a perfect right to interest ourselves in this situation and to represent the public."

Just prior to the conclusion of the meeting the Public Group Committee decided to call a meeting of the entire public group in order to consider the fourteen principles as submitted by the employers, a copy of which will be sent by the committee to the unions. The employers will also forward their proposed new wage scale to the committee, in the meantime continuing until April 19 the prevailing schedule. No date was set for future meetings, but it was quite evident that another strong effort will be made to induce the union representatives to be present when the committee again meets.

Those best informed on building conditions in this city and who are hoping for an early settlement of the wage scale revision dispute feel that there is absolutely no foundation for labor's attitude. They all feel that the Public Group Committee is thoroughly representative of the public interest in construction, as the personnel of the committee was the result of invitations sent to the following organizations: New York Chapter, American Institute of Architects; New York Society of Architects; Brooklyn Chapter, American Institute of Architects; Federal Reserve Bank; Bankers Trust Company; Title Guarantee and Trust Company; New York Trust Company; Greenwich Savings Bank; Union Dime Savings Bank; Metropolitan Life Insurance Company; State Savings Bank Association; Chamber of Commerce of the State of New York; The Merchants' Association of New York; Guaranty Trust Company; New York Board of Title Underwriters; Real Estate Board of New York; City Club; Brooklyn Chamber of Commerce; Chamber of Commerce of the Borough of Queens, and Bank for Savings.

It is before a committee selected from this list that the labor interests are objecting to appear unless the Lockwood Committee and Samuel Untermyer are represented.

tion, perhaps essential at first was faulty, for the reason that it left out of the count all these various interests that I have referred to in the earlier part of this discourse.

"In 1913, the Real Estate Board of New York abandoned its original plan of confining its membership to real estate brokers and admitted to membership other people interested in real estate. Thus its membership today is inclusive of practically all these interests, besides brokers, appraisers, auctioneers and mortgage brokers. It is inclusive of owners, builders, contractors, architects, lawyers, engineers, bankers and brokers, insurance companies, title companies or their representatives, department stores, manufacturers, hotel owners and many other interests; and these combined outnumber the brokers more than two to one.

"There can be no question that this form of organization, in which all the elements of the business are combined, is the best form. For, when all is said and done the interests of all are the same. Except in minor instances there are few forms of public legislation or public expenditure which do not touch them all to some extent. Where there is divergence, the consideration given to these public questions tends to a sane and reasonable attitude, to the fair balancing of interests and to healthy compromise and adjustments.

"This form of organization ensures the collecting of data, in one place, for proper and expert consideration. It means the concentration of effort. It brings unified action for the common good. Such organization in brief comprises a board of governors and directors selected by the members from all of the classes of membership; a president and other officers; an executive committee and numerous standing and special committees charged with specific duties in the interests of each group but, on the whole, working for the combined good of the whole membership. There is no special interest to serve; no political bias.

"It is not always possible to counteract official bias or bad judgment, or to counteract public sentiment when this conflicts with the best economic procedure. But is it not a fair question: If the budget is increasing alarmingly, and if in some other respects governmental or legislative lapses cause us to worry, how much worse might these not be were it not for the efforts of the organization whose workings I have briefly described?

"Organization of local real estate boards in large and small communities is not all. Many states have state organizations of local boards. Finally there is national organization. The National Association of Real Estate Boards now comprises more than 400 boards throughout the United States and Canada. It represents a total membership of about 16,000. At its last convention, held in Chicago in June last, this great membership was represented by a delegation of 4,300 from all parts of this country and Canada. I have no doubt that an equal or greater number will be present at the next convention to be held in San Francisco from May 31 to June 3.

"A great deal more could be said on this subject. I have merely tried to outline the main reasons why real estate is already organized and why it should be still more highly organized. Let me emphasize the fact that the Real Estate Board of New York is not, as some might assume, organized purely for a selfish purpose. For this actual working out of this broad consideration of subjects, all vital to the public, results ultimately to the public benefit. And this is, as it should be, an increasingly evident result of proper organization along lines such as I have described.

"The benefits of organization to real estate cannot be too highly emphasized. Lack of co-operation on the part of those interested in providing houses for the masses and space for commercial interests has resulted in legislation that, if permitted to continue, will drive the investor from the real estate field and make it more difficult to secure that essential commodity, a roof over one's head.

"Real estate in the past has been so poorly organized and so lacking in this spirit of co-operation that the investor's viewpoint is lost sight of, and unscrupulous landlords entering the real estate field for the purpose of gouging the tenants have received the greatest publicity and, naturally, the real estate business is judged by the public from the publicity it receives."

rate of five per cent. per annum, with the result that in thirty-eight years from now the total will be paid by steady amortization and the investment will be safe and assured. It will mean a tremendous saving and a resultant public benefit. Henceforth, the public, by the power of law, is going to be let in on rapid-transit operation. That is the ultimatum I announce tonight. A barometer fund, to be fully worked out, will save the five-cent fare. Profitable rapid transit at that price is feasible and possible."

Secretary Allen, of the Coal Consumers Association, said: "So far as the Port of New York is concerned there should be a marked reduction of the freight rate on coal and it should be based on the cost per ton to transport. There should also be a seasonal freight rate, as well as an improvement in the quality of the coal delivered. There is no rate now that provides for the delivery of coal into New York City. It is fixed to the New Jersey shore, where the coal roads terminate. The rate per ton varies for domestic sizes from $2.66 to the Jersey shore to $7.00 to New England points. All of these rates are twice as much as they should be. Fifty per cent. of the coal that comes over the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad is from six mines near together and there is low cost of assembling it. The rate is outrageously high.

"The coal generally that comes into New York is low grade, as compared with the coal sent to other centers. There is a large volume of dust with it. And yet the Pennsylvania mines are known to produce probably the best coal of all. Why does this situation exist? Because the coal-buying public here has never done anything remedial about it.

"Most of the coal that comes into this city is hauled 155 miles from the mines and over one mountain range. The southern roads that supply other centers haul coal over two mountain ranges to various long distance-points of tide water at less than one-half the rate per ton paid by those who receive coal on the New Jersey shore opposite New York. The West Virginia mines and the Ohio mines ship coal much further than do the Lackawanna mines in Pennsylvania and at far less per ton. Cleveland, Detroit, Chicago and Buffalo get coal at a much lower freight rate than we do. Why is it New York is singled out as the victim of profiteering? All of the great industrial centers of the South get coal more cheaply than we do. Coal is carried hundreds of miles to reach them and yet they get it more cheaply than we do. If New York paid forty cents a mile per ton it would be paying well for all the coal it receives. There is no such reasonable rate in sight, however.

"There is one real and effective way that the cost of coal transportation to the New Jersey shore and to New York can be greatly cheapened to every consumer, large and small. That is to fight the system which makes these excessive charges before the Interstate Commerce Commission. It would cost probably $100,000 and it would take time and patience, but it could be done successfully. What is $100,000 in legal expenses when distributed over millions of tons of coal pro rata? When you large property-owners and consumers of coal decide to do this you will pave the way for relief and not before."

The National Fire Protection Association has just issued a bulletin stating that the fire loss in the United States for 1921 exceeded that of any previous year. While final figures are not available, the total will be $500,000,000.

Housing Is Nearly Seventy Per Cent. of All Local Building

Weekly Statistical Tabulations of F. W. Dodge Company Show Steady Gains in Residential Construction in New York Territory

SIGNIFICANT gains in the volume of active construction are being reported from practically all sections of the United States and the outstanding characteristic of the building situation as it prevails today is the absolute predominance of residential work. Building statistics for the week of March 18 to 24 inclusive, as tabulated by the F. W. Dodge Company, show that in New York State and New Jersey, north of Trenton, residential plans were announced that will involve a total cost of $25,136,000. The total for all newly proposed construction in this territory was $26,109,700 for the week. Out of 816 separate operations reported 629 were for apartments or one- and two-family dwellings.

Figures for the week show a slight drop in the volume of new work placed under contract but according to the number of operations now out for estimates this does not indicate a trend toward less active work. Approximately the same ratio between residential and all other classes of construction prevails when the figures for recent awards are analyzed for out of 452 contracts awarded during the week 355 were for housing construction and the cost was $10,180,500 for this work out of a total of $15,824,700 in contracts for the week.

The list of 818 operations for which plans were reported during the twelfth week of this year included 104 business projects such as stores, offices, lofts, commercial garages, etc., $3,337,000; 11 educational projects, $1,115,500; 5 hospitals and institutions, $226,000; 18 factories and warehouses, etc., $1,281,000; 1 structure for the U. S. Navy, $10,000; 1 public building, $35,000; 41 public works and public utilities, $3,372,200; 2 religious and memorial buildings, $68,000; 629 residential operations including apartments, flats and tenements and one- and two-family dwellings, $25,136,000, and 6 social and recreational projects, $1,451,000.

Among the 452 projects for which contracts were awarded during the week of March 18 to 24 inclusive were 59 business buildings of various types, $1,958,500; 8 educational structures, $2,091,000; 10 factory and industrial projects, $258,000; 1 public building, $10,000; 12 public works and public utilities, $711,700; 4 religious and memorial structures, $230,000; 355 residential projects including multi-family dwellings and one- and two-family houses, $10,180,500, and 3 social and recreational operations, $385,000, the latter classification including several war memorial projects.

PERSONAL AND TRADE NOTES.

W. T. Thecker, architect, has resumed the practice of his profession and has temporary offices at 633 Campbell avenue, Long Branch, N. J.

Marc Eidlitz & Son, general contractors, have moved their Hartford office from 18 Asylum street to 750 Main street, Room 1401.

Hyde & Shepherd, architects, 588 Lexington avenue, announce that Clermont Livingston Barnwell has become a member of the firm.

Hughes-Keenan Co., Mansfield, O., manufacturer of toilet and shower partitions of steel, has established a New York office at 103 Park avenue under the management of Ford B. Hanna.

Joseph J. Brietman, architect, has moved his office from 117 West 63d street to 253 West 47th street, Newark, N. J. He desires samples, catalogues and price lists of building materials and specialties.

John Borkel & Co., roofing contractors, announce the removal of their shop and office from 42 East Houston street to 203-205 East 21st street.

Barto-Phillips Co., Inc., engineers and builders, formerly located at 280 Madison avenue has moved offices to the Vanderbilt Concourse Building, 52 Vanderbilt avenue.

Jno. B. Snook Sons, architects, will move their offices about May 1, from 261 Broadway to 52 Vesey street, where they will occupy an entire floor. This well-known firm is probably the oldest architectural firm in the country, having been continuously engaged in the practice of architecture since 1837. The founder of the firm was John B. Snook. The present members are Thomas Edward Snook, John W. Boyleston, Thomas E. Snook, Jr., and Herbert C. Bowman. Among the older buildings designed by this firm were the original Grand Central Station on Forty-second street, the William H. Vanderbilt mansions on Fifth avenue and those of his four daughters, the St. John's Park Freight Depot on Hudson street, the A. T. Stewart Building at Broadway and Chambers street, Niblo's Garden, the Metropolitan Hotel, All Angels Church, West End avenue, and the Hebrew Orphan Asylum, Brooklyn, N. Y. Some of their more recent large works are the Stern Brothers' Department Store, West Forty-second street; W. & J. Sloane Building on Fifth avenue, and the Merchant Refrigerating Company's Cold Storage Building, Tenth avenue and Sixteenth street.

Awards for Best Apartments.

At the recent meeting of the New York Chapter of the American Institute of Architects, the apartment house at 1049 Park avenue was adjudged the best designed multi-family dwelling erected in Greater New York within the past year. Accordingly the first prize was awarded to the owner of the building, Mrs. Catherine Abbot. The structure was designed by J. L. Mills and W. L. Bottomly, associate architects.

Honorable mention was accorded Kenneth Schley, owner of the apartment house at 845 Fifth avenue, which was constructed from designs by J. E. R. Carpenter. The committee of awards was made up of Harry Allan Jacobs, chairman; Louis S. Weeks, O. R. Rice, L. N. Gillette, W. S. Bessel and William A. Robertson, of the Tenement House Department.

Bond Issue for New Bachelor Hotel.

S. W. Straus & Co. have underwritten a first mortgage bond issue of $1,100,000 on the new Allerton House to be erected at 130 East Fifty-seventh Street. This latest unit in the Allerton chain of bachelor apartment houses will be nineteen stories high and will contain approximately 470 rooms. The building is now in course of construction.

The land fronts 67 feet 6 inches on the south of Fifty-seventh Street, 22 feet 6 inches west of Lexington Avenue, by 100 feet deep, plus a frontage of 75 feet on the west side of Lexington, 25 feet, 6 inches south of Fifty-seventh Street and contains approximately 8,462 square feet.

A valuation of $1,600,000 has been placed on the land and building. The building is designed along lines which have brought success to the Allerton House idea. The main floor will contain a large entrance hall, lounge, dining and reading rooms and two shops. On the roof will be a music room, writing room, solarium and roof garden.

The idea of the Allerton House is to provide single men with comfortable homes plus the advantage of a club atmosphere. Other Allerton Houses are located at 302 West 22nd Street, 143 East 39th Street and 45 East 55th Street. The bonds are a direct obligation of the Allerton Fifty-seventh Street Corporation, some of the principal stockholders of which are James S. Cushman and William H. Silk.

TRADE AND TECHNICAL SOCIETY EVENTS.

Building Managers' and Owners' Association of New York will hold its regular monthly dinner meeting at the Advertising Club, 47 East 25th street, Tuesday evening, April 11. The name of the speaker will be announced later.

American Lumber Congress is scheduled to hold its fourth annual meeting in Chicago, April 6 and 7, inclusive. Interesting programs are being prepared for all sessions of this convention.

American Iron, Steel and Heavy Hardware Association will hold its annual convention in Washington, D. C., May 23 to 25 inclusive. Headquarters will be located at the Hotel Washington. Secretary, A. H. Chamberlain, 1328 Broadway.

National Metal Trades Association will hold its annual convention at the Hotel Astor, April 17 to 20 inclusive. The program for this meeting provides for the executive committee meeting, a meeting of the local branch secretaries and a dinner of the local branch secretaries will be held on Monday. There will also be included a meeting of the administrative council and the so-called alumni dinner on Tuesday with the regular convention sessions on Wednesday and Thursday. The annual banquet of the association will be held Wednesday evening.

New York Building Superintendents' Association will hold a smoker in the east ballroom of the Hotel Commodore Saturday evening, April 8. M. F. Godfrey is chairman of the committee in charge of the program for this event, and he promises a most interesting program. Members are urged to keep this date in mind or they will miss a notable event.

Building Officials Conference for 1922 will be held at Indianapolis, April 25 to 28, inclusive. The meetings will be held at the Hotel Lincoln and the committee arranging the program promises extremely interesting sessions. Details of the program will be available later.

Illuminating Engineering Society will hold its annual convention in Boston, September 25 to 28 inclusive. This will be the sixteenth annual gathering of the society, and the convention arrangements are in the hands of a committee of which C. L. Edgar, president of the Edison Electric Illuminating Company of Boston, is chairman; H. F. Wallace, vice-chairman, and J. Daniels, secretary.

CURRENT BUILDING OPERATIONS

EXTENSION of the tax exemption ordinance by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, although practically a foregone conclusion among speculative builders, will undoubtedly be followed by an immediate increase in the volume of apartment house and small dwelling construction throughout Greater New York. For the past few weeks plans for work of this character have been piling up and from all accounts the local building field will be dominated by speculative construction throughout the coming season.

The general activity in the industry is shaping up in a manner satisfactory to all concerned and if the dispute between employers and workmen over the revision of wage scales can be settled without further delay, the next few months will become historic in local building annals. There is a vast amount of projected work and the only requirement for an immediate start is some assurance that relations between the employers and the trade unions will be harmonious.

The building material markets are steadily gaining in activity, with demand for all materials improving and prospects for a consistent increase in business throughout the remainder of the year. Prices are remarkably firm in practically all lines and in some instances slight advances have been reported. The common brick market has been exceptionally active and prices have steadied down considerably. Lumber dealers report increased buying for immediate construction requirements and a splendid outlook for the future.

Common Brick—It has been some years since the volume of business transacted in the New York wholesale market for Hudson River common brick has approached that of the past week when a total of sixty-five barge loads of common brick arrived from up-river yards and all were disposed of to satisfy immediate orders. Although the heavy sales of the week are partly the result of the scarcity that existed a few weeks ago, which depleted all reserves held by dealers, there is no doubt that the demand for this commodity is greater today than it has been for a long time and there are marked indications that this demand will increase steadily throughout the spring and summer months instead of decreasing. Prices are fairly firm and although there is a range from $16 to $16.50 a thousand, wholesale, there is very little brick obtainable at the lower figure and only for off-quality product. The fair weather of the past few days, coupled with the increasing demand for brick, has turned the thoughts of Hudson River brick manufacturers to the coming producing season. Because of the heavy potential demand and the moderate reserves at the yards there is every probability that, weather conditions permitting, manufacturing will be started at least two or three weeks earlier this year than usual. At present brick manufacturers are making their plans for the season's operations and are gathering their working forces with the hope of starting their plants during the latter part of April if possible.

of newly projected construction that has been announced for an early start. Buying has been steady and consistent throughout the past winter and many of the local dealers report a splendid winter business. Lumber prices are firm at present and although there is likely to be a slight advance as the demand increases, those best informed are not inclined to think that prices will soar this summer contrary to predictions recently made.

Structural Steel—The market for this commodity is far more active than it has been and there are marked indications that buying will increase steadily from now on. There have been a number of plans recently released involving large structural operations and they will require a heavy total tonnage of fabricated material. Several large bookings during the past week have been largely responsible for the improved tone of the market and with the award of the orders now pending there will undoubtedly be a decided change in the outlook. Prices on fabricated steel are slightly higher than they were and are firm at the new level. The general range is from $63 to $68 per ton, for steel, fabricated and erected in commercial structures. Structural bookings improved to some extent during February, according to the report issued by the Bridge Builders' and Structural Society. This report shows that during the month of February 78,700 tons of fabricated structural steel was contracted for throughout the United States, equivalent to forty-three per cent. of the entire capacity of the bridge and structural shops of the country.

Cast Iron Pipe—The tone of the market for this commodity is excellent and manufacturers are looking for a steady increase in the volume of business. Private buying continues to be a noteworthy feature of the current demand and there is a steady increase in the amount of municipal business in sight for the coming season. The majority of the Eastern plants are now operating at approximately eighty per cent. of capacity and with the orders in sight shortly maturing there is no reason why production should not be increased. Prices are firm and no changes are anticipated. New York quotations are as follows: 6 in. and larger, $47.30 per net ton; 4 in. and 5 in., $52.30, and 3 in., $62.30, with Class A and gas pipe $4 extra per ton.

Builders' Hardware—The demand is strong and shows every likelihood of improving steadily throughout the coming season. There is a great amount of proposed construction that will create a heavy demand for hardware items. Prices are firm and unchanged.

Window Glass—Additional interest is being manifested in this line every day and both manufacturers and jobbers are anticipating a season of more than usual activity. The program of speculative construction for this territory is steadily increasing and during the middle of the summer the dealers in glass anticipate the peak of business and in all probability will be rushed to the limit of their capacity. Prices are steady and no changes have been reported.

Linseed Oil—Although demand is not brisk, the recent business in the linseed oil market is generally considered fair for this period of the year and is indicative of greater activity ahead. During the past two weeks sales have shown a decided improvement over those of the previous two months and this fact alone is quite heartening to the jobbing interests. Recent sales have been in small lot orders and the market for this commodity will not gain in activity to any extent until considerable car-lot business is manifest.

To Whom it May Concern:-

I take great pleasure in voluntarily testifying as to the ability and reliability of Mr. A. Wilkes, Decorator and Painter, who has just completed a satisfactory job of painting and re-decorating of my home at 196 Shonnard Terrace, Yonkers, N. Y., which shows thoroughness, good workmanship and artistic judgment.

Mr. Wilkes' prices are reasonable and not excessive like some who figured on this job, and instead of "cutting corners" and omitting details, I find that he has included many small details, not specified, in order to give a thoroughly satisfactory service and effects.

I therefore commend him unqualifiedly as a conscientious and dependable person who can be relied on to do a first class job of painting or decorating, and will be pleased to show the work in my home or be a reference for further information.

Yours very truly,
CLARENCE P. DAY.

EMPIRE Extensible Steel Partitions

are adjustable to any ceiling height. Entire floors can be dismantled and re-erected over night, at less than 25% of the cost of the ordinary partitions.

Finished in Baked Enamel, Oak, Mahogany, Circassian and American Walnut, etc.

"COST COMPARES FAVORABLY WITH WOOD"

See Our Details in Sweet's Catalogue

In that giant among giants—the Equitable Building—what partition to use was a serious question.

You can imagine that with the stream of tenants moving and changing continually the cost of building new partitions might easily be tremendous.

There was not only the cost of the material destroyed if plaster partitions were used, but the dust annoyance to the tenants had to be thought of.

Every type of partition material was considered and rejected for one reason or another.

Finally Empire Steel Partitions was decided upon because of the "ease and economy" with which it can be moved whenever tenants require alterations.

"The partitions embodying the EMPIRE STEEL construction give us a flexible partition which can be used on nearly every floor, and which can be moved at low cost, without expensive waste or damage.

STATEMENT OF THE OWNERSHIP, MANAGEMENT, CIRCULATION, ETC., REQUIRED BY THE ACT OF CONGRESS OF AUGUST 24, 1912.

Of Real Estate Record and Builders' Guide, published weekly at New York, N. Y., for April 1, 1922.

State of New York } ss.
County of New York }
Before me, a Notary Public in and for the State and county aforesaid, personally appeared Frank E. Perley, who, having been duly sworn according to law, deposes and says that he is the President of The Record and Guide Company, publishers of the Real Estate Record and Builders' Guide, and that the following is, to the best of his knowledge and belief, a true statement of the ownership, management, etc., of the aforesaid publication for the date shown in the above caption, required by the Act of August 24, 1912, embodied in section 443, Postal Laws and Regulations, printed on the reverse of this form, to wit:

1. That the names and addresses of the publisher, editor, managing editor, and business managers are:

2. That the owners are: The F. W. Dodge Company, 119 West 40th St., New York, N. Y.; Estate of F. W. Dodge, 119 West 40th St., New York, N. Y.; F. T. Miller, 119 West 40th St., New York, N. Y.

3. That the known bondholders, mortgagees, and other security holders owning or holding 1 per cent. or more of total amount of bonds, mortgages, or other securities are: None.

4. That the two paragraphs next above, giving the names of the owners, stockholders, and security holders, if any, contain not only the list of stockholders and security holders as they appear upon the books of the company but also, in cases where the stockholder or security holder appears upon the books of the company as trustee or in any other fiduciary relation, the name of the person or corporation for whom such trustee is acting, is given; also that the said two paragraphs contain statements embracing affiant's full knowledge and belief as to the circumstances and conditions under which stockholders and security holders who do not appear upon the books of the company as trustees, hold stock and securities in a capacity other than that of a bona fide owner; and this affiant has no reason to believe that any other person, association or corporation has any interest direct or indirect in the said stock, bonds, or other securities than as so stated by him.

FRANK E. PERLEY,
President of Record and Guide Company,
Publishers of Real Estate Record and Builders' Guide.

Sworn to and subscribed before me this 23rd day of March, 1922.

[Seal.] Henri David,
Notary Public No. 212, New York County.
My Commission expires March 30, 1922.

You may ask what rate of interest you may expect if you establish a trust fund under the guarantee of this Company that it will not shrink.

The return will be the amount paid by the Guaranteed Mortgages of the Bond & Mortgage Guarantee Company in which we will invest the trust fund less very moderate trustees' commissions.

During the past thirty years, such mortgages have paid a little more than Municipal Bonds or other saving bank bonds purchased at the same period with this difference—there has been no shrinkage in the principal invested in the Guaranteed Mortgages while there have been heavy losses in the value of those other investments.

EDITORIAL

As to Representing the Public

It is surprising indeed to note the attitude of the Building Trades Council in the negotiations which are under way to reach new wage and working agreements in the building trades. The Council takes the position that the so-called Public Group engaged in the negotiations does not actually represent the public, or, at least, that the Public Group does not represent the public as does the Lockwood Committee. And the Lockwood Committee, in turn, holds that the public cannot be fully and properly represented in these negotiations unless its Chief Counsel, Mr. Samuel Untermeyer, is made a party to the proceedings.

This amazing proposition naturally is resented by the Public Group, the Secretary of which, Mr. Robert D. Kohn, properly declared that "the Council cannot tell us that we do not represent the public interest," adding, "twenty-five civic organizations are represented in this committee and we have a perfect right to interest ourselves in this situation and to represent the public."

Unless THE RECORD AND GUIDE is greatly mistaken, a large number of New Yorkers take exception to the idea that in the present building situation in the metropolis no one has any regard for the public interest excepting the Lockwood Committee or its Chief Counsel. Thoughtful observers keep in mind the fact that the Lockwood Committee, although marvelously press-agented for many months, is made up of individual Senators and Assemblymen of limited experience in public affairs, men whose activities prior to their appointment on the Lockwood Committee were largely confined to the small geographical sections of the city which they represent at Albany. When the Legislature decided to have a Housing Committee the personnel of that committee was determined by the up-state political leaders, and none of the members owed his selection to the fact that he stood out pre-eminently either as an authority on housing or on civic affairs in general in the metropolis. In fact, little was known about any member of the committee outside his own district.

Contrasted with these men, it is interesting to note who constitute the Public Group participating in the present negotiations. In the list with Mr. Walter Stabler as Chairman are found the names of some of the best-known and most reputable architects in New York, bankers of high standing and wide experience, leaders in the real estate field like Mr. Clarence H. Kelsey, high officials of savings banks which furnish millions on millions of the money used in building, Mr. William Fellowes Morgan, President of the Merchants Association of New York, Mr. Charles G. Edwards, President of the Real Estate Board of New York, Mr. J. Harvey Williams, President of the Brooklyn Chamber of Commerce, and representatives of the Bronx Board of Trade and the Queens Chamber of Commerce, together with other long-recognized leaders in civic and business organizations.

When the acting Public Group is contrasted with the Lockwood group it seems amazing, if it were not so ludicrous, that the effort to adjust the building situation in the metropolis should be held back because of such a puerile discussion as to which group is more truly representative of the public in the situation. The leaders of the Building Trades Council probably have their reasons for favoring the Lockwood Committee and Mr. Untermeyer as the only simon-pure representatives of the New York public, but the great mass of New Yorkers cannot be so blind. Many as are the difficulties that beset Father Knickerbocker these days, surely he cannot yet have reached the point where nobody loves him or is willing to safeguard his interests excepting the members of the Lockwood Committee and its Chief Counsel.

On the contrary, the character and standing and experience and public-spirit of the men constituting the Public Group in the present negotiations furnish in themselves an answer to the absurd proposition. Representing the public in such a vital matter as is involved in the present negotiations is a serious business and the great public of the metropolis, more vitally interested than any single group, may well count itself fortunate in having as its representatives in the Public Group such a body of men as are now working on this problem. Certainly if these men cannot adequately represent the public in the present negotiations it would be a waste of time to try to find any group which could satisfactorily perform that public service.

Albany Helps Out the Taxpayers

Governor Miller has completed consideration of the various financial bills passed by the recent Legislature, and the taxpayers of the state now know how much it will cost them for state government during the next fiscal year. Because of some extraordinary but necessary expenditures, Governor Miller has not succeeded in keeping the totals quite as low as he had hoped to do, but it is only fair to say that he has done well by the taxpayers under the circumstances.

The total appropriations approved by the Governor amount to $133,142,807.34, a decrease of about $2,500,000 as compared with the present fiscal year and a decrease of more than $12,000,000 as compared with the appropriations for 1920. These comparisons with the record of the last two preceding years show that the taxpayers have ample ground for satisfaction, even though the total for the new fiscal year shows a smaller relative reduction than was effected in 1921.

As Governor Miller points out, the 1922 appropriations include four items, totaling $9,000,000, to meet extraordinary demands on the State Treasury. These unusual items include $5,500,000 to complete the state's share of the New York and New Jersey Vehicular Tunnel, $1,500,000 to acquire land for the improvement of the Harlem River, $1,000,000 to utilize surplus canal waters now running to waste, and $1,000,000 for prompt, temporary relief of disabled veterans of the World War. No objection can be raised to any of these extraordinary expenditures, but for which the total appropriations this year would be between $11,000,000 and $12,000,000 less than those for 1921. In this connection it is interesting to note the Governor's statement that "the legitimate needs of the state and needful public improvements have been adequately provided for." In other words, Governor Miller shows by the record that he has instituted real economy in the conduct of the state government and that this has been done without detriment to the public interest. That is the sort of record which appeals to all taxpayers, and taxpayers do not care what may be the political proclivities of the official bringing about the economies.

A good example of governmental economy has been given at Albany and it should be followed by city and county officials all over the state. The only way to cut tax burdens is to cut them, and extravagance by local officials should not be permitted to eat up the millions saved in running the state government.

1922 Setting New Building Records

If the building activity reported throughout the country during the first quarter of the current year is any criterion, there can be no doubt that 1922 will establish a new high record for national building accomplishments. Already the total commitments are significant of the long-predicted revival in building, and from the manner in which the industry has gained momentum during the past two or three months in practically all sections of the United States the recent forecasts of the extent of the 1922 building boom are likely to be more than fulfilled.

Construction statistics compiled by the F. W. Dodge Company show that the building commitments for March in the twenty-seven Northeastern States reached a total of $293,636,000. This figure represents a gain of sixty-five per cent. over the total for the previous month and is approximately seventy-nine per cent. greater than the volume of construction reported placed under contract during March, 1921.

The first quarter of 1922 is about sixty-eight per cent. ahead of the same period a year ago in the value of contract awards for new building and engineering projects, and as the reported contemplated construction for last month, plans for a large percentage of which are fully matured, amounted to a total of nearly $613,000,000, or more than twice the value of the work actually awarded during the same period, there is a practical assurance that only a widespread stoppage of construction activity in various parts of the country will prevent the current year from establishing a new high record for building achievement. The March total of reported construction being planned is the largest of any single month since March, 1920, which was a banner month, and as the records of the past three months show a steady gain there is a likelihood that previous records will be broken before the year is half over.

Despite repeated claims that a large amount of local construction is being held in abeyance because of prevailing high costs, particularly as applied to building labor, the March commitments for the territory including New York State and Northern New Jersey amounted to $88,506,000. This total is less than a quarter of a million dollars below the record total for this district and an additional project of the ordinary New York City commercial loft building type would have broken the local monthly record.

Although the major portion of the work now active throughout the country is residential in character, and operations of this type during March represent the greatest total of any single month since the summer of 1919, there has been a healthy gain in all classifications of construction. The building industry has every reason to feel assured that the future is exceptionally bright and the outlook for progress better than it has been for many years past.

Hearing on Amendments to Emergency Rent Laws Next Monday

GOVERNOR MILLER will give a hearing on the amendments to the Emergency Rent Laws passed at the recent session next Monday, April 10, in the Executive Chamber at Albany. It is expected that a large number of those interested in this legislation will attend.

The Real Estate Board of New York will oppose the bill extending the Emergency Rent Laws for two years, to February 15, 1924, because the board takes the position that this date is far beyond the reasonable possibility of the existence of any "emergency" which may have existed and that the bill applies equally to all types of apartments, even those of which there is already a surplus.

Another bill which will be opposed by the Real Estate Board is intended to modify the administration of the rent laws for both tenant and landlord. In the judgment of the Board it does not do this through faulty drafting. The provision in the old law requiring that there could be no defense when the tenant had paid three months' rent without question, was generally satisfactory to both landlord and tenant; but complaint was made that some landlords compelled first payment of three months' rent in advance. In order to remedy this a new section is proposed, but is so badly drawn that it leaves the matter for both landlord and tenant worse than it was before. Another undesirable feature is that the assessed value be presumed to be real value as of the time of payment of the first month's rent. This in many cases would be the value of some three to five years ago.

The bill permitting insurance companies to go into the building business on the plea that they can produce cheap housing is objected to by the Real Estate Board because while the bill provides that the maximum rent to be obtained per room per month shall be $9, it says nothing as to the character of the apartments or the service to be rendered.

"Except among theorists there is no particular interest in this bill, apparently not even on the part of the insurance companies," declares the Board. "Indiscriminate owning of real estate was forbidden to the insurance companies after very thorough consideration some years ago. Policyholders will agree that life insurance funds should not be used in speculative building."

Philadelphia Will Have Real Estate and Building Exposition April 15-22

THE Philadelphia Real Estate Board will hold the fourth annual real estate and building exposition in that city from April 15 to 22 inclusive. It will be held in the First Regiment Armory and will include exhibits of building materials, furnishings and appliances of all kinds, and will also have as a part of the exhibits a competition of architects for various types of residences.

Included in the membership of the Philadelphia Real Estate

Board are practically all the real estate men in that city, the larger contractors and bankers and business men of all kinds as honorary members.

The general chairman of the committee in charge of the exposition is C. William Spiess. Interest in this annual event has been growing rapidly since its inauguration four years ago and it is confidently expected that all former efforts will be eclipsed this year.

Total Legislative Appropriations $2,500,000 Under 1921

Governor Miller Points Out Net Reduction Notwithstanding Increases in Unavoidable Fixed Charges and Extraordinary Public Improvements

[Special to the RECORD AND GUIDE]

Albany, April 6.

THE supplemental appropriation bill carrying items aggregating $1,229,142, which includes $765,000 for adjusted canal claims and judgments of the State court of claims was signed by Governor Miller this week. A number of other bills received his approval.

"The total appropriations carried in this bill, the general appropriation bill amounting to $102,857,610 and special bills appropriating $19,167,587, mainly for highway construction and maintenance, are $123,254,340," the Governor commented in a memorandum accompanying this legislation. "That sum fairly represents the amount to which the regular expenses of the State government have been reduced. In addition to the foregoing the Legislature has deemed it wise to provide for a number of extraordinary demands including the following items:

To complete the State's share of the construction of the New York and New Jersey Vehicular Tunnel	$5,500,000
To acquire land necessary for the improvement of the Harlem River imperatively needed both for Barge Canal shipping and to relieve conditions in New York Harbor	1,500,000
To utilize the surplus canal waters at Visscher's Ferry and Crescent Dam, now running to waste	1,000,000
To give prompt, temporary relief to disabled veterans of the World War	1,000,000
Total	9,000,000

"Those with other items bring the total appropriations made by the Legislature up to $133,143,807.34, which is two and a half millions under the appropriations of last year and more than twelve millions under the appropriations of 1920.

"That result is especially gratifying in view of the drastic cut of seventy millions of dollars, in round numbers, from the budget requests last year and of the further fact that there are annual increases in fixed charges and expenses of government which cannot be avoided. Some of these increases in the requirements of this over last year are as follows:

Debt service	$705,378.57
Highways, under the Lowman Act and to supplement Federal Aid	506,483.72
Fixed charges in Education Department.....	2,416,765.00
Pension retirement system.....	100,477.00
Taxes on public lands.....	55,984.18
Tubercular cattle	382,618.39
Opening of Marcy Division, Utica State Hospital...	297,678.00
Statutory increases in salaries in institutions.....	191,399.98
Statutory increases in salaries for normal schools...	72,670.00
State Police	8,774.00
Total	$4,738,228.84

"In other words the Legislature provided more than nine million dollars for extraordinary public improvements and requirements, met the necessary increases in the cost of government of more than four and three-fourths million dollars, and effected a net reduction of more than two and a half million dollars in the appropriations as compared with last year.

"The Legislature has not been parsimonious. The legitimate needs of the state and needful public improvements have been adequately provided for. It is now for the administrative departments of the Government to make efficient and economical use of the funds provided and to discharge their several functions within the appropriations allowed them. To do that it will only be necessary to maintain the spirit of co-operation and the will constantly to improve methods of administration which have been exhibited in marked fashion during the past year."

The direct State tax bill was signed by the Governor this week, with this comment: "This bill levies a direct State tax of one-half of a mill for teachers' salaries and a trifle less than eight-tenths of a mill for debt service. That will result in a total reduction in direct State taxes of $15,055,790 as compared with 1920 and unless absorbed by increases in local taxation will cause substantial tax reductions in every county in New York State."

The Governor also approved an amendment to the Real Property Law and the Executive Law, affecting counties in which there are registers and requiring a notary public in addition to filing his autograph signature with such register to file a certificate from the county clerk in which such notary was originally appointed or a certificate from the county clerk of the county where such notary has acknowledged a deed or other instrument.

The State standard building code bill was also signed by the Governor. This measure affects theatres and other places of public amusement having a seating capacity of 100 or more and is the precautionary outcome of the Washington theatre collapse of last winter. Under the terms of the bill the State industrial commission is directed to frame the building code and compel compliance with its regulations. The code shall supersede any special or local law or ordinance. In municipalities where there is a department or bureau of buildings the new regulations shall be administered by such department. The State code will represent the minimum of requirement, and municipalities may establish by ordinance additional requirements and restrictions. A special bureau will be established in the industrial commission for the administration of the code.

The Governor has also signed the Rayher bill providing that an owner or occupant of property who shall be deprived of light and air by any fence or fence structure exceeding 10 feet in height may institute an action to have such fence declared a private nuisance.

Governor Miller signed two bills aimed to curb the crime wave in New York City by speeding up the work of the criminal courts.

One of the measures provides for six additional assistant district attorneys for New York County and the other restores to the New York County District Attorney the control over the trial of indictments, now possessed by all other district attorneys in the State. The bill providing for the additional assistant district attorneys has the approval of Mayor Hylan.

Following the signing of the bills, the Governor sent a letter to District Attorney Joab H. Banton, of New York County, pointing out that all the measures he had requested to enable him to speedily bring lawbreakers to justice have now been provided. In his letter the Governor said there is no reason why New York should not be a safe place in which to live.

Joseph P. Day Tells How to Succeed as Realty Auctioneer

His Address in Y. M. C. A. Lecture Course Followed by Robert E. Dowling, Who Stressed Growing Importance and Respectability of Realty Business

THE members of the Real Estate Training Class of the West Side Y. M. C. A. received an extra charge of real estate information on Tuesday evening, when Robert E. Dowling, who presided and introduced the scheduled speaker, Joseph P. Day, himself spoke at length and unexpectedly on various phases of the real estate situation. Mr. Dowling's address followed that by Mr. Day and each speaker was greatly interested in what the other said, as was the audience. Mr. Dowling's speech was a pleasant surprise to his auditors and they asked him as many questions when he had finished as they asked Mr. Day.

In opening the meeting Mr. Dowling said that he did not know why he was asked to introduce Mr. Day to a real estate audience or to any other audience for that matter, for the reason that he was so well known he needed no introduction anywhere. Mr. Day, in response, said: "Mr. Dowling is more gracious to me than I deserve. But, his presence here tonight reminds me that I should utter a truism to this audience. John Jacob Astor was the biggest investor in New York real estate. Robert E. Dowling is the biggest and highest class operator in New York real estate. I express no flattery when I say that. He is one of the great constructive forces in the real estate movement of this city and you, students of a great line of business with which he is identified, should know it if you do not.

"Pardon me for being reminiscent for a few minutes. Mr. Dowling's presence here reminds me what an inspiration and bulwark he is to the New York real estate market. During the trying panic days of 1907, when building operations were going by the board, when most men lost their nerve as well as their money, when anything pertaining to the payment of money caused confusion, Dowling was in the midst of the huge job of erecting the City Investing Building, at 165 Broadway. During all of that era that tried men's souls and pocket-books Mr. Dowling went about his business daily, calmly effecting all that he had planned, and quietly and coolly he drew up his payroll each week and paid for the construction of the monumental pile that I have mentioned. He went through the panic of 1907 successfully. He knew his business. His judgment kept pace with the crucial hours. And, by the way, he is a native of this city. It seems to be a generally accepted belief that the most successful men in any line of business in this town are outlanders, that they come from Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, California and other parts of the country and show us something. Here is a salient instance of a native teaching the outlanders something. He is the real operator of this city. I say it in all sincerity. With such a success as this man has achieved don't ever wish to yourself that you had been born in Oshkosh, Kalamazoo or Hoboken, instead of here. If it has been your luck to have been born there, why, then do the best you can with the handicap."

Continuing, Mr. Day said:—

"My assigned task to-night is to talk on the selling of real estate at auction. I cannot give you a real heart-to-heart, man-to-man demonstration here because the environment is not here. Just come around to the Real Estate Salesroom any day when I am on the job. I will do better then and incidentally I may sell you a few lots. (Great laughter). I can only say now that I have been at the game twenty years in dead earnest. They have been twenty years filled with hard work, enthusiasm for that work and satisfaction, as a rule, over having performed it. Let me tell you the selling of real estate, either at auction or privately, is not always a bed of roses. You must have initiative and nerve to succeed, for you are always up against men of nerve and judgment who do succeed. As for the auction business, it is the hardest kind of work. If you become an auctioneer there will be many a day and night when you will have to absolutely forget home, mother and the babies in order to pull a big sale through to success. Work and then more work, that is the secret of my success. Boundless and undaunted enthusiasm for work. The fellow who said that genius was the faculty of working hard came pretty near the diagnosis. My beginning in the general real estate business dates back twenty-five years, but I got the idea of being a live auctioneer about twenty years ago.

"When I paid $1,000 for a seat on the Real Estate Exchange and announced an active membership Peter F. Meyer and Adrian Muller were the king-pins of the business. And, let me say, they were remarkable men in their field. Because I ventured to sell real estate at auction they looked upon me as a sort of a fresh kid. Some said that I was crazy, and wanted to know where I got off. Just at that moment, while they were thinking that way, I got on. (Laughter). You know that this world is not made for any coterie, as nearly as I can reckon.

"It so happened," Mr. Day continued, "that the Bennett building on Nassau street, erected by that journalistic genius, the late James Gordon Bennett, was to be sold at auction. It had previously passed out of the hands of Mr. Bennett. I went out and looked for the job of selling that property at auction and I got it. I think my fee was $15. But I urged that a big advertising appropriation be made and it was. That exploited the property so well that it brought many persons to the sale. It was a success. Then subsequently I got busy hunting for executors' sales. That is where the auctioneer makes the real money. I finally got to the stage where I did not have to beg for sales. I suppose that my work to some extent spoke for itself.

"Let me impress upon you the four fundamentals of the real estate auction business. First, get your man's attention; then his interest in your proposition; then his desire to have it; and then his action. The last is the grand climax of the others. In arousing his attention show him the unique features of what you are offering, such as the profit a re-sale will yield and the renting power and possible increased renting power. You can do this best on a broad scale by advertising. Sometimes the pulling power of a daily newspaper page may require less than a page of actual space. Attract your public by advancing an unusual statement. Make it brief, pointed and impressive. Then, in another advertisement, arouse its interest by advancing arguments with merit. Then arouse its desire in another advertisement. Then your work is really done. Get so you feel it in your bones that you are selling the property to yourself. When that is done you are a sure winner.

"The power of suggestion is a wonderful power. While I was riding uptown on the subway tonight I beheld an advertisement of a certain brand of canned beans. It was illustrated so cleverly that the more I looked at it the more I felt like sitting down right there and eating a dishful. Let the power of suggestion work along the right lines in the real estate business. It is bound to come out right. Always feel that you are going to do better than the best. It is a grand and glorious feeling. The greatest indoor sport, to my mind, is selling real estate at auction. If you can only feel that way you have the feeling that will make the buyer come across. You will get some hard knocks as you go along. What of it? Knocks are always mixed with success.

"An essential in the auction room is quiet concentration on the work at hand. Be determined to sell and to hold the interest and desire of a prospective buyer even if there is a riot on hand. Straight order of business is necessary. Why, I want to tell you that at a recent auction sale of government property I made in Camden, N. J., the crowd was so dense and noisy that I had one prospective buyer dragged through a window so that he could learn what he wanted to know. And I sold him a parcel. There was local prejudice against the entire sale at the beginning, a high old row developed and things looked ominous for a while. But, I concentrated on my objective and within an hour and a half that gathering was a perfect love feast. Don't ever forget to exercise the power to put things over as quickly as possible. Keep cool. Don't lose sight of the main point. The power of a dominating will to do things must prevail."

When Mr. Day had finished, Mr. Dowling said: "I made my first sale of real estate when I was twenty years old. I started my career as a broker pure and simple. It is always interesting work. When I started the Upper West Side was mostly vacant lots. Nearly everybody said when the boom there began that values there would not last six months. Think of it! However, I believed in the future growth of this city. I had

Modern Apartment House for Madison Ave. Car Barn Site

S. W. Straus & Co. Underwrite Bond Issue on Fifteen-Story Multi-Family Project to Be Conducted According to New and Unique Plan of Operation

BY far the most important as well as interesting transaction in the real estate and building fields during the past week was the closing of negotiations for the construction of a fifteen-story apartment house to be erected on the west side of Madison avenue between Eighty-fifth and Eighty-sixth streets. This structure will be located upon the site of the old street car barns and will practically cover a plot with a frontage of 204 feet on Madison avenue and extending back 220 feet in both streets.

New methods of operation will be introduced by the owners and the innovations are likely to be viewed with extreme interest by other owners of multi-family houses.

The final plans and specifications for this project are now being prepared by Schwartz & Gross and work will be started immediately under a general contract which has been awarded to the Fred T. Ley Co., builders.

S. W. Straus & Co. have underwritten a first mortgage serial bond issue of $4,200,000 on the land and building, which includes a first lien on the net annual earnings of this operation which are estimated at $546,000. The building will contain 1,003 rooms, arranged in 365 living suites, in addition to the usual features of a modern hotel. The first floor will contain restaurants, banquet hall, office, lounge rooms and a large lobby. On this floor also will be located sixteen shops facing on Madison avenue, with rear entrances to the main lobby of the building. According to the present plans the Eighty-sixth street frontage will embody special accommodations for doctors' suites arranged with two and three rooms each.

This apartment will be owned and operated by the 12 East Eighty-sixth Street Corporation, of which I. Fluegelman, directing operator of the Hotel Hamilton, is president and one of the controlling stockholders. Discussing the newly-projected multi-family dwelling on the car barn site Mr. Fluegelman said:

"Tremendous progress has been made in the apartment house field within the past decade and it has in a measure solved many of the problems of living, particularly as it applies to the servant question of the present day. The modern apartment hotel is an expensive place to live in at best and the prime idea behind the construction of this new building is to commence by renting a vacant apartment with, however, a more complete service than the usual high class multi-family building offers, and for rooms and such service to charge a moderate rent in keeping with current apartment house rentals. In addition it is planned to furnish practically at cost any further service that may be desired by the tenants. This additional service is to be rendered as and when the tenants wish it, be it daily, weekly or at irregular intervals. Every apartment will have a completely equipped kitchen so that the families can live from one extreme to the other. The housewife may do her own cooking and when she desires will be able to have her house work done by trained servants on a per hour basis. She can also have meals or portions of meals served in her own apartment or the family can dine in the main dining room on the ground floor. In brief, this new project will be what might be termed a semi-hotel, combining all of the features of a non-furnished housekeeping apartment, as well as all the comforts, conveniences and even luxuries of a perfectly appointed modern hotel."

WALTER I. WILLIS, secretary of the Queensboro Chamber of Commerce, in a recent address to the members of the Ozone Park Chamber of Commerce, said that Queens is not only the fastest growing borough in New York City, but one of the fastest growing communities in the United States. Mr. Willis gave the following comparisons showing how activities in all lines have increased in Queens during the past ten years:

Work Started On Vehicular Tunnel Under Hudson River

Contractors Expect to Complete Twin Tubes Connecting Manhattan Island With New Jersey Within Specified Time of Three Years

CONTRACTS for the vehicular tunnel under the Hudson River having been signed last week, as reported in the RECORD AND GUIDE, work on this important link between Manhattan Island and New Jersey was actually started on Friday, March 31. Ground was broken at Canal and West streets for the power house in which will be installed the air compressors for driving the shields through the bed of the river, and other machinery for removal of rock and silt, and for many purposes connected with digging the hole that will at last connect this water-bound borough with the mainland. The project has been mooted for years, required the awakening of public interest to its importance, the overcoming of official objections to it, and favorable action carrying large appropriations by the New York and the New Jersey legislatures.

There was no ceremony to mark the start of so great an enterprise. In the presence of a small group of day laborers, Clifford M. Holland, chief engineer of the New York and New Jersey Tunnel Commission, drove a workman's pick into the soil, and Michael L. Quinn, general superintendent of Booth & Flinn, Ltd., who have the contract for building the tunnel at $19,321,723, thrust a shovel into the loosened dirt and threw it to one side. Then the laborers took up the job and the huge task was under way. There will be two air compressors, one on the Manhattan shore and the other on the New Jersey shore.

Six shields to be used in driving the tunnel are now being manufactured by the Merchants' Shipbuilding Company at Chester, Pa. Thirty-nine jacks will be used in forcing the shields forward at a rate of from two and a half to fifteen feet a day, according to the resistance encountered. These jacks, placed about the outer edge of the shield, thrust forward with a power sufficient to move 7,600 tons. The shields, weighing 300 tons apiece, will be taken down the shaft in sections and set up below the surface. The shafts at Spring and Canal streets are sixty feet deep. They were sunk by Holbrook, Cabot & Rollins.

The total length of the tunnels will be 9,250 feet, with 8,330 feet between the portals. The distance between the river shafts is 3,375 feet and the length of the under-river portion will be 5,480 feet. The twin tubes will have an outside diameter of 29 feet 6 inches. Each tube will have room for two automobiles abreast, and there will be a footway six feet wide in each tube. The maximum depth between the top of the tunnel and the high water level of the river will be 72 feet and the maximum depth of the roadway 92 feet.

The ventilation plan provides for changing the air forty times an hour and the projectors have no fear of gasoline fumes. The two tubes have an estimated hourly capacity in both directions of 3,800 vehicles. The maximum upgrade is 3.6 per cent. and a down grade of 4.05 per cent. The roadway widths are 20 feet and the headroom is 13 feet 6 inches.

The entrance on the New York side will be at Broome, between Hudson and Varick streets, and the New York exit at Vestry and Varick. On the Jersey City end the entrance will be at Provost and Twelfth streets and the exit at Provost and Fourteenth streets. Sixty parcels of land, costing $1,700,000, are to be used in Manhattan for the entrance and exit plazas.

The Jersey City authorities have not yet approved the ordinances providing for the closing of certain streets needed for the tunnel plaza, but it was said that this approval would not be delayed more than a week. The total cost of the tunnel, when ready for the passage through it of the estimated 15,000,000 vehicles a year, is $28,669,000.

George H. Flinn, president of Booth & Flinn, Ltd., said that his firm expected to complete the work within the specified time of 36 months. Already contracts for materials costing $7,000,000 have been let with responsible firms, assuring against increase in prices. He said the company would employ from 1,000 to 1,500 men in three shifts.

The contracting firm built six of the tunnels under the East River at a total cost of $18,000,000. These tunnels are only seventeen feet six inches in diameter, while the Hudson River tunnel is to be thirty feet in diameter.

studied its history, its progress, its strategic position and its growing power. I felt that it could not stop and that feeling was based on all the substantial things that had gone before. When I look back and think of the pessimistic prophets of that era it is to laugh. Like Mr. Day, I had faith based on things seen and the unseen has been realized. When I started people generally looked upon the real estate business as something that a man went into after he had failed at everything else. It is no longer so. The real estate business has attained an importance and a respectability as high, if not higher, than other first class callings. In its best sense it has become a profession. There are men in it who are as well educated and as intelligent as in other good lines of existence. Real estate is a business that deals with the largest values. When one buys a good automobile he thinks he has spent a lot of money. When he buys a house or a larger building in this city he has really spent some money. A chain of pearls or a painting by an old master may bring as good a price as a first-class piece of real estate. But there are many parcels of real estate that surpass those in price, and consequently the real estate business is an honorable and an important line of business. It cannot be successfully belittled.

"There is too much legislation now affecting real estate. The truth is that real estate in this city will be legislated to death if legislation at Albany and elsewhere does not cease. Underlying all attempts to regulate and control real estate by legislation is the single-tax idea of handling real property. A single-tax advocate once told me that I did not dare meet him on the platform to thresh out the idea. Why should I? It was not necessary. I had read 'Progress and Poverty' thoroughly and I did not agree with it. I had seen the practical workings of real estate as it is and I felt and still feel that all the fine-spun theories in the world cannot supplant the economic workings of property.

"All real value will be taxed out of real estate if the performances of the last four years are continued in the same volume. Some time ago I sold the City Investing Building to B. Benenson. He is a Russian by birth. He owned considerable real estate in Russia. All of it was confiscated by the Soviet Government in one sweeping decree. What was done in Russia through fine-spun theories and ignorance of economics and by main strength can be done here by constant agitation against property rights and by connivance. That may sound like a rash statement, but it can come to pass. To punish real property is a trend of the times. To succor it and conserve it as a great asset of society is being discouraged in many places. The Geddes' report, recently made in England, should be read by all students of governmental interference with property rights. It proves an utter failure on the part of the government to solve the housing problem. There has been much foolish legislation in New York by honest and well-meaning persons. There must be an end to it or there will be an end to property as surely as there is in Russia.

"To succeed in the real estate business one must have the faculty of acting at the right time. A man may possess a profound knowledge of the market, but if he lacks the faculty of decision he is nil. Personality is frequently a big asset, as it is in every business, but action must be the prime accompaniment of all other qualities."

Review of Real Estate Market for the Current Week

Fine Elevator Apartment Houses Were Sold and There Was Variety of Dealing in Medium Sized Parcels and Costly Acreage

THIS has been a week of substantial transactions. There were no spectacular sales. A number of them ran up to the $500,000 mark and some beyond that figure. The aggregate market shows that real estate at this time has a strong undertone with a likelihood of a good market continuing until summer. The leasing of space in new large buildings goes on unabated which shows the demand for modern office space. A feature of the week was the leasing for long terms of several large garages. All parts of town are feeling the impulse of a general demand for property for sale and rent. Some new and costly large apartments on upper Fifth avenue were leased for terms of fair length. Costly private dwellings in the same region changed hands. The upper West Side figured in all kinds of real estate transactions. Costly elevator apartment houses in the Park and Madison avenue zones as well as on the upper West Side and on Washington Heights sold well. Sites for several new large apartment houses were assembled. New apartment houses in the Bronx appear to be selling at fair prices.

A well known firm of warehousemen for the second time in two weeks bought a large warehouse. They now have one each in East and West Harlem. Several commercial buildings on the West Side were bought, one by a large wholesale paper firm which will occupy it. Various old parcels on the West Side of various descriptions changed hands. The Greenwich Village district contributed some sales of more than ordinary moment. Operators are fairly busy in private dwellings and medium sized tenement houses in all parts of the city where such properties are.

A sale that marks the improving character of the neighborhood adjacent to Jefferson Market Court was that of three century old houses at 1 to 5 Minetta lane. An investor bought them who will restore them to their original Colonial appearance for use by artists and writers. The operation shows the expansion of the artist colony to Sixth avenue. These dwellings were long occupied by the lower elements of New York's population and the rehabilitation of them shows that the same trend is under way at the beginning of Sixth avenue and its environs as has been under way for a year or more further west in Greenwich Village.

The name of the recent buyer of the northwest corner of Fifth avenue and 34th street was made public by Max Nathan, the seller.

Conspicuous among the acreage purchases of the week was that of 36 acres and a mansion, at Sands Point, Nassau county by Vincent Astor. This buyer has long owned a magnificent estate at Rhinecliff near the Hudson, where generations of his family were before him. The fact that he is attracted to Long Island's North shore which is honeycombed with costly estates shows the allurements of that region for the wealthy.

PRIVATE REALTY SALES.

THE total number of sales reported but not recorded in Manhattan this week, was 89 as against 60 last week and 92 a year ago.

The number of sales south of 59th st was 31 as compared with 19 last week and 33 a year ago.

The number of sales north of 59th st was 58 as compared with 41 last week and 59 a year ago.

From the Bronx 33 sales at private contract were reported, as against 23 last week and 25 a year ago.

Statistical tables, including the number of recorded instruments, will be found on page 434.

Investors Buy Loft Building

Cross & Brown Co. sold for a client to the Seymour Co., wholesale paper dealers, 323-327 West 16th st, a 6-sty brick building, on a plot 75x60, formerly used as a furniture factory. After extensive alterations the new owners will occupy the entire building.

A Bit of Old New York Sold

Pepe & Bro. sold for the estate of Alice J. Merriam, 1 to 5 Minetta la (also known as 19 Minetta st) to Dr. Samuel Bookman. The property consists of three old 3-sty and basement brick dwellings, more than 100 years old and are of the old colonial type. Improvements will be installed so as to use them as studios for artists and writers. They will be restored to their original substantial character.

Warehousemen Again Invest

Lee Bros., Inc., bought from Washington Storage Warehouse & Van Co., the 6-sty warehouse, 75x100, 2296-2300 Eighth av, and the abutting 4-sty tenement house, 18.9x100.11, at 262 West 124th st. The sale of the warehouse business was also included in the transaction. This is the second large purchase in the 125th st zone made by Lee Bros., Inc., recently, the other being the 12-sty fireproof warehouse and office building at the northeast corner of 125th st and Park av. The brokers were Nathan Grabenheimer and Benedict B. Nurick.

Distinctive Lexington Avenue Sale

The Joint-Ownership Construction Co., Inc., Frederic Culver, president, has entered into a contract to acquire from James C. McGuire & Co. the property at the northeast corner of Lexington av and 69th st, a plot of about 14,000 square feet, 72.6x179.4x80.6 feet in size, which takes in all of the block front on the east side of Lexington av, with the exception of a 21-foot dwelling on the south corner of 70th st. Pease & Elliman were the brokers, and it was through Pease & Elliman that Mr. McGuire assembled the plot.

On this property the Joint-Ownership Construction Co., Inc., will erect two joint-ownership apartment buildings, one to cover the corner plot, 72.6 feet on 69th st, by 100 feet on Lexington av, and the other to cover the plot in the north, 78.11x80.6. Both of these buildings will be 11 stories in height.

The corner building will be known as 943 Lexington av, and will contain ten 8-room apartments and ten 9-room apartments with smaller suites on the ground floor. The avenue building will be known as 955 Lexington av, and will contain ten 6-room apartments, 22 4-room and two 3-room apartments. In the rear of the buildings will be a large central court, 30x50, and the inside buildings will overlook the fine residence at 154-6 East 70th st, to the east, belonging to Maitland F. Griggs, thus ensuring excellent light to the rear. The two buildings will be jointly operated which will considerably decrease the maintenance costs.

A New Real Estate Firm

Fenimore C. Goode has retired from the real estate firm of Brett & Goode Co., Inc., at 582 Fifth av. He has formed the new firm of Fenimore C. Goode Co., Inc., with offices in the Straus building, 565 Fifth av.

Andre L. Benel, formerly a director of the Brett & Goode Co., Inc., is an officer and director of the new company and manager of its industrial department.

Vincent Astor in Nassau County

Vincent Astor purchased the William Butler Duncan estate at Sands Point, Nassau County, L. I. The property adjoins the estate of J. S. Cosden of the firm of J. S. Cosden & Co. It includes a large mansion and 36 acres of land with an extensive frontage on Long Island Sound. It has been held at $300,000, but it is said Mr. Astor is securing it at a price considerably below that figure.

Among the other noted properties in the vicinity are those of Howard Gould, W. Bourke Cockran and the Guggenheim, Sloane, Thayer and Bourne estates. Mr. Astor owns the famous 414 Astor estate, Ferncliff, at Rhinebeck-on-the-Hudson.

Operator in Heights Deals

The A. Z. Realty Co., Inc., George Zauderer, president, operator, purchased the Somerset apartments, a 6-sty elevator apartment house, on a plot 100x100, at 385 Edgecombe av from Bing & Bing, operators. There are 41 apartments.

To the Yet Development Co., Inc., Louis Meyersfeld, president, Mr. Zauderer sold the Washington and Lafayette apartments, two 5-sty walk-up buildings on a plot 100x100, at 556-560 West 148th st. The buildings accommodate 40 tenants.

Company Buys Broad St. Corner

The newly organized 115 Broad Street Corporation, whose directorate is composed of William Leake Hewson, Thomas M. Bell and Theodore Crane, purchased from the Carl Platon Realty Corporation the 12-sty building, 113-115 Broad st and 27 Front st, forming the southeast corner of those thoroughfares. The property, which was valued at $650,000, measures 62.5 feet on the former street and 76.3 feet on the latter. The sale is recorded.

Fifth Ave. Parcel Changes Hands

The 279 Fifth Avenue Corporation, S. R. Golding, R. Catterton and L. Cug, directors, has been formed to take over the 5-sty building, 25x100, at that address, adjoining the southeast corner of 30th st. The new company is represented by Snitkin & Goodman, attorneys.

Interesting Broad St. Deal

The Broad-Exchange Co., Walter T. Rosen, president, purchased from the estate of Calvin Stevens the 4-sty business building, 39 Broad st, covering a plot 30.36x117. The buyer recently purchased 35 and 37 Broad st, adjoining on the north, and has for some time owned No. 41, adjoining on the south. The latest purchase therefore fills out a plot with an entire frontage of 105 feet directly adjoining the Broad-Exchange Building, which the company also owns, at the southeast corner of Exchange pl and Broad st. The Broad-Exchange Co. recently purchased the 6-sty building, 51 Beaver st, as an outlet for the Broad-Exchange building.

The fee of the property at 43 to 47 Broad st, upon which the Combustion Engineering Corporation has erected a new 8-sty building on a long term lease, is owned by the Alliance Realty Co., so that the purchase just consummated finally brings into the ownership of these two companies an entire area of land of 52,000 square feet, being one of the largest plots in the financial district.

Property owners in Broad st. not long ago secured a court injunction which has resulted in the removal from the street of the remnant of the so-called curb market, which for so long held back the development of the block.

The site of the new home of the Stock Exchange firm of Post & Flagg, 49 and 51 Broad st, was originally purchased by the Broad-Exchange Co. and resold to that firm under restrictions as to the height of the building since erected. The Seaboard National Bank and the Western Union Co. have likewise put up new buildings in this block, and it is believed the recent purchases portend similar improvements in the near future which will complete the transformation of the block.

Audrey Hall in New Hands

Samuel Augenblick and Louis B. Brodsky sold Audrey Hall, a 6-sty elevator apartment house, at 1240-1246 St. Nicholas av, northeast corner of 172d st, to a client of William S. Baker. It contains 40 apartments and 7 stores and was held at $280,000. The plot is 45x100.

Builders Sell Fine Apartments

N. A. Berwin & Co. sold for Randolph and Everett Jacobs and S. Morrill Banner, 161 East 79th st, a 12-story elevator apartment house, on plot 62x102.2.

This is one of the highest type apartment house in the Park av section. There are two apartments, 7 rooms and 3 baths, and 8 rooms and 3 baths, on a floor. The house is fully occupied and brings an annual rental of $85,000.

It is the first time this property has been sold, having been built by the sellers in 1915. The buyer purchased this house for an investment. It was held at $600,000.

50 Year Old Holdings Sold

Pease & Elliman sold for the estate of Martin B. Ochs to Samuel A. Herzog 145-149 East 50th st, three 5-story brick flats, on a plot 75x100. It was a cash sale. The parcels were in the Ochs ownership 50 years.

Roosevelt Estate Sells Parcel

Cammann, Voorhees & Floyd sold for the Roosevelt estate, John E. Roosevelt and others, trustees, to M. J. Deleahanty, director of the Deleahanty Institute of Civil Service, the 3-story brick building 113-115 East 15th st, on a plot 50x103.3. After alterations the new owner will occupy. The Institute has long been in Webster Hall, 121 East 11th st.

This is the first sale of the property since 1839, at which time the Roosevelt interests purchased the lots for $4,000. They are now assessed at $89,000.

West Side Plot Assembled

Spear & Co. have completed, for a client, the assembling of a plot comprising the site of four old 3-story and basement brick dwellings, at 107-113 Leroy st. Each lot is 20x100, except No. 107, which is 20x75. The new owner will reimprove the plot.

The sales of 107, 111 and 113 were made 3 years ago. The title to 109 has just passed, as the late Mrs. McCullough, who had a life interest in the property, refused to sell during her lifetime.

Negotiations for 107 Leroy st were carried on by cable with the owner, Mrs. Lyle Samuels, who resides in England and who inherited this property from Mr. Lyle, at one time partner of Lord & Taylor.

A Sale on Fifth Avenue

Estate of Capt. Warren C. Beach sold 585 Fifth av, a 4-story and basement brownstone dwelling on a lot 19x100, between 47th and 48th sts, on the East side. The price is said to constitute more than $171 per square foot. It is one of the few private houses remaining on the avenue south of 48th st and lies between the store and loft owned by the Marcus Daly estate and James W. Gerard and the 10-story structure built last year by Peck & Peck.

Sells Riverside Drive Corner

The Switzerland apartments, at the northeast corner of Riverside dr and 151st st, has been purchased by Abraham Crosney, lawyer and operator, from Herman Schafer. It is a 6-story and basement elevator building, arranged for 8 families on a floor, and occupies a plot 103.9½ feet on Riverside dr and 8 feet on 151st st with an inner line of 173.1½. It rents for $66,000 per annum and was held at $425,000. Morris Aronson and Herman Warshawer were the brokers.

Sewall Estate Sells Dwelling

Heirs of the Henry F. Sewall estate sold through Bracher & Hubert to a buyer, for occupancy, 320 West 81st st, adjoining the south corner of Riverside dr, a 5-story brick American basement dwelling, on a lot 24x60.8.

The property is at present under lease to Andrew Mills, president of the Dry Dock Savings Institution, on the Bowery. The parcel was held at $50,000.

Sell Lexington Avenue Corners

George S. Runk, in conjunction with William Herrlich, sold for Samuel Goodman 1361-1365 Lexington av, northeast corner of 90th st, a 4-story brick flat with stores, on a lot 20x100.8½.

Cammann, Voorhees & Floyd, in conjunction with William Wolff's Son, sold for a client the northwest corner of Lexington av and 80th st, a 6-story brick and stone apartment house with stores, on a plot 30x100. The buyer owns other property nearby.

Antique Dealers Buy Artistic House

The most individual house in the Washington Square section, and probably in the city, 7 East 10th st, has been sold. It was built and owned by Mr. Lockwood de Forest, artist, who now makes his home in California.

It is one of those houses that always attracts attention. The doors, door frames, window frames and sashes, also the bay window on the front, are made of carved Indian teakwood; the walls of the hall, foyer and grand staircase to the second floor are lined with Indian tiles; also the fireplaces and chimney breasts are of these rare old tiles, some of which were in existence before the birth of Christ. The ceiling in the drawing room on the second floor is of carved glass which together with the teakwood trim and teakwood carvings over the doorways give a truly Oriental effect. It is a beautiful house, 24.6 feet wide, 5 stories and basement, with elevator, 3 rooms deep on first and second floors, and a large studio on the top floor. The house was purchased by Jaehne Brothers, dealers of antiques, of 560 Fifth av, who contemplate making extensive alteration, taking two floors for their own use. The property was held at $75,000. R. Telfair Smith was the broker. The lot is 24.6x94.9.

Car Barn Auctions Postponed

Auction of the car barn property of the New York Railways Co., occupying the block bounded by Fourth av, Lexington av, 32d and 33d sts, scheduled March 30 by Joseph P. Day, was adjourned without date.

The auction sale of the Second av car barns, bounded by First and Second avs, 96th and 97th sts, scheduled for March 30 by Mr. Day, was adjourned to June 15.

Operators Buy in Brooklyn

The newly formed A. G. W. Realty Corporation purchased from the A. L. G. Realty Corporation 587 to 591 Gates av, a motion picture theatre, 40x100; also the plot, 125x100, on the north side of Knickerbocker av, 25 feet from Melrose av, for improvement with a taxpayer. The new company is composed of M. H. Wurtzel, E. Meyers and J. L. Grubel.

Sells Canarsie Plots

Realty Associates sold to Weymar Homes, Inc., two additional parcels in Canarsie, on the east side of East 89th st, 223.4 feet north of Av L, 56.8x100; and on the west side of East 91st st, 220 feet north of Av L, 112.2x100, which the purchaser will immediately improve with 2-story frame bungalows to further meet the demand for low priced houses in this section.

Club House in Richmond Sold

P. H. Steinfurth Corporation sold for Mrs. S. Hammerschick the Imperator Club House, at New Brighton, Staten Island, on a plot 50x213, for $25,000, $19,000 cash, to Hans Firshing.

Real Estate Class to Dine

To close the season, the Real Estate Training Class of the West Side Branch, Y. M. C. A., will hold a banquet in the ballroom of the Park Avenue Hotel, on Tuesday evening, April 25, at 6.30 o'clock.

A number of good speakers will enliven the occasion, as well as good music.

Tickets are $2.50 each and may be obtained from C. A. Robinson, chairman of the Dinner Committee, at the West Side branch.

Buys Fifth Av. Corner.

The 14-story Columbia Trust building at the northwest corner of Fifth av and 34th st has been sold by Max N. Natanson to Joseph Durst, cloak and suit manufacturer. It was held at $3,250,000, and was sold for all cash over a mortgage for $2,000,000 held by the Columbia Trust Co. and maturing in 1940. Byrne & Bowman were the brokers. Two years ago Mr. Durst bought the 12-story Century building at 1 West 34th st adjoining and held at $1,100,000. The Columbia Trust building fronts 62 feet on Fifth av and 100 feet on 34th st. The banking floors are occupied under a long lease by the Columbia Trust Co. Mr. Natanson bought it in November, 1919, from the Columbia Trust Co., when it was a 4-story bank building. He added 10 stories. The annual rent is about $350,000.

Investor Buys in Leonard St.

Daniel Birdsall & Co. sold for the Central Union Trust Co. as trustee, to the Hardwick Realty Co. 71 Leonard st, a 5-story stone loft building, on a lot 24.3x100.

Buys a Seventh Avenue Corner

Benenson Bros. and the Denwood Realty Co. sold to the Waverly Building Co., Louis Gold & Co., the two 3-story and basement stone dwellings at the northeast corner of Seventh av and 126th st, on a plot 33.8x99.11, diagonally opposite Keith's Alhambra Theatre. The property was sold to the sellers in this transaction last spring by the estate of Charles Weisbecker.

Some Bronx Deals.

David J. Rubinstein, builder, has just closed a trio of deals, one of them involving 6-story apartment house on the Grand Concourse, plot 100x90, at the southwest corner of Field pl, which Mr. Rubinstein, as president of the Blossom Realty Corp., completed March 1. The house is known as Blossom Court, and is arranged for 42 families, returning an annual rental of approximately $40,000. He held it at $225,000.

The Rolla Holding Corp., of which Mr. Rubinstein is president, has bought from Samuel Garfield the block front on the west side of Sherman av between 165th and 166th sts, a plot 359x100, on which it will build three 6-story apartment houses, representing an investment of about $800,000.

Hotel Anderson and Lease Sold

J. & E. Realty Corporation sold for Charles Tenebaum to Max L. MORTGAGE LOANS

The Metropolitan Life Insurance Company has authorized loans on bond and mortgage amounting to about $10,000,000. Of these over $1,500,000 were on housing—331 dwellings and 28 apartment houses, accommodating 512 families. These dwellings were not only in New York City but were scattered through 24 States. Over $1,250,000 were on business buildings in various parts of the country. About $2,500,000 were on farm loans in 20 Western and Southern States. About $4,500,000 were on bank buildings in Canada, which last investments are to be deposited in Canada to meet the requirements of the Canadian laws as to deposit of reserve.

William A. White & Sons placed a mortgage of $500,000 on the block front of Riverside dr, 89th and 90th sts, for William H. Barnard. Mr. Barnard bought this property some years ago from the Clark estate, who purchased it from the late Bishop Henry C. Potter. The plot is improved with one of the finest residences on the drive. The loan was taken by the Title Guarantee & Trust Co.

Lawrence, Blake & Jewell placed for the Hudson and Manhattan Railroad Co. a first mortgage of $500,000, for a term of years, on 42-44 Cortlandt st running through to 49-55 Dey st, improved with a 6-sty fireproof office building, known as the "Hudson Terminal Extension." It is valued at over $1,000,000. The plot contains about 6 lots.

S. W. Straus & Co. announce recent loans made by them of $8,640,000 in various cities of the country as follows: three apartment buildings, New York, $2,500,000; three apartment buildings, Chicago, $1,140,000; office building, Boston, $1,100,000; apartment building, Kansas City, $550,000; bank and office building, Fort Worth, Tex., $1,250,000; apartment building, Omaha, Neb., $375,000; apartment hotel, Seattle, Wash., $475,000; Independent Packing Co., Chicago, $1,250,000; Max Pollock & Co., Inc., thread manufacturers, Groton, Conn., $200,000.

S. W. Straus & Co. have underwritten a first mortgage bond issue of $1,100,000 on the new 19-sty Allerton House, 130 East 57th st. The building is now in course of construction. The land fronts 67.6 feet on the south side of 57th st, 22.6 feet west of Lexington av, by 100 feet deep, plus a frontage of 75 feet on the west side of Lexington av, 25.6 feet south of 57th st, and contains approximately 8,462 square feet. A valuation of $1,600,000 has been placed on the land and building.

J. P. & L. A. Kissling placed for Lowenfeld & Prager a mortgage loan of $20,000 on 206-208 West 148th st; a loan of $35,000 for George Latour on 2099 Eighth av, Manhattan; a loan of $25,000 for Max Greenberg on 13-15 Meserole st, Brooklyn; a loan of $10,000 for Daniel F. Farrell on 430 West 44th st, Manhattan.

William A. White & Sons arranged a loan of $60,000 for the Arben Realty Corporation on its 4-sty, 33-family flat on Seabreeze av, Coney Island.

Lawrence, Blake & Jewell were the brokers who placed the building loan of $1,000,000 on 139 to 145 West 35th st through to 132 to 138 West 36th st with William Henry Barnum & Co. This property, which fronts 75 feet on each street, is now being improved with a 12-sty fireproof building by a company controlled by S. Morrell Banner and Herbert E. Mitler.

Charles Heymann with H. T. Gurney negotiated a first mortgage loan of $140,000 on the 5-sty building, 50x100, at 427 and 429 Broadway, southwest corner of Howard st.

Duross Co. placed for M. M. Bahrenburg a first mortgage of $18,000 on his property 795 Washington st and 92 Horatio st, Manhattan, and a first mortgage of $28,000 on the apartment house 180 Quincy st, Brooklyn.

William A. White & Sons placed a first mortgage of $60,000 on the Smith Rubber & Tire Co.'s plant at Garfield, N. J. The mortgage was made for a period of 3 years at 6 per cent. interest per annum.

Edwards, Dowdney & Richart placed for the Harding Construction Co. a first mortgage loan of $155,000 on the apartment house, recently completed, on the southeast corner University av and 192nd st, with the Lawyers Mortgage Co.

They also placed a first mortgage of $45,000 on the taxpayer on the northwest corner of Webster av and 167th st.

William A. White & Sons obtained for the Hebrew Children's Convalescent Home, at Rockaway Beach, Queens, a first mortgage of $65,000, which will be used to remodel the buildings and to install more modern equipment. The loan was made for a term of 5 years and bears interest at the rate of six per cent. per annum.

Portable Systems (Patented) Sewer Service Anywhere

EVEN though your home lies far beyond city sewer lines, you can enjoy the conveniences of sewer service if you have running water and a Sanisep System.

A spare room or large closet can be fitted up as a modern bathroom. A kitchen sink with drain will lighten housework. Sanisep takes care of all sewage, liquid and solid.

Once installed, Sanisep requires no chemicals or other attention. It is entirely self-operating.

Sanisep is moderately priced—easily within your means. "How it works" is fully described in an interesting catalog, which will be sent to you on request.

RECENT LEASES.

Choice Leasehold Bought

The Hampton Shops, Inc., decorators, purchased from Helena B. Garvey Hayden the ground site of their 11-sty building, 18-20 East 50th st., measuring 56.2x100.5, on the south side of the street, facing St. Patrick's Cathedral.

The sale terminates one of the most unusual leases ever drawn in New York city. It was remarkable because it was made to operate practically in perpetuity with no reappraisals. It was drawn in 1893 by Andrew Jeffries Garvey, an old time politician, to Arthur H. Cutler of the Cutler School. The property then contained two substantial dwellings. The lease was to begin in 1894 and was to run for 20 years at $8,500 a year. The lease also carried options for similar terms to run indefinitely and the rental called for in the first term was to be continued throughout the renewals. Usually leases are made with rental values based on reappraisements of the property every 21 years.

The taxes on the Garvey property at that time were $1,037.40 a year and it was agreed that the owner would always pay this tax, but that all taxes above that amount were to be paid by the tenant.

In 1908 the Cutlers assigned the lease to W. W. & T. M. Hall, and 6 years later they disposed of it to the Grand Rapids Furniture Co., which improved it with an 11-sty building. This subsequently became the property of the Hampton Shops, Inc. The Mutual Life Insurance Co. has advanced a loan of $300,000 on the property.

A Long Lease in Fulton Street

Walter F. Libby, Inc., who have for years occupied the store in 122 Fulton st., have leased the entire 6-sty building from the 122 Fulton Street Realty Corporation, for a term of 21 years, at an aggregate rental of $262,000.

Libby's Oyster House has been famous for more than 75 years and was the favorite eating place of Horace Greeley, Henry Ward Beecher, Grover Cleveland and many other prominent citizens. The Libby Co. will make extensive alterations to the building for the expansion of their ever-growing business. Harold L. Lewis was the broker.

Lease with Right to Buy

Lewis L. Rosenthal Co. leased, for a term of 21 years, to Edward Hart, owner of the Hub Clothiers, the building, 20x100, at 166 West 48th st from the Freeman Purveying Co., with an option to purchase. This lease aggregates a rental of $126,000. Plans are being drawn for remodeling the present structure or erecting a new building.

Hotel America Leased

Edward Arlington, proprietor of the Hotel Harding at Broadway and 54th st and the Colonial Arms in Jamaica, has leased the Hotel America at 145 West 47th st for a long term at an aggregate rental of $1,335,000. The house will be continued under the management of Juan Berutisch and will continue to cater to the Latin American clientele. Mr. Berutisch will act as assistant to J. H. Kenny, treasurer and general manager of the 145 West 47th St. Co. Messrs. Arlington and Kenny are negotiating for another hotel in the Forties, and will then control more than 1,000 rooms within ten square blocks.

Milliner Invades Sixth Avenue

Frederick Fox & Co., Inc., leased for the United Cigar Stores Co. a store on Sixth av, adjoining the southeast corner of 38th st, to William J. Houser, millinery, for a term of 10 years, at an aggregate rental of $100,000.

Leases a Lexington Ave. Parcel

Pease & Elliman leased for Mrs. A. Wintjen, for a term of 21 years, at an aggregate rental of about $100,000, the 5-sty building, 562 Lexington av. The lessor will extensively alter the building for business purposes.

Cortlandt Street Corner Leased

Tankoos, Smith & Co. leased to Burnee Co., who own and operate the Nedick Orangeade Drink Stands, the store at the northeast corner of Cortlandt and Greenwich sts, adjoining the Hudson Terminal Building. The lease is for 20 years, at a rental aggregating approximately $185,000. The lessee, upon completion of alterations, will open a branch establishment.

From Tower to Tower

Whit-Goodman leased for the New York Times Co. the entire 23d floor in the tower of the Times Building, Broadway and 42d st, to Morris and Samuel Meyers, lawyers, who are now located in the Metropolitan Tower, 1 Madison av.

Some Fine Apartments Leased

Douglas L. Elliman & Co. leased a large apartment of 18 rooms and 6 baths in 907 Fifth av, southeast corner of 72d st, for the 907 Fifth Avenue Co., Inc., J. E. R. Carpenter, president, to Emanuel Gerli; also an apartment in 353 Park av to William E. Winchester; and an apartment in 830 Park av to Mrs. Frederick Roosevelt; and an apartment in 840 Park av to Mrs. Francis M. Weld, Sr.

Pease & Elliman leased for J. E. R. Carpenter an apartment of 12 rooms and 4 baths in 920 Fifth av, which he is building at the south corner of 73d st, to Mrs. Richard T. Jader; also leased for Potter Bros. an apartment in 350 Park av, the southwest corner of 52d st, of 10 rooms and 3 baths, to Mrs. J. P. Edwards; and one in 11 East 68th st northwest corner of Madison av, to Mrs. H. C. Horton.

Law Firm Not to Move

The law firm of Cadwalader, Wickersham & Taft will not remove its offices from 40 Wall st to the new wing of the Bar Association building at 36 West 44th st. They have merely leased space in the new building to be used for conference purposes exclusively.

Notable Garage Leases

Silberman's Exchange, in conjunction with the Promoters Realty Exchange, leased for Isaac Ziff & Son to Schiller & Katz, the irregularly shaped 2 and 3-sty brick and concrete garage at 474 West 130th st, running through to and along West 129th st to and including the northwest corner of 129th st and Convent av. There is a store in the corner which has a frontage on the avenue of 54.2 feet. The garage fronts on West 129th st, 251 feet, and on West 130th st, 22.6 feet, with a total depth of 198.8 feet and of irregular width. It is known as the Covent Garden Garage.

The lease is for a term of 21 years, at an aggregate rental of $750,000. Embracing 66,000 square feet, the garage will house 300 automobiles.

Silberman's Exchange leased for the Podher Realty Corporation to the Mossut Co., Inc., the 6-sty and basement fireproof garage, at 256-258 West 36th st, on a plot 35.7x98.9 for a term of 20 years, at an aggregate rental of $145,000.

Some Bronx Store Leases

Herman A. Acker leased for clients the store in 1066 Westchester av to Max Rubrum, for the dry goods business; also, store on the northwest corner of Grand Boulevard and Concourse and Burnside av to Gristede Bros.; 1947 University av to Collins and Collins; 1949 University av to a client, Benjamin Zatlun, as a first-class delicatessen; 1951 University av to the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Co.; 1953 University av to the Morningside Supply Store, for hardware and house furnishings. This completes the leasing of all stores at the junc-

TEARS AND SMILES

A CUSTOMER confessed the other day that she never invested in mortgages for fear some poor family might be evicted.

We told her she could invest in valuable city property, and that she need have no qualms of conscience. First Mortgage Participation Certificates, paying a sure 5½% and guaranteed by us, proved to be exactly what she wanted.

March Building Totals Equal Record Figures of April 1920

Statistics Tabulated by F. W. Dodge Company Show Commitments of $293,636,000 in Twenty-Seven States, a Gain of 65 Per Cent. Over Previous Month

THE month of March witnessed the largest volume of construction started in any month since April, 1920, according to the F. W. Dodge Company. The total amount of contracts awarded during March in the 27 Northwestern States of the country amounted to $293,636,000, an increase of 65 per cent. over February and of 79 per cent. over March, 1921. The first quarter of this year was 68 per cent. ahead of the first quarter of 1921.

Practically every class of construction showed a notable increase in March. The amount of residential construction was the largest since the summer months of 1919. March residential contracts amounted to $121,551,000, which was 41 per cent. of the month's total. Public works and utilities amounted to $51,997,000, or 18 per cent. of the total; business buildings, $49,758,000 (largest figure on this class since May, 1920), or 17 per cent. of the month's total; educational buildings, $25,575,000, or 8 per cent.; and industrial buildings; $24,270,000, or 8 per cent.

Building contracts awarded in the 27 Northeastern States during the week ending March 17 amounted to $71,105,100, according to the F. W. Dodge Company. This figure was greater by over 2% than the largest weekly total reported in 1921, which was in the middle of September. The week's figure showed a 9% increase over the previous week, and was far in excess of the amount reported for any previous week this year.

The amount of contemplated new work reported in March was $613,000,000, more than double the amount of contracts awarded, the largest amount of contemplated work reported for any month since March, 1920.

Contracts awarded in the New England States during March amounted to $27,795,000, an increase of 78 per cent. over the previous month, and of more than 100 per cent. over the corresponding month of last year. During the first quarter of this year the volume of construction contracts let has been more than double the commitments for the first quarter of last year.

The March total included: $12,590,000, or 45 per cent., for residential buildings; $5,769,000, or 21 per cent., for business buildings; $3,106,000, or 11 per cent., for educational buildings; and $2,848,000, or 10 per cent., for public works and utilities.

Contemplated new work reported during the first three months of this year has amounted to $131,000,000, more than double the amount of contracts awarded in the same period.

Contracts awarded in New York State and Northern New Jersey during March amounted to $88,506,000, only a quarter of a million under the maximum monthly total on record for this district. The March total was 49 per cent. greater than the February total, and three times the figure for March, 1921.

The volume of construction started in this district during the first quarter of the year has been more than two and a half times that of the first quarter of 1921.

The March, 1922, total included: $50,424,000, or 57 per cent., for residential buildings; $21,362,000, or 24 per cent., for business buildings, the largest amount of construction in this class since June, 1920; $5,493,000, or 6 per cent., for educational buildings; and $4,245,000, or 5 per cent., for public works and utilities.

Contemplated new work reported in the first quarter of this year has amounted to $336,000,000, compared with $202,000,000 of contracts awarded in the same period.

March building contracts in the Middle Atlantic States (Eastern Pennsylvania, Southern New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, District of Columbia, Virginia and the Carolinas) amounted to $44,532,000, an increase of 62 per cent. over the previous month and of 66 per cent. over March, 1921. The total for the first quarter of this year has been 69 per cent. greater than for the corresponding period of 1921.

The March total included: $18,720,000, or 42 per cent., for residential buildings; $10,719,300, or 24 per cent., for public works and utilities; $5,010,000, or 11 per cent., for business buildings; and $3,513,000, or 8 per cent., for industrial buildings.

Contemplated new work reported in the first quarter of this year has amounted to $203,000,000, more than double the amount of contracts awarded in the same period.

March building contracts in Western Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Ohio, Kentucky and Tennessee, amounted to $37,748,000, which was 52 per cent. greater than the February figure, and 10 per cent. under the total for March, 1921. The total for the first three months of this year is 4 per cent. ahead of the corresponding period of 1921.

Included in the March total were: $12,857,000, or 34 per cent., for residential buildings; $8,981,000, or 24 per cent., for public works and utilities; $5,161,000, or 14 per cent., for educational buildings; and $4,505,000, or 12 per cent., for industrial buildings.

Contemplated new work reported during the first three months of the year has amounted to $171,000,000, nearly double the amount of contracts actually awarded.

March building contracts in the Central West (comprising Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Wisconsin, Michigan, Missouri, and portions of Eastern Kansas and Nebraska) amounted to $84,993,000, the largest monthly total for this district since April, 1920. The March figure was 88 per cent. over February and 75 per cent. over March, 1921. The first quarter of 1922 has shown an increase of 48 per cent. over the first quarter of 1921.

The March total included: $24,893,000, or 29 per cent., for residential buildings; $19,921,000, or 23 per cent., for public works and utilities; $12,799,000, or 15 per cent., for business buildings; and $11,355,000, or 13 per cent., for industrial plants.

Contemplated new work reported in the first three months of the year has amounted to $540,000,000, more than three times the amount of contracts awarded.

March building contracts in Minnesota, the Dakotas and Northern Michigan amounted to $10,064,000, the largest monthly total for this district since May, 1920. March construction started was double that of February and one-third greater than that of March, 1921. The first quarter of 1922 shows an increase of 19 per cent. in value of awards over the first quarter of last year.

Included in this March total were: $5,282,000, or 52 per cent., for public works and utilities; $2,067,000, or 20 per cent., for residential buildings; $828,000, or 8 per cent., for industrial plants.

The amount of contemplated new work reported in the first three months of this year was two and a half times the amount of work started.

State to Spend $10,000,000 on Construction This Year

Funds Made Available for New Buildings, Repairs and Equipment of State Institutions Far Below Allotments of Previous Years

[Special to the RECORD AND GUIDE]

Albany, April 6.

THE pruning knife was used unsparingly this year upon appropriation requests for construction, repairs and equipment of State institutions and buildings, an analysis of the appropriation bills signed by Governor Miller discloses. The appropriations for this particular work or service are not within fifty per cent. of allotments made in other years.

The largest single appropriation was made for the construction of a state hospital for mentally defective soldiers and sailors residing in New York State. This institution will be located at Creedmore, L. I., and $3,000,000 will be spent on its construction.

For construction and repairs at Central Islip State Hospital an appropriation of $285,000 was made.

At Kings Park State Hospital $362,000 will be spent for construction of additional wards; $53,000 for furniture and equipment and $25,000 for floor covering, linoleum, etc.

For additional accommodations at the Middletown State Hospital $550,000 was appropriated.

For construction at the Utica State Hospital (Marcy Site) an appropriation of $600,000 was made. At the Utica State Hospital proper $100,000 will be spent for construction and repairs.

For an attendants' home, assembly hall and industrial building at Letchworth Village, Thiells, $210,000 was appropriated.

Construction of a solarium at the Hospital for the Care of Crippled and Defective Children at West Haverstraw will cost $40,000.

For continuing the work of construction at Sing Sing $101,000 was appropriated.

An appropriation of $198,000 was made for the construction work at Cornell College of Agriculture; $70,000 for the Cornell Veterinary College.

Division of laboratories at Albany, $98,000; elimination of grade crossings, $175,000; cattle building on fair grounds at Syracuse, $125,000; Institute of Applied Agriculture at Farmingdale, $18,000; camps and rifle ranges, $30,000; Troy Armory, $25,000; Peekskill Camp, $58,000; New York City Arsenal, $20,000.

Equipment of dining room, Manhattan State Hospital, $10,000; State Hospital at Raybrook, $13,000; lighting facilities at Rome School for Mental Defectives, $15,000; Syracuse School for Mental Defectives, $20,000; repair of State Capitol roof, $25,000; buildings at Alleghany Park, $45,000.

Repairs of structures and equipment of buildings along the Barge Canal, $600,000; canal shops, $300,000; repairs to locks, dams and other terminals, $513,000; repair of bridges over old Erie Canal, $90,000; continuing work on Rochester terminal, $50,000.

Bills now before the Governor which are likely to be signed provide $480,000 for the continuation of the construction work on the Schenectady-Scotia bridge; $40,000 for the terminal at Gowanus Bay; $1,500,000 for the Harlem River improvement; $46,050 for a research station on Long Island; $1,000,000 for construction in connection with the State development of hydro-electricity.

Employers and Unions Remain Deadlocked Over Building Wage Revision

PRACTICALLY no progress has been made during the past week toward settling the dispute between the employers and the union workers in the building trades over the matter of revising the wage scales for the remainder of this year. The Building Trades' Council remains determined not to participate in any conference at which the Lockwood Committee and its special counsel are not represented. The employers are quite willing to meet the Council leaders at any conference at which legal counsel is barred but feel that the Public Group of which Walter Stabler is chairman adequately represents the public interest in construction and will be sufficient to assure that the public's welfare will be sufficiently safeguarded by this committee, which will have a voice in the deliberations but no vote.

The Building Trades Employers' Association, however, are determined that should future conferences result in the formulation of a new agreement the document must be signed by the various unions as individual organizations. No new agreement will be made by the employers with the Building Trades' Council, chiefly because that body has been expelled from the American Federation of Labor on account of its arrogant and arbitrary attitude toward the national organization, and furthermore, because several of the most important of the building trades unions are not affiliated with the Council and therefore whatever was accomplished with this organization would have to be repeated with the unions not included in its membership.

The Building Trades Employers' Association recently prepared in the form of "fourteen points" the principles which the members of this organization believe should be accepted as the basis for future trade agreements between employers and workmen. C. G. Norman, chairman of the Board of Governors of the employers' association, recently declared that whether or not the employers succeed in impressing the union officials with the justice of these principles, the employers will continue to advocate them for adoption at as early a date as it may be practicable to do so. The "fourteen points" as drawn up by the employers' association are as follows:

1. All trade agreements made by the employers' associations, members of the Building Trades Employers' Association, and trade unions shall provide that all disputes arising in the trades shall be settled by trade boards of arbitration, with an umpire if necessary, and the decisions of trade boards and umpires shall be final and binding.
2. There shall be no strikes or lockouts or stoppage of work, neither shall members of a union collectively leave the work of a member of the Building Trades Employers' Association.
3. There shall be no agreement providing for discrimination against building materials, raw or manufactured.
4. The amount of work a man may perform shall not be restricted by a union nor by the representatives, officers or members of a union.
5. The use of machinery, tools, appliances or methods shall not be restricted or interfered with.
6. The employer shall be the judge of the competency of the employee and he shall be at liberty to employ and discharge whomsoever he sees fit; and the members of the unions shall be at liberty to work for whomsoever they shall see fit.
7. The foreman shall be the agent of the employer, and he shall not be subject to charges nor held accountable to the union for carrying out the instructions of his employer.
8. The trade associations and unions shall jointly maintain an apprenticeship system which will provide an adequate force of skilled mechanics for all trades. Arbitrary limitation and restriction of the number, qualifications and conduct of apprentices shall not be permitted.
9. The members of the unions shall not refuse to work with men who are not members of their organizations when the unions have failed to supply a sufficient number of competent mechanics.
10. Overtime shall not be worked, except when unavoidable.
11. There shall be no provision in any trade agreement having for its object the collection of claims.
12. There shall be no provision in any trade agreement which will prevent the doing of cutting by the trade which installs the work for which the cutting is done.
13. All trade agreements shall provide that laborers shall perform all work which requires no skill.
14. All trade agreements shall provide that disputes between trades and disputes relative to questions of jurisdiction of trade shall be adjusted in accordance with the method set forth in the joint arbitration plan of the New York Building Trades as adopted on July 9, 1903, and amended on April 22, 1905, and that all decisions rendered thereunder determining disputes arising out of the conflicting jurisdictional claims of the various trades shall be recognized by and be binding upon the parties thereto.

Although New York City building trades employers have as yet been unable to affect a downward revision in wage scales in order to stimulate construction employers' associations in other cities have been more successful.

Builders Optimistic Despite Predicted Labor Troubles

Steady Increase in Projected Construction Throughout Local Territory Indicated by Figures of F. W. Dodge Company for Past Week

DESPITE the predictions that the building industry is likely to be halted by strikes unless labor will submit to a revision of wage scales, the architects and engineers in this territory are going ahead with plans for new construction projects with the apparent feeling that the dispute between employers and workers will not particularly affect their operations. This is true to a considerable extent, as the major portion of the new projects being planned are of the speculative type, including multi-family dwellings and a vast number of small houses, and a large percentage of the total is scheduled for suburban locations where no difficulty prevails between labor and employers.

Construction totals for the thirteenth week of this year, covering the territory including New York State and New Jersey, north of Trenton, indicate a steady upward trend to the general building situation, and from the amount of residential building involved allow the prediction of an early solution of the housing problems of local communities. Figures tabulated by the F. W. Dodge Company show that during the week a total of 897 new operations were reported in the planning stage in this territory and the work will involve a total expenditure of $36,495,400. During the same week the contracts for new construction actually awarded numbered 479 and represented a total cost of $18,223,100.

Residential construction continues as the outstanding feature of the building situation in all communities in the local territory. There is a steady increase in the number of apartments and small dwellings being planned and every likelihood that the number will grow throughout the coming season.

The list of 897 projects for which plans were reported during the week of March 25 to 31, inclusive, was comprised of the following groups: 81 business operations, such as stores, offices, lofts, commercial garages, etc., $2,450,000; 15 educational projects of various types, $3,012,000; 9 hospitals and institutions, $370,400; 18 factory and other industrial buildings, $723,100; 25 public works and public utilities, $1,279,000; 5 religious and memorial projects, $396,000; 734 residential operations, including apartments, flats and tenements and one- and two-family dwellings, $27,849,900, and 10 social and recreational projects, $415,000.

Among the 479 operations for which contracts were awarded during the thirteenth week of 1922 were 61 business projects of various types, $1,841,000; 10 educational buildings, $2,483,000; 4 hospitals and institutions, $939,000; 18 factory and industrial buildings, $989,500; 1 public building, $30,000; 20 public works and public utilities, $1,180,100; 2 religious and memorial structures, $170,000; 358 residential operations, including multi-family dwellings and one- and two-family houses, $10,299,500, and 5 social and recreational projects, $291,000.

PERSONAL AND TRADE NOTES.

Electric Auto Show

New York's Electric Motor Vehicle Show opened yesterday in the large main floor room of the New York Edison Company, Irving Place and Fifteenth street. Several new models of both passenger and commercial vehicles were displayed. Heavy attendance late in the afternoon evidenced a wide interest in the utility and comfortable service of the electric automobile.

Among the exhibits which attracted particular attention were a new model taxicab, a five-ton chassis of the Walter electric truck with a novel differential which prevents skidding, and the latest model of the Walker truck with a balanced drive.

The first electric automobile ever driven on the streets of New York was displayed, presenting a curious contrast to the luxurious passenger vehicles of today. The old timer was invented and built forty years ago by Leon Mendel, who resides at the Peter Stuyvesant Hotel, 2 West Eighty-sixth street. He still owns the car.

It is a diminutive two-passenger machine, mounted on three wheels. The single rear wheel is the steering gear. The front wheels were propelled by a direct drive motor attached to batteries under the seat. Occupied by two young ladies, it provided the amusing feature of the show.

The new Steinmetz truck, recently perfected, was another interesting exhibit. Other attractive displays were made by the Ward, Lansden and O. B. Electric Companies.

The electric taxicab, known as the Electrocar, accommodates five persons in addition to the driver. It has an operating capacity of from sixty to seventy miles on a single battery charge and has a simple system for a rapid change of batteries.

The show will remain open for two weeks. Next week industrial trucks will be shown.

Will Manufacture Copper Shingles.

The Anaconda Copper Mining Co. expects to use more than 30,000,000 lb. of copper this year in the manufacture of copper shingles. Although the initial cost of the new product is about twice that of the ordinary wooden shingle, has the advantages of durability and light weight. The shingles are supplied in natural copper finish and also in seven shades, ranging from green to russet brown.

TRADE AND TECHNICAL SOCIETY EVENTS.

Building Managers and Owners Association of New York will hold its regular monthly dinner meeting at the Advertising Club, 47 East 25th street, Tuesday evening, April 11. The speaker of the evening will be Harry M. Goldfogle, president of the Board of Commissioners of the Department of Taxes and Assessments. After the regular meeting R. L. Hallett, assistant chief chemist of the National Lead Company, will deliver a lecture on the subject of "Paint in Its Relation to the Maintenance of Apartments, Hotels and Office Buildings."

National Metal Trades Association will hold its annual convention at the Hotel Astor, April 17 to 20 inclusive. The program for this meeting provides for the executive committee meeting, a meeting of the local branch secretaries and a dinner of the local branch secretaries will be held on Monday. There will also be included a meeting of the administrative council and the so-called alumni dinner on Tuesday with the regular convention sessions on Wednesday and Thursday. The annual banquet of the association will be held Wednesday evening.

New York Building Superintendents' Association will hold a smoker in the east ballroom of the Hotel Commodore Saturday evening, April 8. M. F. Godfrey is chairman of the committee in charge of the program for this event, and he promises a most interesting program. Members are urged to keep this date in mind or they will miss a notable event.

Building Officials Conference for 1922 will be held at Indianapolis, April 25 to 28, inclusive. The meetings will be held at the Hotel Lincoln and the committee arranging the program promises extremely interesting sessions. Details of the program will be available later.

Illuminating Engineering Society will hold its annual convention in Boston, September 25 to 28 inclusive. This will be the sixteenth annual gathering of the society, and the convention arrangements are in the hands of a committee of which C. L. Edgar, president of the Edison Electric Illuminating Company of Boston, is chairman; H. F. Wallace, vice-chairman, and J. Daniels, secretary.

CURRENT BUILDING OPERATIONS

ANNOUNCEMENTS that several large building projects had been placed under contract and that work will be started immediately have materially increased the interest in the local building situation. There is a steadily growing volume of work being placed on the schedule for the coming spring and summer, and the entire building industry of the Metropolitan district will in all likelihood be pushed to capacity before the end of the current year.

There is at present only one retardant factor and that is the deadlock between the building trade employers and union workmen over a revision of wage scales. Practically no progress was made during the past week toward settling this difficulty, and, although efforts are being made to get both sides to agree to meet in conference at an early date for a discussion of the points in dispute, no date for this gathering has as yet been selected.

In the meantime there is a vast amount of new work coming out in all sections of the Metropolitan district, some of which will naturally be held in abeyance until the wage question is settled, but the major portion, however, including that great volume of speculative housing construction, is going ahead and practically dominating the local building field.

Common Brick—Although the reported transactions in the North River wholesale common brick market were lighter during the past week than they were for the preceding week the business of the past few days indicates a remarkably strong demand for common brick and a continuation of busy times in the local building industry during the coming months. Arrivals were not so numerous as they were one week ago, and the demand has slowed down slightly, but the outlook is extremely favorable for active market conditions for the remainder of the year. Prices generally range between $16 and $16.50 per thousand. There is not much brick available at the lower figure, and manufacturers are inclined to feel that the market will exhibit greater strength as to prices within the next week or so because of the large amount of new construction being released. Brick manufacturers are perfecting their plans for opening their plants for the season, and there are prospects that the season will start earlier than usual and that the 1922 production will be considerably higher than that of the past few seasons.

Summary—Transactions in the North River common brick market for the week ending Thursday, April 6, 1922. Condition of market: Demand good; prices, firm and unchanged. Quotations: Hudson Rivers, $16 to $16.50 a thousand to dealers in cargo lots alongside dock. Number of cargoes arrived, 49; sales, 48. Distribution: Manhattan, 11; the Bronx, 3; Brooklyn, 26; New Jersey points, 4; Astoria, 3; Yonkers, 1. Remaining unsold, 1.

Lumber—There has been a marked improvement in the local lumber market situation within the past few weeks, and, according to all reports, the spring buying movement has commenced, and dealers in both wholesale and retail departments of trade are anticipating active weeks ahead. The continuation of the local tax exemption measure has already been reflected in increased buying by speculative builders in the outlying sections of the city who have important programs of small house building under way. This work will make heavy demands upon the lumber market during the remainder of the year, as the majority of the projects are frame or a combination of brick and frame construction. Lumber prices have settled down and no changes of consequence have been reported. Retail dealers are inclined to believe that there will be a strong market throughout the remainder of the year, but that prices will not greatly advance over the level prevailing at present.

Structural Steel—Commitments for fabricated material to be used in the construction of several important commercial building projects were reported during the past week and the announcement of these bookings has materially strengthened the local market situation. Architects have plans well advanced for considerable new construction in which the total steel tonnage requirements will amount to a high figure, and as a large part of this work is likely to be released very soon the outlook for better business conditions in the steel market is excellent. Although the differences between building trade employers and labor are still far from settlement, the industry is generally optimistic and just as soon as the wage scale controversy is over there is certain to be a decided improvement in all lines of construction. Steel prices are firm and fabricated material, erected in commercial structures, is ranging from $62 to $65 per ton.

Electrical Supplies—The trend in this line is steadily upward and both manufacturers and dealers are anticipating a consistent improvement in the volume of new business throughout the remainder of the year. The continuation of the local tax exemption ordinance on residential construction has brought out a tremendous amount of new building of this type and there is every indication that the next six or eight months will be the busiest in history from a housing viewpoint. Wiring material sales have increased to some extent during the past week and demand for other items is steady. Prices are unchanged and the majority of local jobbers have their stocks complete and ready for any jump in the trade requirements.

Cast Iron Pipe—The market for this commodity continues its showing of strength and manufacturers are generally confident that business will grow steadily in volume throughout the spring and summer months. There is an excellent outlook for a large amount of new municipal business and more than likely a considerable percentage of this work will be released within the next few weeks. Plans are well advanced and it only remains for specifications to be completed and bids advertised. Private buying continues at a satisfactory rate and increased business is also anticipated from this source. Prices are slightly advanced and very firm, with New York quotations as follows: 6 in. and larger, $48.80 per net ton; 4 in. and 5 in., $53.80, and 3 in., $63.80, with Class A and gas pipe $4 extra per ton.

Window Glass—The demand for this commodity is considered very good for this season of the year and the outlook for the coming months is excellent. The program of construction now actually under way indicates that the demand for plate and window glass will steadily increase and there are some who are willing at this early date to predict a shortage in glass before the building season ends. There is practically no foundation for predictions of this character and there are healthy reserves at the factories and manufacturers will undoubtedly be able to keep ahead of their orders without difficulty. Prices are steady and unchanged.

Linseed Oil—The market for this commodity is exceptionally dull, but jobbers are in hopes that conditions will change within the next few weeks because of the general improvement in the building situation. At present buyers are purchasing only for immediate requirements.

To Whom it May Concern:—

I take great pleasure in voluntarily testifying as to the ability and reliability of Mr. A. Wilkes, Decorator and Painter, who has just completed a satisfactory job of painting and re-decorating of my home at 196 Shonnard Terrace, Yonkers, N. Y., which shows thoroughness, good workmanship and artistic judgment.

Mr. Wilkes' prices are reasonable and not excessive like some who figured on this job, and instead of "cutting corners" and omitting details, I find that he has included many small details, not specified, in order to give a thoroughly satisfactory service and effects.

I therefore commend him unqualifiedly as a conscientious and dependable person who can be relied on to do a first class job of painting or decorating, and will be pleased to show the work in my home or be a reference for further information.

Yours very truly,
CLARENCE P. DAY.

A Trust Fund That Cannot Shrink

NO. 11

You may ask why your trust fund is not just as well off invested in long term bonds or in Government bonds as it is when invested under the guarantee of this Company, that there will be no shrinkage in the amount.

The trouble with long term bonds is that they fluctuate in price and the same is true of Government and Municipal bonds. If you could wait until their maturity, a long time from now, you would get your principal in full, but often you must distribute your trust funds when the maturity of your bonds is a long way off and at the time of distribution they may not be worth what they cost.

We invest in the Guaranteed Mortgages of the Bond & Mortgage Guarantee Company and the maturities are always only a short time off.

Business and Residential Construction

So much publicity has been accorded to both the general improvement in the housing situation and to the demands of the Lockwood Committee for additional residential accommodations in New York City that construction of this character appears to be a paramount issue at present. While it is true that the number of specific housing operations and the total expenditure involved in projects of this type largely dominate the local building field, a very significant fact in connection with the 1922 building season has been overlooked, if not entirely disregarded, because of this apparent domination.

Many interested in the local building industry have repeatedly decried the apparent lack of new commercial and industrial construction. They have claimed that the speculative housing activity has to a great extent prevented other types of operations from going ahead according to schedule because the speculative builders were willing to pay premiums to labor and inflated prices for materials and supplies.

An analysis of the building situation since the beginning of the year, however, shows a steady and consistent gain in the number and value of mercantile projects in this city. The purely commercial work now under contract represents a total expenditure which, in any year but one in which residential building activity was far above normal in both volume and value, would have stood out as an unusual period of commercial building progress.

An excellent idea of the trend of commercial building activity in Manhattan may be obtained through a study of the construction now actually under way in the relatively-constricted district bounded by Thirty-fourth and Fortieth streets, Fifth and Eighth avenues. A recent investigation shows that the commercial and industrial buildings now being erected in this section may be conservatively estimated at a cost upward of $20,000,000. This total, however, represents only about a dozen large fireproof office and light manufacturing buildings under construction, and does not take into consideration a large number of relatively-small projects, nor does it include the alteration work which is modernizing a number of ancient residential structures for present-day commercial requirements. Were the cost of these operations added to the total cost of the new office and loft buildings, the amount of active mercantile construction in this constricted territory would very likely exceed $24,000,000.

Although it is admitted that this particular district represents one of the most active areas in Greater New York as far as building is concerned, the total amount of industrial and commercial construction now under way in this city is generally underestimated even by those who are best informed as to current local building conditions. A figure representative of the total volume of mercantile construction in New York City would bulk into a very satisfactory percentage were the present time not distinctly abnormal because of the overshadowing amount of active housing construction. If it were possible to eliminate the abnormal housing construction from consideration in a study of local building conditions those most interested in the progress of the industry would realize that conditions are not nearly so adverse as some apparently enjoy believing.

There is yet great hope for a busy and prosperous building season in 1922 for those who are not particularly concerned with speculative residential construction.

Encouraging Developments

While the coal strike hangs over the country like a pall of smoke from smoldering fires, there are so many favorable symptoms of a return to more healthy business conditions throughout the country that Wall Street refuses to take a gloomy view of the general situation and goes on discounting prosperity as if it were a certainty. What is sure is that in quarters where business is measured in understandable terms there are well-defined indications of better conditions. A Wall Street boom may be predicated, and often is, on a fallacious foundation. But when car loadings increase it means that goods are actually moving in greater quantities, and car loadings for the week ending March 25 were 159,468 above the same period in 1921, and only 49,351 less than in 1920. One good thing about the increase is that it was confined to no one locality, but was spread all over the country. Unfilled orders in the Steel Corporation's books rose 353,079 tons last month when the most optimistic would have been satisfied with an increase of 200,000 tons.

Marshall Field & Co. report a greater total of orders from road salesmen than for last year, and more customers in market, with a better retail trade. The local merchants are delighted with the effect of the early spring upon the seasonal trade, and the jobbers are expecting that the shelves will soon be depleted so that the wholesale trade will be favorably affected. William M. Wood, President of the American Woolen Company, predicts that cloths will not be bought so cheaply as now for several years because the stocks of cheap wool in the country are being rapidly consumed. The woolen mills, he says, are sold up, and working to capacity, with worsted mills manufacturing 85% of their full output, which is promising. Secretary of Commerce Hoover points to the increase in production and in the prices of agricultural products as indicative that business improvement is definite and will be permanent.

The commercial weathervane along the docks also points to fairer conditions. There is much less unemployment in shipping circles, and the Custom House records for the Port of New York, a reliable index of maritime activity, show that in March 462 vessels, aggregating 1,708,727 net tons, entered from foreign countries, as compared with 414 of 1,548,412 tons the previous month, and reports clearances of 484 vessels of 1,829,016 net tons as against 391 vessels of 1,533,163 tons in February. This is a gain of 456,168 tons in traffic overseas.

These and other underlying facts may account for the fact that there have been more million-share days so far this year than Wall Street enjoyed during the whole of 1921. There is the additional incentive of easier money, exemplified in the quick absorption of large amounts of bonds of all kinds, including some foreign loans, and in the unexpected lowering of the interest rate on the new issue of U. S. certificates to 3½ per cent., the lowest figure since September, 1917. The better showing in the foreign exchange market reflects the growing belief in the ultimate solution of international financial affairs.

These factors, briefly sketched, give occasion for more confidence in the future, with the added possibility that Lloyd George at Genoa will be as successful in shaving national extravagances and cutting down national budgets which will reduce the inflation that is the greatest curse in the business world today, as Secretary Hughes was at the Washington Conference.

Trials Under Emergency Rent Laws Clog Municipal Courts

THE direct effect of the Emergency Rent Laws on the business of the Municipal Courts is aptly set forth in a report just made by the Committee on General Welfare of the Municipal Court, of which Edgar J. Lauer is chairman. In summarizing the situation the report declares that the Legislature, in seeking a solution of the housing shortage, cast the burden upon the courts of meeting the difficulties arising between landlords and tenants under the working of the new statutes. The tenant, the report says, was practically invited to secure a judicial determination of what constitutes "reasonable rent," quite naturally creating a vast amount of new litigation in the courts. The report presents statistics for the last three years, showing the great increase of cases, as follows:

	1919.	1920.	1921.
Actions commenced.....	148,299	172,137	242,218
Summary proceedings commenced...	96,623	74,158	119,127
Total actions and proceedings..	244,922	246,295	361,345
Trials	23,446	93,299	117,889

"The increase in the number of actions and summary proceedings commenced in the year 1921 over the preceding years 1919 and 1920 is striking and noteworthy," the report continues. The increase over 1920 is 115,000 in round numbers, or in percentage 47 per cent., and over 1919 slightly in excess of the figures stated. Probably a large proportion of this increase in the volume of actions and proceedings commenced in the Municipal Court during the year 1921 is to be ascribed to the so-called housing legislation which was enacted by the Legislature at the general and special sessions during the months of April and September, 1920.

500-Mile Auto Trip to Start Realtors' National Convention

AN automobile trip of 500 miles from Los Angeles to San Francisco will be the opening feature of the reception extended to realtors from all over the United States by the Californians to delegates to the annual convention of the National Association of Real Estate Boards to be held in the Golden Gate City, May 31 to June 3 next. It is planned to start a cavalcade of several hundred automobiles, laden with visitors, their wives and families, from Los Angeles on May 29, which will arrive in San Francisco on May 30, in time for the opening of the national convention the next day. This two-day trip through the heart of California's most picturesque regions, which the Angel City realtors expect to make significant of California hospitality, will be officially known as the realtors' "End-of-the-Trail" Caravan.

There will be entertainments galore in San Francisco during the three days the realtors will remain officially in the city, but the realty boards of Southern California are laying themselves out to eclipse all the efforts of their fellow real estate men in the metropolis of the State in the heaping of true Western friendliness upon the visitors by lavishness with which this auto tour will be conducted.

Representatives of the realty boards of San Diego, Riverside, San Bernardino, Anaheim, Orange, Long Beach and other Southland cities have been invited to gather in Los Angeles on the morning of May 29 and give the big caravan party a hearty send-off. The line of travel will be to Bakersfield, in the center of one of the State's largest oil producing districts, where the visitors will be entertained with a barbecue luncheon by the Bakersfield Realty Board. The next stop will be at Fresno, the famous grape center of the San Joaquin Valley, where a special dinner will be served to the caravan sight-seers by the Fresno Realty Board. This promises to be one of the delightful features of the trip, and will take the visitors through one of the largest and most wonderful grape districts in America.

Refreshed by an over-night stop in Fresno, the party will next morning journey through Niles Canyon, a region of remarkable scenery, passing through San Jose, a city of unusual historic interest, and other Central California communities in the afternoon. The route from here on will be over a section of the State Highway which traverses the famous Peninsula district, giving the caravanners an opportunity to see Palo Alto, the seat of Stanford University, and some of the most beautiful country estates in that part of California. Ten miles out of San Francisco, the party will be met by an escort of Bay City realtors headed by Colbert Coldwell, president of the San Francisco Real Estate Board, and official convention host. Entry into San Francisco will be by way of Twin Peaks, overlooking Golden Gate Park, the Bay City's matchless playground, and the magnificent San Francisco Bay.

President Frank Ryan and the directors of the Los Angeles Realty Board have put the management of the caravan in the hands of a general committee, headed by William May Garland, former president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

Governor Miller Gives Hearings on Housing Bills Expresses Serious Doubt as to Advisability of Measure Permitting Insurance Companies to Engage in Speculative Building

Albany, April 13, 1922.

GOVERNOR MILLER'S comments at the hearing given the Lockwood housing bills on Monday were construed here to mean that he would sign all of the measures excepting the so-called $100,000,000 Metropolitan Life Insurance bill. One remark made by the Governor had more to do with creating the impression that he intended to act favorably upon all the measures, excepting the insurance investment proposal, than anything else said at the hearing. This was uttered after Samuel Untermeyer, Chief Counsel to the Lockwood Committee, had suggested that the Governor hear more from the proponents of this bill.

"I think perhaps this is the bill where you need to say the most, because frankly I have more serious doubts about it than any of the others," the Governor said.

Untermeyer's response to this remark was that the Lockwood Committee regarded this "as the most important of all the bills that have been enacted and the one most likely to do away with the housing shortage."

Edward P. Doyle, representing the Real Estate Board of New York, had just made the point "that if the average wage of skilled mechanics is $9.00 per day you must get $9.00 per room per month in a tenement without service" and had discussed the wage situation with respect to building operations. The Governor was listening attentively to Mr. Doyle when Untermeyer jumped to his feet asking for more time for discussion of the measure by its proponents.

Mr. Untermeyer opened the argument for the Lockwood Committee with a statement to the effect that the policyholders of the Metropolitan had not protested against the measure and manifestly were in favor of it.

"This bill not only is not mandatory but merely permissive, but it is confined to the present housing emergency," said Untermeyer.

"Right there," interjected the Governor, "who determines when the emergency ends?"

"The statute has determined it," replied Untermeyer.

"But, if they are extended," the Governor commenced.

"Only until February, 1924," Untermeyer interrupted.

"But this says 'until March 1, 1924 or so long thereafter as the emergency in housing conditions mentioned' in certain acts of the Legislature shall continue," the Governor replied.

The Governor indicated that he had in mind the point made by the United States Supreme Court in sustaining the housing laws that the power of the Legislature to enact such drastic statutes as the rent laws was contingent upon the existence of a great public emergency. Sensing this, Mr. Untermeyer said the Lockwood Committee felt that the Legislature was the judge of what constituted an emergency in the housing situation and that he believed this "legislation is only constitutional, is only supported upon the theory of such an emergency."

Mr. Untermeyer declared that the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company was ready to build as soon as the bill was signed. The location, he said, had been decided on for four experimental blocks of twelve buildings, each 600 x 200 feet, containing thirty-six apartments or 161 rooms in each building. Each apartment will consist of four or five rooms and bath, separately heated. Each block of twelve buildings will contain 432 apartments or 1,728 apartments in the four blocks. Rentals, Mr. Untermeyer declared, would not exceed $36 per month for apartments that could not be duplicated at ruling prices for $80, and the location he declared to be within a fifteen-minute ride at a five cent fare from Times Square.

The establishment of the policy permitting insurance companies to enter the building field was attacked by Frank R. Howe, of the Queensboro Corporation. He declared that the investment of the moneys of policyholders in the speculative enterprise which building has become would raise a perilous standard and might mean disaster to the companies. He made the flat assertion that under the bill as drawn it would be impossible to carry out the Utopian plan of providing $9.00 a month rooms and that the entrance of insurance companies into competition with legitimate builders would have the effect of curtailing construction of dwellings. Governor Miller indicated that the wisdom of establishing this policy was one of the questions in his mind.

"This bill in the first place," said Mr. Howe, "is against public policy. A principle that everybody recognizes is that it is contrary to public policy for an insurance company to speculate with the funds of its policyholders. The construction of apartment houses and buildings is a speculative business. There are times when a good lot of money is made, but there are times when money is lost. In any event it is not the proper business for an insurance company to carry on if it is going to maintain its first duty of protecting its policyholders."

Stewart Browne, President of the United Real Estate Owners' Association, registered the opposition of his organization to the measure. After Senators Lockwood and Dunnigan had spoken in favor of the bill, the Governor asked:

"Has the insurance company definitely committed itself to go ahead with plan?"

"Not to me," replied Senator Dunnigan.

"They have definitely committed themselves to the plan in five days," Mr. Untermeyer interposed, but he did not elaborate upon the point.

Frequent clashes between Former Justice John Woodward of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court and Mr. Untermeyer punctuated the discussion of the rent law which seeks to provide the means of determining rent upon assessed valuation. It was the contention of Judge Woodward that the measure was unconstitutional and unfair to the property-owner and that it contributed to a condition which would make it necessary for a landlord to sue his tenants every year.

Alexander C. McNulty, counsel to the Real Estate Board of New York, attacked the bill proposing to extend the operation of the rent laws until February 15, 1924. He declared that the sustention of the law in the courts was based upon the existence of an emergency at the time it was enacted and that unless the Governor, as a factor in the law-making machinery considered the emergency as still existing he should disapprove the measure.

"There was no evidence submitted to the Legislature that a general housing shortage now exists in New York City, nor can any such evidence be furnished at this hearing," declared Mr.

Mr. Allin Explains Title Examination and Insurance

Counsel of Title Guarantee and Trust Company Addresses Y. M. C. A. Class on the Intricacies of Real Estate Law

SPEAKING from his experience of twenty-two years as a real estate and title lawyer, George L. Allin, Counsel of the Title Guarantee & Trust Company, delivered a lecture to the Real Estate Training Class of the West Side Y. M. C. A. on Tuesday evening, his subject being "Title Examination and Title Insurance." The speaker was introduced by W. H. Wycoff of Pease & Elliman and addressed the class at length analyzing every phase of the law pertaining to title insurance, quoted famous decisions of the courts regarding property rights and held the close attention of his hearers throughout. Many questions were asked of the speaker at the close of his lecture and he answered them all satisfactorily.

"In an address of this character," Mr. Allin said, "a lawyer, who is accustomed to legal verbiage and court dictum, is prone to talk over the heads of his audience. I will do my best to avoid that circumstance this evening. I will try to dress my thoughts in simple language and if any of you gentlemen do not fully grasp my meaning do not hesitate to ask me to explain any point I make, for I may from force of habit use what may appear to you to be obtuse legal phraseology."

"At the outset I wish to state that all rules of common law pertaining to real estate are based on the feudal laws of England. All of our stream of principles governing real estate flows from that fountain head. In ancient times all land belonged to the king. He could own or hold at his pleasure. From him title issued to everyone else. When the North American continent was settled and a colonial government was established, with various prerogatives and powers, the English common law did not apply in its entirety. In the State of New York, especially, titles passed from the Colonial Governor, or the province, to certain individuals and were known as Colonial grants. These titles still hold good and numerous families throughout the commonwealth received them, many of them in Westchester County and on Long Island. Every title to real estate, whether in this city or beyond it, must be traced back to a Colonial grant if a complete chain is desired, or to the beginning of the operation of the State of New York, which succeeded provincial government. Practically every title can be so traced. In the part of the Bronx that was not originally part of Westchester County it cannot be so traced. In Westchester County titles are usually traced back to the Commissioner of Forfeiture, who during the Revolution had the disposal of properties of families loyal to the King. There were many forfeitures of vast tracts of acreage there in that era of America. These parcels eventually came under the ownership of the State of New York, from which new title issues. Some of these tracts or part of them finally found their way back to the hands of the pre-war owners or their descendants, who bought them from the State. There is probably no more interesting study than title history." Continuing, Mr. Allin said:

"A familiar word to real estate men is the word 'indenture.' It will probably surprise you when I tell you that the word is now a misnomer, although it is used in every deed and its constant misuse nowadays has all the force of correct usage. In early times, when scribes drew up all deeds they made them in duplicate on a single parchment. They separated them with a sharp-edged knife that they cut zig-zag or tooth shape at the line of separation, thus making an indenture, from which circumstance the name of the paper was derived. Parchments are no longer used, but the ancient phrase survives. A legal phrase is seldom if ever abandoned. The use of the word 'indenture' is an apt illustration of it."

"There was a time when deeds were not recorded. Think of that! If such a condition of affairs existed now there would be a mixture of property titles beyond solution. Recording acts in New York State were enacted early in the nineteenth century. On Manhattan Island they date back to early in the seventeenth century. The Holland Dutchmen were wise fellows and when they acquired a parcel of real estate they made sure they had it. In the Borough of Richmond the recording of deeds dates back only to the year 1812."

"There is an element of limitation to title insurance. There are lots of things that the insurer cares nothing about that the insured does care about. We avoid a mixture as between real and personal property. For example, bath tubs, electric lighting fixtures, hardware, and all the accessories that go to make a building useful and livable are not real estate. They are personal holdings. Consequently a title insurance company cannot guarantee the ownership of these. These house and property accessories in the past caused much litigation over insurance, but the matter is now well settled law and owners of buildings are reconciled to the fact. We only examine those things that the law itself defines as real estate. If we did not adhere to such a hard-and-fast rule there would be no end to what a title insurance company would be expected to guarantee."

"There are three prime methods of transferring real estate: by deed, by legal decisions and by will. All of them are evidence of transfer, provided the deed is recorded, the decision is in effect and the will is probated. Remember that the delivery of deed is what transfers titles. Without the recording of it no title passes. It must pass during the lifetime of the grantor or grantee. Even though it does not and heirs deliver it title does not legally pass. Remember another thing: Death instantly revokes power of attorney. The law says that when a principal is dead the power of the agent dies with him. The theory of title is an unbroken chain of identification in order to prevent fraud. The signature of every notary public and every commissioner of deeds is on record in the county where he has jurisdiction. So that if he be dead and years later a question arises as to the authenticity of his signature to a legal document the evidence as the genuineness of the signature is at hand. It is only recently that the law has compelled this situation."

"An oral will is not valid unless it be that of a wounded and dying soldier or sailor. Wills in New York State must be signed, and must always be written except in the emergency cases alluded to. The testator must tell the witnesses that it is his will. He must request the witnesses to sign and they must so attest. A testator or testatrix is always legally presumed to have died intestate until his or her will is probated. There is no guessing in the law on this matter. Wherever a New Yorker may be, whether in Europe or in another state, he must draw his will as I have outlined. Otherwise it is invalid. The will of a non-resident in New York is good only if it is drawn in accordance with the laws of the state of his domicile. It must be in his handwriting. The courts hold very close in their construction of law in all matters pertaining to property. It is well that they do. Often the rights of lunatics, infants, invalids and dower are involved. This also applies to leases, mortgages and deeds. So always have a care in the execution of them. A contract of sale should never be made until after reports of referees, accountings of guardians, the testimony of expert witnesses and the reports of committees of lunatics have been made, provided any such matters are involved. If the deed to property outside the state is not entitled to be recorded here then it is not legally recorded. A deed made abroad and conveying property in this country should never be made without attestation by the Mayor of the city in which it is made or in the presence of an American Consul or some other official of consequence. In other words all doubt of its genuineness must be removed."

Questions regarding the Torrens law were put to Mr. Allin by several of his hearers. He replied: "As a title insurance lawyer I expected that. I will say that the Torrens' system is now complete in this state. The County Clerks or Registers have as complete a chain of title to parcels of real estate in this city as the title companies have. You or anyone else can find a chain of title. The utility of the system in most cases, however, has not been demonstrated. The title companies save a property-owner much time and drudgery in almost every case. In the conveyance of real estate many questions often arise; questions regarding lis pendens, specific liens, state and federal inheritance taxes, bankruptcy troubles, corporation franchise taxes, surveys, forgery, lunacy, impersonation and what not. Here is where the value of title insurance appears. There is nothing in the Torrens' system to insure you against any or all of these things. I will summarize it by saying that title insurance guarantees a buyer against a past fact while the Torrens' system insures you only against future certainties and liabilities."

Activity in Mercantile Building in Midtown Section

Many Fine Structures Now Under Way in Districts Between Fifth and Eighth Avenues From Thirty-fourth to Fortieth Streets

A STUDY of the building activity at present under way in the mid-town district of Manhattan is probably the best method of dispelling the impression prevailing in the minds of many interested in the construction industry that residential building has dominated the local field to the extent of eliminating practically all other kinds of project. For many months past builders and their affiliated interests who are not concerned with the usual type of speculative housing operations have decried an apparent lack of mercantile construction that has curtailed their opportunities for profitable business. It is only because the volume of residential construction now active in this city is abnormally out of scale that this feeling exists as there is a tremendous amount of high class commercial and industrial building now actually in progress and infinitely more scheduled for a start in the near future.

A very definite idea of the scope of the mercantile building now in progress may be obtained from an analysis of this activity in the district bounded by Thirty-fourth and Fortieth Streets, Fifth and Eighth Avenues. An investigation made by THE RECORD AND GUIDE shows that within the bounds of this area a sum of approximately $20,000,000 is at present being expended for commercial projects of one type or another. This amount only represents the total cost of about a dozen modern fireproof office, loft and light manufacturing structures and does not take into consideration several smaller operations involving new buildings nor does it include the large amount of extensive alteration work which is transforming ancient residences into business structures. There is little doubt that if the total cost of all commercial and industrial construction now under way in this district were added that the expenditure would involve upward of $24,000,000.

Although this section of the borough is particularly active from a construction standpoint, and the total for a limited area was only exceeded two years ago when the group of large office buildings was erected in the Grand Central Terminal Zone, there is scattered throughout Greater New York a large amount of building operations for commercial and industrial occupancy the number and total cost of which would represent a very satisfactory percentage in any normal building year in which the tremendous volume of residential construction did not overshadow the combined totals of all other types of project.

In the mid-town district of Manhattan there are now under-way several imposing banking buildings, a department store addition of unusual size and a group of modern fireproof office, loft and light manufacturing buildings.

Contracts have been awarded and the site is being prepared for the erection of an eighteen-story addition to the department store of R. H. Macy & Co. This structure will occupy 149 to 159 West Thirty-fourth Street, through to 148 to 156 West Thirty-fifth Street. The building will be constructed according to plans by R. D. Kohn under a general contract awarded to Marc Eidlitz & Son. The cost is said to exceed $4,500,000. The steel contract for this structure, awarded to Levering & Garrigues, involves a total of 8,200 tons of fabricated material and it is said to be the largest single contract for structural steel awarded since the Equitable Building was constructed about ten years ago.

Wrecking contractors are demolishing the old buildings on the site of the new building for the North River Savings Bank which will be located at 206 to 212 West Thirty-fourth Street. This building will be two stories in height and will cost nearly $200,000. The structure was designed by Charles E. Birge, architect, and is being erected under a general contract by the Clough-Bourne Corporation.

Foundations are under construction for a twelve-story store and office building to occupy the entire block front on Eighth Avenue, from Thirty-fifth to Thirty-sixth Street. This operation represents an expenditure of approximately $1,000,000 and is being erected from plans by Buchman & Kahn, architects. The contractors are G. Richard Davis & Co. This building is being erected for Ludwig and Albert Baumann, furniture dealers who will utilize a large part of the space for showroom purposes and the balance will be rented on long term leases.

Contracts have been awarded and work will soon be started on the new banking building to be located in the north side of Thirty-sixth Street from Broadway to Sixth Avenue. This structure is for the Greenwich Savings Bank and it will be erected according to designs by York & Sawyer. The general contractor is Marc Eidlitz & Son, who have already placed contracts for wrecking and other subs. The cost is approximately $500,000.

Foundation work is under way for a fourteen-story office and showroom building at 132 to 138 West Thirty-sixth Street, through to 139 to 145 West Thirty-fifth Street. This building is being erected at a cost of more than $2,000,000 by a corporation in which E. Morrill Banner and Herbert H. Mitler are interested. The plans were prepared by Robert T. Lyons and the structural engineer is Robert E. Moss. No general contract was awarded on this operation and the owners are letting separate contracts as the work proceeds.

The work of erecting the structural steel skeleton is proceeding rapidly for the fireproof office and loft building at 124 to 126 West Thirty-sixth Street for the Dongan Investing

Aldermen Pass Ordinance Requiring Outside Gas Cut-offs

Measure Which Real Estate Board Estimates Will Cost Taxpayers $25,000,000
Now Before Mayor Hylan for His Approval

AN ordinance requiring the installation of gas cut-offs outside all buildings now or hereafter constructed, excepting private dwellings and two-family houses, was passed by the Board of Aldermen on last Tuesday by a vote of 38 to 13. Mayor Hylan now has the measure under consideration.

Fire Chief John Kenlon is largely responsible for the measure, which was introduced in the Board of Aldermen at the request of the Board of Standards and Appeals on the recommendation of the city's fire chief, who stated that if cut-offs were outside instead of inside buildings, as they now are, many lives would be saved in fires and in accidents to partly wrecked buildings.

Alderman Stephen A. Rudd, of Brooklyn, said there was an ordinance at present requiring gas companies to put in gas cut-offs in convenient and accessible places on buildings, and he wanted to know why the burden should be passed to property owners and taxpayers. Chief Kenlon said the present cut-off was under the sidewalk and that many times the box to the cut-off could not be located readily.

Alderman Falconer said it would be an easy matter for burglars to shut off the gas. He said it would encourage the present lawless condition in the city and increase the crime wave.

The proposed cut-off is to be opened by a key that every officer of a fire company must carry.

Representatives of the Real Estate Board of New York submitted figures to show that there were now about 450,000 buildings in the city. If 200,000 one and two-family dwellings were exempted from the provisions of the ordinance there would still be 250,000 buildings in which the device must be installed. In a communication to the Board of Aldermen the Real Estate Board says:

"No civic organization should oppose any measure that safeguards human life merely because of its cost but when an expense of approximately $50,000,000 by property owners is made mandatory its proponents should be compelled to prove absolutely beyond question that such will be the result. The proposed device, which is patented, and which has been approved by the Board of Standards and Appeals, will cost from $65 to $180, in addition to the cost of making the necessary changes in the gas pipes and in the building. If dwellings are exempted there still remain 250,000 buildings to be equipped at an average cost at least of $100. This would total $25,000,000 to be paid by the owners or passed on to the tenant. The Real Estate Board ask for further consideration of so important an ordinance and urged that excessive haste was not necessary.

"The Committee on Building Laws and Regulations of the Board adopted the following resolutions which clearly indicate that the ordinance is not opposed on the score of expense but, that if the remedy desired is essential, other forms of equipment should be provided:

We oppose installation of automatic mechanism.

We oppose application of the proposed ordinance to present buildings, even if manually operated.

We favor a gas cut-off on the outside of buildings in a location more readily accessible than as required by the present ordinance and by Section 601 of the Building Code as far as it affects new buildings.

That, the equipment of the Rescue Squad of the Fire Department, in relation to gas masks, be extended to include approved apparatus to meet the danger from all gases, and extended also to the whole department; and that a sufficient appropriation be made for this purpose.

Stewart Browne, President of the United Real Estate Owners' Association, wrote to the Aldermen:

"There has been no investigation whatever by the Board of Standards and Appeals or by your Building Committee as to the demerits of the 'old valve' and the merits of the proposed automatic valve.

"The New York Fire Insurance Exchange, at the urgent request of Chief Kenlon and without the slightest investigation did agree to make a reduction of 1 per cent. on the fire insurance rates on buildings having such proposed cut-off valve. This is not 1 per cent. deduction on net rate and would probably amount to less than one-half of 1 per cent. of the net rate. The companies can afford to do this as the rates are now too high. The Exchange, however, is opposed to any automatic valve, regarding it as dangerous."

Co., Inc., owner. This building represents a cost of $100,000 and is being erected by Charles Money, Inc., under a general contract according to plans by Charles H. Gillespie, architect.

Foundations are completed and steel work has been started for the eight-story printing building at 313 to 321 West Thirty-seventh Street, for the Herald Square Press Building Corporation. This operation is proceeding according to plans and specifications by Schwartz & Gross, architects, and Ball & Snyder, engineers. The cost of construction is placed at approximately $400,000.

Excavation work is in progress at 1364 to 1370 Broadway, at the southeast corner of Thirty-seventh Street, where a sixteen-story store and office building will be erected by Harry Fischel, et al. This building has been designed by Sommerfeld & Steckler, architects, and Charles Mayer is the consulting engineer. The cost of construction is placed at $750,000.

Foundations have been started for the fourteen-story light manufacturing and loft building at 237 to 239 West Thirty-seventh Street, which is being constructed by Lefcourt & Haas, owners and builders, from plans by George & Edward Blum, architects. This work will involve an outlay of nearly $350,000 for construction. Practically all sub-contracts have been awarded and work will be pushed in order to have the building completed and ready for occupancy early in 1923.

At 244 to 250 West Thirty-eighth Street, Lefcourt & Haas, are excavating the site for a fourteen-story loft building to cost about $500,000. This structure was also designed by George & Edward Blum and Charles Mayer is the consulting engineer.

Excavating contractors are preparing the site at 209 to 223 West Thirty-ninth Street through to 206 to 214 West Fortieth Street, for a sixteen-story store and loft building for the 206 West Thirty-Ninth Street Corporation, of which Wm. Fishman, is president. This operation will cost about $1,300,000 and is being erected under a general contract by Jos. E. Gilbert, from plans by George & Edward Blum, architects.

Wrecking contractors are demolishing the old buildings on the site recently purchased by the New York Tribune. The new building for this publication will be seven stories in height and will be erected from plans now being prepared by Lockwood, Green & Co., designing engineers. The structure will be located at 219 to 229 West Fortieth Street and will cost approximately $500,000.

Rheinstein & Haas, Inc., general contractors, have obtained a contract for the construction of a twelve-story store and loft building shortly to be started in the north side of Thirty-ninth Street, just west of Fifth Avenue. This project will be for a corporation headed by George Rawak and will be for the accommodation of the millinery trades exclusively. The building has been designed by Starrett & Van Vleck, architects, and will be financed by a loan made by S. W. Straus & Co., who have underwritten a first mortgage serial bond issue of $1,100,000. The major portion of the space in this structure has already been leased for long terms to firms prominent in the millinery industry.

Review of Real Estate Market for the Current Week

Business in the Bronx Was Strong, While Dealing in Manhattan Was Well Distributed in All Kinds of Properties

THIS was a good week in real estate. The Bronx led all the boroughs in the volume of dealing. It embraced all kinds of property from shore front to tenement houses. Most of the dealing was in one and two-family houses. It is only a few months ago that vacant land was the predominating selling quantity in the northerly borough.

The character of selling in Manhattan was various and substantial. There were some large operations in multi-family houses in the northern parts of the borough. Elevator and walk-up buildings were in equally good demand. Prominent among many good sales was that of the southwest corner of West End Avenue and 99th Street, held at $1,000,000. A coal firm bought property at the foot of East 56th Street, with riparian rights. There were numerous apartment house sales ranging from $200,000 to $500,000 in price. All parts of the borough figured in the dealing. Here and there was a transaction where other property was given in part payment.

A transaction that shared attention with others was that of a 63-years' lease of the northeast corner of Seventh Avenue and 37th Street. It involves an option of purchase, the plot being 100x244. It represents an aggregate investment of $8,000,000. The syndicate that leased the plot plans a distinctive improvement there. West 57th street loomed strong with a long lease by the O'Neill estate to the Mechanics & Metals

National Bank. Another subject of comment was the sale of the 5-story building, 1424 Broadway, which has long been occupied by Browne's Chop House. The holding price of this property was $275,000.

Numerous parcels of variegated character on Lexington and on Park Avenues changed hands. The sites of some of them will be reimproved with more modern buildings and others will be remodeled for business and apartment purposes. There were some sales on West End Avenue. The sale of 538 West 53d Street was of more than passing interest. It is a business building that has been occupied by one tenant for 28 years and he proved to be the buyer.

There was a strong demand for dwellings for occupancy by the purchasers. The circumstance gives investment tone to the market. A feature of the week was the selling of numerous corner properties of various kinds. The movement in Park Avenue property seems to be gaining impetus. Some sales of old buildings in the finer apartment house section of the thoroughfare changed hands and more modern apartment houses will be witnessed in the avenue within the year. It was disclosed during the week that Marshall Field is the buyer of 34-38 Wall Street, adjoining the Federal Assay office.

The lower mercantile section of the city produced some good sales and some good leases as well.

PRIVATE REALTY SALES.

THE total number of sales reported but not recorded in Manhattan this week, was 82 as against 89 last week and 101 a year ago. The number of sales south of 59th st was 14 as compared with 31 last week and 38 a year ago.

The number of sales north of 59th st was 68 as compared with 58 last week and 63 a year ago.

From the Bronx 85 sales at private contract were reported, as against 33 last week and 41 a year ago.

Statistical tables, including the number of recorded instruments, will be found on page 467.

500 Lots in Hoboken to Be Sold

Mayor Patrick R. Griffin of Hoboken has announced that the War Department has ordered sale of 500 lots in the western section of the city, held by the Shore Railroad, a War Department subsidiary. The sale of these lots will throw open 1,500 other lots in the same section, which have been cut off from the city proper and have remained undeveloped because the city did not know what disposition the Government intended to make of them. No date has been set for the sale.

Home of Browne's Chop House Sold

Joseph Schwartz purchased from the Andrew Soher estate the U. S. Trust Co., trustee, 1424 Broadway, occupied by Browne's Chop House. It is a 5-sty building, on a plot 25.7x102. The present lease expires July, 1923. The property had not changed hands since 1897 and was held at $275,000.

Tenant Buys After 28 Years

Estate of John Wilson sold through the Leonard Morgan Co. to John Schneider, the tenant, 538 West 53d st, a 3-sty brick building, on a plot 25x149.7. The structure was built for this tenant 28 years ago and he has steadily occupied it.

Wall Street Building Sold

Merchants Bank of Canada sold through the Charles F. Noyes Co. and Edward A. Arnold to Marshall Field, 34-38 Wall st, adjoining the United States Assay Office, an 8-sty and basement office and bank building, on a plot 53.5x103.10x irregular. It was at one time owned by Post & Flagg, bankers.

Alabama Apartments in Trade

The Alabama, a 6-sty elevator apartment house at the northeast corner of Riverside drive and 127th st, has been sold by the Ardmore Estates to the Winter Realities, Benjamin Winter, president, which gave in part payment the Lotta apartments, three 5-sty houses with stores at the northeast corner of Seventh av and 118th

st. The Alabama, which was sold subject to mortgages for $175,000, fronts 86.6 feet on the drive and 100 feet on the street, with rear lines of 146.3 and 146.11 feet. The Seventh av, properties, which were disposed of subject to mortgages of $142,750, cover a plot 100.11x100.

Some Lower Third Avenue Sales

P. M. Clear & Co. sold for the Dormond Realty Co., Inc., to the Lone Star Realty Corporation 40, 58 and 62 Third av, the first being a 3-sty brick flat with store, on a lot 20x60; the second being a 4-sty brick flat with store, on a lot 23.84x78; and the third a 4-sty brick flat with store, on a lot 23.84x78, adjoining the southwest corner of East 11th st.

Operator Buys and Resells

Daniel H. Jackson bought from the Halloran estate the northwest corner of St. Nicholas av and 15th st, a detached 2½-sty and basement brick dwelling, on a plot 37.3x106.11½, and resold it to the 881 St. Nicholas Avenue Corporation, A. D'Antona president. Mr. D'Antona will erect a 5-sty and basement apartment house, with owner's apartment on the first floor, containing 12 large rooms, with private separate entrance on the avenue front.

A Good Downtown Sale.

The 3-sty brick United States Arcade building, occupying the block front on the south side of Fulton st, between Pearl and Water sts, and valued at about $350,000, has been sold by Benjamin Benenson. The structure, known as 32 to 38 Fulton st, 258 to 262 Pearl st, and 196 to 202 Water st, has frontages of 100, 96.6 and 85.8 feet, respectively, and was bought by Mr. Benenson last November from Charles Laue, who erected it 20 years ago.

Operators in Two Deals

The Brunswick, a 6-sty apartment house, with stores, at the northeast corner of Lexington av and 79th st, on a plot 31x102.2, has been sold by Charles H. Roman to Norman S. Riesenfeld and Joseph F. A. O'Donnell, operators, through O'Reilly & Dahn and Julius Friend.

The same buyers purchased through the same brokers the Gordon, the 5-sty brick flat, on a lot 20.3x102.2, at 153 East 79th st, adjoining the northeast corner of Lexington av. Gouverneur M. Phelps is the owner of record.

Hiram Lodge Buys Home

The Hiram Grand Lodge, A. F. and A. M., purchased from Webster A. Rodriguez the 3-sty and basement stone dwelling, on a lot 16.8x 99.11, at 66 West 131st st.

Obtains Option of Purchase

Charles Pieper obtained an option on the property of Mary K. Stokes, Jane F. Stokes and Anna H. Waters at 223 to 239 St. Nicholas av, 88.10x99.5x irregular, with an abutting parcel, 50x100.11, on 121st st, forming an "L" around the northwest corner of St. Nicholas av and 121st st. Mr. Pieper plans to improve the entire site with a large garage, providing the Board of Standard and Appeals grants permission for the erection of such a structure at this point.

Cartoonist Buys Dwelling.

RECENT LEASES.

Notable Seventh Ave. Leasehold

Invasion by the millinery trades of the area contiguous to the new needle trade center in the Pennsylvania zone is further emphasized by the announcement of an $8,000,000 deal which will result in the erecting of a commercial building at the northeast corner of Seventh av and 37th st. The site was leased for a term of 63 years with an option of purchase by a building syndicate organized by Joseph E. Gilbert from the Craiginch Co., composed of Francis Bannerman and others.

The plot measures 100 feet on Seventh av and 244.6 feet on 37th st, and is directly opposite the Garment Center Capitol buildings, which form the nucleus of the fast growing needle trade center. On it the lessees will put up a building exclusively for millinery concerns, most of which are located further down town. Ground will be broken in January, 1923, and it is expected that the structure will be ready for tenants by the 1924 renting season. The $8,000,000 or more involved in the venture includes both the aggregate rental and the cost of the building.

Frederick Fox & Co., Inc., were the brokers.

Builder Leases Corner

United States Trust Company of New York and Ira Bliss Stewart, trustees for the estate of Abram Baudouine, leased through Brady & Bowman, Inc., to the 665 Madison Avenue Corporation, Francis S. Paterno, president, 26x28 East 61st st, southwest corner of Madison av, two private dwellings, on a plot 67 feet on the avenue and 48 feet on the street. The term is 21 years with two renewals. The rental for the first 21-year period is approximately $500,000 net.

No. 26 East 61st st for a number of years was the home of Abram I. Elkus, former Ambassador of Turkey. The corner house, 28, was the residence of the late Abram Baudouine. The property is now under lease to the Century Leasing Co., subject to a cancellation clause which will shortly be exercised by the owner. It is the intention of the 664 Madison Avenue Corporation to reimprove the property.

Walter Fox and William H. Peckham were associated as brokers with Brady & Bowman, Inc.

Dorlon's Old Stand Leased

Henry Shapiro & Co., in conjunction with Harris, Vought & Co., subleased for the Schulte Cigar Stores Co. to the St. Regis Restaurant.

BUILDING SECTION

Early Settlement in Building Wage Dispute Foreshadowed

Representatives of Building Employers and Unions Met Tuesday to Consider Basis for New Agreement for the Remainder of the Year

AFTER several months of delay and doubt which were punctuated by charges, counter charges and disputes there is now strong likelihood that the differences between the organized employers in the building industry of this city and the union workmen will shortly be settled, at least for the remainder of the current year. The local building industry has been operating since January 1 without an agreement between employers and employees. The old agreement expired on December 31, 1921, and since last autumn representatives of both sides have been unable to agree upon a basis for a new agreement.

During the early part of this year conditions became so serious and so much work was being held in abeyance because of doubt as to future building trade wages that the Public Group Committee, under the chairmanship of Walter Stabler, was formed, and it is largely through the efforts of this committee that it is now possible to predict a speedy settlement of the outstanding differences between workmen and employers which will carry with it an agreement on wages for the balance of the calendar year.

Several weeks ago the Public Group Committee practically despaired of getting the Building Trades Employers' Association and the Building Trades' Council together for a discussion of their differences. Both sides admitted their willingness to meet provided certain conditions were complied with, but as neither the employers nor the union representatives were willing to recognize the justice of the other's conditions it appeared for a time as though the local building industry was destined for a season of strikes and other labor troubles that in a large measure would offset the opportunities offered by the vast amount of construction already planned and waiting for a start.

As a result of a final effort of the Public Group Committee, however, the Executive Committees of the Building Trades Employers' Association and the Building Trades' Council met in secret in the Metropolitan Tower on Tuesday afternoon of this week for a discussion of their outstanding grievances. Although the meeting was planned and arranged by the Public Group Committee it had no representation and the gathering was solely for a free and unhampered discussion of the various points in dispute between the employers and the workmen in the various trades.

The discussion on Tuesday afternoon, lasting more than three hours, involved the general building situation and the proposed new agreement on wages and working conditions. Neither C. G. Norman, Chairman of the Board of Governors of the Building Trades Employers' Association, nor Patrick Crowley, President of the Building Trades' Council, would say anything about the meeting for publication except that the gathering was harmonious in every respect and that the outlook for a definite settlement of the building trades dispute in the very near future appeared hopeful.

Local building interests, particularly those who are not concerned definitely with speculative construction, are considerably encouraged by the turn of events of the past week. Although no information is obtainable as to the proceedings of the joint meeting between the representatives of labor and the employers, the announcement from the leaders on both sides that the discussion was carried on in complete harmony has created a general feeling that within a short time the differences will have become a thing of the past and that the industry will be in a position to proceed with its program for this season without doubt as to the possibility of strikes and other adverse labor conditions.

Just what will be the basis of a new agreement no one in the building industry will even hazard a guess. All agree, however, that any settlement will be infinitely better than the conditions prevailing today and whatever is accomplished during the conference to follow will be for the ultimate benefit of the building industry in New York City.

While there is an excellent possibility that local building labor conditions will shortly be vastly improved by a settlement of the dispute between employers and unions, there are several important communities up-state that at present are involved in difficulties with building labor. In a number of instances employers have sought to further reduce building labor costs and the workmen are replying to these suggestions of lower wages with threats of strikes.

It was recently reported from Syracuse that there may be no further wage reductions in the building trades this year. Following the declaration for open shop for lathers at 90 cents an hour by the Syracuse Builders' Exchange on April 1, only three trades are left in that city whose wages have not been considered by the employers. These are the plumbers, at $1 per hour, electricians at $1 an hour and structural ironworkers at $1.06¼ an hour. The employers have generally conceded that the plumbers will not be asked to take a reduction for the remainder of the current year. Some time ago the electrical contractors asked the electricians to accept a voluntary reduction to 90 cents an hour, but since this was refused by the workmen no further action has been taken. The Syracuse Builders' Exchange has not yet asked the structural ironworkers to take a wage reduction to $1 per hour, as was considered some time ago.

Much active construction is being held up in Niagara Falls because the building trades employes recently refused to accept a cut in wages of from 10 to 15 cents an hour. Bricklayers, carpenters, plasterers and painters there went out on strike early this month rather than submit to the proposed reduction, and it is claimed that approximately 1,000 workmen are idle in that city as a result of the strike. The annual wage agreement between the employers and the unions expired on March 31 and no new agreement was made, but when the workmen reported on April 1 they were informed that their wages were to be reduced by the employers. The members of the Niagara Falls Master Builders' Association have absolutely refused to deal with the local Building Trades' Council in regard to the strike conditions. After a recent meeting of the employers they announced it to be their intention to deal direct with the individual unions in future and refuse to have anything to do with the Council, which the employers declare, does not properly represent the building trades' unions in Niagara Falls.

Officers of the building trades' unions of Glens Falls have announced that there will be no change in the wages of the members of their respective unions during the remainder of this year. The agreement between the local unions and employers also expired on March 31 but the employers have not proposed a downward revision of wage scales and the unions are not asking for any increase above the prevailing scales.

Governor Miller Gives Hearings on Housing Bills

McNulty. "On the contrary, statistics quoted in the reports of the Joint Legislative Housing Committee demonstrate that accommodations for thousands of families have been added to the metropolitan housing supply since the enactment of the rent laws. While tax exemption has not added a single flat to the supply of living quarters within the means of the tenant masses, it has so stimulated the construction of housing for the rich and well-to-do that there is now a glut in the market for high-class apartments, as the advertising columns of the New York newspapers of the day disclose.

"It may be urged that the Governor's disapproval of this bill will necessitate an Extraordinary Session of the Legislature to provide an acceptable substitute for the rejected measure. What if it does? Certainly the integrity of a solemn legislative act of the State is of more public importance than the money cost of its rectification or even the personal inconvenience of members of the Legislature. There should be some penalty for slipshod, makeshift legislation that is not paid by its victims."

Edward P. Doyle, in answer to Senator Tolbert, who claimed that 75 per cent. of the rent litigation tried and pending in New York City was directly attributable to "profiteering and gouging landlords," declared that the very nature of the rent laws created this litigation. He declared that the statement of the proponents of this legislation that landlords were entirely responsible for the myriad of court actions to determine rentals and adjudicate rights was ridiculous. This legislation, he said, was so framed as to promote continuous and voluminous litigation between landlord and tenant.

When the Governor called for a discussion of the bill permitting New York City to act upon its own initiative in cases of default upon public contracts there was no response.

State Superintendent of Insurance Stoddard gave his support to the measure enlarging the fire insurance rate regulating powers of his department. He said the bill was drafted in the interest of lower rates and greater protection for the insured. Mr. Untermyer was not so vigorous in his support of this measure as of the others. He told the Governor that it was so frequently amended during its course through the Legislature that he did not know exactly the purpose of its provisions.

Several representatives of smaller New York insurance companies opposed the bill on the ground that it would force them to make larger expenditures to conduct their business and would have the effect of wiping a number of them out of business. David Rumsey, of the National Board of Fire Insurance Underwriters, told the Governor that the matter had not been given sufficient consideration and that it would be wise to postpone action on the bill for another year in which time investigation could be made.

Governor Miller for several hours on Saturday last listened to arguments upon the Gibbs-McWhinney bill regulating and licensing the business of real estate brokers and salesmen.

The hearing attracted quite as many persons as attended the hearing on the housing bills.

About the only opposition to this measure came from the Brooklyn Real Estate Board. It was the contention of the opposition that this bill would enable and facilitate the organization of a real-estate brokers' monopoly in New York City and would deprive a property-owner from commissioning a relative or member of his family to look after his realty.

Mr. Doyle, representing the Real Estate Board of New York, supported the bill and told the Governor that the opposition to the measure was constituted largely by operators who resented regulation of their activities.

"The New York City Real Estate Board has a code of ethics that makes such regulation unnecessary, but the board cannot control the activities of operators outside its membership," he said. "The board does not need this bill, but sees in it the means of curtailing the fraudulent activities of some brokers and salesmen in New York City. It strikes me that only the person who does not want regulation could be opposed to this bill."

The measure was framed and vigorously supported by the New York State Association of Real Estate Boards.

Laurence McGuire, in support of the measure, said that it had operated to good purpose in thirteen states of the Union. He pointed out that such a law is in operation in New Jersey and that one effect of this statute has been to drive into New York City a number of real estate operators who are unable to do business under the Jersey statute.

While Mr. McNulty was presenting his argument in favor of the bill the Governor inquired why it did not carry an appropriation for the administration of the act. He was advised that the proponents of the bill were informed that an appropriation would be unnecessary, as the State Tax Department, the administering body, had sufficient funds to establish a bureau of regulation. Mr. McNulty described the various forms of malpractice in connection with real estate exchange that are now possible, all of which he believed the bill would prevent in the future.

"Governor, this bill is a public necessity," he said. "It would put a stop to spurious transactions and would make it impossible for crooked brokers to 'shake down' vendors for exorbitant commissions. This talk of promoting a monopoly in the real estate business is ridiculous. Statements that the refusal of the department to license a broker or salesman charged with dishonesty would be equivalent to depriving a man of a jury trial is equally ridiculous. A doctor might be deprived of his practice in the same way this bill provides."

James Frank, former president of the State Association, said the real estate business was rapidly reaching the standards of the medical and law professions and that the law proposed was required in order to save honest brokers and salesmen from the humiliation inflicted upon them by the practices of some crooked dealers in realty.

New York Building Congress Will Hold Its Annual Meeting Next Tuesday

THE annual meeting of the New York Building Congress will be held in the United Engineering Societies' Building, 29 West Thirty-ninth Street, Tuesday afternoon, April 18th, at 3.45 o'clock. Although the Congress, which is the New York section of the National Congress of the Building and Construction Industry, was formally organized only a year its development has been rapid and work of the utmost importance to the welfare of the local building industry has already been accomplished.

At the meeting next Tuesday afternoon the officers for the coming year will be elected and reports from the various standing committees will be submitted for the approval of the members.

The ambitious program for the development of a real apprenticeship system in the various skilled trades affiliated with the building industry is undoubtedly the most significant and important of the efforts of the Congress during its first year.

The report of the committee which has been responsible for the excellent progress already made and which will outline specifically the plans for the future development of skilled workers will be one of the outstanding features of the forthcoming meeting.

The officers of the New York Building Congress cordially invite every one affiliated with or interested in any capacity in the building industry and in assisting in its upbuilding, to be present at the annual meeting next Tuesday. There is much work still to be done by this organization; more members are not only desirable but are absolutely essential if the Congress idea is to grow and develop to its fullest extent. The forthcoming meeting will give those interested an opportunity to get first-hand information as to the future plans of this organization and furthermore will be a demonstration of the possibilities of accomplishments when all those who should be long are numbered in the roll of the Congress.

Past Records Broken By Awards for Local Construction

Weekly Figures of F. W. Dodge Company Show Steady and Consistent Gain in Practically All Phases of Building Activity in Metropolis

CONTRACTS awarded during the fourteenth week of 1922, in the territory including all of New York State and New Jersey, north of Trenton, amounted to $45,349,800. This total shows a decided increase over those of the preceding weeks of this year and in fact established two new records for this territory, the largest weekly total of contract awards and the first time on record that the contracts of the week exceeded the total of newly projected construction. Although the record figure of the week of April 1 to 7, inclusive, is the result of the $19,000,000 commitment for the new vehicular tunnel under the Hudson River, there has been a steady improvement in the number and value of awards for new construction and the local building industry is assured of all the work it will be in a position to assimilate throughout the remainder of the year.

According to figures tabulated by the F. W. Dodge Company plans were announced for 735 new building and engineering operations during the week of April 1 to 7, inclusive, that will involve a total outlay of more than $37,000,000. There were contracts placed during this period for 401 projects that involve a total expenditure estimated at more than $45,349,800.

The list of 735 projects reported being planned during the fourteenth week of this year included 93 business operations such as stores, offices, lofts, commercial garages, etc., $4,040,400; 12 educational buildings, $1,415,000; 4 hospitals and institutions, $81,000; 26 factories and industrial projects, $8,693,000; 4 public buildings, $280,000; 53 public works and public utilities, $2,070,300; 13 religious and memorial structures, $1,384,500; 524 residential operations including apartments, flats and tenements and one and two-family dwellings, $19,141,100 and 6 social and recreational projects, $245,000.

Among the 401 operations for which contracts were awarded during the week of April 1 to 7 inclusive were 57 business projects of one type or another, $1,949,400; 13 educational buildings, $2,587,900; 3 hospitals and institutions, $143,800; 13 industrial projects, $2,560,100; 18 public works and public utilities, $20,643,000; 9 religious and memorial projects, $330,000; 283 residential operations including multi-family structures and one and two-family dwellings, $16,785,600 and 5 social and recreational buildings, $350,000.

PERSONAL AND TRADE NOTES.

A. Goldberg, architect, recently moved his office from 354 State street to 164 Montague street, Brooklyn. He desires samples, catalogues and price lists of building materials and specialties.

E. C. Peck of Cleveland is chairman of the Standardization Committee of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers which will hold a convention in Atlanta, Ga., beginning May 8, where the question of standardization and research will be considered.

A. H. Roberts, formerly chief designing engineer for the Terry Manufacturing Company, has joined the staff of the Penn Bridge Company as contracting engineer for the New York branch, now established in the Architects Building, 101 Park avenue.

Empire Engineering & Supply Company, Fourth avenue and 28th street, Brooklyn, has been recently reorganized and a new company incorporated under the name of the Empire Switchboard Company, Inc. The new firm will take over the entire business and personnel of the Empire Engineering & Supply Company, which has been established for twenty years.

Reginald M. Campbell, for the past eight years with the Habirshaw Electric Cable Company, has resigned to accept the position as special representative of the American Copper Products Company, with headquarters at 200 Broadway. Mr. Campbell was formerly associated with the Ohio Brass Company and is a member of the Railroad Club and the Engineers' Club of New York.

J. C. Lyons Sons Co., builders and general contractors, will move their executive offices about May 1 from 2010 Broadway to the Grand Central Terminal Building, where they will occupy considerably larger offices. This firm is probably one of the oldest and most prominent construction organizations in the country, having been engaged in the practice of building continuously since the early seventies. The founder of the firm was the late Jeremiah C. Lyons. The present members are Charles J. Lyons, Arthur C. Lyons, Jerry C. Lyons, Walter S. Stemler and Edward J. O'Toole. Among the older structures erected by this firm are the Berkeley School, the Harry Payne Whitney residence, the Piel Brothers brewery, the annex to the New York Produce Exchange, the residence for Gen. Lloyd S. Brice, the department store building for Bloomingdale Bros. and the Finch Finishing School. Some of the recent buildings erected by the J. C. Lyons Sons Co. are the G. Piel Co. building in Astoria, L. I.; the large housing development at Piermont, N. Y., for the Robert Gair Co.; coal pockets, garages and office buildings in Brooklyn for the Wyoming Valley Coal Co. and several important office buildings in the financial district of Manhattan.

Summer Courses at Carnegie Tech.

A wide variety of subjects is offered for the summer session at Carnegie Institute of Technology, Pittsburgh, Pa. Courses of six weeks and eight weeks will be given in the College of Fine Arts, College of Industries, Margaret Morrison College and the College of Engineering.

The work of the summer session at Carnegie is arranged to meet the needs of teachers, undergraduate students, and others interested in technical subjects. The courses for teachers are scheduled for six weeks from July 5 to August 12. Eight week courses will run from June 26 to August 19.

Courses are planned for architectural draftsmen who desire additional training in design and working drawings, and for those who are planning to enter the institute. Subjects offered are Design, Working Drawings and Superintendence, and Outdoor Sketching.

"Own-Your-Home" Exposition Next Week

The fourth annual "Own-Your-Home" Exposition will be held in the Sixty-ninth Regiment Armory, Lexington avenue and Twenty-fifth street, from April 22 to 30, inclusive. Institutions which assist the prospective home owner to finance their undertakings will be well represented at this exposition and in addition there will be most interesting and instructive series of exhibits of building materials, specialties and equipment.

Registration of Architects

Gov. Miller has signed the Bly bill which provides for the annual registration of architects practicing in New York State and makes it incumbent upon applicants for certificates to prove to the satisfaction of the State Board of Examiners and Registration their qualifications to do business. Initial certificates are to be issued by the clerk of the county in which the applicant resides. There is a fee of $1. A copy of the certificate is to be forwarded to the state board within a month after the date of issuance. Renewals are made on September 1 of each year by the state board. The renewal fee is $2.

TRADE AND TECHNICAL SOCIETY EVENTS.

Building Managers' and Owners' Association of New York will hold its regular monthly dinner meeting at the Advertising Club, 47 East Twenty-fifth street, Tuesday evening, May 9. The name of the speaker will be announced later.

New York Building Superintendents' Association will hold its regular monthly dinner meeting in the Garden Room of the Hotel Martinique, Wednesday evening, May 10. The speaker of the evening will be announced later.

National Metal Trades Association will hold its annual convention at the Hotel Astor, April 17 to 20 inclusive. The program for this meeting provides for the executive committee meeting, a meeting of the local branch secretaries and a dinner of the local branch secretaries will be held on Monday. There will also be included a meeting of the administrative council and the so-called alumni dinner on Tuesday with the regular convention sessions on Wednesday and Thursday. The annual banquet of the association will be held Wednesday evening.

Building Officials Conference for 1922 will be held at Indianapolis, April 25 to 28, inclusive. The meetings will be held at the Hotel Lincoln and the committee arranging the program promises extremely interesting sessions. Details of the program will be available later.

Illuminating Engineering Society will hold its annual convention in Boston, September 25 to 28 inclusive. This will be the sixteenth annual gathering of the society, and the convention arrangements are in the hands of a committee of which C. L. Edgar, president of the Edison Electric Illuminating Company of Boston, is chairman; H. F. Wallace, vice-chairman, and J. Daniels, secretary.

American Society for Testing Materials will hold its twenty-fifth annual meeting at the Chalfonte-Haddon Hall Hotel, Atlantic City, June 26 to July 1, inclusive.

American Society of Mechanical Engineers will hold its annual spring meeting at Atlanta, Ga., May 8 to 11 inclusive.

CURRENT BUILDING OPERATIONS

CONTRACTORS, sub-contractors and material manufacturers and dealers are generally satisfied with the manner in which the 1922 building season is shaping up. There is a steady gain from week to week in the amount of new construction released for a start and architects have plans on their boards for a large amount of proposed building scheduled for release as soon as the plans are finished. Although the major portion of the new construction is residential in character there is a decided improvement in the outlook for commercial and industrial work and as a result those contractors who are not specially interested in the speculative type of construction are more optimistic than they have been.

The developments of the past week indicate that the dispute between the building trade employers and the labor unions will be settled without further delay. There was a conference between the representatives of both sides last Tuesday afternoon, at which a basis for settling the outstanding difference was arrived at. It is likely that a further conference, to be held in the near future, will bring this matter to a head, and just as soon as a new working agreement for the remainder of the calendar year is consummated this action will be reflected in the local building situation by a restoration of confidence in the future of the industry.

The material markets are steadily growing more active and dealers feel that the coming months will witness a growing demand for structural commodities. Prices are generally firm and there is every likelihood that the prevailing levels will stand for some time to come unless a shortage, due to the tremendous volume of active construction, should force prices upward.

Common Brick—The vast amount of apartment house construction now going on in practically all boroughs of New York City has been responsible for a continuation of the active demand for Hudson River common brick. Brooklyn continues to lead the city in the amount of brick consumed in new construction from week to week, but there is a growing demand from the Bronx that is indicative of the increased activity in that borough. A total of forty-two barge loads of brick arrived this week from up-river points, and with the exception of four cargoes all were disposed of for immediate delivery. Prices are practically unchanged and quotations range from $16 to $16.50 a thousand, but there is not much brick available at the lower figure, and there are some who feel that the market for Hudson River common brick is stiffening to some extent. Manufacturers are getting their plants in shape for the opening of the 1922 producing season, and if the present weather continues there is every likelihood that within the next week or so some of the Hudson River plants will have started making brick.

Summary—Transactions in the North River brick market for the week ending Thursday, April 13, 1922. Condition of market: Demand steady and strong; prices, firm and practically unchanged. Quotations: Hudson Rivers, $16 to $16.50 a thousand to dealers in cargo lots alongside dock. Number of cargoes arrived, 42; sales, 39. Distribution: Manhattan, 14; Bronx, 3; Brooklyn, 17; New Jersey points, 3; Astoria, 1; Eastchester, 1. Remaining unsold in the New York wholesale market, 4.

Lumber—There has been a decided improvement in the tone of the local lumber market during the past two or three weeks, and as a result dealers are greatly encouraged. Demand is growing steadily and both wholesale and retail dealers anticipate excellent business for the remainder of the year. Prices are fairly steady and in certain instances slight advances have been reported due to the increased demand. The constantly growing volume of residential construction in Greater New York and the surrounding districts is the most important factor in the prevailing lumber demand, but there are marked signs of increased activity along commercial and industrial construction lines. Retail dealers in the outlying sections of the city state that the business of the past few weeks has been far ahead of their most optimistic estimates, and the demand gives every evidence of growing steadily throughout the next three or four months. Reports from wholesalers reflect the improved retail demand, and at the present time the orders are considerably in excess of production.

Structural Steel—Demand for structural steel is daily increasing and the contractors are generally favorably impressed with the outlook for the coming season. A general stiffening has recently been noted throughout the local market for structural steel. Fabricated material is now going at prices ranging from $64 to $70 a ton, erected in commercial projects. The improvement in the outlook for this commodity is generally traceable to the increased interest in the construction of large apartment house projects, a number of which are now out for estimates and all of which will involve an average of 1,200 tons.

Electrical Supplies—Buying interest continues to improve each week, and both manufacturers and dealers are looking forward to a season of more than ordinary activity in this line. The large volume of residential construction in this territory is largely responsible for the increasing demand for wiring materials, but the improvement in the general business situation is also a factor as it has been responsible for considerable repair and alteration work in existing industrial plants. No important changes in prices of electrical materials have been reported during the past week, although there has been some stiffening in the quotations on certain items.

Nails—The market for both cut and wire nails is more active than it has been for some time, and there are strong indications of a steady growth in the demand. The increased construction reported during the past few weeks is reflecting itself in the nail market, and although there is still keen competition among jobbers the situation is better than it has been. Several of the local jobbers recently reduced their prices on cut nails 15c. per keg, and current New York quotations are $3.90 base per keg.

Cast Iron Pipe—The demand for this commodity has been unusually good during the past week or so, and both municipal and private buying has increased considerably. The prospects for a continuation of the demand are excellent and manufacturers are very optimistic regarding the outlook for the coming months. Several important municipal projects have lately been announced and some interesting work is now out for estimates. Prices are firm at their new levels and no softening is anticipated for the present. New York quotations are as follows: 6 in. and larger, $48.50 per net ton; 4 in. and 5 in., $53.80, and 3 in., $63.80, with Class A and gas pipe $4 extra per ton.

Window Glass—At present the demand for window glass is confined to relatively small-lot orders, but the outlook for the coming season is excellent because of the large amount of new construction scheduled for the local territory. Glass prices are quite firm.

Gentlemen:

Attention Mr. C. M. Watson, Pres.
In response to your favor of November 23, we write to say that the elevator which you installed in our building has given us satisfaction. This elevator is under hard usage and the amount of repairs have been comparatively small to date. We would have no hesitancy in recommending this elevator for similar work.

Yours truly,

U. T. HUNGERFORD BRASS

EMPIRE Extensible Steel Partitions

are adjustable to any ceiling height. Entire floors can be dismantled and re-erected over night, at less than 25% of the cost of the ordinary partitions.

Finished in Baked Enamel, Oak, Mahogany, Circassian and American Walnut, etc.

"COST COMPARES FAVORABLY WITH WOOD"

See Our Details in Sweet's Catalogue

In that giant among giants—the Equitable Building—what partition to use was a serious question.

You can imagine that with the stream of tenants moving and changing continually the cost of building new partitions might easily be tremendous.

There was not only the cost of the material destroyed if plaster partitions were used, but the dust annoyance to the tenants had to be thought of.

Every type of partition material was considered and rejected for one reason or another.

Finally Empire Steel Partitions was decided upon because of the "ease and economy" with which it can be moved whenever tenants require alterations.

"The partitions embodying the EMPIRE STEEL construction give us a flexible partition which can be used on nearly every floor, and which can be moved at low cost, without expensive waste or damage.

An Interesting Experiment

Governor Miller has completed the task of passing upon the hundreds of measures left in his hands when the Legislature of 1922 adjourned on March 17th. The financial bills were acted upon by the Governor early in the thirty-day period, with results which, as already noted in these columns, have brought a large measure of satisfaction to taxpayers generally.

Among the bills left for final action by the Governor were the important measures proposed by the Lockwood Committee. Governor Miller, after public hearings and careful deliberation, ultimately decided to sign all of these bills and they are now law. Under their provisions the continued existence of a housing emergency is declared officially, and all interested in real estate and building must make their plans on that basis, whether they are convinced that an emergency still exists or whether they believe, as does the Real Estate Board of New York, that the emergency has passed.

Governor Miller furnished a surprise when he decided to sign the Lockwood bill permitting life insurance companies to invest ten per cent. of their assets in housing construction under certain stated conditions. The Governor's earlier attitude had indicated grave doubt on his part as to the wisdom of this measure—a doubt which many others shared with him. In deciding ultimately to approve this measure, the Governor took the view that it was a temporary expedient and that it could be justified only on the ground that it might relieve an emergency. The Governor expressed his serious doubt as to the wisdom of allowing insurance companies to make investments involving speculative risks, but concluded that "considering the limited time during which such investments are permitted, the direct pecuniary interest of insurance companies in proper housing, the willingness of at least one company to invest under what appear to be adequate safeguards, my doubts have yielded to the belief that there is little danger of any harm from this measure and much hope of real relief."

Officials of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, the only one of the great New York life insurance companies which has evinced a favorable interest in this measure, immediately applied themselves to a serious consideration of the authority which the new law confers. They promptly called in an architect of high standing and wide experience, Mr. A. J. Thomas, and propose to spend about $6,000,000 for the construction of modern, low-priced apartments if they find it possible under the provisions of the new law. The most vital restriction is that the new apartments must rent for $9 per room, or less, per month. If the Metropolitan Company reaches the conclusion that this can be done, it will proceed with the erection of fifty modern apartments to accommodate a total of 1,800 families and have them ready for occupancy by next fall.

Serious doubts have existed in the minds of many who stand high in the local building industry as to the possibility, under prevailing conditions, of constructing dwellings of the character proposed that can be rented at that price and still permit a reasonable return on the investment. On the other hand, there are those, also recognized as experts in real estate and construction, who feel confident it can be accomplished and that the Metropolitan's initial project will result in the building of additional units which in a relatively short time will solve the housing problem in the metropolis.

Prominent architects, contractors and real estate experts have expressed their doubts that these structures can be made to pay if constructed according to the provisions of the new law. Even well-known speculative builders, who are trained in all the short cuts in construction and who are notably sharp buyers when it comes to placing material orders or awarding sub-contracts, have been skeptical regarding the success of this undertaking.

The project which the Metropolitan officials have under consideration is being followed with very great interest. At best it is an experiment, but an experiment which is bound to lead to definite results if carried out. It will demonstrate the possibility, or else the impossibility, of making available within a few months a large number of low-priced apartments, the lack of which is admitted on all sides to be the vital point of whatever housing shortage still exists in New York City. Should this first large project of the Metropolitan Company be carried out and its financial success be proven, an end of the shortage in housing will be assured. And even if the plan should prove unsuccessful from a financial standpoint, thereby necessitating higher rents than $9 per room, those who are fathering this altruistic plan and giving it a fair trial will be entitled to the hearty commendation of a vast army of rent-payers for the effort to bring about a return to normal economic and living conditions.

A Year of Splendid Achievement

Three specific and far-reaching results have been accomplished by the New York Building Congress during its first year of existence which warrant predicting for it a steady growth in power and a constantly widening sphere of influence upon the building industry at large. The Congress has first of all brought about an industry consciousness in place of the craft consciousness which heretofore prevailed. The former was responsible to a large degree for many of the ills of the construction industry because of the selfish attitude on the part of the component elements in matters of paramount interest to all.

The Code of Ethics for the Building Industry which was formulated and subsequently adopted by the Congress is now generally recognized as one of the most important and significant pieces of trade literature ever published. Although it has not revolutionized trade practices—this was not its purpose—its influence has been excellent and will constantly expand. This Code, which was widely distributed to the allied building interests in this territory, was sent also to numerous communities throughout the United States for their guidance. It has already been adopted in its entirety by newly organized congress groups in various parts of the country, and it is being utilized as the basis for similar documents in preparation by local building exchanges and by several national organizations which are planning their operations along lines that have proved so beneficial to local building and construction interests.

Undoubtedly the most important of the achievements of the New York Building Congress during its first year has been the preparation of the ground work for the establishment of a real apprenticeship system for the local building trades. The plans for this work are now practically matured. They have been officially endorsed by the Building Trades Employers' Association and the Building Trades' Council. Both of these bodies have not only sanctioned the idea but have put themselves on record as willing to actively co-operate in making the plans a complete success. Not only will they give their moral support to the movement but they also will bear their proportionate share of the expense involved in establishing the system for training needed apprentices in building-trade craftsmanship, as well as in citizenship.

Mr. Kelsey Expects No Immediate Change in Mortgage Loan Rates

CLARENCE H. KELSEY, president of the Title Guarantee & Trust Company, replying to inquiries as to the probable rate for mortgage money during the year, said:

"The question of the tendency of the rate of interest on mortgage loans is exciting a good deal of interest. People are inquiring whether the rate of interest is not going down, and particularly how soon it is going down. The rate has been broken to 5½ per cent. in one or two cases lately and that has aroused the expectation that there will be a general reduction in rates. I believe it is too soon to expect any such change. Undoubtedly the rate will recede in time, but general business has got to be much better, and corporate borrowings have got to be on a lower basis than at present before mortgage rates are generally likely to fall below 6 per cent.

The reports submitted at the first annual meeting of the Congress on Tuesday afternoon proved conclusively the lively interest of many of the recognized leaders in the local building industry, not a few of whom are men of national prominence as well. The record of the accomplishments of the first year is surely significant of the larger things to be achieved as this organization gains in numerical strength and power.

"The change will come about gradually and we are likely to see a slowly increasing number of choice mortgages negotiated on a 5½ per cent. basis, but the average borrower is likely to have to be contented with a 6 per cent. rate, at any rate for loans secured during 1922."

Proposed Solution of Elevated Extension in Astoria

JUSTICE GEORGE McANENY, chairman of the Transit Commission, has made a suggestion to the members of the Transit Committee of the Queensboro Chamber of Commerce which may prove to be the solution of the perplexing problem of how to extend the operation of B. R. T. trains over the Astoria and Corona elevated extensions in Queens.

The proposed plan, which will be thoroughly studied not only by the Engineering and Legal Departments of the Transit Commission but by the Transit Committee of the Queensboro Chamber of Commerce before any decision is reached, contemplates having the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company purchase a sufficient number of steel subway cars, similar in size to those operated by the Interborough, for operation to and from 57th Street Station in Manhattan and the terminal of the Astoria and Corona extensions in Queens. At the 57th Street Station, passengers could then transfer conveniently to either the express or local B. R. T. trains by simply stepping across the platform, just as passengers do today in changing from express to local trains at express stations.

In other words, all B. R. T. express and local trains, made up of the ten foot wide cars, could operate as at present northward in Manhattan to 57th Street, but not beyond that point. Passengers desiring to go to Queens, would step across the platform and take a train made up of cars of less width which could operate not only from that point eastward through Manhattan, and through the 60th Street Tunnel under the East River, into the Bridge Plaza Station, Long Island City, but continue direct to Astoria and Corona without any further changes. This would be possible because the narrower B. R. T. cars could operate over the existing tracks and through the existing stations without any alterations to either being required.

Passengers from the stations in Queens on either the Astoria or Corona extensions could take the B. R. T. trains, made up of narrower cars, direct to 57th street, Manhattan, without change, where, by stepping across a platform, they could change conveniently to either the local or express trains made up of ten foot wide cars southward.

This suggestion was made at a conference with Chairman McAneny at which were present Robert Ridgway, chief engineer of the Transit Commission; Alfred M. Barrett, former chairman of the Public Service Commission, and now vice-chairman of the Transit Committee of the Queensboro Chamber of Commerce; Edward A. McDougall, president, and F. Ray Howe, vice-president of the Queensboro Corporation; Stuard Hirschman; and Walter I. Willis, secretary of the Queensboro Chamber of Commerce.

Fire officials are reporting an increasing number of electrical fires because people are overloading their electrical circuits. Attachment of electrical iron, electric washing machine, electric dishwashers, waffle irons, stoves, heaters and other devices has proceeded to the point where some householders have placed 25-ampere fuses in locations where only 6-ampere fuses should be provided. The general attitude seems to be "Do it yourself," instead of calling a trouble man. In some homes the use of any fuses at all has even been discontinued, in order to prevent the annoyance of having them blow. In New York City in 1921 there were 52 fires due to overheated electric irons in contact with flammable material. These fires involved a loss of $216,974.71.

According to the Bureau of Labor Statistics, there were 635,638 men employed in the lumber industry in the United States in 1918, among whom there were 953 fatal accidents. The prevalent death rate in the lumber industry was 15 per 10,000 workers; in the coal industry it is 33.8, and in the agricultural industry, 3.5 per 10,000 employed.

Governor Miller Completes Action on 1922 Legislation

Gives Reasons for Approving Various Important Measures and Reviews Accomplishments of His Administration Last Year and This

(Special to THE RECORD AND GUIDE)

Albany, April 20.

CONTRARY to expectations, Governor Miller signed the bill permitting life insurance companies to engage in real estate construction—the so-called $100,000,000 Metropolitan Life Insurance Company measure. At the same time he signed all the other bills emanating from the Lockwood Housing Committee that passed the Legislature. The Governor also signed the proposal to license real estate brokers and salesmen. An amendment to the New York City municipal court code, providing for the return of jury fees in certain cases, was sent back to the Governor, vetoed by Mayor Hylan.

The Governor gave his approval to the life insurance company real estate proposition with some reluctance, a memorandum filed with the bill disclosed.

"I have seriously doubted the wisdom of allowing insurance companies to make investments involving so great possibility of speculative risks," the Governor said. "But considering the limited time during which such investments are permitted, the direct pecuniary interest of insurance companies in proper housing, the willingness of at least one company to invest under what appear to be adequate safeguards, my doubts have yielded to the belief that there is little danger of any harm from this measure and much hope of real relief."

Further explaining his reasons for approving the bill, the Governor said:

"This is a temporary measure to relieve an emergency and can be justified only as such. The duration of the powers granted is limited to March 1, 1924, the date to which the rent laws have been extended, or to the duration of the present housing emergency, which must be construed to mean until March 1, 1924, unless the legislature shall further extend the emergency laws.

"At least one company proposes to take advantage of the act and has already prepared plans which it is prepared to put into immediate execution. It proposes to erect sanitary, well ventilated tenements to rent for $9.00 per month per room or less. Its estimates, based on actual market conditions and labor costs, without taking into account possible concessions, indicate that at a less rental than that prescribed by the act the investment will yield a 6 per cent. return after allowing for depreciation and a sufficient amortization during the tax exempt period to more than offset any possible decline in prices.

"Proper housing so vitally affects the health of the community as to be a matter of pecuniary interest to insurance companies.

"It seems to be established that there is now practically no building of low-priced tenements. This measure at least offers some immediate relief in the field where the need is greatest. I doubt that it will have the effect of deterring others from building as some seem to fear. Certainly it will not stop what is not now being done. It may furnish an object lesson."

The real estate brokers license bill was approved by the Governor without comment, which was something of a surprise in view of the questions he asked advocates of the bill at a hearing. Failure to incorporate a provision for an appropriation to administer the new statute raised a question in the executive's mind, but it seems that he was later informed by the State Tax Department that sufficient funds would be available to organize and conduct the bureau which will issue the licenses until the next Legislature is able to appropriate the necessary money. This bill became Chapter 672 of the Laws of 1922.

Chapters 663 and 664 effect the extension of the so-called rent laws.

Chapter 660 carries into effect the rate making associations and rate regulation bill.

Chapter 661 enables New York City to act in cases where a principal contractor on public works defaults on the job.

Chapter 281, signed earlier in the year, extends the time for commencement of construction for the purpose of securing exemption from local taxation.

Chapter 659 enlarges the field of operations of mutual life, health and casualty insurance corporations.

The so-called Metropolitan Life Insurance Company bill became Chapter 658.

"There have been already too many exemptions from taxation, and we should reduce these instead of increasing them," the Governor remarked in vetoing the Walton bill, drafted to exempt from taxation headquarters of bar associations maintaining a library.

Bills designed to create new pension and retirement schemes, several of them affecting New York City, and others attempting to supplant the State systems now in operation, were rejected by the Governor on the ground that they would tend to confusion and would prove unsound.

"Retirement and pension acts designed to fit particular cases or to reopen, establish or continue special systems regardless of their actuarial soundness are pernicious in their effect upon the entire pension system and demoralizing to the civil service, and so long as they are enacted it will be impossible to establish the pension or retirement systems of the State or the municipalities on a sound basis. An effort is now being made and a commission is about to be appointed to establish order in such system. These bills are disapproved because they have the opposite effect."

Summarizing his efforts and accomplishments, particularly in the direction of reducing the operating costs of government and reducing the tax on real estate, Governor Miller said:

"To be rightly appraised the work of the last two sessions of the Legislature must be considered in its entirety and compared with that of prior years. The first business was to stop the alarming increase in the cost of government.

"In 1910 the appropriations were..... $42,975,450

"In 1918 they had grown to..... $81,525,271

"In 1920 they jumped to..... $145,219,906

"The unchecked habit of spending acquired such momentum that the Legislature of 1921 was confronted with budget requests including the supplemental ones of more than two hundred and six millions of dollars. By a rigid adherence to stated rules the Legislature made a reduction of more than seventy millions of dollars from the requests and a net reduction from the appropriations of 1920 of nine and a half millions, although it had to appropriate ten million dollars for deficiencies.

"By adherence to the same policy the Legislature of 1922 made a still further net reduction of two and a half millions and provided for extraordinary and unusual requirements of roughly ten millions.

"Thus in two successive years the Legislature has reduced the cost of government while making ample provision for all legitimate needs, including necessary and fixed increases amounting to more than four and a half million dollars a year.

"That notable achievement is emphasized by the fact that in both years I have signed the appropriation bills exactly as they came to me.

"The next task was to establish order, efficiency and economy in the public administration by the adoption of measures which would give some permanence to the application of sound methods in the conduct of the public business.

"We were told that that could not be done without a complete reorganization of the state government by constitutional amendment. However, that task has been accomplished in equally signal fashion. Useless activities have been eliminated and needed departmental reorganizations have been effected or provided for. Similar attempts in the past failed, notably the attempt to consolidate the tax assessing and collecting agencies.

"Temporary expedients have been adopted and unsuccessful attempts made in the past to secure better budgetary control but all the time the cost of government kept mounting higher. Provision has now been made for a permanent budget organization under the Board of Estimate and Control.

"Many attempts have been made in the past to eliminate useless printing. The printing laws have now been revised so as to secure real competition under proper classification and specifications. Already unnecessary printing, including the publication of the session laws, has been eliminated to the amount of $650,000 annually. Contracts for public

New Provisions of Rent Laws Signed by Governor Miller

Executive Approval Given to Lockwood Committee's Bills Which Passed Legislature, Except One Measure Vetoed by Mayor Hylan

ALL of the measures proposed by the Joint Legislative Committee, of which Senator Charles C. Lockwood is chairman, which were passed by both houses of the Legislature, have now become law, having been signed by Governor Miller, except one bill vetoed by Mayor Hylan providing for the return of jury fees in certain cases. A considerable portion of the committee's original program for legislative action was sidetracked before it reached a vote in the Legislature, but the most important proposals are now in force and will undoubtedly have great influence on business in the real estate and building fields during the next two or three years. In order that its readers may be thoroughly informed as to the provisions of the new legislation THE RECORD AND GUIDE presents the following summary of the enactments, printing the bills in full when their importance demands it. First in its bearing on the general situation is the act extending the emergency rent laws, the full text of which follows:

CHAPTER 663, LAWS OF 1922.

AN ACT extending the time of application of certain acts of the years nine hundred and twenty and nineteen hundred and twenty-one, relating to defenses in actions based upon unjust, unreasonable and oppressive agreements for rent of premises occupied for dwelling purposes in certain cities, and to summary proceedings to recover the possession of real property in certain cities.

The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

Section 1. The public emergency, which existed at the time of the enactment of the statutes below enumerated, having continued, in the judgment of the legislature, to the present time and still existing, chapter one hundred and thirty-six of the laws of nineteen hundred and twenty, entitled "An act in relation to defenses in actions based upon unjust, unreasonable and oppressive agreements for rent of premises occupied for dwelling purposes in cities of the first class or in cities in a county adjoining a city of the first class," as amended by chapter nine hundred and forty-four of the laws of nineteen hundred and twenty and chapter four hundred and thirty-four of the laws of nineteen hundred and twenty-one; chapter one hundred and thirty-seven of the laws of nineteen hundred and twenty, entitled "An act in relation to summary proceedings to recover the possession of real property in cities of the first class or in cities in a county adjoining a city of the first class during the existing emergency," as amended by chapter nine hundred and forty-eight of the laws of nineteen hundred and twenty; section ten hundred and eleven-a of the civil practice act, as added by chapter one hundred and ninety-nine of the laws of nineteen hundred and twenty-one and amended by chapter three hundred and sixty-seven of the laws of nineteen hundred and twenty-one; subdivision one-a of section fourteen hundred and ten of the civil practice act, such section having been added by chapter one hundred and ninety-nine of the laws of nineteen hundred and twenty-one and subdivision two-a of section fourteen hundred and ten of the civil practice act, such section having been added by chapter one hundred and ninety-nine of the laws of nineteen hundred and twenty-one and such subdivision having been amended by chapter three hundred and seventy-one of the laws of nineteen hundred and twenty-one shall, notwithstanding any provisions in any such chapters, sections or subdivisions, remain and be in full force and effect until the fifteenth day of February, nineteen hundred and twenty-four.

Sec. 2. This act shall take effect immediately.

The amendment to the tax law extending the time for the commencement of construction for the purpose of securing exemption from local taxation of buildings planned for dwelling purposes, was the first measure to receive executive approval as the "emergency" measure expired by limitation on April 1, and the amendment was pushed through the Legislature so that the Board of Estimate could pass the necessary ordinance before the expiration of the old enactment. In the amendment now in force, which provides exemption from taxation of buildings completed since April 1, 1920, or if not so completed, that construction be commenced before April 1, 1923, and completed for occupancy within two years after such commencement, is the following new provision:

CHAPTER 281, LAWS OF 1922.

* Or if in course of construction on September twenty-seventh, nineteen hundred and twenty, within two years thereafter. The provisions of this section shall not be construed to preclude such legislative bodies from granting exemptions which do not exceed the exemption authorized by this section. Any such limited exemption heretofore granted by any such legislative body, intending or purporting to act under the authority conferred by this section, is hereby legalized, validated and confirmed. For the purposes of this section, construction shall be deemed commenced when the plans have been filed with the proper authority and excavation actually and in good faith begun. The owner or architect may file with the authority with whom the plans are filed a statement in writing setting forth the date of filing plans and the date when excavation was actually commenced; and said authority shall forthwith cause said facts to be investigated. If said statement on such investigation is found to be true, said authority shall thereupon issue to such owner or architect a certificate setting forth the date when the plans were filed with him, and the date when excavation was actually commenced, which certificate shall be conclusive evidence of the date when construction was commenced, for the purpose of obtaining the benefits of this section.

Sec. 2. This act shall take effect immediately.

Providing that the assessed value of realty shall determine the fair and reasonable rental value is the feature of the measure clarifying the rent laws, the full text of which follows:

Explanation—Matter in italics is new; matter in brackets [] is old law to be omitted.

CHAPTER 664, LAWS OF 1922.

AN ACT to amend chapter one hundred and thirty-six of the laws of nineteen hundred and twenty, entitled "An act in relation to defenses in actions based upon unjust, unreasonable and oppressive agreements for rent of premises occupied for dwelling purposes in cities of the first class or in cities in a county adjoining a city of the first class," generally.

The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

Section 1. Section one of chapter one hundred and thirty-six of the laws of nineteen hundred and twenty, entitled "An act in relation to defenses in actions based upon unjust, unreasonable and oppressive agreements for rent of premises occupied for dwelling purposes in cities of the first class or in cities in a county adjoining a city of the first class," as last amended by chapter four hundred and thirty-four of the laws of nineteen hundred and twenty-one, is hereby amended to read as follows:

Sec. 1. Unjust, unreasonable and oppressive agreements for the payment of rent having been and being now exacted by landlords from tenants under stress of prevailing conditions whereby the freedom of contract has been impaired and congested housing conditions resulting therefrom have seriously affected and endangered the public welfare, health and morals in certain cities of the state, and a public emergency existing in the judgment of the legislature by reason thereof, it shall be a defence to an action for rent accruing under an agreement for premises in a city of the first class or in a city in a county adjoining a city of the first class occupied for dwelling purposes that such rent is unjust and unreasonable and that the agreement under which the same is sought to be recovered is oppressive.

[But such defense shall not be allowed if it appear that the defendant pursuant to the terms of such agreement has paid after the commencement of the term and after this section as amended takes effect three successive monthly instalments of rent, which accrued under such agreement.]

If it appear that the defendant pursuant to the terms of a written or oral agreement for a term of one year or more has paid after the commencement of the term and after April thirtieth, nineteen hundred and twenty-one, three monthly instalments of rent in successive months, which accrued under such agreement, such defense shall not be allowed; but the defendant may plead such defense in relation to any rent or rental value claimed for a period within three months after the expiration of such term. If it appear that the defendant is a monthly tenant or a tenant from month to month and has paid three equal monthly payments of rent in successive months. Such defense shall not be allowed after this section as amended takes effect against a claim for rent or rental value not exceeding the rate so paid and accruing within nine months after such third payment; but the defendant may plead such defense in relation to rent or rental value claimed for a period within three months after the expiration of such nine months.

Sec. 2. Such act is hereby amended by inserting therein two new sections to be sections one-a and four-a, to read respectively as follows:

Sec. 1-a. In an action mentioned in the preceding section, it shall be necessary for the plaintiff to allege and prove that the amount demanded in the complaint is no greater than the rent or rental value paid by the defendant during the month preceding that which is the basis of the action or, if greater, that at least thirty days' notice of such increase in writing had been given to the defendant before such amount had been so increased.

Sec. 4-a. For the purpose of determining the fair and reasonable rent or rental value, the value of the real property, of which the premises in question are the whole or a part, shall be presumed to be the assessed valuation thereof for the year in which the first instalment of rent or rental value for which the action is brought accrued.

Sec. 3. Sections six, eleven and twelve of such act, as last amended by chapter four hundred and thirty-four of the laws of nineteen hundred and twenty-one, are hereby amended to read, respectively, as follows:

Sec. 6. If in any action for rent or rental value, the issue of fairness and reasonableness of the amount demanded in the complaint be raised by the defendant, he must at the time of answering deposit with the clerk such sum as equals the rent or rental value of the premises in arrears computed at the monthly rate of the rent last paid or reserved as the monthly rent in the agreement under which he obtained possession of the premises. If the defendant fail to make such deposit, the court shall strike out the denial or defense raising such issue. Where the defendant [is obliged to deposit a sum computed at the monthly rate of the rent last paid.] deposits a sum in accordance with the foregoing provisions of this section, which is less than the amount demanded in the complaint, the court, on motion of the plaintiff made ex parte and on affidavit stating the facts, shall order the clerk [shall, on demand by plaintiff.] to pay to the plaintiff the amount so deposited, and thereafter during the pendency of the action the defendant, on demand, shall pay [such monthly rent] a like sum monthly directly to the plaintiff, on the first day of each monthly rental period.

Where the defendant [is obliged to deposit a sum computed at the rate reserved as the monthly rent in the agreement under which he obtained possession] deposits a sum equal to the amount demanded in the complaint the plaintiff on five days' notice to the defendant may apply to the court for an order permitting him to withdraw such deposit or such part thereof as the court may direct pending the final determination of the action and thereafter during the pendency of the action the defendant on demand shall pay [a proportionate amount monthly] an amount to be fixed by the court in said order on the first day of each monthly rental period to the plaintiff and shall deposit with the clerk the difference between such monthly payment and the amount [so reserved in such agreement] theretofore deposited. Money heretofore deposited in court by a defendant in such an action shall be payable to the plaintiff in accordance with the provisions of this section.

No payment need be made by a defendant to a plaintiff unless such plaintiff shall at the time of the demand tender a receipt for the amount

Realty Brokers and Salesmen Must Get Licenses by Oct. 1

Governor Miller Signs Measure Regulating Real Estate Business in Cities of the First Class and in Counties Adjoining Them

IN view of the great importance to every one engaged in the real estate business of the new measure requiring brokers and salesmen to take out licenses, which became law when Governor Miller affixed his signature on April 14 to the bill recently passed by the Legislature, THE RECORD AND GUIDE prints the full text of the new law as follows:

Explanation—Matter in italics is new; matter in brackets [] is old law to be omitted.

CHAPTER 672, LAWS OF 1922.

AN ACT to amend the real property law, in relation to the licensing and regulation of real estate brokers and salesmen in cities and in counties adjoining a city having a population of one million or more. The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

Sec. 1. Chapter fifty-two of the laws of nineteen hundred and nine, entitled "An act relating to real property, constituting chapter fifty of the consolidated laws," is hereby amended by inserting therein a new article, to be article twelve-a thereof, to read as follows:

ARTICLE 12-A.

REAL ESTATE BROKERS AND REAL ESTATE SALESMEN.

Sec. 440. Definitions.

440a. License required for real estate brokers and salesmen.

441. Application for license.

441-a. License and pocket card.

441-b. License fees.

441-c. Revocation and suspension of licenses.

441-d. Notice of hearing on complaints.

441-e. Certiorari to review action of commission.

442. Splitting commissions.

442-a. Salesman's license suspended by revocation of employer's license.

442-b. Compensation of salesmen; restrictions.

442-c. Discharge of salesmen; report.

442-d. Violations by salesmen; brokers' responsibility.

442-e. Actions for commission; license prerequisite.

442-f. Violations.

442-g. Saving clause.

442-h. Non-resident licensees.

442-i. Pocket-card for non-resident.

442-j. Roster of licensees.

442-k. Employees; compensation.

442-l. Effect of invalid provision.

Sec. 440. Definitions. Whenever used in this article "real estate broker" means any person, firm or corporation, who, for another and for a fee, commission or other valuable consideration, sells, exchanges, buys or rents, or offers or attempts to negotiate a sale, exchange, purchase or rental of an estate or interest in real estate, or collects or offers or attempts to collect rent for the use of real estate, or negotiates, or offers or attempts to negotiate, a loan secured or to be secured by a mortgage or other incumbrance upon or transfer of real estate.

"Real estate salesman" means a person employed by a licensed real estate broker to sell or offer for sale, to buy or offer to buy or to negotiate the purchase or sale or exchange of real estate, or to negotiate a loan on real estate, or to lease or rent or offer to lease, rent or place for rent any real estate, for or in behalf of such real estate broker.

Sec. 440-a. License required for real estate brokers and salesmen. On and after the first day of October, nineteen hundred and twenty-two, no person, copartnership or corporation shall engage in or follow the business or occupation of, or hold himself or itself out or act temporarily or otherwise as a real estate broker or real estate salesman in a city or in a county adjoining a city having a population of one million or more, without first procuring a license therefor as provided in this article.

Sec. 441. Application for license. 1. Form. Any person, copartnership or corporation desiring to act as a real estate broker or any person desiring to act as a real estate salesman in a city or in a county adjoining a city having a population of one million or more on or after the first day of October, nineteen hundred and twenty-two, shall file with the state tax commission an application for a license in such form and detail as the state tax commission shall prescribe, setting forth the following:

(a) The kind of license desired.

(b) The name and residence address of the applicant.

If the applicant be a copartnership the name and residence address of each member thereof; or, if the applicant be a corporation, the name and residence address of each of its officers.

(c) The place or places, including the city, town or village where the business is to be conducted, with the street and number, and the manner in which such place of business is designated.

(d) The business or occupation theretofore engaged in by the applicant, or, if a copartnership, by each member thereof, or, if a corporation, by each officer thereof, for a period of two years, immediately preceding the date of such application, setting forth the place or places where such business or occupation was engaged in.

(e) Such further information as the state tax commission may reasonably require to enable it to determine the trustworthiness of the applicant, including each member of the copartnership or each officer of the corporation, and his or their competency to transact the business of real estate broker or salesman in such a manner as to safeguard the interests of the public.

(f) Every application for a real estate salesman's license shall also set forth the period of time in which he has been engaged in the real estate business, stating the name and address of the real estate broker then employing him or in whose employ he is to enter. Each application for a license under this article shall be verified by the applicant; if made by a copartnership it shall be verified by a member thereof, or if made by a corporation by an officer thereof. An application for a license shall be accompanied by the appropriate license fee, as hereinafter prescribed in this article.

2. Renewals. Any license granted under the provisions hereof may be renewed by the commission upon application therefor by the holder thereof, in such form as the commission may prescribe, and payment of the annual fee for such license. In case of application for renewal of license, the commission may dispense with the requirement of such statements as it deems unnecessary in view of those contained in the original application for license.

Sec. 441-a. License and pocket card. The state tax commission, if satisfied of the competency and trustworthiness of the applicant, shall issue to him or it a license in such form as the commission shall prescribe, but which must set forth the name and principal business address of the licensee, and, in the case of a real estate salesman, the name and business address of the broker by whom the salesman is employed. Each license shall have imprinted or impressed thereon the seal of the state tax commission. The license of a real estate salesman shall be sent by the commission to the real estate broker by whom such salesman is employed and shall be kept in the custody and control of such broker. In case a salesman shall voluntarily leave the service of a real estate broker the salesman's license shall be returned forthwith by the broker to the commission, who shall reissue the same, without fee, upon written notification that the salesman has entered the employ of another licensed real estate broker.

2. Terms. A license issued or reissued under the provisions of this article shall entitle the person, copartnership or corporation to act as a real estate broker, or, if the application is for a real estate salesman's license, to act as a real estate salesman in this state, up to and including the thirtieth day of September following the date of the issuing of the license.

3. Place of business. Except as otherwise provided in this article, each licensed real estate broker shall have and maintain a definite place of business within this state. Where the applicant for a real estate broker's license maintains more than one place of business, the broker shall apply for and procure a supplemental license for each branch office so maintained; such supplemental license shall be issued without additional license fee.

4. Display of license. The license of a real estate broker shall be conspicuously displayed in his principal place of business at all times. Licenses issued for branch offices shall be conspicuously displayed therein.

5. Change of address. Notice in writing shall be given the state tax commission by a licensee of any change of his or its principal business address, whereupon the commission shall issue a new license for the unexpired license term, without charge. A change of principal business address by a licensee without such notification and reissue of license shall operate to cancel the license theretofore issued to him or it.

6. Pocket card. The state tax commission shall prepare and issue to each licensee a pocket card of such size and design as the commission may prescribe, but which shall contain the name and business address of the licensee, and, in the case of a real estate salesman, the name and business address of his employer, and shall certify that the person whose name appears thereon is a licensed real estate broker or real estate salesman, as may be. Each such pocket card shall bear the imprint or impress of the seal of the state tax commission.

Sec. 441-b. License fee. 1. Generally. In cities of the first class the annual license fee for a real estate broker shall be twenty-five dollars and for a real estate salesman five dollars. In cities of the second class, the annual license fee for a real estate broker shall be fifteen dollars and for a real estate salesman three dollars. In all other places in which this article is applicable, the annual license fee for a real estate broker shall be ten dollars and for a real estate salesman two dollars.

2. Corporations and copartnerships. If the licensee be a corporation, the license issued to it shall entitle the president thereof, or such other officer as shall be designated by such corporation, to act as a real estate broker. For each other officer who shall desire to act as a real estate broker in behalf of such corporation an additional license shall be applied for and issued, as hereinbefore provided, the annual fee for which shall be but one-half the annual fee required by this section for the original license to the corporation. If the licensee be a copartnership the license issued to it shall entitle one member thereof to act as a real estate broker, and for each other member of the firm who desires to act as a real estate broker an additional license shall be applied for and issued, as hereinbefore provided, the annual fee for which shall be but one-half the annual fee required by this section for the original license to the copartnership.

3. Commutation of fee. Where an application for a license is made after the first day of April in any year, subsequent to the year nineteen hundred and twenty-two the fee for the license for the remainder of the license year shall in any case be but one-half of the yearly license fee prescribed in this section for such license.

4. Disposition of fees. The state tax commission shall on the first day of each month make a verified return to the state treasurer of all license fees received by it under this article during the preceding calendar month, stating from what city or county received and by whom and when paid. The commission shall on or before the tenth day of each month pay to the state treasurer fifty per centum of all moneys to his credit on account of brokerage license fees, at the close of business on the last day of the preceding month and from the money so deposited shall pay to the treasurer of each county fifty per centum of such fees collected from the residents of such county. In the city of New York such payment shall be made through the chamberlain of such city on account of all counties included therein and shall be paid into the treasury of such city to the credit of the general fund. The county treasurer of each county, except the counties in the city of New York, shall pay to the city treasurer of each city in such county fifty per centum of the fees collected from the residents of any such city and the balance shall be paid into the general fund to be used for general county purposes.

Sec. 441-c. Revocation and suspension of licenses. 1. Powers of commission. The state tax commission may revoke the license of a real estate broker or salesman or suspend the same, for such period as the commission may deem proper, upon conviction of the licensee of a violation of any provision of this article, or for a material misstatement in the application for such license, or if such licensee has been guilty of fraud or fraudulent practices, or has demonstrated untrustworthiness or incompetency to act as a real estate broker or salesman, as the case may be.

5. Determination of commission. In the event that the state tax commission shall revoke or suspend any such license, its determination shall be in writing and officially signed. The original of such determination, when so signed, shall be filed in the office of the commission and copies thereof shall be mailed to the broker or salesman and addressed to the principal place of business of such broker or salesman, and to the complainant, within two days after the filing thereof as herein prescribed.

Sec. 441-d. Notice of hearing on complaints. The state tax commission shall, before denying an application for license or before suspending or revoking any license and at least ten days prior to the date set for the hearing, notify in writing the applicant for, or the holder of such license of any charges made and shall afford said applicant, or licensee an opportunity to be heard in person or by counsel in reference thereto. Such written notice may be served by delivery of same personally to the applicant, or licensee, or by mailing same by registered mail to the last known business address of such applicant, or licensee. If said applicant, or licensee be a salesman, the commission shall also notify the broker employing him, or in whose employ he is about to enter, of the charges by mailing notice by registered mail to the broker's last known business address. The hearing on such charges shall be at such time and place as the commission shall prescribe. The commission shall have the power to subpoena and bring before it any person in this state, or take testimony of any such person by deposition with the same fees and mileage in the same manner as prescribed by law in judicial procedure in courts of this state in civil cases.

Sec. 441-e. Certiorari to review action of commission. The action of the state tax commission in granting or refusing to grant or to renew a license under this article or in revoking or suspending or refusing to revoke or suspend such a license shall be subject to review by writ of certiorari at the instance of the applicant for such license, the holder of a license so revoked or suspended or the person aggrieved. If the commission shall revoke or shall refuse to renew a license issued under this article and the holder of such license shall apply for a writ of certiorari to review such action, the license of the broker or salesman shall be deemed to be in full force and effect for all purposes, including the right to renewal, until the final determination of such certiorari proceedings and all appeals therefrom, provided the fee for such license shall be paid.

Sec. 442. Splitting commissions. No real estate broker shall pay any part of a fee, commission or other compensation received by the broker to any person for any service, help or aid rendered, in any place in which this article is applicable, by such person to the broker in buying, selling, exchanging, leasing, renting or negotiating a loan upon any real estate, unless such a person be a duly licensed real estate salesman regularly employed by such broker or a duly licensed real estate broker or a person regularly engaged in the real estate brokerage business in a state outside of New York.

Sec. 442-a. Salesman's license suspended by revocation of employer's license. The revocation of a broker's license shall operate to suspend every real estate salesman's license granted to any person by reason of his employment by such broker, pending a change of employer and the issuing of a new license to the salesman, which shall be issued without charge if granted during the same license year in which the original license was issued.

Sec. 442-b. Compensation of salesmen; restrictions. No real estate salesman in any place in which this article is applicable shall receive or demand compensation of any kind from any person, other than a duly licensed real estate broker regularly employing the salesman, for any service rendered or work done by such salesman in the appraising, buying, selling, exchanging, leasing, renting or negotiating of a loan upon any real estate.

Sec. 442-c. Discharge of salesmen; report. When any real estate salesman in any place in which this article is applicable shall have been discharged by a real estate broker, the broker shall forthwith return the license of the salesman to the state tax commission with a sworn statement, signed by such broker, setting forth the true cause of the salesman's discharge. The broker shall also, at the time of returning the salesman's license, mail to the salesman, at his last known place of residence, a communication notifying the salesman that his license has been returned to the commission as herein prescribed, and a copy of such communication shall be annexed to the salesman's license when the same shall be returned to the commission by the broker as required by this section. No real estate salesman shall perform any act within any of the prohibitions of this article from and after the return, for any cause, of such salesman's license to the commission by a real estate broker until a new license shall have been issued to him.

Sec. 442-d. Violations by salesmen; brokers' responsibility. No violation of a provision of this article by a real estate salesman or other employee of a real estate broker shall be deemed to be cause for the revocation or suspension of the license of the broker, unless it shall appear that the broker had actual knowledge of such violations.

Sec. 442-e. Actions for commissions; license prerequisite. No person, copartnership or corporation shall bring or maintain an action in any court of this state for the recovery of compensation for services rendered, in any place in which this article is applicable, in the buying, selling, exchanging, leasing, renting or negotiating a loan upon any real estate without alleging and providing that such person was a duly licensed real estate broker or real estate salesman on the date when the alleged cause of action arose.

Sec. 442-f. Violations. Any person who violates any provision of this article shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. In case the offender shall have received any sum of money as commission, compensation or profit by or in consequence of his violation of any provision of this article, he shall also be liable to a penalty of not less than the amount of the sum of money received by him as such commission, compensation or profit and not more than four times the sum so received by him, as may be determined by the court, which penalty may be sued for and recovered, by any person aggrieved and for his use and benefit, in any court of competent jurisdiction. It shall be the duty of the court or judge, upon a conviction for a violation of any provision of this article, and within ten days thereafter, to make and file with the state tax commission a detailed report showing the date of such conviction, the name of the person convicted and the exact nature of the charge.

Sec. 442-g. Saving clause. The provisions of this article shall not apply to receivers, referees, administrators, executors, guardians or other persons appointed by or acting under the judgment or order of any court; or public officers while performing their official duties, or attorneys at law.

Sec. 442-h. Nonresident licensee. A nonresident of this state may become a real estate broker or a real estate salesman, in any place in which the provisions of this article are applicable, by conforming to all of the provisions of this article, except that such nonresident broker or salesman regularly engaged in the real estate business as a vocation, and who maintains a definite place of business in some other state, shall not be required to maintain a place of business within this state. The state tax commission shall recognize, in lieu of the recommendation and statements required to accompany an application for license, the license issued to a nonresident broker or salesman by another state and shall issue a license to such nonresident broker or salesman upon payment of the license fee and the filing by the applicant with the commission of a certified copy of the applicant's license issued by such other state. Every nonresident applicant shall file an irrevocable consent that suits and actions may be commenced against such applicant in the proper court of any county of the state in which a cause of action may arise in which the plaintiff may reside, by the service of any process or pleading authorized by the laws of this state, on the state tax commission or a deputy to be designated by it, said consent stipulating and agreeing that such service of such process or pleading shall be taken and held in all courts to be as valid and binding as if due service had been made upon said applicant in the state of New York. Said consent shall be duly acknowledged, and, if made by a corporation, shall be authenticated by the seal of such corporation. In case any process or pleadings mentioned in this act are served upon the state tax commission or upon a deputy to be designated by it, it shall be by duplicate copies, one of which shall be filed in the office of the commission and the other immediately forwarded by registered mail to the main office of the applicant against which said process or pleadings are directed, and no default in any such proceeding or action shall be taken except it shall appear by affidavit of a member of the commission, or the deputy designated by it, that a copy of the process or pleading was mailed to the defendant as herein required, and no judgment by default shall be taken in any such action or proceeding within twenty days after the date of mailing of such process or pleading to the nonresident defendant.

Sec. 442-i. Pocket card for nonresident. The state tax commission shall prepare and issue to each nonresident licensee a pocket card in all respects as herein provided for licenses issued to resident brokers and salesmen, except that the pocket card accompanying nonresident licenses shall be of a different color so as to distinguish the same from the cards issued to resident licensees.

Sec. 442-j. Roster of licensees. The state tax commission shall publish, at least once in each year, a roster of the names and addresses of all persons, firms and corporations licensed under the provisions of this article, and shall publish monthly a list of all licenses which have been suspended or revoked during the last preceding calendar month. Such lists shall also contain such other information relative to the enforcement of the provisions of this article as the commission may deem of interest to the public. Copy of each roster or list issued by the commission shall be forwarded to the city clerk of each county in the state within ten days after its publication, and the same shall be held by such city clerk or county clerk, as the case may be, as a public record for a period of at least one year. A copy of any roster or list issued by the commission shall be mailed by it to any person in the state upon request and without charge.

Sec. 442-k. Employees; compensation. The president of the state tax commission may, subject to the civil service law, employ and fix the compensation of such employees as may be necessary for the efficient administration of this article, who shall exercise such of the powers and perform such of the duties conferred upon and imposed upon the state tax commission by this article as he may delegate to such employees.

Sec. 442-l. Effect of invalid provision. Should the courts of this state declare any provision of this article unconstitutional, or unauthorized, or in conflict with any other section or provision of this article, then such decision shall affect only the section or provision so declared to be unconstitutional or unauthorized and shall not affect any other section or part of this article.

Sec. 2. This act shall take effect immediately.

printing should hereafter be let on a strictly business and competitive basis.

"Last year, in spite of opposition, which had blocked action for at least two years, the Legislature, concurrently with the Legislature of New Jersey, created the Port District of New York and the Port Authority. The compact between the two states was approved by the Congress of the United States.

"This year the legislatures of the two states approved the comprehensive plan for port improvement submitted by the Port Authority. For more than fifty years, the development of the Port of New York, involving the creation and co-ordination of suitable terminal facilities, has been neglected. That neglect has imposed a heavy burden upon the commerce of the country and has promoted discriminatory rates against the Port of New York and stimulated efforts to create other outlets to the sea, the latest and most ambitious scheme being the construction of the St. Lawrence ship canal. Meanwhile, the burden of excessive terminal costs has borne heavily upon the increasing population of the port district and upon both consumers and producers throughout the state and the country because New York is a great distributing as well as receiving center. After all the years of delay, this problem is now on the road to solution. The machinery has been created and the agency has been established with the power and, I believe, the ability to solve the problem.

"The transit situation in the city of New York has for years been growing more acute, with no constructive effort being made to solve it. The legislature last year passed, and this year improved, an act which, for the first time, provides for a constructive solution of the problem and creates an agency with the power to solve it. That problem is now being advanced on the road to a solution and every step taken is in the public view."

Mr. Moore Closes Y.M.C.A. Realty Training Lecture Course

Speaking on the Management of Apartment Houses He Emphasizes Necessity for Tact and Hard Work in This Field of Business

MARKING the close of the winter's course of lectures by prominent realtors before the Real Estate Training Class of the West Side Y. M. C. A., L. H. Moore, of Douglas L. Elliman & Co., spoke on Tuesday evening on "The Management of Apartment Houses." He has charge of that branch of his firm's business. William C. Demorest, of the Realty Trust, presided, and introduced the speaker.

"I am indeed pleased," Mr. Moore said in opening, "to be able to talk to so many men who are apparently interested in a business which is near to my heart, particularly as I have spent practically my entire business life in the management of apartment houses. If I were asked to define the qualifications necessary for a man engaged in the management of apartment houses, I believe I could sum up with two important requirements, first, tact, and second, the ability to work hard; for if a man possesses these two fundamental qualities he can, without doubt, attain any goal, not only in the management of apartment houses, but in any field.

"The management of high class apartment and business buildings has long since passed from the haphazard method to the scientific and you will find that the majority of buildings are today placed in the hands of some reputable agent, who is charged with the renting and complete management of the building.

"The majority of real estate agents specialize in certain classes of property and it is fair to assume that they know the field infinitely better than the individual who may operate his own property. First, they have a wide knowledge of values in their particular section, which can be gained only by being in constant touch with the renting market, and they are therefore able to advise their principals intelligently on the subject of proper rentals. Second, they employ experienced brokers who are capable of giving expert advice to prospective tenants, and in the present day of specialization tenants do not prowl around looking for signs, but go direct to the agent covering the location they want, thereby saving themselves a great deal of time and effort. From a tenant's standpoint it is infinitely more comfortable to go over plans and prices sitting at a broker's desk than it is to walk the highways and byways hoping to find an apartment which will meet their requirements and pocketbook, only to find that the rooms are too small, or the price too high, or the hundred and one other things that can be the matter with an apartment.

"Most real estate firms maintain a management department which has complete charge of all buildings placed in the agent's custody, and brokers can obtain immediate information from this source as to whether so and so can be done in such and such a building. This is quite an important point, as in many cases it enables a broker to close a lease on the spot, while otherwise there is a chance of the deal falling through, due to the lack of information being instantly obtainable, and the tenant in the meanwhile finding something else which he thinks will suit him better.

"I do not wish to convey the thought that tenants are rushed into signing leases, but I know of many cases where a tenant has been most enthusiastic on a particular apartment, and while waiting for a decision from the owner on some point he suddenly grows cold and decides not to take the apartment. Upon investigation you will usually find that some other alert broker has shown him something else and your deal is lost.

"The management department is the direct representative of the owners of buildings, and all matters pertaining to these buildings pass through their hands. They are directly responsible for approving of references for proposed tenants, drawing leases, approving the amount to be spent for decorating for new tenants, awarding contracts for work, purchasing all supplies, employing and paying help, billing tenants for rent and sundry charges, collecting, renewing leases, advertising space for rent, listing space for rent with other brokers, paying commissions on leases, paying water charges and taxes and, in many cases, paying interest on mortgages, building up a reserve fund for unforeseen emergency, keeping the buildings under their control properly insured with the various forms of insurance necessary, handling all city departments' orders and violations, attending to tenants' complaints, making inspections of the buildings at regular intervals and, in fact, they attend to all details in connection with the operation of these buildings.

"There are a few important points with regard to the physical operation of high class apartment buildings, which I think it would be well to bring out. First: The matter of coal storage, which is of extreme importance. If possible, the coal bunker should be large enough to hold a season's supply, or at least enough to carry through until the early spring, as this enables you to fill up whenever you find a particularly good run of coal, or an advantageous price, and prevent a possible shut down in case of a strike or tie-up due to traffic conditions.

"Next comes the question of proper laundry facilities, which is of serious moment in view of the present difficulty in securing capable domestic workers. The ideal location is in the pent house on account of the light but if, for any reason, this is not feasible, space in the basement can be made quite satisfactory. If possible, each tenant should have a private laundry, equipped with a dryer, three tubs, laundry stove for boiling clothes and heating irons, and a substantial ironing board.

"You would be surprised to know how few buildings are originally equipped with proper facilities for handling garbage. This may seem to you a small detail, but if you have ever been in the basement of a building where there has been no provision made, you probably realize now the necessity for making one. In practically all high class buildings individual garbage cars are furnished to each tenant, and the garbage is collected at a specified time.

"In the larger buildings it is customary to purchase outright all electric meters for the various apartments and the owners make a contract with the Edison Company for all electricity consumed in the building and retail it to the tenants through these meters. This enables the owner to buy current on practically a wholesale basis and sell it to the tenants at the same rate they would have to pay to the Edison Company. It is advisable to have the meters maintained by a reliable company doing this sort of work for a fixed sum per annum. They read the meters monthly and render to you a statement showing the readings, etc.

"Another departure in the past five or six years has been the elimination, almost entirely, of telephone switchboards in apartment houses, the tenants preferring to have their own private telephones. This is a very much better arrangement from both the tenants' and landlords' standpoint.

"Modern buildings endeavor to furnish to tenants every conceivable convenience, such as porter and vacuum cleaning service at a fixed charge per hour, wood for open fires in small quantities at cost, electric lamps of any size desired at the same price charged by the local supply store and, in some of the larger and more recent buildings, complete housekeeping service at a fixed charge per hour, day, week or month. In many buildings meal service can be obtained at any time, and there are many other special services too numerous to mention.

"Another important feature is the provision of suitable living quarters on the premises for the superintendent of the building. The lack of proper quarters has caused a great deal of annoyance in the past, but I must say that during the past five or six years the majority of buildings have set aside ample space for this purpose. Usually four or five rooms will suffice.

Seventeen-Story Apartment Hotel on Famous Church Site

American Bond & Mortgage Company Underwrites Bond Issue on Project Costing $1,500,000 to Replace Metropolitan Tabernacle at Broadway and 104th Street

WORKING plans are being prepared in the offices of Carrere & Hastings and R. H. Shreve, associated architects, 52 Vanderbilt avenue, for an important building project that will involve an outlay of more than $1,500,000. The operation will be located at the northeast corner of Broadway and 104th street, upon the site of the Metropolitan Tabernacle. The old structure, famous in its day among religious enthusiasts of this city, is now being demolished by wrecking contractors to make way for the construction of a seventeen-story apartment hotel.

The proposed improvement will be of fireproof construction throughout and will embody a number of interesting features in both design and equipment. The building will contain approximately 307 rooms, which will be completely furnished for apartment hotel purposes, for which there is apparently quite a demand in the neighborhood in which this project is located. The main entrance to the building will be on the One Hundred and Fourth street side and the ground floor of the Broadway frontage will be devoted to small shops.

The property upon which this apartment hotel will be erected has a Broadway frontage of 73 feet 2 inches and the One Hundred and Fourth street front is 91 feet 5 inches.

This property is owned by the Realty Sureties, Inc., who have been negotiating for the purchase of this land for some time past. The site is particularly desirable for the type of structure now proposed, as there are very few available corner plots on Broadway now in the market. It has been estimated by the owners, who will also operate the hotel after its completion, that the net annual rentals from the hotel will be in excess of $188,000. The owners of this property also control other valuable properties in the vicinity of the projected improvement, which will later be utilized as sites for modern buildings as the requirements of the community may develop.

The new building scheduled for the corner of Broadway and One Hundred and Fourth street has been financed by a first mortgage real estate bond issue of $850,000 at seven per cent., two to twelve year maturities, and is offered for sale by the American Bond & Mortgage Company. This is the second large building project on a prominent Broadway corner plot to be financed recently by this company, the first being the building now under construction at the northeast corner of Broadway and Seventy-fourth street and which will be completed soon.

Governor Miller Signs Bill Affecting City Construction Contracts

GOV. MILLER has signed the bill introduced by the Joint Legislative Committee on Housing and subsequently passed by the Legislature, which amends the Greater New York charter, in relation to sub-contracts in cases where the principal contractor abandons work under a contract.

The law formerly stipulated that in cases where any work was abandoned by any contractor it was required to be re-advertised and relet by the borough president under whose jurisdiction it came, or by the head of the appropriate department. The revised law now provides that "in cases where any work shall be abandoned by the contractor the appropriate borough president or the head of the appropriate department may, if the best interests of the city be thereby served, and subject to approval by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, adopt on behalf of the city all sub-contracts made by such contractor for such work and all such work shall be bound by such adoption, if made; and the appropriate borough president or the head of the appropriate department shall in the manner provided in this section re-advertise and relet the works specified in the original contract exclusive of so much thereof as shall be provided for in the sub-contracts so adopted."

It is distinctly to the owner's advantage to have the superintendent on the premises at all times.

"The management department of any large real estate organization must be prepared at all times to estimate on operating costs from plans and, because of their experience in the successful operation of a number of buildings, they are usually in a position to give very accurate information on the operating costs of a new project.

"During the course of a year, the managing agent of a number of properties will buy a great deal of material and award many contracts, and it is fair to assume that, on account of their large purchasing power, they are in a position to obtain lower prices than could be obtained by the individual. Every possible discount should be taken and, of course, the owner should have the benefit of them."

Review of Real Estate Market for the Current Week

Leases Making Large Totals Were a Feature, While the Bulk of the Dealing Was in Apartment Houses and Dwellings

THIS was a week of varied trading. Probably the leasing market afforded as interesting transactions as any in town. Two leases of more than ordinary interest was the one whereby the Royal Baking Powder Company took a floor, on the plans, in the Pershing Square Building, in course of construction opposite Grand Central Terminal, and the lease by Robert E. Bonner to a long time lessee of the southeast corner of Madison avenue and 56th street. Each lease was for an aggregate rental of more than $1,000,000. By going uptown the baking powder company is following numerous other large corporations, who find the Grand Central zone their logical centre. Less than fifteen years ago, and for many years previously, the company occupied a double brick building near the foot of Wall street; then it removed to large space in 100 William street; and subsequently it erected a large office building, much of which it occupied, at the southwest corner of William and Fulton streets. Not a long while ago it sold its property, presumably with the uptown removal in view. It all illustrates an important steady northward trend. The lease of the Bonner holdings on Madison avenue means the demolition of three more fine old private dwellings to make way for trade.

Of considerable interest to many old estates as well as to the market generally is the announcement that 61 parcels of real estate form the total amount to be taken for the creation of the Manhattan plaza of the vehicular tunnel from this borough to Jersey City. This is more property than the commission contemplated taking one year ago, or at least more than it announced that it would take. The particular parcels are reported in another column.

There were no striking sales during the week. Among the good ones were the sale to Max N. Natanson of the 12-story loft building on the north side of East 24th street, just east of Fourth avenue; a site for a large elevator apartment house on East 84th street, near Madison avenue; a double loft building in Wooster street; the Fargo dwelling on Park avenue; the purchase by the tenants of a Bleecker street corner; a group of properties on East 14th street by the estate of William Waldorf Astor; some first class elevator and walk-up apartment houses, and numerous good dwellings.

PRIVATE REALTY SALES.

THE total number of sales reported but not recorded in Manhattan this week, was 75 as against 82 last week and 73 a year ago.

The number of sales south of 59th st was 21 as compared with 14 last week and 32 a year ago.

The number of sales north of 59th st was 54 as compared with 68 last week and 46 a year ago.

From the Bronx 42 sales at private contract were reported, as against 85 last week and 22 a year ago.

Statistical tables, including the number of recorded instruments, will be found on page 493.

Fargo House for Rectory

Trustees of Trinity Church Corporation purchased through Folsom Bros., Inc., and the Brown-Wheelock Co., for Dr. Caleb P. Stetson, as a rectory, the 5-sty brick American basement, 56 Park av. It was at one time the residence of the late James F. Fargo, one of the founders of the Wells-Fargo Express Co. and his estate sold it. The purchase price was about $80,000.

Sells Versailles Palace Apartment

William H. Peckham sold for Louis Kramer the 8-sty and basement fireproof elevator apartment house at 605 West 113th st known as Versailles Palace. This house contains 24 apartments of 6 to 8 rooms each and was held at $300,000. It occupies a plot 75x100.11, adjoining the northwest corner of Broadway.

Operators Buy Eighth Ave. Corner

The Stebbins Realty and Construction Co., Inc., purchased from James E. Mitchell the southeast corner Eighth av and 23d st, a 4-sty business building on a lot 19.9x59.4. It had not changed hands for 25 years until recently. The buyers will alter the building into modern stores and offices. George W. Mercer & Son were the brokers.

Sale of a Fine Dwelling

Pease & Elliman sold for the Herman estate, the 4-sty and basement brick dwelling, on a lot 25x102.2, at 46 East 80th st. The house has a large extension and electric elevator and was sold for $100,000. This block was improved by the late F. W. Woolworth.

Lakewood Acreage Sold

All the realty holdings of Nathan Straus and Max Nathan in Lakewood, N. J., have been sold to F. W. Todd of A. M. Bradshaw & Co. of Lakewood. The properties comprise 75 acres surrounding the Lakewood Hotel, bounded by Madison av, Squankum rd, 7th and 14th st. They also include a block front of the hotel known as Lakewood Hotel Park and 82 acres of land adjoining Georgian Court, the estate of George J. Gould, once the home of the Lakewood Country Club and later used by the Pine Forest Club.

Mr. Todd represents a syndicate of local developers who will sell off the property in lots through the A. M. Bradshaw Co. It is reported that the property brought $300,000 in cash. The buyers will probably reserve a block of the land on the site of the cottage once occupied by the late President Grover Cleveland. Nothing has been done to the property since Mr. Cleveland occupied it, but it is now surrounded by hotels and residences.

The sale is the largest and most important that has been made in Lakewood since the A. M. Bradshaw Co. sold to George J. Gould and John D. Rockefeller their estates. It is held that the location of the undeveloped grounds has materially hindered Lakewood's growth, and it is now estimated that more than $1,000,000 will be spent during the coming summer for building purposes on this tract.

Sells Co-operative Apartment

Douglas L. Elliman & Co. sold for Fred T. Ley & Co. an apartment, held at $45,000, in 290 Park av to F. W. Davis, Jr., of the Detroit Graphite Co.

Good Bronx Corner Sold

Herman A. Acker sold for the Chester D. Judis Building Corporation, to a client for investment, the 1-sty taxpayer, now in course of construction, on the southwest corner of Davidson and Burnside avs, on a plot 125x101 and containing ten stores. This property is considered the best corner on Burnside av, west of Jerome av. It was held at $160,000. Herman A. Acker has been appointed renting agent of the property.

Sells Nassau County Estate

Wheatley Hills Real Estate Corporation sold for Mrs. William C. Langley her country estate on the west side of Roslyn rd, at East Williston, L. I. The property comprises about 16 2/3 acres improved with house, stable, garage, tennis court, farm barns, etc. The property was held for sale at $60,000. The purchaser will occupy it as an all-year residence. Mr. Langley recently purchased the Boyesen property at Westbury which he will occupy this year.

Some Lower Bronx Sales

Patrick Holland sold 356 East 134th st, a 3-sty and basement frame dwelling, on a lot 25.4x100, for Susie Dempsey to Emma Albert; for the Mary Walsh estate 313 East 136th st, a 2-sty and basement brick 2-family house, on a lot 16.1x100, to C. McQuade; also the northeast corner of Alexander av and 134th st, a 2-sty and basement brick dwelling, on a lot 20x75, to Augustus Armand.

Buys Apartment House Site.

Mandel-Ehrich Corporation resold to a builder the plot, 50x102.2, on the north side of East 84th st, 70 feet west of Madison av. It will be improved with a 9-sty elevator apartment house.

More Astor Holdings Sold.

The estate of William Waldorf Astor sold through M. R. Stang & Co. the nine 5-sty and basement brick tenement houses with stores, on a plot 225x103.3, at 407 to 423 East 14th st, 100 feet east of First av. The buyer is a client of Samuel S. Isaacs, who is said to have paid close to the asking figure of $180,000. The Astors owned the land since 1804 and acquired the tenements through reversions after the conclusion of leases given to their builders.

Natanson Buys Near Fourth Av.

Max N. Natanson purchased through the Lewis H. May Co. from Kommel Realty Co., Inc., 117 and 119 East 24th st, a 12-sty loft building, on a plot 46x98.9; the property is 204 feet east of Fourth av. The building is fully rented at more than $60,000 a year, and was held at $400,000. Mr. Natanson owns the Ashland Building diagonally opposite.

Land Taken for Tunnel Plaza.

The State will take over 61 parcels of real estate for the exit and entrance plazas on the Manhattan shore for the vehicular tunnel under the Hudson River. The total cost will be $1,700,000. The parcels are:

Hudson St.—Nos. 202, 224, 226, 228, 230, 292-4, 296 and 298.

Dominick St.—Nos. 40, 42 and 44. Nos. 41, 43, 45 and 47.

Broome St.—Nos. 578, 580, 582, 567, 569, 571, 573, 575, 577, 579, 581, 583, 585, 587 and 589.

Varick St.—Nos. 63, 65, 67, 69, 71, 105, 107 and 109.

Canal St.—Nos. 428-30, 432, 434, 436, 438, 440-4, 446, 448, 450, 452, 454, 456, 458, 460, 462, 464, 466 and 468.

Vestry St.—Nos. 2, 4, 6, 8 and 10.

These parcels are in addition to the waterfront property to be taken.

Tenants to Buy Loft Buildings.

Daniel H. Jackson, operator, purchased the six 3 and 4-sty business buildings, 18 to 24 Bleecker st, southwest corner of Elizabeth st, from John E. Pye and the County Holding Co., William C. Adams, president. The parcels cover a plot 91.8x70 and are reported to have a rent roll of $20,000. They were held at $150,000. Sharp & Co. were the brokers. Negotiations are pending for the resale of the properties to the tenants, who are fur dealers.

Governor Apartments Bought.

Spear & Co. sold for the Havemeyer Real Estate Co., W. Butler Duncan, president, to the Harding Realty Co., Joseph A. Polsky, president, the 5-sty and basement stone apartment house, known as the Governor, on a plot 50x103.3, at 65-69 West 12th st.

Operator Buys in Dyckman Tract.

Joseph G. Abramson, operator, has purchased from Joseph Balmsford, builder, two 5-sty and basement apartment houses on a combined plot of 100x99.11, at 403 to 407 West 205th st in the Dyckman section. The houses were held at $70,000 each. The seller, who erected the houses 7 years ago, takes back a 15-year mortgage on each house. Nehring Bros. were the brokers. Negotiations are pending for a resale of one of the parcels.

Holland Court Changes Hands.

Isidor Zimmer and Samuel Resnick, operators, bought Holland Court, at 315-317 West 98th st. The structure, valued at $100,000, is 8 stories and basement of fireproof construction, and occupies a plot 75x100.11, adjoining the Chesterfield apartments at the northeast corner of Riverside dr. The sale was made by Day & Day for the Minnie G. Frank Realty Co. The house contains 32 apartments, which return an annual rental of about $60,000.

Real Estate Class Dinner.

Arrangements are being completed for the holding of the second annual banquet of the Real Estate Training Class of the West Side Y. M. C. A., at the Park Avenue Hotel, next Tuesday evening. It will mark the close of another successful season of this educational feature of the Y. M. C. A.

All of the lecturers to the class of the season will be guests, and one of them, Robert E. Dowling, will speak on "The Real Estate Outlook." Other speakers will be Judge Frederick E. Crane, of the Court of Appeals, Lawson Purdy, Joseph P. Day, Robert E. Simon, Charles G. Edwards, Walter Stabler, Lawrence B. Elliman and District Attorney Banton. Harry Hall will deliver an illustrated address on old New York. Mayor Hylan and Murray Hulbert are expected to attend.

The dinner is scheduled for 7 o'clock. Dress will be informal. Tickets are $2.50 each.

Large Corner Warehouse Sold.

Charles F. Noyes Co. sold for Frederick Brown to Charles E. Clapp 156-166 West End av, northeast corner of 6th st, a 5-sty brick warehouse, on a plot 100.83x125. The building was constructed with extra large elevators, automatic sprinklers, steam heat and all improvements for the Brewster Body Co., and when given up by the company was leased for 21 years at a rental of $21,000 net to the owner. The property was valued at $300,000.

Mr. Brown took in part payment Sunnycrest Orchards Farm, valued at $100,000, consisting of 125 acres, near Kinderhook. Included in the deal were three houses, barns, stables, garage, carriage houses, chicken houses for 1,500 layers, shop, tennis court, ice houses, conservatories, horses and other live stock, and over 7,000 selected fruit trees planted in 1911—apple, pear, cherry, peach and crabapple trees predominating. The orchard has a capacity of about 2,000 barrels of fruit per annum. Mr. Brown has already employed an expert to handle this fruit farm for him, and with improved fruit-picking machinery will operate the property to full capacity until he resells. Mr. Clapp has placed the West End av building under the management of the Noyes Co. The total transaction involved about $400,000.

Estate Sells Choice Parcels

The estate of Margaret E. Hughes, under the title of the Hughes Holding Co., sold realty holdings valued at about $500,000. The deals were negotiated by E. Francis Hillenbrand, broker. The principal holding sold is the 6-sty apartment house, 40x100, with 14 stores at the northwest corner of Amsterdam av and 84th st, which was sold to a client of Thomas F. Keogh.

The 6-sty elevator apartment house, known as the Gertrude, at 326 West 83d st, on a plot 40x102.2, was sold to a client of Cohen Bros., attorneys. It is located 140 feet east of Riverside dr.

To a client of Judge Clinton M. Flint, of Freeport, L. I., Mr. Hillenbrand sold for the Hughes Holding Co. the three 4-sty stone flats with stores at the southeast corner of Third av and 73d st, on a plot 76.8x85; and the 4-sty tenement house with stores at the southeast corner of Macdougall and Third sts, on a plot 20x65.

Arthur Woods Sells His Home

Former Police Commissioner Arthur Woods, now in the Department of Commerce at Washington, sold his residence, 165 East 74th st, a 4-sty and basement stone dwelling, on a lot 20x102.2. The Brown-Wheelock Co. was the broker.

Operators Add to Holdings

Julius Tishman & Sons, Inc., purchased 64 and 72 East 87th st, two 5-sty dwellings which together with their recent purchase of the southwest corner of Park av and 87th st, comprising 1054 and 1056 Park av, gives them a plot 50 feet on Park av and 133 feet on 87th st, which they intend to improve with a 14-sty apartment house. Duff & Conger, Inc., and Edward W. Scott, Jr., were the brokers.

Brown Resells 34th Street Parcel

Frederick Brown, operator, resold the former home of the North River Savings Bank at 31 West 34th st to a dealer in women's wear. The buyer is a client of Clark T. Chambers. The price paid is reported to have been $500,000 cash. Mr. Brown bought the property, a 1-sty stone banking house, on a lot 25x98.9, last December through Joseph P. Day, paying close to $500,000.

The sale was regarded as a record price for inside lots on the great shopping thoroughfare, between Fifth and Sixth avs. The front foot value of the property is approximately $20,000. The bank will move into its new home on West 34th st, between Seventh and Eighth avs, as soon as it is completed. There have been a number of large realty deals in this district in the last six months and the demand for space there is greater than at any time in the history of the section.

Church Buys Adjacent Property.

St. Aloysius' Catholic Church, whose edifice and rectory embraces 209 to 219 West 132d st, has bought 225 to 233 West 132d st, nearby, comprising five 3-sty and basement brick and stone dwellings, occupying a plot 76x99.11.

The church will reimprove the site with a school building. The sellers were Mary Woytisek, Adelina Moller and Albert C. Hall. The sales are recorded.

Studer Court in New Hands.

G. Jelot sold to Adolph Scholer for the Studer Holding Corporation the 6-sty and basement elevator apartment house known as Studer Court, at 1330 St. Nicholas av, on a plot 99.11x100, and held at $285,000.

Former Owners Buy Emrose Court.

Manport Realty Co. bought back from Minnie Rose, 204-206 West 109th st, two 6-sty walk-up apartment houses, known as Emrose Court, on a plot 80.6x100.11, adjoining the southwest corner of Amsterdam av. They were held at $190,000. The buyers sold the houses a few weeks ago.

Operators Sell New Buildings.

The 615 West 164th Street Corporation, composed of Abraham Bricken, Theodore Klein, Isidore Friedman and Leo Schloss, sold to the Juliabelle Realty Co., Inc., 610-620 West 164th st, adjoining the southwest corner of Broadway, two 5-sty and basement brick and stone walk-up apartment houses, each on a plot 75x99.11. The aggregate number of apartments is 60. The properties were held at $330,000.

Wooster Street Lofts Sold.

Spear & Co. sold for the Burden Realty Co. to the An-Mi Realty Co., Inc., 152-156 Wooster st, a 6-sty and basement brick loft building, on a plot 75x100. It was long owned by the Bloomingdale estate.

Brooklyn Apartment Houses Sold.

Cohn & Stern sold the 4-sty 20-family house, 50x127, at 1180 President st to Harry Kurzwel. The house rents for $15,000 and was held at $80,000. The Comit Holding Co. sold to the Reimag Realty Corporation 1131 to 1137 President st, two 4-sty 16-family houses, 100x127, renting for $28,000 and held at $150,000. E. Powis Jones sold to A. Pallio the 4-sty 16-family house, 50x127, at 1240 Union st, renting for $12,000 and held at $70,000. All the buyers are investors.

Meister Builders, Inc., purchased from the Realty Associates the five 5-sty brick and stone apartment houses 319 to 333 Pearl st, Brooklyn, accommodating 100 families, with a rent list of $38,856 per year; also the 5-sty brick apartment house 60-68 Johnson st, accommodating 21 families and containing 3 stores, with a rent list of $10,728. The property is situated on a plot 260x105. The property was held at $325,000. A. Strauss was the broker.

Co-operative Buying in Queens

Alfred L. Anderson of White Plains, proprietor of the Archer Agency, general advertising agents, purchased an apartment in 143 22d st, Jackson Heights; and an apartment in 115 22d st has been purchased by John H. Ziegler of Elmhurst. Mr. Ziegler is chief accountant and auditor of the White Motor Co.

Robert E. Simon Sells Summer Home.

Terry & Gibson sold for Robert E. Simon his country estate on Clinton av, Bayshore, N. Y., consisting of a little less than 3 acres and a spacious house, to Mrs. Walter J. Southerland, who, after making alterations, will occupy it as an all year round dwelling.

MORTGAGE LOANS

Charles B. Van Valen, Inc., negotiated for the Schmidt Realty Co. a loan of $350,000 on the new 12-sty office building, 50x100, at 343-345 Madison av. The property has been leased to Acker, Merrill & Condit for 21 years at $55,000 per annum net.

TALK TO YOUR BANKER

TIME was when men never seemed to think of consulting a banker unless they wanted to borrow money or were in financial difficulties of some kind.

Nowadays, wide-awake business men drop in for an informal chat once in awhile.

A furniture man who only talks to other furniture men doesn't get a clear picture of general business conditions. Your banker talks to business men in many different lines. Often he knows something about the leather business or the silk business or the varnish business that the furniture man would be glad to know.

BUILDING SECTION

$6,000,000 Housing Operation Planned Under New Law

Metropolitan Life Insurance Company Retains A. J. Thomas as Architect for Fifty Modern Multi-Family Dwellings in Queens at Low Monthly Rentals

FOLLOWING Gov. Miller's signature last Friday of the Lockwood Committee bill, which permits New York life insurance companies to invest up to ten per cent. of their assets in residential construction, one of the largest housing projects ever attempted in this vicinity will shortly be commenced by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company. The operation now under consideration is intended to provide modern living accommodations at extremely reasonable rentals for a large number of people, and if the initial operation proves successful from a financial standpoint it will be the forerunner of a number of similar projects. Success of this project will undoubtedly bring about a decided drop from the extortionate rents now being charged for inferior accommodations in old-fashioned tenements in this city.

Immediately after the news came from Albany that Gov. Miller had acted favorably upon the bill permitting life insurance companies to invest in housing construction under certain definite conditions, the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company announced its plans for an extensive residential development along the lines laid down in the statute. The company's plans are practically matured for immediate work on a development operation which embodies numerous interesting features and it is anticipated that the first of the homes to be started under the new law will be completed and ready for occupancy before the end of the coming summer. By October, the time practically recognized at the height of the annual renting season, it is hoped that the first group authorized, involving fifty modern multi-family houses, will be entirely completed and ready for tenants.

The new law specifically stipulates that the insurance companies availing themselves of its permissive provisions may construct these residential projects upon the condition that the rentals charged shall not exceed $9 per room per month. After an extensive investigation, in which careful studies were made of numerous modern housing operations in various parts of the United States and even abroad, the Metropolitan officials are convinced that the company will be able to construct living structures according to the most up-to-date ideas of planning and completely equipped with all necessary sanitary conveniences, to rent at the figure stated in the law as the maximum and still obtain a profitable return on the investment and be able to amortize a favorable percentage of the total cost of construction. In addition, these dwellings will be so planned as to provide light and air far in excess of that found in the ordinary type of city apartment, and this in itself will go a long way toward holding the properties at a high standard of valuation.

During the time the Lockwood Committee was working at Albany to secure the passage of this bill the real estate experts of the Metropolitan Life were making careful surveys of the available land in this city that could be utilized as sites for the projected housing developments. After practically all sections of New York City were canvassed it was unanimously agreed that the Borough of Queens offered the best opportunities for work along the proposed lines; first, because the ground values are relatively low as compared with possible sites in other boroughs, and, second, because the available sites in Queens are relatively close to transportation lines to the business centers.

Rapid transit facilities between the locations under consideration and the business districts of Manhattan are excellent. There is a choice of the B. R. T. Subway line and the Steinway tunnel, both of which will bring residents of the new dwellings into the Times Square district in about seventeen minutes. The present plans contemplate building in locations within twenty to thirty minutes of Manhattan, and this is considerably better than would be possible from available sites in the Bronx or Brooklyn.

Officials of the Metropolitan Life have several possible sites under consideration. These are in the Borough of Queens, and there is every likelihood that before the end of this week an announcement will be made as to which property will be selected as the location for the first group of multi-family dwellings to be erected.

Andrew J. Thomas, an architect of national reputation for his ability in planning multi-family structures and recognized as the originator of the garden type of apartment that has become so popular in semi-suburban districts of this city during the past six years, has been retained by the Metropolitan Company to design and plan the first group of buildings to be constructed under the new law.

Although the working plans for this operation have not yet been started and the architect has only submitted his preliminary studies to the officials of the Metropolitan, his outline of what is proposed as the fundamentals of this development indicates that the completed project will be unusual in many respects. While not radical from any viewpoint of design or planning, these structures will embody features never before encountered in dwellings offered for rentals as low as $9 per room per month.

After devoting much study to the original idea of constructing these apartments, the architect and the officials of the Metropolitan Life decided upon apartments of the garden type as the most appropriate and offering the best solution to the various problems of planning. The first operation to be started will consist of the development of an area involving four city blocks, 600 x 200 feet. Upon this land fifty modern multi-family houses will be erected, to provide living accommodations for at least 1,800 families, or approximately 5,000 to 6,000 individuals.

The preliminary studies, as submitted by the architect, call for buildings four stories in height, with basements, constructed according to the most substantial standards of modern building practice. Each individual house will accommodate thirty-six families, having eight apartments to each floor and two suites in the basements, which will be well above the grade level. The living units will consist of three, four and five rooms, each unit with bath, the buildings will be heated by steam and lighted by electricity, and will contain all of the comforts and conveniences commonly found in apartments that usually rent at far higher prices.

All of these features can be included in this project because of the extreme economy with which Mr. Thomas has planned his buildings. In the first place, the area of the separate plots to be covered by the buildings allows a large percentage to be utilized as gardens and play spaces for the children who will live in these apartments. The preliminary plans call for gardens in the rear forty feet in depth, and the street to yard courts will be at least forty feet in width.

These courts will therefore have dimensions far greater than those required by the Tenement House law and will result in excellent natural light and ventilation for all apartments. There will be no dark rooms in the houses to be erected by the Metropolitan Company, and the tenants in this respect will fare far better than they formerly have in the old-fashioned tenements in the congested quarters of the other boroughs.

Although the architect in planning has eliminated every inch of waste space from his plans, the various living units will contain rooms of good size and excellent proportions and will contain ample closet space and all other conveniences required by the tenants for sanitary and comfortable living. A very definite idea of the economy with which these structures are being planned may be obtained by the fact that the architect has arranged a total of thirty-six rooms on an area of only slightly more than five thousand square feet, and the final studies, from which the working plans will be developed, will undoubtedly improve on this.

Although all waste space has been eliminated in planning, nothing necessary to the comfort and health of the tenants has been sacrificed. On the other hand, they will obtain better-arranged living units than has heretofore been thought possible at prices much higher, and, in addition, will benefit materially from the open areas provided by the plot planning.

The construction of these apartments will be substantial in every respect, and while the elevations will be without superficial ornamentation, they will be pleasing in appearance. The construction will be of brick and the facades will be trimmed with limestone and terra cotta, but the relief carving frequently found in multi-family houses will be left out in this instance and its cost devoted to better materials and equipment. The buildings will include all modern living conveniences, but the interior of the apartments will not be finished and decorated in quite the style of higher-priced living suites. While there will be steam heat, hot water, electric lights and modern bath room equipment and kitchen devices, the floors may not be of parquet oak and the lighting fixtures may not be as ornate as those where rentals are much higher. In fact, it will be mainly through the smaller economies effected in planning and equipment that the Metropolitan Company expects to be able to build these apartments and rent them at the price of $9 per room per month or less.

Mr. Thomas stated that one of the fears in the mind of Gov. Miller during the time he was debating upon the wisdom of signing the bill was the possibility of a substantial drop in construction costs and its effect upon these buildings if erected. The Governor was advised, however, both by the architect and by the officials of the Metropolitan that the safeguards provided in the planning, the economies made possible by getting the most living space on the minimum of ground area, would more than offset any depreciation brought about by lowered material prices and construction costs.

The principal factor which is believed to make it possible for the Metropolitan Company to go ahead with these plans with a reasonable certainty of success is the low land value upon which the projected apartments will be constructed and the savings to be effected through the purchase of materials in large quantities.

Walter Stabler, comptroller of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, stated early in the week that his company was not quite ready to announce the full particulars of its plans nor to tell the exact location of the first houses to be started under the new law. He added, however, that the initial investment of the company will be approximately $6,000,000, and that the apartments will be models in every respect.

Haley Fiske, president of the company, announced that after the news of the intention of his company to start work under the new law had become known he had been approached by a group of financiers seeking a loan of $7,000,000 with which to start a building project involving four hundred houses. In addition to the millions this group plans to borrow from the insurance company, he said, its members are prepared to invest a substantial amount of other capital and promised the insurance company that the project would be on a rental basis of not more than $9 per room per month. Still another group of wealthy men have told Mr. Fiske that they are prepared to buy the Metropolitan's first fifty houses when completed.

demanded. Any such payment and the receipt regardless of its terms, stipulations or qualifications, shall be without prejudice to the rights of either party to the action. If the defendant refuses to make any such additional payment to the plaintiff during the pendency of the action the court on motion of the plaintiff may strike out the denial or defense raising the issue of fairness and reasonableness of the amount demanded in the complaint. All moneys remaining in the hands of the clerk to the credit of the action shall be applied to the satisfaction of the judgment rendered or otherwise disposed of as justice requires. Where a judgment is rendered for the plaintiff it shall contain a provision that if the same be not fully satisfied from the deposit or otherwise within five days after the entry, and service on the defendant of a copy thereof, the plaintiff shall be entitled to the premises described in the complaint and a direction that a warrant shall issue commanding the sheriff, marshal or other officer charged by law with the duty of executing judgments to remove all persons therefrom. The plaintiff shall be entitled to costs only in the event that he recover the full amount demanded in the complaint, and if, in an action for increased rent, the plaintiff recover no more than the amount of rent last paid the defendant shall be entitled to costs.

Sec. 11. Every such action shall be brought in the county in which such premises are situated, if the action be brought in the supreme or county court; or in the municipal court district in which such premises are situated, if the action be brought in the municipal court of a city. If not so brought the action shall be dismissed with costs to the defendant.

Sec. 12. This act as hereby amended shall not apply to a new building in the course of construction on September twenty-seventh, nineteen hundred and twenty, or commenced thereafter and shall be in force until [November first] February fifteenth, nineteen hundred and twenty-[two] four.

Sec. 4. This act shall take effect immediately.

Designated by the Lockwood Committee as the most efficacious of its proposals for amelioration of the housing shortage is the one amending the insurance law so as to permit companies to invest in real estate and construct dwellings under certain conditions. The new law is printed in full as follows:

Explanation—Matter in italics is new; matter in brackets [] is old law to be omitted.

CHAPTER 658, LAWS OF 1922.

AN ACT to amend the insurance law, in relation to the power of insurance companies to purchase, improve and sell or convey real property during certain emergencies.

The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

Sec. 1. Chapter thirty-three of the laws of nineteen hundred and nine, entitled "An act in relation to insurance corporations, constituting chapter twenty-eight of the consolidated laws," is hereby amended by inserting therein a new section, to follow section twenty, to be section twenty-a, to read as follows:

Sec. 20-a. Powers as to real property during certain emergencies. Until March first, nineteen hundred and twenty-four, and so long thereafter as the emergency in housing conditions mentioned in certain acts of the legislature of nineteen hundred and twenty and nineteen hundred and twenty-one shall continue, every life insurance corporation, foreign or domestic, transacting business in this state, may purchase land in any city of the first class in this state and on such land and on land in such a city acquired pursuant to any other provision of this chapter may erect apartment, tenement or other dwelling houses, not including hotels. Such corporations may thereafter hold, maintain, manage, collect and receive income from, and, from time to time, sell or convey the lands so purchased and the improvements thereon. The aggregate cost of all the lands so purchased and improvements so made shall not exceed ten per centum of the total admitted assets of such corporation as of December thirty-first, nineteen hundred and twenty-one, as such assets are shown in the annual report of such corporation to the superintendent of insurance for the year nineteen hundred and twenty-one. The cost of land acquired under this section shall not be allowed as an admitted asset unless improved as provided by this section, nor, if so improved, shall the cost of such land and improvements thereon be so allowed unless the average net rental value of such apartment, tenement or other dwelling house erected thereon, as estimated at the commencement of construction, be nine dollars or less per month per room.

Sec. 2. This act shall take effect immediately.

Mayor Hylan vetoed the bill to amend the New York City Municipal Court code so as to provide for the return of jury fees in cases where two or more actions or summary proceedings shall have been or shall hereafter be tried together before the same jury and in which the parties shall have or shall hereafter stipulate that the testimony, decision or judgment shall be binding on them, except the fee in the case actually tried.

Two amendments to the insurance law indirectly affecting real estate and building were signed by Governor Miller. One grants to mutual insurance companies the same rights to do business in New York State as stock companies now have, subject to the supervision of the State Superintendent of Insurance, and the other places insurance rate making associations under the supervision of the State Superintendent of Insurance, who will decide whether the rates fixed are reasonable.

Construction Awards Keeping Pace With New Projects

Tabulations by F. W. Dodge Company Show Commitments in Greater New York Average Well with Totals for Newly Planned Building Operations

CONTRACTS awarded for new building and engineering construction are maintaining their lead over newly projected work, and as a result the local building industry has more actual business in hand at present than it has had for many months past. According to figures tabulated by the F. W. Dodge Company for the territory including all of New York State and New Jersey, north of Trenton, 755 new building and engineering operations were reported in the planning stage during the fifteenth week of this year. This proposed construction represents a total value of $25,773,800. During the same period 455 contracts were awarded at a total cost of $24,559,400. Newly reported construction in Greater New York during the past week involved 335 contemplated operations at an estimated value of $14,296,500, and 147 operations placed under contract at a total cost of $16,193,000.

The group of 335 contemplated projects scheduled for locations in New York City include 67 business buildings, such as stores, offices, lofts, commercial garages, etc., $2,773,000; 4 educational operations, $241,000; 4 hospitals and institutions, $44,000; 10 factory and industrial buildings, $1,113,000; 7 public works and public utilities, $279,000; 5 religious and memorial structures, $132,000; 231 residential operations, including apartments, flats and tenements and one- and two-family dwellings, $9,052,000, and 7 social and recreational projects, $662,500.

In the list of 147 operations for which contracts were awarded in Greater New York during the week of April 8 to 14, inclusive were 25 business buildings of various types, $7,979,000; 1 educational project, $400,000; 1 hospital, $40,000; 3 factory and industrial buildings, $61,000; 2 religious and memorial structures, $455,000; 114 residential projects, such as apartments, flats and tenements and one- and two-family dwellings, $7,158,000, and 1 social and recreational project, $100,000.

A study of these totals for New York City reveals the manner in which residential construction practically dominates the local building situation. Nearly all of this type of construction is speculative in character, and there is every reason to anticipate that its volume will grow continuously throughout the coming months, as the architects who specialize in work of this character state that they are being besieged with orders for plans.

PERSONAL AND TRADE NOTES.

Harold E. Paddon, architect, announces the removal of his office on May 1 from 280 Madison avenue to the Herald Building, 34th street and Broadway.

Sladon Iron Works Co., Inc., 130 East 107th street, announces that its telephone number has been changed to University 2130.

Ben Weiss, plumbing contractor, announces the removal of his office and shop from 1351 Second avenue to 247 East 77th street. Telephone: Rhinelander 6733.

John V. L. Hogan, consulting engineer and specialist in electrical and patent matters, has moved his office from 326 Broadway to 41 Park Row.

Philip E. Edelman, consulting engineer, and the staff associated with him have moved their headquarters from 39 Cortlandt street to 9 Church street.

Hector C. Adams, formerly in the electrical appliance business in the Grand Central Palace, is now president of Hector C. Adams, Inc., manufacturers' representatives, 342 Madison avenue.

Sidney F. Oppenheim, architect, formerly at 36 Eighth avenue, has moved to larger and better equipped offices at 110 East 31st street.

J. H. Philips, architect, 681 Fifth avenue, has leased the entire top floor of the building in which his office is now located to accommodate his growing practice.

Charles Travallé and Herbert Arnold, formerly with Michael Power, Inc., announce the formation of C. Travallé & Co. for the purpose of engaging in plain and ornamental plastering, stucco and artificial stone metal furring and lathing. Mr. Travallé enjoys an experience of twenty years as superintendent, manager and estimator, and Mr. Arnold has had an experience of more than ten years in the building business. Offices have been established at 51 East 42d street.

Prominent Dealer Firm Moves Uptown

J. Rose & Company, Inc., distributors of gas ranges and refrigerators, announce that on May 1 they will establish their headquarters in the easterly store at 114 East Thirty-ninth street, running through to Broadway. The main office and showrooms will be moved from 63 Orchard street, where the firm has been located for some time past. The removal to the uptown address will afford greater convenience to dealers and their customers.

The old store will be continued as a downtown branch showroom and service department. The new showrooms at 114 East Thirty-ninth street will be fitted up in an attractive manner and will provide interesting exhibition surroundings for the display of the devices handled by this firm. There will be a double window frontage of more than thirty feet which will permit the arrangement of a handsome display for passers-by. J. Rose & Company, Inc., carry as exclusive agents for New York and New Jersey the nationally known A-B gas ranges and the Premier and Frostair line of refrigerators.

New Sheet Metal Firm Organized

John A. Fager, formerly factory superintendent for M. F. Westergren, Inc., and Chas. Ashlund, former business manager and treasurer, and George Weiterer, former sales manager of the same organization, have organized the firm of Ashlund, Fager & Weiterer, Inc., for the purpose of fabricating an exceptionally high grade of "Kalamein" and sheet metal work. The organizers of the new firm have for many years been associated as officers and directors of M. F. Westergren, Inc., one of the best-known sheet metal contractors in the United States. In addition to an extensive acquaintance among architects and contractors they have had a business experience in this trade covering from fifteen to thirty-five years.

The new firm has established offices and plant at 4121 to 4125 Park avenue. The factory is completely equipped with the most modern machinery for fabricating sheet metal work and is manned by a corps of selected mechanics who have been personally trained by Mr. Fager.

John Carstensen Is Dead.

John Carstensen, a vice-president in all of the companies of the New York Central system and actively identified with its accounting department, died at his home in Scarsdale last Thursday. He was born in New York City sixty-eight years ago and was the son of George J. B. Carstensen, a Danish architect who designed the Crystal Palace at Sixth avenue and 42d street. Mr. Carstensen was educated at the Cayuga Lake Academy, the Alexander Military Institute, White Plains, and the high school at Clinton, N. Y. He entered the service of the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad Company in 1871 and became assistant treasurer and controller. He was one of the founders of the Transportation Club, and was a member of the Union League, American Yacht and the Sleepy Hollow Country Clubs.

TRADE AND TECHNICAL SOCIETY EVENTS.

Building Managers' and Owners' Association of New York will hold its regular monthly dinner meeting at the Advertising Club, 47 East Twenty-fifth street, Tuesday evening, May 9. The name of the speaker will be announced later.

New York Building Superintendents' Association will hold its regular monthly dinner meeting in the Garden Room of the Hotel Martinique, Wednesday evening, May 10. The speaker of the evening will be announced later.

New York Society of Architects will hold its regular monthly meeting at its headquarters in the United Engineering Societies Building, 29 West 39th street, May 16, at 8 p. m. Secretary, Frederick C. Zobel, 29 West 39th street.

Building Officials Conference for 1922 will be held at Indianapolis, April 25 to 28, inclusive. The meetings will be held at the Hotel Lincoln and the committee arranging the program promises extremely interesting sessions. Details of the program will be available later.

Illuminating Engineering Society will hold its annual convention in Boston, September 25 to 28 inclusive. This will be the sixteenth annual gathering of the society, and the convention arrangements are in the hands of a committee of which C. L. Edgar, president of the Edison Electric Illuminating Company of Boston, is chairman; H. F. Wallace, vice-chairman, and J. Daniels, secretary.

American Iron, Steel and Heavy Hardware Association will hold its annual convention in Washington, D. C., May 23 to 25 inclusive. Headquarters will be located at the Hotel Washington. Secretary, A. H. Chamberlain, 1328 Broadway.

American Society for Testing Materials will hold its twenty-fifth annual meeting at the Chalfonte-Haddon Hall Hotel, Atlantic City, June 26 to July 1, inclusive.

Building Trades Employers' Association of Westchester County will hold its fourth annual dinner at the Pavilion Ben-Hur, City Island, Tuesday evening, April 25. Covers will be laid for six hundred, and men prominent in the building industry of the State and nation are expected to be present and deliver addresses upon subjects of paramount importance to the future welfare of the construction industry. The committee in charge is also preparing a program of unusual features for the amusement of the guests.

CURRENT BUILDING OPERATIONS

LOCAL construction interests have been impressed by the volume of high-class construction placed under contract during the past week or ten days and as a result of the new business released the outlook for the industry has materially improved. One of the significant signs of the progress toward a real revival has been the number of handsome residence projects announced for an early start. During the past few weeks there have been contracts placed for quite a group of private dwelling operations that range in cost upward of $35,000 each. Apartment house construction maintains its lead in Greater New York, but there is also a growing volume of interesting commercial and industrial work being offered for estimates. Local building material markets are reflecting the general improvement in the building situation and orders for supplies are growing in number and value. Prices are firm in practically all lines and there is a strong feeling that advances are imminent.

Common Brick—Business in the wholesale market for Hudson River common brick has been fairly active during the past week. Sales were numerous and indicate a growing demand for this commodity. Inquiries also continue to increase and dealers feel that the coming months will be certain to develop into one of the most active seasons on record from a brick selling viewpoint. Hudson River common brick prices are quite firm and it is the current opinion that present levels will hold for some time to come. Manufacturing operations are scheduled to start in the Hudson River district in the very near future and producers are now making active preparations for the start of the season. Although labor is not plentiful the principal worry of the manufacturers at present is that of fuel supply and production is likely to be seriously curtailed unless the coal strike is speedily settled so that this commodity will be available as dust and fuel for the commencement of manufacturing operations along the river.

Summary—Transactions in the North River common brick market for the week ending Thursday, April 20, 1922. Condition of market: Demand good; prices firm and unchanged. Quotations: Hudson Rivers, $16 to $16.50 a thousand to dealers in cargo lots alongside dock. Number of cargoes arrived, 28; sales, 32. Distribution: Manhattan, 6; Bronx, 1; Brooklyn, 19; New Jersey points, 4; Astoria, 2.

Lumber—Greater activity is being manifested in both wholesale and retail departments of the lumber business and dealers are certain that the buying movement is only commencing. There is a tremendous volume of projected construction ready to start, and within the next week or ten days the demand is likely to increase rapidly. At present the lumber demand is considerably greater than the production, but manufacturing conditions are improving and the output will no doubt be increased to satisfy all requirements. Prices are holding firm and no changes of importance have been announced during the past week.

Structural Steel—There has been a decided change for the better in the volume of new business presented for estimates during the past week or so and tonnage commitments have also increased. The award of contracts for fabricated material for several large operations involves an important total tonnage for the week and the outlook for the local steel interests is steadily growing brighter. The records of the Bridge Builders and Structural Society for the month of March show a decided upturn to the national steel market situation. This report shows that during the month 139,300 tons of fabricated structural steel was contracted for throughout the United States. This tonnage is equivalent to seventy-seven per cent. of the entire capacity of the bridge and structural shops of the country. Steel prices are firm, but there are rumors that the coal strike situation may possibly curtail production and influence stronger prices before long.

Builders' Hardware—Demand for these items is fair and is growing from day to day, and when it is considered that this is only the beginning of the building season the prospects for a most active demand throughout the coming months is excellent. Both manufacturers and dealers are confident that the business this season will be far ahead of previous post-war years and as a result the trade is in an optimistic frame of mind. Prices are steady and no important changes are anticipated at this time.

Roofing Papers—Demand for both roofing and building papers is increasing rapidly and the outlook for a continuation of good business is particularly bright. Reports from suburban districts indicate a large amount of small house construction and general community building, and as a result dealers are anticipating a steady growth in the demand for these materials. Stocks are generally reported as being in good shape for the coming demand and prices are firm.

Window Glass—Dealers in plate and window glass are in anticipation of a season of more than usual activity in this line. The demand is increasing rapidly, and from the manner in which new construction is piling up, particularly in New York City, there is every reason to believe that the requirements during the latter part of the summer will severely strain the sources of supply. There is sufficient glass in sight for all current demand and reserves are said to be satisfactory, but what will happen when the mass of newly projected building reaches the final stages along toward next autumn remains problematical. Jobbers are confident that there will be sufficient glass to fill all requirements, but they feel that prices are likely to react to some extent as a result of the greatly increased demand.

Electrical Supplies—Business in the electrical supply line has shown a very definite improvement during the past two or three weeks and local jobbers are of the opinion that trade conditions will continue to improve as the building season gains headway. March sales were far ahead of the totals for the previous month, according to a number of selling interests, and the outlook is excellent for even greater totals during the months to come. There have been a number of important contracts recently placed for wiring supplies to be used in commercial and apartment house projects in this city, and a number of contractors apparently feel that current quotations on conduit, wire, cable, etc., are sufficiently attractive for them to buy for future requirement. Prices are fairly steady and no changes of consequence have been recorded recently.

Nails—During the past week or so there has been a better tone of the nail market. Demand is improving as a result of the rapidly reviving interest in construction affairs, and dealers are anticipating an active buying season. Recently there have been persistent rumors of higher prices for nails, but as yet no definite announcements of advances have been made by the important manufacturers. Current New York quotations on wire nails range from $3.15 to $3.25 base per keg, and cut nails are reported selling at $3.90 to $5 base per keg.

Provide Sufficient Outlets

Arrangements having been completed for the installation of Central Station Service in the building you are remodeling or constructing be sure that you next provide for a sufficient number of well placed outlets

Your tenants, whether they be occupying offices or homes, will want to use Electrical Appliances. It is less expensive to do wiring while a building is in course of construction or alteration than after it has been finished are adjustable to any ceiling height. Entire floors can be dismantled and re-erected over night, at less than 25% of the cost of the ordinary partitions.

Finished in Baked Enamel, Oak, Mahogany, Circassian and American Walnut, etc.

"COST COMPARES FAVORABLY WITH WOOD"

See Our Details in Sweet's Catalogue

In that giant among giants—the Equitable Building—what partition to use was a serious question.

You can imagine that with the stream of tenants moving and changing continually the cost of building new partitions might easily be tremendous.

There was not only the cost of the material destroyed if plaster partitions were used, but the dust annoyance to the tenants had to be thought of.

Every type of partition material was considered and rejected for one reason or another.

Finally Empire Steel Partitions was decided upon because of the "ease and economy" with which it can be moved whenever tenants require alterations.

"The partitions embodying the EMPIRE STEEL construction give us a flexible partition which can be used on nearly every floor, and which can be moved at low cost, without expensive waste or damage.

Gentlemen:

Attention Mr. C. M. Watson, Pres.

In response to your favor of November 23, we write to say that the elevator which you installed in our building has given us satisfaction. This elevator is under hard usage and the amount of repairs have been comparatively small to date. We would have no hesitancy in recommending this elevator for similar work.

Yours truly,

U. T. HUNGERFORD BRASS

New York and London

Statistics again have been evoked to prove that Greater New York is greater than Greater London, with the usual result—the younger and more modern city is, according to this latest enumeration as all recent American estimates have made it, way ahead of the municipality which long held first rank in population, in financial standing and in political influence. This most recent compilation of figures gives New York a population of 7,820,676 to London's 7,476,168, living within a radius of nineteen miles from City Hall and from Charing Cross respectively. What the figures really prove is nothing more than that the world's two largest cities are practically on even terms so far as population goes, because the basis upon which the estimate rests is arbitrary and subject to modification according to the fancy of each new statistician.

There is, however, no getting away from the truth that New York's ratio of increase has been very much more rapid than that of the British metropolis, and that it is probable this faster growth, although on a diminishing scale, will continue for many years to come. There are good and sufficient reasons for this belief. The factors which made London the chief city of the world are the British system of colonization, its shipping business and its control of international finances because of its pre-eminence in the import and export trade with every quarter of the globe. London without Liverpool and with only the shallow Thames in which to dock its cargo carriers would never have been able to dominate the shipping business of the Seven Seas. New York, on the other hand, has one of the safest, most capacious and most beautiful harbors in the two hemispheres. It can dock the commercial navies of the world in its landlocked waters and still have room for the fleets of the future. This harbor with natural advantages exceeded by no other port is now to be scientifically developed, which will increase the business done here and add materially to the relative importance of America's commercial capital.

London has a limited agricultural area in the small isles back of it to provide subsistence for its teeming population. New York is on the water edge of a rich contributory continent whose mineral and agricultural resources are not as yet fully developed. Each city is in the heart of a manufacturing district in which up to the outbreak of the war there was used about the same amount of horse power. But the manufacturing capacity of the United States is comparatively much greater now than at that time, and the chief outlet for the surplus machine products of the country is the port of that city which handles the bulk of its overseas' trade.

England had reached the zenith in shipping and in foreign trade when war came, while America had no commercial navy and a comparatively negligible business with other countries. Now the tables are reversed and our flag is in every port in the world and our merchants sell to those of every other language. The pound sterling used to be the only medium of international transactions. The dollar now halves the business, and, whereas British bankers controlled the financial policies of smaller nations through the medium of loans, the bonds of these countries are now being handled by American bankers on terms fixed in this market.

These and other well-known considerations, rather than the bare census figures, show that the supremacy of the cities of the world has moved, or to be modest, is moving from the old landmark to the new Eldorado. It bespeaks a glowing future for New York, which is the impersonation of the greatness of America, as London has always stood for the predominance of Great Britain.

Further Patience Hardly Possible

The testimony which Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, gave before the Lockwood Committee last week is not generally considered as promising early reforms in the building labor situation. It has, on the contrary, served to intensify, and to a great extent confirm, the feeling that labor has definitely adopted a policy of "We can do this; but you can't do that" toward the employers which does not harmonize with its previously-expressed desire to co-operate for the complete stabilization of the industry and the speedy return of normal economic conditions.

Mr. Gompers declared while on the witness stand that the remedy for existing labor evils is not legal regulation but patience. But how can the building industry, for instance, remain patient indefinitely when confronted with a situation that for several years past has actually prevented industrial progress and stultified the ambition of associations, firms and individuals to exert the maximum effort because of the burden of adverse conditions they have been called upon to carry?

Employers in the building industry, particularly those who have been caused untold difficulties of operation because of the arbitrary and frequently hostile attitude of organized labor, feel that the requests for further patience is not becoming one of the professional eminence of Mr. Gompers. This call for continued patience is generally regarded as camouflage, particularly at this time when the local building unions seem to control the situation and apparently have no intention of easing up conditions or doing anything but insist upon maintaining their selfish and self-seeking attitude.

The "outlaw" strikes for wages higher than those fixed by their own union scales, as recently complained of by the Building Trades Employers' Association, constitute a situation that plainly comes within the authority of President Gompers and provides him with an opportunity to show the building industry to what extent he is honestly interested in reforming abuses and stabilizing relations between employers and workers. The American Federation of Labor should bring what influence it has to bear upon the unions responsible for permitting these practices and to make the workmen hold to their collective bargains and refrain from instituting these "outlaw" strikes, which only add to the burden of a harassed industry.

The promotion element of the building industry feels, and rightly so, that Mr. Gompers only excuses what he cannot defend and undoubtedly should denounce. A saner attitude on the part of the President of the A. F. of L. would accomplish more at this juncture to settle the outstanding difficulties between local building trade employers and unions than any other factor, and it would furthermore have a salutary effect upon the industry in general.

Taxpayers May Have to Refund $12,000,000 Back Taxes Paid by Banks

(Special to THE RECORD AND GUIDE)

Albany, April 27.

IN a vigorous attack upon certain national banks for their attitude on the question of the taxation of their shares, the State Tax Commission has warned property owners in all the local tax districts in the State of the possibility of their being called upon to return $12,000,000 in local taxes paid by national banks during the past two years and which the banks are now trying to have repaid to them. The Tax Commission places directly upon these banks the responsibility for defeat up to the present time of needed legislation to prevent this "gross injustice" to the taxpayers of some twenty states, including New York.

The situation was brought about by a recent decision of the United States Supreme Court in the case of a bank in Richmond, Va., interpreting a law passed in 1864 at the close of the Civil War, when methods of taxation were radically different from those prevailing today, giving the states authority to tax the shares of national banks under certain restrictions.

"The rate of the levy and the method followed in making it," the statement says, "have been the same in this State for the past twenty years, and were originally fixed in compliance with the urging of the banks themselves. But an unlooked for opportunity has come in the Richmond decision which has been seized upon by certain New York national banks to evade their just taxes for a period of two years on a technicality which the New York State Tax Commission believes is wholly without justice or fairness to other taxpayers or to the state banks and trust companies which are not affected by federal laws.

"The total of such taxes sought to be recovered amounts in this State to nearly $12,000,000, and every dollar of it belongs to the local districts. If the efforts of the banks are successful the sums recovered, together with interest, will have to be contributed as added taxes by the remaining taxpayers of the cities, towns, villages and school districts, principally the holders of real estate, and returned to the national banks.

"The only adequate remedy for the situation is by amendment to the archaic federal statute (section 5219 of the U. S. Revised Statutes) and the validation by Congress of the taxes which have already been paid. A bill to accomplish this purpose was prepared at a conference of the tax officials of some twenty states in Washington recently and has been introduced in Congress. The bill is known as H. R. 9579, and is in the hands of the Committee on Banking and Currency of the House. It was introduced by Congressman McFadden, chairman of that committee, and a similar bill has been introduced in the Senate by Senator Wadsworth of New York."

Future Plans Outlined at Annual Meeting of New York Building Congress

THE first annual meeting of the New York Building Congress was held in the United Engineering Societies Building, 29 West Thirty-ninth street, Tuesday afternoon, April 18.

President S. P. Voorhees occupied the chair and after disposing of the minutes of the previous meeting called for the annual reports of the officers and standing committees.

The report of President Voorhees was mainly a resume of the purposes for which the organization was formed and an outline of the work now under way. This report also briefly described the efforts to be made during the coming year but their details were left for the later reports of the various committee chairmen entrusted with these undertakings.

The president's report also touched upon the three specific things accomplished by the Congress during the past year. The first was the establishment of an industry conscience in place of the craft consciousness which heretofore had existed much to the detriment of progress in the construction industry. The second was the Code of Ethics formulated by the Congress and which is now recognized as one of the most constructive pieces of industrial literature ever published. This Code has received wide publicity and is being used as the basis of similar trade documents in various parts of the United States. The third and most important of the accomplishments of the Congress during its first year was the establishment of a plan for fostering apprenticeship in the building trades. The plan of the committee in charge of this work is to establish trade classes in which young men can be trained in the various crafts and also in citizenship. The Building Trades Employers' Association and the Building Trades' Council have both given their approval of the plan as outlined and will co-operate fully in making it successful.

Burt Fenner is the chairman of the Committee on Apprenticeship and in his report he described at considerable length the plans as already approved and the support he has received from all concerned in the training of these apprentices assures the success of this undertaking.

The Nominating Committee presented the following slate for election as officers for the ensuing year: Stephen F. Voorhees, president; Andrew J. Post, vice-president; Alexander Kelso, vice-president; Charles Ewing, vice-president; Benjamin D. Traitol, treasurer and Richard A. Wolff, secretary. Upon motion the secretary was instructed to cast a single ballot for the election of the officers.

Architects and Contractors Appoint New Arbitration Committee

THE New York Chapter of the American Institute of Architects and the Building Trades Employers' Association have appointed a committee to deal with vexatious questions that may arise between individual architects and builders and to study and pass on questions of policy that may be of joint importance to builders and architects.

In discussing the formation of this committee a member stated that it occurs frequently that in superintending a building an architect may make a decision to which the builder objects, and it often happens that the builders make rules, enter into combinations or individually refuse to comply with the terms of an agreement in a way to which the architect objects. Heretofore there has been nobody to whom an appeal could be made, the architect's strength reposing on the uncertain condition that his good-will might, in the future, affect the interests of the builder, and the builder's strength lying in the growing domination of the Building Trades Employers' Association and the individual organizations of the trades which has manifest itself in the fact that if one builder refused to complete a project it was difficult, and in several trades impossible, to get another contractor to take it up and complete it.

It will be the duty of the committee recently formed to pass upon questions of this character and to act as a court or tribunal. The committee is composed of three members from the Building Trades Employers' Association and three from the New York Chapter of the American Institute of Architects. Burt L. Fenner, of the firm of McKim, Mead & White, has been elected chairman, and J. E. Rutzler, president of E. Rutzler & Co., steam heating contractors, is secretary. The other members of the committee are Benjamin W. Morris and S. F. Voorhees, representing the Chapter, and C. G. Norman and Fred T. Youngs, representing the builders' association.

Leases Made Since Oct. 1, 1920, Not Subject to Rent Laws

Appellate Division Unanimously Upholds Contention of Landlords That Emergency Legislation Created Two Classes of Tenants, One Preferred

ONE of the most important of the numerous court decisions in respect to the Emergency Rent Laws was handed down in the Supreme Court, Appellate Division, First Department, on April 21, in which it was set forth that the Legislature had created a preferred class of tenants by the enactment of laws applying only to those who held leases on dwellings, apartments or tenement houses prior to Oct. 1, 1920. The decision was in favor of the Farnham Realty Corporation, owners of the Wellmore apartment house, 2178 Broadway, against William M. Posner, a tenant, who leased an apartment in the Wellmore after the rent laws went into effect, moved in and paid the rent for eight months and then sought to recover part of the rent so paid on the ground that it was excessive and the written lease unjust and unreasonable. The opinion, by Justice Alfred R. Page, in which the court concurred unanimously, follows:

Farnham Realty Corporation, Appellant, against William M. Posner, Respondent.—No. 7569.

Appeal from an order of the Supreme Court, New York County, denying plaintiff's motion to strike out denials in the answer and for judgment on the pleadings and for a summary judgment pursuant to Rules 103, 112 and 113 of the Rules of Civil Practice.

LEWIS M. ISAACS, of counsel (M. S. & I. S. Isaacs, Attorneys, for Appellant.

ALEXANDER L. STROUSE, of counsel (Frank, Weil & Strouse, Attorneys) for Respondent.

The action to recover rent for the month of July, 1921, under a written lease of an apartment in premises in the Borough of Manhattan, dated on October 6, 1920, for a term of one year and 1½ months commencing on October 15, 1920. The defendant entered into possession on or about said last mentioned date, and has ever since continued in possession thereof, and has paid the rent called for by the terms of the lease up to and including the rent payable by the terms thereof for the month of June, 1921. A copy of the lease is annexed to the complaint, and by stipulation of the parties the denials of the complaint were withdrawn, and the fact is admitted that the defendant made the deposit required by Chapter 944, Laws of 1920. The court took under consideration the motions for judgment on the pleadings under Rule 112, and for summary judgment under Rule 113. The separate defense alleges:

"Sixth: That the rent sought to be recovered in this action and referred to in paragraphs 'Second,' 'Fourth' and 'Fifth' of the amended complaint herein is unjust and unreasonable, and that the agreement alleged in said paragraphs of the amended complaint, under which said rent is sought to be recovered, is oppressive."

The purpose of this defense is to allow the defendant to take advantage of the provisions of Chapter 136 and 944 of the Laws of 1920. If, as a matter of law, those statutes apply to this case, then the defense presents a triable issue; therefore summary judgment should not be given under Rule 113, but the question is properly presented by the motion for judgment on the pleadings.

In People ex rel. Durham Realty Corporation v. LaFetra (230 N. Y. 429), the opinion states, "The official explanation of the law appended to and submitted with the bill (chap. 442 L. 1920) states its purpose and effect to be 'to do away with the anxiety of many people in New York who have been served with notices to move on October 1.' This declared purpose draws with it the consideration of a group of statutes enacted at the same session to meet a supposed crisis, which are closely related to each other; are a part of the same plan of remedial protection to the tenants in possession on October first, and can be fairly understood only when considered as parts of one comprehensive design." (p. 437.) The court then summarized the condition and events which led to the Legislative investigation, and further said, "While the inadequacy of housing facilities in cities had become a matter of world-wide concern, in the closely settled metropolis it was a problem of the utmost gravity, calamitous in its possibilities. The Legislature, unequal to the task of caring for all, decided to make the tenants in possession a preferred class by staying until November 1, 1922, all proceedings to dispossess them, except for the reasons hereinafter stated, so long as they paid a 'reasonable rent,' which is the term used for a statutory charge for use and occupation, to be ascertained judicially through a method provided by the statutes. The owners of dwellings, including apartment and tenement houses * * * were therefore wholly deprived, until November 1, 1922, of all possessory remedies of removing from their premises the tenants or occupants in possession when the laws took effect, * * * providing such tenants or occupants are ready, able and willing to pay a reasonable rent or price for their use and occupation." (pp. 438, 439.) "One class of landlords is selected for regulation because one class conspicuously offends; one class of tenants has protection because all who seek homes cannot be provided with places to sleep and eat. Those who are out of possession, willing to pay exorbitant rentals, or unable to pay any rental whatever, have been left to shift for themselves. But such classifications deny to no one the equal protection of the laws. The distinction between the groups is real and rests on a substantial bases." (p. 447. The italicization in this and the following quotations is mine.) Judge McLaughlin, in his dissenting opinion in Edgar A. Levy Leasing Co., Inc., v. Siegel (230 N. Y. 634, 640), which he reference he made the grounds of his dissent in the Durham Realty case, stated that he agreed with the majority of the court that the legislative purpose "was to make tenants in possession a preferred class until November 1, 1922." In Marcus Brown Holding Co. v. Feldman (269 Fed. Rep. 306), Hough, Circuit Judge (sitting with Mayer and A. N. Hand, District Judges), writing for the court in construing these same laws, used similar expressions to those quoted above, limiting the scope and effect of the laws to "the tenants or occupants of September 1, 1920" (p. 31); "that the legislative desire is to maintain for about two years the September status of the kind of dwellings * * *. This statute is to be maintained against the landlord's will if necessary, but at the option of the tenants, for the landlord cannot select his tenants, but must accept what may be called the statutory tenants, yet every such tenant is and will be as free to depart and choose another landlord as he was before September, 1920" (p. 312). "Again it is said that these statutes put an end to the liberty of contract, and take property for a private use, and therefore in both respects amount to a denial of due process of law. That as to one and a very large fraction of the contractual engagements current in this city there is no liberty of contract under these statutes cannot be denied, and that property is taken from the landlord for the use of the statutory tenant is also true" (p. 313). "Such demand raised the market value of the old, and correspondingly diminished economic equality, or equality in bargaining, between any actual landlord and any would-be tenant, either new or old. Such conditions produced a reason deemed sufficient by the Legislature to prefer in the struggle for living space the tenant in possession to all others and to them was given the option of remaining at a reasonable rent, so called—really a statutory charge for use and occupation" (p. 315). "If, therefore, the allotment of necessities in times of stress is a governmental function known to historic law, and the business now affected is (in such circumstances) incapable of being affected with a public interest, nothing remains of plaintiff's contention, except the complaint of inequality in legal protection, i. e. classification. This is the nub of the matter, for it is plain that a reason must be clear which justifies on fundamental—i. e. constitutional—principles, the selection of one class of landlords for regulation and one class of tenants for favor and protection" (p. 317).

From these extracts from the opinions of the Court of Appeals and the United States District Court for this District, it clearly appears that the intent of the Legislature was judicially declared to be to make a preferred class of those tenants who were in possession of dwellings, apartments or tenement houses, prior to October 1, 1920, and to permit them to remain in possession until November 1, 1922, so long as they paid a reasonable rent to be ascertained in the manner prescribed in the statute. The only justification for the exercise of the extraordinary power to take control of private property and devote it to private use, to suspend the ordinary processes of the courts, to impair the obligations of contracts and to interfere with the freedom to contract, was found in the police power of the state in dealing with a public emergency, which the Legislature declared existed. It should be clearly borne in mind, that the emergency was not the advance in rents by reason of the housing shortage as a sequence of the World War, for the prices of food, clothing and the other necessities of life had advanced proportionately with the rentals of real estate. The emergency arose from the fact that, by reason of the inadequacy of housing facilities, those in possession were required to pay exorbitant rents under threat of dispossession, and that upwards of 100,000 such proceedings had been instituted in the City of New York. The turning into the streets of 400,000 or 500,000 persons, or the alternative of submission to extortionate demands for rent, created the emergency. The demand that the tenant submit to extortion or have his family put upon the street, was held to have interfered with the freedom to contract, as one of the parties was under duress.

None of these considerations operated in the case of the person out of possession who was seeking a home. As between such a person and the landlord they stood on an equality. If the landlord demanded more than the prospective tenant was willing to pay, he could refuse to make the lease, and both parties were in the same position that they were before. If he signed the lease at the high rental, he voluntarily assumed the burden, and could not claim that duress was exercised when he paid the then market price; for we may assume that, having a freedom of choice, he selected that which was reasonable in comparison with others that were offered. If rentals were so high, by reason of scarcity of housing

Comptroller Says 1923 Budget Will Equal That of This Year

At Real Estate Board's Monthly Dinner Mr. Craig Explains Why Next Year's Tax Rate Will Probably Be no Lower Than for 1922

THE monthly dinner of the Real Estate Board of New York, held at Delmonico's on Thursday evening of last week, was of more than usual interest to those realtors who attend the dinners because the city's finances were discussed by City Comptroller Charles L. Craig. The Comptroller was in a happy mood and seemed glad of the opportunity to talk to real estate men on all phases of the activities of his office. His mind appeared to be stored with all the ledgers and records of his department as he quoted at random all kinds of sums from fifty cents to millions of dollars. He was the only speaker of the evening, and when he had finished he received a rising vote of thanks from the diners.

President Charles G. Edwards, of the Board, presided. Much of the first half of the Comptroller's address was an elucidation of the financial system of the city. The latter half of his speech embodied things that trained real estate men and property owners were pertinently interested in—the taxes of this year and the prospects of taxation next year.

"We are now limited to a tax rate of two per cent. for city and county purposes," Mr. Craig explained. "The expenses of the city this year will be in excess of the $350,000,000 budget. The tax rate in the Borough of Richmond is above the constitutional limit. The high cost of city government is due to the fact that the Legislature of 1920 increased the salaries of public school teachers. Other salaries had to be cut $17,000,000 in order to meet the increase for teachers. The state should have paid the difference, in my opinion, for the theory is that education of the youthful population is a state function. Instead, the Legislature ordered the city to raise the money. We borrowed money in order to pay the increase and some of this obligation is carried forward into the budgets of 1921 and 1922."

Comptroller Craig declared that no reduction could be expected in the budget for 1923, in view of the added burden for new men in the Police Department and other unavoidable obligations confronting the Administration. Discussing the workings of his department, the Comptroller said:

"It is an ancient rule that the Comptroller must borrow money until the taxes come in. It is a good thing for all of us that the credit of the city is as high as it is. The city subsists on borrowed money. It pays out money as fast as it gets it.

"Perhaps a resume of the city's general financial status will be of as much interest to you gentlemen as anything I can talk about. The total debt incurring power of the city within the debt limit is 2 per cent. of the assessed valuation of taxable real estate, which for this year amounts to $1,024,999,183. From this debt are excluded the county bonds of the five counties, the debt for water supply and for revenue producing transit and dock improvements.

"The indebtedness, within the debt limit, is placed at $832,-518,682, and the difference is the $192,480,500. This indebtedness included these items: Gross funded debt as of January last, $1,678,875,150; for county, water and transit bonds, $338,177,279; sinking fund holdings for redemption of the debt, $574,047,945 and other funded debts, including contract liabilities, street opening improvements and land liabilities, $65,868,757.

"The $55,332,189 deducted from the total debt limit includes $6,237,796 for dock improvements, $45,677,777 for school and other general purposes and several transit contracts, and $3,-416,616 for certain stock and bond issues."

The city's method of figuring is disputed by the legislative committee which investigated the municipal finances last year, but the Comptroller's statement will be accepted by the Board of Estimate unless assailed in the courts. This means that the Hylan administration can proceed to spend the $137,148,311 in any way it desires.

'On January 1, 1918, the city's debt limit was $50,270,155.96 and its unencumbered margin available for additional authorization was $18,419,078.91. These figures compare with the debt limit of April 1, 1922, of $192,480,500.99, and an unencumbered margin of $137,148,311.20.

"The statement of the city's funded debt is designed to present the total outstanding amount of bonds which have been issued to finance undertakings that are largely or in part self carrying. The total amounts of water bonds, rapid transit bonds, docks and ferries bonds and assessment bonds payable from assessments make a combined total of $622,463,364.19, of which the city's sinking funds hold $90,782,254.03 and the public bonds $531,681,112.16.

"Of the total amount of water bonds outstanding there are from $95,000,000 to $100,000,000 which are self carrying. The water revenues actually realized each year are probably sufficient to meet all administration, operation and maintenance charges of the Water Department per se, and to provide annual interest payment on and set aside a sum sufficient to amortize and ultimately redeem the principal of from $95,000,000 to $100,000,000 of these bonds.

"The remainder of the water bonds outstanding represents to a great extent the amount which has been expended for the Catskill aqueduct still in course of construction. It may be here stated that all of the water bonds and notes issued for debt incurred for water supply since January 1, 1904, are exempted from the debt limit."

Leases Made Since October 1, 1920, Not Subject to Rent Laws

facilities, as to make an unusually large return on the investment, capital would be attracted, building of dwellings, apartments and tenements would be stimulated, and the level of rents would be lowered to that of the reasonable return on the investment. We can not assume that it was the intention of the Legislature to brush aside all the constitutional safe-guards of private ownership of real estate, and also to abrogate the great economic law of supply and demand. The natural process of this economic principle was left free scope in so far as these who, without restraint, could make their bargains in the open market, which in time would bring rentals to a reasonable figure. This legislation can only be justified on the theory of emergency with reference to those tenants who were in possession at the time the law was enacted.

If a dwelling or an apartment is offered for rental to a private family for residential purposes (and it is only to such that laws under consideration apply), it is not thereby devoted to the public use of affected with a public use, so as to bring it within the rate regulating power of the Legislature. Such property is within the protection of the constitution. It is true that, in times of calamity or overruling necessity, temporary interference with the control, or an actual appropriation, of such property may be necessary and justified by the emergency. Such interference, however, must be limited to that which is necessary to the occasion. When a subject matter is within the police power of the state, its regulation is within the power of the Legislature; but whether the subject matter is within the police power, is a judicial question to be determined by the courts. (Matter of Jacobs, 98 N. Y. 98, 111). In my opinion, this legislation was limited to the immediate emergency, and should not be extended beyond those limits.

In the case under consideration the tenant voluntarily signed the lease and agreed to pay the rent reserved, and paid it without question for eight months. Now, on the theory of duress, he seeks to escape from his contract and have a jury make a contract for him that will be binding on the landlord. In what did the alleged duress consist? In this, that he could not obtain similar accommodation in the locality that he desired at a less rental, and perforce must pay the rent the landlord demanded.

If such an argument can be accepted, why should not the man who bought a suit of clothes from his tailor for $150, which he could have obtained in pre-war days for $75, be allowed to refuse to pay, on the ground that the price was unreasonable, and ask that a jury determine what the tailor is entitled to receive and at what rate he shall continue to furnish him clothes?

In my opinion the defendant is not within the purview of the statute, and the defense is insufficient in law.

The order will therefore be reversed with $10 costs and disbursements, plaintiff's motion for judgment on the pleadings granted with $10 costs.

Dowling Smith and Merrell, J. J. concur. Laughlin, J., concurs in result.

Little Moving Except to the Suburbs on May 1 This Year

Not So Many Changes of Tenancy as Usual in Manhattan, Bronx and Brooklyn,
But There is Quite an Exodus to Queens, Suffolk and New Jersey

WITH May 1 imminent, one of the times when the moving of families is heavier than during any other portion of the year, an anomaly presents itself in the fact that there will be very little moving from one abode to another within the city. The situation is about the same in all the boroughs. If there is more moving in one spot in Manhattan than in another, little though it be comparatively, the destination is to Queens, where hundreds of new apartment houses and one and two-family houses have been in course of construction during the winter for spring occupancy. The new living spaces in Queens are not being filled entirely from Manhattan, but from Brooklyn, too.

The lack of general moving this spring in Manhattan and the Bronx is caused primarily by the fact that there was a heavy leasing of apartments last October, when northern Manhattan and the Bronx had many new apartments ready for use and many old tenants were forced from their apartments to new ones by raises in rents on new leases and by new tenants making leases over the heads of old tenants.

Of the thousands of apartment house tenants who a year or more ago placed their household effects in storage and went boarding as a result of unprecedented high rentals then prevailing, few have again leased apartments. Consequently the storage warehouses are full to capacity.

The only noticeable spring movement is to the suburbs within easy commuting distance of Manhattan. Thousands of new one and two-family houses have been built in the five suburban counties of New Jersey, in Westchester and Rockland counties and in Nassau and Suffolk counties. New houses are rented or sold as fast as they are built. During the last year four hundred new houses were built in Lynbrook, Nassau county, and they are all either sold or rented. Montauk Highway and other leading thoroughfares through Long Island just now abound in moving vans carrying furniture eastward. Throughout the entire suburban area around New York cottages and bungalows are being leased by the year empty for figures that formerly obtained for furnished houses of the same types. Many of the suburban warehousemen still have their buildings stored full of furniture belonging to persons in their neighborhoods whose leases had expired last autumn and who were unable to obtain new places of residence.

The shortage of apartments and high rentals in Manhattan, Brooklyn and the Bronx that prevailed last year reacted upon the suburbs to the extent that thousands of city residents went beyond the limits in hope of relief with the result that they have confounded the suburban situation. On every hand, in the suburbs, houses are in course of construction and in face of the fact that building material prices have not receded largely.

The situation as to the higher class of apartments in Manhattan is about the same as it was last October. There is a small percentage of vacancies. A few persons who spend their summers in the country are now looking around for apartments to lease from October 1 next. Many of this class, however, are living the year through in their country homes, if within easy reach of the city. Especially is this true of families with children. The finer apartment house districts have lost thousands of these families permanently.

There is a continuance of the situation of last year of tenants who formerly occupied costly apartments leasing apartments of the next lower grade in order to be within their rental means. Many of them of last year will continue in the lower grade on longer term leases.

Notable Alteration of Building in Old Downtown District

NOTABLE among the recent building projects in the downtown business district, in which antiquated structures have been remodeled and modernized for business purposes, is the reimprovement of the site at 52 to 54 Vesey street, between Church and Greenwich streets, owned and occupied by the A. B. See Electric Elevator Company. The altered structure is an excellent example of what is possible in the line of turning an old-fashioned building into a good-looking and commodious office structure.

The original buildings on the site of the A. B. See Company's offices were typical of the older downtown business districts. The three upper stories of 54 Vesey street had been destroyed by fire some time previous to the acquisition of the property by the new owners.

In preparing the plans for the alterations, Francis Y. Joannes, the architect retained by the owners, found that the absence of the upper stories of the destroyed building were a decided advantage, and the increased day-lighting of the upper stories of the adjacent building made it possible to attract an entirely different class of tenants for these floors at a higher rental than otherwise would have been obtainable.

The entire front of both buildings has been removed and rebuilt with Indiana limestone, with counter-weighted steel sash in the lower two stories and a motor truck entrance in the westerly opening at grade. The westerly wall of 52 Vesey street, above the roof of the adjoining building, has been pierced with seven windows on each floor, and the outside wall is finished in stucco to match the limestone front.

The A. B. See Electric Elevator Company occupies the entire basement, first and second floors, and leases the three upper stories for office purposes. The upper floor of the westerly building is lighted by skylights. The elevator service is provided by a modern push button control elevator without an operator, made and installed by the owners. This type of elevator is a decided advance in design and offers possibilities in the development of similar properties where elevator service is desirable but impossible where attendance is necessary.

Francis Y. Joannes, Architect.
NEW OFFICES OF A. B. SEE ELECTRIC ELEVATOR CO.

Mr. Dowling Warns Against Rash Regulation of Realty

Unwarranted Interference with Property Rights Will Destroy Initiative Which Built Up New York, He Says, at Y. M. C. A. Realty Class Dinner

THE banquet of the Real Estate Training Class of the West Side Y. M. C. A., which marked the close of the lecture course on real estate for this year, took place in the ballroom of the Park Avenue Hotel on Tuesday evening. Present were nearly all of the prominent realtors who delivered lectures to the class during the winter. They were the guests of the class and sat at the table of honor with Judge Thomas C. T. Crain, Lawson Purdy, William C. Demarest, Rev. Samuel W. Grafflin and Thomas Daggett, Secretary of the Transit Commission. W. H. Wyckoff, who has assembled the class each week, presided.

Judge Crain was the orator of the evening and he discussed at length the mission of the Y. M. C. A. and the cause and solution of the existing crime wave in New York. He urged the inculcation of a higher sense of moral responsibility among the young, and pointed out that most of the crimes now perpetrated are by youths and young men. He said that law could protect society against criminals by depriving them of their liberty but that it could not stop the growth of more of them. That rested with the moral sense of the community.

William C. Demarest, who was Honorary Chairman of the winter lecture course, expressed the thanks of the class to the lecturers and said the occasion was an anomaly in that never before within his recollection had a class in any branch of learning held a banquet and made the faculty the guests of honor. He assured the class that the faculty was grateful, and his remarks caused much amusement.

Lawson Purdy declared that as real estate is now considered a profession by many it had become necessary for the class to take into account its full responsibility.

"Part of the duty of you realtors," said Mr. Purdy, "is to know the laws pertaining to real estate, not alone for your own sakes but for the welfare and interest of your clients. In some states of the Union property-owners have to appraise and value their own property. It makes a complex problem because the average man, even though he may own considerable real estate, knows little of the actual value of it. He may have a general idea of value but he knows little if any thing about the causes of appreciation or depreciation of values in divers parts of the city. Hence it is futile for an ordinary layman to decide what property values are. The wise property-owner leaves it to experts to determine real value. As real estate men you will become more or less expert and it is for you to know all the laws bearing on real property. They are a vital adjunct to your business."

Robert E. Dowling, in the course of his remarks, said: "Those in the real estate business expect to make a living of it. That is the practical view. That is what will inspire you to remain in it. I want to impress upon you the fact that the practical side of the business can properly accompany the utilitarian side of it. The best brokers in this town, the men who have made its real estate a great asset and conserved its utility, are very simple men. They are honest men in spite of all that may be said to the contrary. They love their business the same as the lawyer, the doctor or even the clergyman loves his business. All the slick and smart persons that I have met in the real estate business have not remained in it. They played their little part upon the stage and the public has disposed of them. They are not and they never have been the big men of the real estate market of this city.

"Read the history of New York thoroughly. Go back into its earlier eras and learn why this town has grown as it has and why it must continue to grow. The real estate business here, if properly understood, is the finest blend of romance and reality that one can enjoy. In 1790 Albany and Dutchess counties had bigger populations than New York county. Think of it! What made this imperial municipality? A knowledge of the city's history is absolutely essential to your progress.

"I have always been opposed to excessive regulation of real estate by law. We have had regulation of some kind or other from the earliest times. I would call much of it unnecessary interference with property rights. In New Amsterdam there was a law that inflicted a fine on every man who did not improve his vacant land. That was the beginning of regulation. Since then we have had other laws just as onerous in other ways. I want to impress upon you young real estate men, you who will carry on the great business of leasing and selling property here, that legislation by clamor and the interpretation of it by courts that fear the public are not the things that will help the growth of this city along the right lines. Real estate stability cannot rest on such conditions. The courts should restrain the people against their own excesses. They do quite often, but not always, and much radical legislation against real estate shows the need of restraint. If every rash notion against the rights of property prevails, and there is a tendency in that direction, it will be possible to kill the desire and incentive to do anything big and constructive in property matters in this city and state. I feel that I have not overstated the matter.

"Within a generation or less we have witnessed events that show which way the wind is blowing. Time was when large estates and rich men built rows of private dwellings and apartment houses in New York. Their surplus funds went into such substantial investments and the people at large were the beneficiaries. It is no longer the case. Speculative builders of all kinds now do the vast bulk of construction here. Property-owners of standing and of great substance have been punished severely for doing the very things that have helped New York. There is no longer an incentive for constructive work among the element who did it and who thereby aided our civilization and our social progress. A serious condition confronts us because too many extraneous theories have been allowed to play upon the passions and prejudices of law-making bodies and upon the minds of the public. I have acted officially with law-making bodies, I have witnessed all of the inside workings, and I know whereof I speak. There are sincere and honest theorists about property rights and I respect their good qualities, however much I believe in the dangerous results of their theories. There is a dead line where attacks on property and property rights must cease."

Dr. Grafflin told the class that there were seven principles they could well carry with them into the activities of their business: Courage to pioneer; the will to investigate; the capacity for new truth; tolerance of the radical young man, and conservatism in yourselves; a high sense of responsibility; a set of strong convictions; and sacrificial persistence.

The evening closed with an illustrated talk on "Old New York," by Harry Hall, of the firm of William A. White & Sons. Secretary Daggett, of the Transit Commission, spoke on the readjustment of the subway systems and his address was along the same lines as that recently delivered by Gen. John F. O'Ryan at a monthly dinner of the Real Estate Board of New York.

Among the well-known real estate men present were Robert E. Simon, William L. De Bost, James Nash Webb, many of the office force of William A. White & Sons, George L. Allin, A. C. McNulty, and several of the active force of Pease & Elliman.

New York Society of Architects Holds Monthly Meeting

THE regular monthly meeting of the New York Society of Architects, held at the Engineering Societies Building, 29 West Thirty-ninth street, Tuesday evening, April 18, was well attended and several important matters were discussed and acted upon. President James Riely Gordon occupied the chair and after the minutes and other routine business was disposed of Secretary Johnson read a letter from Harold S. Graves, of Boston, in reference to the competitive designs for small dwellings. This is an altogether altruistic competition, promoted in the interest of young people who are desirous of having their own homes and, according to the opinion of the New York Society of Architects, well worthy of support.

Complete satisfaction was expressed at this meeting upon the recent judgment of Justice Giegerich, which gives the architects the right of placing a lien against a property, whether he superintends its construction or not.

The following architects were elected to membership in the Society: Edwin H. Denby, Aymar Embury, 2d, Richard H. Hunt, Maurice Deutsch, Thomas F. Price and Matthew Del Gaudio.

The next meeting scheduled will be the annual convention of the Society. This event will be held at the Hotel Astor and will be preceded by a banquet and an interesting program.

Review of Real Estate Market for the Current Week

Fifth Avenue Contributed a Choice Corner Plot, While Madison and Lexington Avenues and Neighborhoods Witnessed Strong Selling and Leasing

THIS was a week contributing sales of real estate of more than ordinary interest. Looming prominently was the sale of a large vacant upper Fifth Avenue corner by the Lloyd S. Bryce estate to a firm of prominent builders for improvement with a high class apartment house. It indicates that in spite of the law that regulates the height of apartment buildings in the fine residential part of the avenue that it has not discouraged builders. The site in discussion is 100.11x200 and it will enable the buyers to put up a building of medium height and yet contain numerous apartments. The plot was held at $460,000. Numerous first class dwellings in the Fifth and Madison Avenue neighborhoods changed hands. On the west side of Central Park a fine dwelling on 72d Street was bought for the purpose of remodeling it into a business building. This emphasizes the trend in that wide thoroughfare. It would not be surprising if more sales of this kind were reported there in the near future.

Lexington and Madison Avenues both were strong factors in the dealing of the week. Corner properties there are proving attractive for remodeling or for reimprovement for business and apartment purposes. H. H. Rogers leased the southwest corner of Madison Avenue and 57th Street for a long term of years to a lessee who will remodel the two old dwellings on the site. The aggregate rental is more than $1,000,000. In lower Madison Avenue, at 38th Street, the site of the Old South Church again changed hands and it is understood that a fine apartment house will be built on the site, it having been held that a multifamily house does not violate the meaning of the Murray Hill restriction. August Heckscher owned this corner some months ago, but he took a profit on it and another one was taken on the resale.

The West Side Branch of the Y. M. C. A. was revealed as the buyer of two large plots on West 57th Street, near its headquarters there, the parcels taken being the site of old Zion and St. Timothy Church and some apartment houses abutting on 56th Street. The combined sites will be improved with a home for working boys.

Several tenants of buildings throughout the city bought the parcels they occupy. A notable instance was that of a Grand Street merchant who bought a loft building he had leased for 35 years. Only a few weeks ago a long time tenant on the lower West Side did the same.

In the Bronx the dealing was varied and strong and there was a sudden revival of vacant land buying that in volume approached the dealing in plots that prevailed there in mid-winter. Many apartment houses in the northerly borough also changed hands.

PRIVATE REALTY SALES.

THE total number of sales reported, but not recorded, in Manhattan this week was 85, as against 75 last week and 79 a year ago.

The number of sales south of 59th st was 30, as compared with 21 last week and 10 a year ago.

The number of sales north of 59th st was 55, as compared with 54 last week and 46 a year ago.

From the Bronx 48 sales at private contract were reported, as against 52 last week and 43 a year ago.

Statistical tables, including the number of recorded instruments, will be found on page 523.

Mystic Shriners Enlarge Plot

An addition to the site for the $2,000,000 mosque for the Mystic Shriners, Mecca Temple, has been made through the purchase of the 3-story brick stable, on a plot 50x100.5, at 133-135 West 55th st, from George C. Mason for $140,000. Last December the Shriners bought the adjoining eight lot site of the Famous Players Studio on 55th st, extending through the block to 124-130 West 56th st. That purchase was made through Robert Levers from Yale University, to whom the property was donated by William Smith Mason. The Famous Players have a two-year lease of the premises. With the latest acquisition the Shriners now control a site fronting 151 feet on 55th st and 100 feet on 56th st. The sale is recorded.

Big Mortgage Assigned.

Charles F. Noyes Co. sold to H. M. Susswein the $450,000 mortgage on the former Market & Fulton Bank (now merged with Irving National Bank) 11-story building 81-83 Fulton st, and running along Gold st from Fulton to Ann st. Mr. Susswein is president of the Fulton-Gold Corporation, owners of the property. Breed, Abbott & Morgan were the attorneys representing the Irving National Bank in the transfer of the mortgage, and Cass & Apfel represented Mr. Susswein's interests.

Gas Cut-off Ordinance Vetoed.

After a hearing to give opportunity for arguments in favor of and against the installation of gas cut-offs in buildings throughout the city, with the exception of one and two-family dwellings, Mayor Hylan formally vetoed the ordinance which was passed by the Board of Aldermen. Many landlords were present at the hearing and vigorously attacked the arguments advanced by Fire Chief John Kenlon and others, who favored the measure.

Disorder began when Chief Kenlon intimated that landlords were making enough through high rents to assume the cost themselves.

Mr. Kenlon said leaking gas was one of the greatest menaces with which firemen had to contend.

"This is a question of lives not of dollars," he shouted. Chief Kenlon paid a tribute to the work of the firemen and told of their dangers. He said it had been estimated that the installing of the device would cost $40,000,000, whereas, he said, it wouldn't cost half that.

"Anyway," he said, "the property owners will get their money back in reduced insurance rates in five or six years."

When the hearing was over the Mayor said that, while he thought the principle involved was a good one and that it would save the lives of firemen and occupants of buildings, he thought the cost of installing the cut-offs should fall upon the gas companies, and not the property owners, and he would send the measure back to the Aldermen to have the matter threshed out.

Y. M. C. A. Buys on 57th Street

Presumably as a site for its Boys' Memorial Building the West Side Branch of the Y. M. C. A. is purchasing the site of the old Zion and St. Timothy's Church and rectory at 332-334 West 57th st. The buildings were destroyed by fire last January. It is said that the Y. M. C. A. officials and trustees of the church have agreed upon the sale and it is understood that the purchase price is close to $350,000, the valuation which the church has placed on the property.

The site fronts 75 feet on 57th st and extends through the block 200 feet to 56th st, where it fronts 100 feet. On 57th st it is separated from the West Side Branch building by 125 feet, which is occupied by the Princeton Apartments, and on 56th st the 40-foot Palisade Apartments separate the properties.

The plan of the Y. M. C. A. to build a home for working boys under 18 years of age calls for an expenditure of about $500,000. The building is to be 8 stories with facilities for between 1,500 and 2,000 members and dormitories for 195. Many prominent New Yorkers are interested in the plan. John D. Rockefeller, Mrs. Willard D. Straight, Philip Le Bouteiller, J. B. Mabon and Gilbert College were among the donors.

Proposed Sites for Schools

The Board of Education has recommended to the Board of Estimate the purchase of a plot on the east side of Andrews av, north of Burnside av, adjoining Public School 26, and a plot on the northwest side of Randall av, between East Tremont and Revere avs, Throgs Neck. Both are in the Bronx.

City Buys a Bronx Plot

The National Florence Crittenton Mission sold to the city of New York the property, 108.7x181.9x irregular, on the east side of Franklin av, 315 feet north of 168th st.

Old South Church Site Resold.

William B. Jones resold to a syndicate the southeast corner of Madison av and 38th st, a vacant plot 98.9x125, that was the site of the Old South Church. It was held at $500,000. It is understood that the corner will be reimproved with a large apartment house.

Conjectures as to the nature of the building project to follow the deal are based upon the fact that William H. Silk is identified with the purchasers. Mr. Silk has been associated with J. S. Cushman in the construction of a group of Allerton apartment houses for bachelors in the residential districts of the East Side.

Mr. Jones bought the plot from August Heckscher a year ago. Mr. Silk says that no definite plans had been devised for the old church corner, but there is little doubt that improvement will be more than a single family dwelling. The plot fronts 98.9 feet on the avenue and 125 feet on the street. Charles E. Van Valen, Inc., were the brokers in the resale.

Lexington Avenue Corner Sales

The newly formed Pinklen Realty Co., E. M. Bernstein, C. Warner and B. E. Boss, directors, purchased from the Correll estate the two 5-story apartment houses, on plot 80x104.4, at the southwest corner of Lexington av and 81st st. The properties were valued at $250,000. The corner house is known as Lenox Arms.

Emanuel Ornstein, who has been actively interested in property in the vicinity of Lexington av, has purchased the northwest corner of that thoroughfare and 87th st, from the Markwin Realty Co., which held it at $185,000. The property is known as 1290 to 1298 Lexington av and 131 to 133 East 87th st, and is improved with the 5-story Columbia flats on the corner and two 2-story dwellings on the street. The avenue frontage is 100.8 feet and 69 feet on the street.

Frederick Brown resold to the Abraham Brickman Construction Co. the northeast corner of Lexington av and 74th st, recently assembled by him for improvement with an 11-story apartment house, which will represent an outlay of approximately $750,000.

The property is known as 1033 to 1039 Lexington av, improved with three flats and a 4-story building, the site fronting 68 feet on the avenue and 82.6 feet on the street. Day & Day and Maurice Renard were the brokers. Mr. Brown acquired the three southerly houses from G. L. Lawrence, a plot on Washington Heights figuring in part payment, and from George White Mr. Brown bought 1039 Lexington av.

Resell Water Street Corner

Charles F. Noyes Co. resold for Norman S. Riesenfeld and Joseph F. A. O'Donnell to American Kitchen Products Co., manufacturers of Steero products, now a tenant, the building 30 x70, at 281 Water st, a 7-story mercantile building, northeast corner of Dover st. The property was valued at $60,000 and was purchased within the last few weeks by Riesenfeld & O'Donnell through the Charles F. Noyes Co. from Emil A. Roos, to whom the same brokers sold the property several years ago.

Everybody Needs Hot Water

This Tells How to Get It

For the greater convenience of our customers we have just organized a

WATER HEATING & HOUSE HEATING DIVISION

at No. 130 East Fifteenth Street

OUR experts will give prompt attention to those who are considering the use of Gas either for Heating Water or the Heating of a House, Apartment, Loft or Large Building.

Architects and Builders, with advantage to themselves and their clients, should ask for the services of one of our highly qualified Experts. His services are gratis.

As to Gas Water Heating: There are Gas Water Heaters for use in the Home, Office or Factory. Then again we install a Gas Water Heating System that will furnish a large building with an instantaneous, uninterrupted, Summer or all-year-round supply of hot water. The Gas Boiler installed requires no attention. It regulates itself automatically.

Many private houses are using this System, as well as many large buildings. One of the latter requires nearly 40,000 gallons of hot water every week. Another large building requires nearly 6,000 gallons a day, every drop of which is Gas heated.

Every person interested in a newly constructed building, or one under construction or contemplated, or in a building being or about to be remodeled, should consider the advantages of Gas Water Heating.

Altmayer sold for Mrs. Julia Chapin Bourne Lockwood to Dr. Beit the 5-sty stone and brick dwelling known as 908-910-912 Park av and 76 East 80th st, being the southwest corner of the two streets. The property has a frontage of 81.2 feet on Park av and 20.6 feet on the street. The same brokers resold the same to Edgar A. Levy.

A Fine Apartment Catalogue

Pease & Elliman, who have long managed and leased superior apartments in this city, have issued their sixth annual catalogue of fine apartments in the Fifth av and Madison av districts, the upper West Side, as well as in the Park av neighborhood and the avenue itself. Ample illustrated with floor plans, the catalogue is a comprehensive document in apartment details. The location of every bathroom, closet space, bed chamber, salon, library, kitchen, butler's pantry, private hall and connections is shown at a glance, thereby informing the prospective tenant of much in a few minutes. All of these plans are from architects' drawings.

The publication abounds in typical floor plans of the most costly apartments in town to the lowest priced first class ones. No book of its kind yet issued is more thorough in its presentation of choice living space. It also contains a list of apartment houses floor plans of which are not shown.

The following important statement appears in the catalogue: "We have not in this book given the price ranges for the various apartments. The reason for this is not what might be assumed, that we are expecting any immediate revision of rents, though one may come. The owners, and not Pease & Elliman, authorize the rent schedules of the houses of which we have charge; and we do not attempt to give price ranges for the many houses in this book which we have inserted for the convenience of the public but of which we do not have charge."

MORTGAGE LOANS

Edwards, Dowdney & Richart placed a first mortgage of $60,000 for the Walvin Real Estate Co. on premises 100-06 Tenth av. They also placed building and permanent mortgages amounting to $38,000 for the Success Building Co. on premises on the west side of Eastburn av, 68.3 feet north of 73d st.

The Metropolitan Life Insurance Company has authorized mortgage loans amounting to $10,500,000. About $6,000,000 of these were loaned in New York City, about $3,000,000 on out of town city loans, and over $1,500,000 on farm loans. The housing loans will provide shelter for 1,179 families. Of these 203 are on dwellings outside of New York City to provide for 237 families, and on 28 apartments outside of New York City to provide for 222 families. In the greater city the loans are on 25 apartments and 29 dwellings, altogether to provide for 720 families.

The New York City housing loans were mostly on Queens properties. The out-of-town housing loans, amounting to about $1,250,000, were made in Norfolk Va.; Memphis, Tenn.; Atlanta, Ga.;

a number of cities in Florida, Nashville, Chattanooga, the suburbs of Chicago, the suburbs of Boston, in Cleveland, and a few in scattered cities in Minnesota, Ohio and Indiana.

Other loans include $3,219,500 on 23 business buildings. The farm loans were made in Iowa, Missouri, Alabama, Indiana, Tennessee, South Dakota, Kansas, Arkansas, Nebraska and other Southern and Western states.

S. W. Straus & Co. have underwritten two first mortgage serial bond issues of $3,200,000 on new housing projects with a combined capacity of 1,600 rooms. One is a loan of $1,700,000 on the land and 14-sty apartment hotel to be erected at 91st st and Broadway. The structure will contain 450 rooms divided into small suites. The borrowing corporation is the Van Rensselaer Estates, Inc., of which Henry A. Blumenthal is president. Schwartz & Gross are the architects, and Hughes & Hammond were the brokers.

The other underwriting was a first mortgage bond issue of $1,500,000 on the Lewis Morris apartment house, and land on Grand Boulevard and Concourse, Clifford pl and Walton av. The building will be 13 stories on the Concourse elevation and 16 stories on Walton av and will contain 1,050 rooms arranged in apartments of 3 to 7 rooms and bath. The owner is the Clif-Walt Realities, Inc., of which the president and controlling stockholder is Albert J. Schwartzler, prominent builder and realty owner. Jacob & Emil Leitner, Inc., were the brokers.

Joseph P. Day placed a first mortgage of $60,000 on the former old French Hospital's premises at 322 West 34th st, comprising a 5-sty building, 50x118.

Lawrence, Blake & Jewell placed for Harry Aronson, Inc., $180,000 on the northeast corner of 76th st and Madison av, a 10-sty apartment house; for the Ambrose Realty Corporation $57,000 on 338-340 West 56th st, a 6-sty elevator apartment house; and for A. Schwalbe $70,000 on 36 West 38th st, a 6-sty business building.

Charles B. Van Valen, Inc., negotiated recently mortgage loans aggregating $2,990,000. All of these were for large amounts, the most recent being: $900,000 on the 14-sty Rodin Studios, on a plot 89x115, at the southwest corner of Seventh av and 57th st; $160,000 on the 6 and 7-sty apartment houses with stores at 369-373 Third av, 204-8 East 27th st and 302 East 26th st for the Lorena Realty Corporation; first, second and third mortgages aggregating $535,000 for the Western Holding Co. on the 12-sty elevator apartment house 164-168 West 72d st; $205,000 on the 9-sty apartment house at the northwest corner of Seventh av and 110th st; $300,000 for the Loyd Realty Co. on the 4-sty building at 1568-1570 Broadway; $50,000 for Daniel H. Jackson on the 5-sty "Theodora" apartment house at 752 West End av, and $450,000 on the 10-sty elevator apartment house at the northeast corner of Madison av and 66th st for the 777 Madison Avenue Co.

M. Morgenthau, Jr., Co., placed a first mortgage loan of $23,000 at 6 per cent. per annum, for a term of years, for the Stability Realty Co. on 854 Lexington av. The Stability Realty Co. recently completed the remodeling of this building, which was a private dwelling on lot 16.8 x80. The ground floor store has been leased to Herman Birnbaum, electrician, and the 2d floor to Anderson Employment Agency, while the upper 3 floors have been leased as apartments.

Samuel and Henry A. Blumenthal, who purchased from the Astor estate the southeast corner of Broadway and 91st st, have obtained a loan of $1,700,000 from S. W. Straus & Co., Inc., for the erection of a 14-sty apartment house with stores.

Wants and Offers, For Sale and For Rent—Rate 25c. per line; count six words to the line.

Employers anxious to secure help (clerical or professional), or employees wishing to obtain a position or better a present one will find the Record and Guide the quickest and most direct method of bringing their wants to the attention of the largest number of interested readers, in the real estate or building professions.

No medium reaching real estate interests affords owners, brokers, and executors wishing to dispose of desirable property (in or out of the city), so favorable an opportunity to bring the merits of their propositions to the attention of possible buyers as does the For Sale and For Rent section of the Record and Guide.

Prompt Solution of Building Labor Problems Hoped For Building Trades Employers' Association Condemns "Outlaw" Strikes and Authorizes Individual Organizations to Negotiate Separate Agreements

CONSIDERABLE progress has been made during the past week toward an early settlement of the deadlock prevailing between employers and building trade unions over the question of an agreement for the remainder of the current year and it is generally thought likely that this situation will be definitely cleared up within the next week or ten days.

There was a meeting this week of the joint committee representing the employers and the Council. At this meeting the labor representatives refused to discuss the "fourteen points" as adopted by the Building Trades Employers' Association unless the matter of wages was taken up at the same time. The employers refused to proceed under this condition and stated that they have adopted as their position an acceptance of the "fourteen points" before it is possible to discuss the matter of wages.

The Employers' Association has instructed the officials of the various affiliated trade associations to negotiate new agreements with their respective unions. Although no announcement can be made as yet to the results of these negotiations it is stated that progress is being made.

The Public Group Committee also is active in its efforts to bring harmony back to the industry. In order that the public may be fully informed and protected it is planned to submit all agreements made by the various trade groups to the Public Group Committee for approval before they are signed and become operative.

The Building Trades Employers' Association recently issued a statement in which they complained of a growing number of "outlaw" or "snowball" strikes and the claim is made that this practice is rapidly gaining headway throughout the local building field. These "outlaw" strikes are spreading, the statement says, until the payment of as much as $12 per day, or $2 above the agreed wage, has not resulted in an adequate supply of labor.

The bricklayers and the plasterers are not affiliated with the Building Trades' Council, but the condition in their trades is said to reflect what obtains among the member unions.

"The bricklayers have given the great housing construction boom a hard slam," says the statement issued by the Employers' Association, "and the plasterers threaten to knock it out. In the big building year of 1919 the mechanics discovered that the outlaw or 'snowballing' strike could be effectively used to increase wages. Ten dollars a day is now the agreed wage for bricklayers and plasterers, and the journeymen have again resorted to outlaw or 'snowballing' strikes to raise their wages. They have deserted the jobs of a number of the members of the Building Trades Employers' Association, including the new Bowery Savings Bank building at Forty-second Street and Park Avenue, for which the George A. Fuller Company is the contractor. They have deserted the jobs of Dwight P. Robinson & Co., at Fifty-eighth Street and Park Avenue, and the J. G. White Engineering Company project at Elmhurst, L. I. These two firms are working under an agreement with the bricklayers' union which has been underwritten or guaranteed by the International Union. Three hundred bricklayers have left the work of the members of the Building Trades Employers' Association and that of the other contractors named.

"The 'snowballing' began about a month ago on the work of the speculative builders in the Bronx, and then spread to Brooklyn. It met with success. It commenced with the tying-up of a job and the offer to return to work at $11 per day. The builder gave in. The strike then spread to other jobs and within our weeks practically all of the speculators had been whipsawed and were paying the $11 rate. The campaign then shifted to Brooklyn and the ante was raised another dollar and many speculators succumbed.

"The ambitious school building program of the city is affected and the condition of the school work under construction is exceedingly bad. On new Public School No. 89, on Amsterdam Avenue, 188th to 189th Street, where fifty bricklayers should now be working, four are employed. On new Public School No. 58, 176th Street and Washington Avenue, the Bronx, seven bricklayers are working and thirty-five should be employed. The new Brooklyn schools under construction are about seventy-five per cent. manned."

Investigation of the labor situation, particularly as it applies to bricklayers, shows that the majority of the active operations in this city are being hampered by the scarcity of mechanics. The tremendous program of speculative construction in Brooklyn has been materially slowed down because of the shortage of men to complete the work. Hardly a job has more than sixty per cent. of the workmen normally required and the result is that builders are forced to compete with each other for the labor they need.

The speculative builders, the majority of whom are not members of any association with power to regulate or curb their actions, are the chief offenders in the payment of bonuses to labor and they are solely responsible for the conditions that prevail today. Their only interest lies in getting their projects completed in time for the autumn renting season and before the major portion of the housing now under construction is ready to be thrown on the market for sale. These builders feel that the additional labor cost will be offset by higher rentals and better prices in selling and, therefore, are willing to pay now in order to complete their operations. The condition is exerting a demoralizing influence upon the legitimate building industry, however, and is forcing similar competition for workers upon contractors who otherwise would never countenance such action.

These conditions are in no wise peculiar to Brooklyn. Similar competition for skilled workers prevails in Queens and the Bronx and as a result activity has slowed down on a number of operations and there are many prospective builders who declare they will not proceed with their contemplated buildings as long as they have no assurance of what their final labor costs will be. Because of the open winter a large amount of apartment house construction was possible and many of these structures are now well along towards completion. A number of the finishing trades have been affected through the growing scarcity of skilled mechanics and it is now the rule to expect to pay wages considerably above the scale to plasterers, painters, parquet floor layers, tile setters, and other workers whose services are in demand to complete these buildings. As the building season progresses there is bound to be a greater intensity to the demand for skilled workers. New projects, commercial as well as residential, are being started every day, and architects and engineers have plans under way for many additional structures, all scheduled for an early start. Daily advertisements in the classified columns of the newspapers indicate the intensity of the demand for bricklayers and carpenters.

How "American Plan" Is Working Out in San Francisco

Prominent Coast Official Says Building Boom Reflects Complete Success of Idea and Proves It Fair to Both Employes and Contractors

By H. B. ALLEN

Vice-President, San Francisco Real Estate Board and Secretary Industrial Association of San Francisco

FOR seven months the American Plan has been in full effect in the building trades of San Francisco. It has worked extremely well. Under the old order—the closed shop order, with all its correlated and cost-increasing rules and regulations—the building public had lost confidence in San Francisco. That confidence now has been fully restored, thanks to the American Plan, which, at the same time, has imposed no conditions of hardship upon the workers, and has been absolutely fair to all concerned. Accordingly, it is not too much to say that in all respects the American Plan has been a complete and unqualified success. So much of a success, indeed, that San Francisco is now in the midst of the greatest building boom in its history. Building permits for the first quarter of this year amounted to more than eleven million dollars—an increase of seventy per cent. over the first quarter of 1921; and real estate transfers for the month of March aggregated more than fourteen million dollars—the largest volume for any similar period during the last sixteen years.

The Industrial Association of San Francisco, created last year at the time of the building trades strike by a group of the city's leading business men as an organization to protect the public's interest, has sponsored the American Plan and enforced its provisions. It has done so not in the interest of any special group or faction, but in the general interest of labor, employers and the public.

With the inauguration of the American Plan it became necessary to determine upon some equitable means of fixing wages to obtain after the expiration of the then existing scale. This task was entrusted to the Industrial Association, which, accordingly, set up an Impartial Wage Board composed of three men whose high standing in the community was an earnest of impartiality and inspired the confidence of the public. The association carried out its pledge to the community that all parties would have opportunity to present their views and claims before the board. After several weeks of public hearings and comprehensive investigation the board announced its award, to be effective throughout the calendar year 1922. This method of wage fixing is probably the fairest that could be devised for any industry, and the Industrial Association today is carrying out and enforcing the indisputably fair award of the Impartial Wage Board.

The new scale, which was more an equalization than a reduction of wages, was accepted as fair by all the crafts with one exception, and for three months has been in effect without complaint. The one exception was in the case of the elevator constructors who, despite the fact that they were given an increase of fifteen cents per day over the old wage scale, struck—demanding an increase of $1.10 per day. As this is written, however, they have just voted to return to work under the American Plan and at the wage fixed by the Impartial Wage Board. Thus for more than seven months the building industry has proceeded under conditions very nearly approximating the ideal, to its own great benefit and the general progress of the entire community.

Within the past two weeks, however, a small but definite assault against the American Plan has been launched by three of the building trades unions: Bricklayers, plumbers and steamfitters. About ten days ago the bricklayers, without having made any complaint either to the Industrial Association or to the Impartial Wage Board, and without having given any previous notice of their intentions, struck when the contractors rejected their demand for a dollar a day increase over the fixed scale. A few days later, the plumbers, as the result of a packed special meeting, walked out—claiming that their union by-laws prohibited their working with non-union men, although in fact they had been working with non-union men for over seven months without previous complaint. The following day the steamfitters followed suit, so that as matters now stand three building trades crafts are on strike against the American Plan.

There is excellent reason to believe that the action of these crafts is not representative of the will of anything like a majority of their individual members, but that it really is a part of the plan deliberately arranged by certain union labor leaders to test the existing temper of the community in order to predetermine the possibilities of success of a general strike to secure a return to those conditions which prevailed previous to the establishment of the American Plan. In other words, it is the preliminary move in an attempt to restore the iniquitous "closed shop" in the building industry of San Francisco.

I have no hesitancy in stating that this attempt will fail. The Industrial Association has on file thousands of applications of competent men seeking work, and as many of these men (some of whom are already here) as are needed will be put in the places of the strikers. The American Plan being a splendid success—as the present greatest building boom in the city's history irrefutably testifies—should and will be maintained.

Building Employers Hear R. N. Lynch, of San Francisco, Discuss American Plan

ROBERT NEWTON LYNCH, vice-president and manager of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, was the speaker at the monthly luncheon meeting of the Building Trades Employers' Association, held Wednesday, April 19. His subject was "How San Francisco Made the Building Trades Open Shop."

Mr. Lynch described how San Francisco recently passed through a building trades struggle in which the building labor organizations were eliminated from consideration and the control of the industry assumed by the Community Industrial Association. Although he is an advocate of the open shop plan Mr. Lynch declared that unionism, in control of law abiding citizens was one of the strongest forces against Bolshevism and Radicalism in the United States today. He stated that the men had a perfect right to organize but that their organizations should not be permitted to dominate an industry to the point of absolute control.

"Unions should not take sole control of an industry they do not own," said Mr. Lynch, "and the non-union worker should be afforded the same opportunity for employment as the union man."

Mr. Lynch described at considerable length the conditions in San Francisco which were responsible for bringing about the open shop plan. This began about 1915 when the unions really ran the community, electing their own Mayor and every other official in the city. He told how a strike of riggers and stevedores tied up the entire port.

As a result a mass meeting of the people was held and $1,000,000 was subscribed to finance the fight against these conditions. The Chamber of Commerce was called upon to handle the situation.

The speaker declared that class power was the greatest menace to the United States today and said that there were three specifics for peace between employers and employes: 1, respect for contractual relations; 2, respect for law and order; 3, open shop.

Residential Building Gaining Headway in All Boroughs

Weekly Construction Statistics as Tabulated by F. W. Dodge Company Show Local Industry Busy to Full Capacity on New Housing Work

STEADY improvement in the volume of active construction is being reported from all districts in the New York territory, and there is now every indication that the coming months will break all previous records for the number and value of new building projects projected and started. Figures tabulated by the F. W. Dodge Company, covering all of New York State and New Jersey, north of Trenton, show that during the sixteenth week of this year 690 new construction projects, valued at a total of $28,058,600, were announced. During the same week the awards for new operations numbered 492, and this work involves an outlay of approximately $22,099,500.

Building figures for Greater New York reflect the general improvement noticeable throughout the eastern territory. During the week of April 15 to 21, inclusive, architects and engineers announced the following projects for locations in New York City, and predicted an early start on the major portion of this work. The new operations reported include 36 business projects such as stores, offices, lofts, commercial garages, etc., $831,500; 4 schools and allied projects, $160,000; 2 hospitals, $114,000; 5 industrial buildings, $124,000; 7 public works and public utilities, $1,214,600; 2 religious and memorial projects, $75,000; 89 residential operations, including apartments, flats and tenements and one- and two-family dwellings, $8,889,500, and 6 social and recreational projects, $147,000.

The new construction placed under contract in Greater New York during the week of April 15 to 21, inclusive, involved 25 business and commercial projects of various types, $918,000; 7 educational buildings, $2,590,000; 1 hospital, $5,000; 4 factories, $65,000; 1 military project, $3,500; 2 public works and public utilities, $1,205,000; 2 religious and memorial projects, $10,500; 109 residential operations, including multi-family dwellings and one- and two-family houses, $8,519,000, and 4 social and recreational buildings, $71,000.

During the past few weeks there has been a steady gain in the amount of residential construction undertaken in this city, and there are numerous predictions that before the end of the summer season there will be a surplus of rentable space. This applies largely to high-class apartments and multi-family dwellings for families of moderate incomes. There is no end in sight, however, to the scarcity of living accommodations that will rent for less than $12 per room per month.

PERSONAL AND TRADE NOTES.

Robert Sayre Kent, Inc., consulting engineer, has moved his office from 50 Court street to 383 Jay street, Brooklyn.

M. E. Conran Company, Inc., manufacturer of steamfitters' supplies, has recently moved from 49 Bergen street to Warren and Columbia streets, Brooklyn.

Tachau & Vought, architects, 109 Lexington avenue, have bought the five-story dwelling at 102 East Thirtieth street and will make extensive alterations to the premises, which will be used by the firm as offices.

Shampan & Shampan, 190 Montague street, Brooklyn, have been commissioned as architects for the new branch bank building to be located on the northeast corner of Bedford and DeKalb avenues, Brooklyn, for the Mechanics Bank.

M. Joseph Harrison, 110 West Thirty-first street, announces that he has discontinued the practice of architecture, and hereafter will conduct a general contracting business under the name of M. Joseph Harrison Company, Inc., with offices at the same address.

Frederic Bigelow, a well-known architect, has been named as the Superintendent of Buildings of Newark, N. J., to fill the vacancy created by the death of William P. O'Rourke. Mr. Bigelow is a veteran of the World War and has occupied a prominent position in Newark architectural and construction circles for a number of years.

Amsterdam Building Co., general contractors, for a number of years located at 140 West 42d street, will move May 1 to larger and better equipped offices at 138 East 44th street, where the firm has remodeled an old-fashioned four-story residence for office purposes. The Amsterdam Building Company will occupy the ground and second floors and the remaining two floors will be rented as offices to architects and builders.

Year Book of N. Y. Society of Architects

The eleventh edition of the Year Book of the New York Society of Architects, recently published, is a most comprehensive reference work that finds a warm welcome in the offices of architects in this State. The new edition contains the complete text of the Architects' Registration Law and all of the rules of the State Board of Examiners pertaining to the registration of practitioners. The volume also contains the building zone resolutions applying to the City of New York, with marginal notes, copies of all the forms now used by the Board of Appeals and the rules of procedure of that body, and the complete Building Code of the city as adopted March 14, 1916, and revised and amended to January 1, 1922.

The new year book also presents all of the rules and regulations for plumbing, water supply, gas piping and ventilation of buildings, all the State industrial laws relating to buildings, with amendments and additions to August 1, 1921, and the mailing chute regulations of the Post Office Department. The Tenement House Law, as amended to January 1, 1922, and applying to all cities of the first class in this State, is given in full.

"Own-Your-Home" Exposition

The fourth annual "Own-Your-Home" Exposition opened in the Sixty-ninth Regiment Armory, Lexington avenue and Twenty-fifth street, Saturday afternoon, April 22, and continued throughout the week. The attendance has been excellent and there is a steadily growing interest in home construction and ownership as evidenced by the keen desire of those going to the show to learn as much as possible about up-to-date methods of building and modern furnishings and equipment.

A feature of the opening ceremonies of this exposition was the receipt by radio of an indorsement of the purpose of the enterprise by President Harding. This message was received in the radio department of the exhibition and by the use of a large amplifier was plainly heard by all present. The President's message was as follows:

"Believing that nothing can do more toward the development of the highest attributes of good citizenship than the ownership by every family of its own home I am always glad to indorse effective efforts to encourage home ownership."

From the standpoint of home ownership the central feature of the exhibition is a full sized house known as the Beautiful Home Convenient. This dwelling was designed by James Dwight Baum, constructed by James T. Simpson, and furnished under the direction of W. & J. Sloan Company. Figures on the cost of construction, furnishings and equipment are available, and duplicate plans of the house were sold on the floor of the exhibition.

TRADE AND TECHNICAL SOCIETY EVENTS.

Building Managers' and Owners' Association of New York will hold its regular monthly dinner meeting at the Advertising Club, 47 East Twenty-fifth street, Tuesday evening, May 9. Hon. Murray Hulbert will be the speaker.

New York Building Superintendents' Association will hold its regular monthly dinner meeting in the Garden Room of the Hotel Martinique, Wednesday evening, May 10. The speaker of the evening will be announced later.

Illuminating Engineering Society will hold its annual convention in Boston, September 25 to 28 inclusive. This will be the sixteenth annual gathering of the society, and the convention arrangements are in the hands of a committee of which C. L. Edgar, president of the Edison Electric Illuminating Company of Boston, is chairman; H. F. Wallace, vice-chairman, and J. Daniels, secretary.

American Iron, Steel and Heavy Hardware Association will hold its annual convention in Washington, D. C., May 23 to 25 inclusive. Headquarters will be located at the Hotel Washington. Secretary, A. H. Chamberlain, 1328 Broadway.

American Society for Testing Materials will hold its twenty-fifth annual meeting at the Chalfonte-Haddon Hall Hotel, Atlantic City, June 26 to July 1, inclusive.

National Association of Heating and Piping Contractors will hold its annual convention at the Hotel Statler, Buffalo, N. Y., May 31 to June 3, inclusive.

National Association of Sheet Metal Contractors will hold its annual convention at the Cadle Tabernacle, Indianapolis, Ind., May 16 to 19, inclusive.

New Jersey State Building Council will hold its annual meeting and convention at Asbury Park, May 23 and 24, inclusive. Secretary, Henry Sands, 346 Sussex avenue, Newark.

American Society of Mechanical Engineers will hold its annual spring meeting at Atlanta, Ga., May 8 to 11 inclusive.

National Fire Protection Association will hold its twenty-sixth annual meeting at the Chalfonte-Haddon Hall Hotel, Atlantic City, May 9 to 11 inclusive. The program of this meeting will be announced later. Franklin H. Wentworth, Secretary, 87 Milk Street, Boston, Mass.

CURRENT BUILDING OPERATIONS

SEVERAL sharp advances in building material prices have been reported during the past week and as a result the construction outlook is not quite as favorable as it was just a short time ago. Common brick was advanced from $16 to $17 a thousand, wholesale, and there is practically none obtainable even at the latter figure. Dealers are not optimistic regarding the future as the demand for brick is extremely heavy, and, as the reserve supplies at the up-river plants are low, there is every likelihood that further advances will be announced within the next few days. Although brick manufacturers have their plants in operation, the production will be curtailed until the coal strike is settled and a full supply of fuel is assured.

Fabricated steel, Portland cement, face brick and lumber have also advanced in price during the past week and there is little stability to the present building material market as far as prices are concerned. Builders are hopeful that the advancing trend will be checked, but while the building program continues to increase with its consequently greater demand for basic materials, there seems but little chance of levels becoming stationary for any length of time, particularly as manufacturing costs are steadily going up.

Common Brick—Demand for common brick has grown so insistent that there is a grave possibility that considerable construction in this city is likely to be held up because of a shortage. At present there is practically no brick for sale, dealers are cleaned out and the wholesale market is devoid of stock. Although there is some brick available at the up-river plants it is not sufficient for current requirements. The majority of the Hudson River plants are in operation, but it will be at least four to six weeks before the new product is ready for shipment. The output during the next month or so will depend largely upon the fuel supply. The coal strike will materially effect the output unless it is speedily settled. Many of the manufacturers have coal on hand for burning their first kilns, but after that they will be dependent upon new supplies. The element of cost is also a factor at present. Coal dust, in addition to being extremely scarce, is costing brick makers upward of $3 per ton, whereas in former years it was plentiful at $1 or less. As a result of the prevailing demand, coupled with the shortage of common brick, prices have sharply advanced. During the past week the wholesale level jumped from $16 to $17 a thousand and there is every likelihood that the next cargoes to arrive will go out at even higher prices.

Summary—Transactions in the North River brick market for the week ending Thursday, April 27, 1922. Condition of market: Demand strong; prices higher and very firm. Quotations (nominal) $17 a thousand to dealers in cargo lots alongside dock. Number of cargoes arrived, 31; sales, 30. Distribution: Manhattan, 8; Bronx, 3; Brooklyn, 14; New Jersey points, 4; Astoria, 1.
